BIG FORECLOSURE SUIT BROUGHT ON THAMESVILLE PAPER MILL

Foreclosure of a mortgage for $160,000, dated Dec. 6, 1922, is sought in a suit brought in the superior court by the Norwich Savings Society against James E. Smith of Baltimore, the Uncas Paperboard Co., of this city, and others. The mortgage covers on the land and buildings, machinery, tools and appliances of the Uncas Paperboard Co., at Thamesville.

The sum of $147,500 is still due and unpaid on the mortgage, it is claimed.

Party defendants named in the suit are Dowington Manufacturing Co., of Pennsylvania, claiming an interest in certain machinery on the premises; D. Destefano & Co., of Boston, having made an attachment in a suit brought for $7,000 damages; H. F. and A. J. Dawley of this city, claiming a mechanic's lien. Frank W. Browning, receiver of the Uncas Paperboard Co., is also named among the defendants.

Foreclosure in New London.

The Builders Mortgage Corporation, a Hartford concern, sues Addie L. Kellogg of New London for foreclosure of a $1,500 mortgage on two tracts of land on Mott avenue, New London. The mortgage was taken out June 3, 1925 by John A. Markham and Daniel F. Cotter of Hartford, who conveyed the real estate to the defendant on the same date, subject to a first mortgage of $5,000 to the Savings Bank of New London, a second mortgage for $3,000 to Robert R. Comsdon and the mortgage of the plaintiff, which was to be paid off in quarterly instalments of $250. The defendant, it is claimed, has not paid the instalment due Sept. 3, 1925, with three months interest amounting to $22.50, has not paid $179.40 taxes due on Aug. 1, 1925, and paid only $50.25 on account of interest, of $150 due the savings bank on June 1, 1925. To protect its mortgage, the plaintiff company paid the balance of interest to the bank, amounting to $99.75. Both the other mortgages named are prior to the plaintiff's mortgage.

Asks Change of Name.

George Andrew Thotses of New London, petitions the court for change of name to George Thotses Andrews. He was born in Greece, his name being George Thotses Andreas, and the name he asks for is the English equivalent of his Greek name. Through error of an interpreter, he claims he was given the name which he now seeks to have changed.

Suit On Three Notes.

The Marbridge Finance Co., of New York sues Alice E. Clay of New London to collect three notes, all dated June 29, 1925 and for the following amounts and terms, $500, 30 days; $1,000, 46 days; $1,000, 60 days. An attachment has been placed on real estate on Fremont street, New London.

Sues Stonington Couple.

The Westminster bank of Providence sues Herbert S. Davis and Mary G. Davis, husband and wife, of Stonington, to collect a note for $2,600, dated Jan. 14, 1924, for thirty days. The note was made by the husband and endorsed by his wife.

All three suits are returnable to the superior court in October.

DISABLED VETERANS SCORE SUFFICIENT REHABILITATION

Leaders of the work among disabled veterans in Connecticut feel deep dissatisfaction with Chief of Personnel Longfellow in the central office at Washington according to a report filed Thursday and to statements made Thursday afternoon and they complain that work in the rehabilitation division is a "joke."

The report is made by Raymond J. Meegan, and Thomas S. McLagan, the special committee appointed for a general survey of the state of the disabled American veterans of the World War, the appointment coming from James D. McKenna, department commander of that body, and liaison representative between it and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The report fires this caustic comment:

"We cannot readily understand why $69,000,000 was turned back to the treasury by the United States Veterans' Bureau when insane veterans are yet confined in overcrowded state institutions and the efficiency of the bureau is being jeopardized on account of the paltry dollars denied to competent employees by a bureaucrat in Washington named Longfellow."

Copies of the report will be sent to the congressmen from Connecticut, in about two weeks a committee of disabled veterans consisting of Messrs. Meegan, McLagan and McKenna will visit General Frank T. Hines, chief of the United States veterans bureau in Washington.

The report has little to praise in the rehabilitation division and feels that the responsibility lies apparently in the central office. It has the following.

"It is regrettable that the personnel of this division did not put their foot down and tell Central office to go plumb to h——!! that the men in Connecticut were not adequately trained and for that reason could not be rehabilitated.'

It adds that not more than twenty per cent of disabled veterans are adequately trained, despite the statistics of the bureau. The committee realized that Colonel Charles R. Forbes, late head of the bureau made a "great mistake" but also thinks that the year and a half which has elapsed was ample for rectification.

The report starts with the view that a purchase by the government of base hospital No. 41, in West Haven would not be for the welfare of a majority of the disabled. It holds that the hospital might be continued for some years by lease. It argues that the veterans of Connecticut deserve a modern and fireproof hospital. The committee feels that to take care of all Connecticut cases an institution of that kind is needed.

The committee feels that Major Thomas J. Bannigan bureau chief in Hartford is a most excellent executive and a sincere friend and his staff is likewise praised.

PETITIONING FOR BUSES NORTH FROM TAFTVILLE

HARTFORD, Sept. 24—(A. P.)—The public utilities commission today approved the sale of the rights and franchises of the gas business of the Connecticut Railway and Lighting company in Naugatuck to the Waterbury Gas Light company for $219,000. There was no opposition. It was stated that the change would not affect the consumers, as the Waterbury Gas company has been supplying the gas to Naugatuck for several years with the Connecticut Light and Power company, lessees, as distributors.

Decision was reserved on approval of plans of the Connecticut Light and Power company to erect poles along Mead lane, Greenwich, E. M. Whittlesey, a property owner, objected on the ground that the new line would tend to reduce the value of his property. The company stated that the cost would be prohibitive for underground wires. Vice President Irving W. Day represented the company.

The commission will hear the application of the New England Transportation company, the bus subsidiary of the "New Haven" road, for a route from New Haven to Willimantic next Monday at the city hall, Middletown. The proposed line will run through North Haven, Montowese, Northford, Durham, Middletown, Portland and East Hampton.

Substitution of busses for electric service over steam track between Taft's and Central Village, Central Village and North Grosvenordale, Central Village and Moosup and Elmville and East Killingly is asked by the Connecticut company in an application to be heard Friday, October 2 at the city hall, Norwich.

Hearing on the application of A. L. Weiner for a bus route from Oneco and Sterling to Norwich will be heard at the same time at the same place.

WESLEYAN PRESIDENT SPEAKS FOR STUDENT INDIVIDUALITY

Speaking on "College Individuality" President James L. McConaughy made a plea for greater individuality among students in his matriculation day address Thursday at Wesleyan university at Middletown. Such individuality the president said, is becoming increasingly necessary as the pressure for admission to college increases. This day of huge university enrollments, with the danger of mass instruction submerging the individuality of the student, also makes such a step necessary. President McConaughy considered rigid uniformity essential for industrial success as a serious college evil.

Urging the application of individuality on the part of the student to his academic work, President McConaughy pointed out that the elective system was inaugurated to allow a student to choose his course somewhat on the basis of his taste and desire. Colleges today, he continued, must go a step further and urge students to "take an 'interest' in all their studies whether self-chosen or not. "No student," he said, "who cannot take a definite interest in his intellectual work deserves a college education."

President McConaughy said he looked upon the college fraternity as an asset or a liability according to the degree to which it permits the development of individuality in its members.

"When it aims at rigid uniformity, all thinking, acting and dressing alike" he said, "it harms more than it helps When it aims to develop a man's own capacities in comradeship with his fellows it might prove very worthwhile."

As opportunities for the development of individual taste, the president urged great knowledge and appreciation of art and music and the drama. he believed that fraternities should encourage this interest. In this connection he announced that Wesleyan this year undertakes for the first time a curriculum course in music and that special arrangements will be made for a series of concerts in the college chapel. A series of lectures will also be given in the appreciation of art, and there is a possibility of temporary art exhibits.

The president also urged the development of individuality in religion. In commenting on the Scopes case. President McConaughy said that the tragedy of Dayton was not "the ill-considered, un-American state law, nor the rampant lawyer for the defense, surely an unfortunate choice as defender of the true twentieth century religion, nor the tragic figure of the great Commoner, for whom religion was a matter of the heart only instead of the heart and head. The real tragedy was the thought that christianity, which gives the largest opportunity to true individuality, can be defined by statute and imposed by a court."

College, the speaker continued, should aid a man in his individual search for his God, "who can be found in his studies and among his college mates."

INJURED IN HEAD-ON CRASH OF AUTOMOBILES

Four New London persons, Mr. and Mrs. Moss Baratz of Montauk avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Congdon of Ridgewood park, narrowly escaped death Monday evening in West Boylston, Mass., where the Rickenbacker sedan, owned and driven by Mr. Baratz was struck head on by a large Marmon car driven by Louis Hashem of Worcester, Mass. Mr. Baratz is suffering from a gash in his leg and a severe shaking up, while Mrs. Bagatz, who received a bump upon her head is at present apparently recovered. Mr. Congdon received a number of lacerations about the face and head one of which was closed with four stitches. Mrs. Congdon was not seriously hurt.

The accident occurred when the Baratz car was proceeding up a steep grade, preceded by a Ford and a Maxwell car. Coming down the hill was the Marmon, said to have been going at a high rate of speed. The Marmon barely missed hitting the Ford, but it struck the Maxwell car, ripping into the entire side of that car and then crashing head-on into the Baratz car, completely demolishing this.

The Marmon car was badly smashed and the four New London persons were immediately taken to the Bancroft hotel in Worcester, where they were attended by a physician. None of them were seriously hurt and they returned to New London by train. Had it not been for a highway fence, that bordered the road near the scene of the accident the New London people would have probably been seriously injured, if not killed, for the Baratz car was backed forcibly against the fence, which was smashed. Fortunately the fence held the car from plunging over a steep drop from behind. Hashem, it is understood had been previously warned regarding his driving and it is believed that legal action may follow. Just how seriously Hashem and his party were hurt was not determined, but the former was bleeding profusely when taken into Worcester.

Mr. Congdon is connected with Savings Bank of New London while Mr. Baratz is a director of the New London Fruit and Produce Co.

Connecticut College

(Special to the Bulletin)

The Service League of Connecticut College gave a reception in honor of the freshman class in the college gymnasium on Wednesday evening at which President Marshall as well as the presidents of the various clubs greeted the incoming class and outlined the things that were to occur during the year.

The presidents of the various organizations who outlined their work or welcomed the students by addresses followed:

Helen Farnsworth, Service League; Elizabeth Damerel, Westerly, R. I., Athletic Association; Katherine King, New York City, Dramatic Association; Isabel Grinnell, Mystic, Mandolin Club; Dorothy Cannon, Hamden, French Club; Carmen Guanard, Richmond Hills, L. I., Spanish Club; Clarisse Lord, Hebron, Mathematics Club; Rosamond Beebe, Upper Montclair, N. J., History Club; Grace Parker, New Haven, Psychology Club.

The various speeches were followed by dancing, college songs; and light refreshments of small cakes and punch were served.

Miss Emily Hopkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hopkins of Plainfield, spent the summer at Lord's Point. Miss Hopkins is a Sophomore at the college and was one of the winners of the indoor track meet at the college when a freshmen, receiving first prize for the vault for height.

Miss Constance Clapp, daughter of Principal and Mrs. Henry T. Clapp of Lincoln Avenue, Norwich, passed a pleasant vacation at Niantic. Miss Clapp, who is in her senior year is now a resident of Blackstone, one of the Quadrangle dormitories.

Miss Lucy Gilman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilman of Bozrahville, a junior at the college spent her time partly at her home, and partly visiting friends both at Ocean Beach and New York City.

Miss Madeline Thune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Thune of School street, Norwich, a sophomore, spent her time partly in the city and partly at Ocean Beach at the cottage of Miss Sadie Schwartz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Schwartz of Perkins avenue.

Miss Dorothy Pasnik, a sophomore at the college, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Pasnik of Williams St., Norwich, passed the month of July and part of August at Sharon Springs, New York, and the latter part of the summer visiting relatives in Far Rockaway and New York.

President Marshall at chapel on Thursday morning asked the students to attempt coming to the 11:30 luncheon instead of the 12:30 because of the crowded conditions of the dining hall. Because of the great increase in students, there is some bother about the seating accomodations at Thames Hall, the college refectory. Several of the students living near Colonial, the new dormitory, are accommodated there, as well as all those living on the state road, and a number of the students take their meals at the Swan and Hoop the college tea house which is run under the management of two of the graduates of the college.

President Marshall also announced the welcome news that there would be six new tennis courts completed by spring time to the south of the new athletic field. The new field is all ready to be utilized for hocky and soccer. The joyful news was also told of another new field that was soon to be constructed for those two sports and that would be ready by spring, when it would be combined with the other two for a huge baseball diamond.

Because of the two-hundredth celebration of St. James Episcopal church of New London next Sunday the vesper services which are usually held at 8 o'clock on Sunday evening will be changed to 7.15 in order to give those students who wished to attend the Episcopal service time to reach New London.

At a total cost of $642,486.85, the Connecticut state highway department awarded contracts Thursday for eleven improvements, seven of which are for new sections of roadway and four for bridges. Fourteen miles of highways are involved in the projects, and it is expected that construction work will get under way within ten days.

The largest improvement is on the Waterbury-Cheshire road, where more than five miles of reinforced concrete pavement will be built at a cost of approximately $200,000. The cost of the bridges will be approximately $52,000.

Following is a list of the successful low bidders and the location of the improvements:

1. Town of Killingly—Reinforced concrete T beam bridge over Five Mile river to Holbrook company, Westbrook, for $5,127.60.

2. Town of Washington—concrete abutments and wing walls for bridge over Shepaug river to A. Mascetti, Torrington, for $12,880.20.

3. Towns of Milford and West Haven—24-foot span concrete girder bridge over Oyster river on Ocean avenue to Holbrook company for $14,237.00.

4. Town of West Haven—24-foot span concrete girder bridge over Cover river on Ocean avenue to Holbrook company for $19,627.80.

5. Town of Shelton—3-inch asphalt over 6-inch concrete base, at the intersection of Howe avenue and Bridge street to Silliman & Godfrey company, Bridgeport, for $6,626.25.

6. Town of Old Saybrook—Grading only, 7,895 feet in length and 20 feet wide to Kelleher Bros., Turners Falls, Mass., for $28,065.25.

7. Town of Washington—2,860 feet of 7-inch waterbound macadam at the Grade Crossing elimination, Washington Station, to Osborn & Barnes, Danbury, for $23,104.00.

FORMER NORWICH BOY ADDRESSES LIONS CLUB

William W. Bent, of Waterbury, governor of the 23rd district of Lions clubs, was a visitor at the weekly meeting and luncheon of the Norwich Lions club Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Accompanying the district governor were the following district directors: W. H. Hewlett, Bridgeport, Pierpont Foster, New Haven; Julius J. Neal, Greenwich; David S. Davis, Pawtucket; Edward Carpenter, Waterbury; Louis Fontaine, this city. Jimmy Acres, a representative of the international headquarters was also present.

President William A. Anderson presided at the meeting which opened with the singing of America, followed by the introduction and welcome of the guests. Dr. Charles Solomon was the song leader and Pete Ethier presided at the piano.

Max Hanover gave a brief talk on Lionism and Jimmy Acres spoke briefly on the growth of the Lions clubs. After the roll call by Secretary Edward Rich, the meeting was turned over to District Governor Bent. The district governor made reference to the fact that he is a native of this city, being born in Thamesville. He graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in 1903 and went from here to Yale and then later located in Bridgeport where he now resides. In his interesting talk he praised the work accomplished by the local club and announced that it was the aim of the district to increase the clubs in our 23rd district during the coming year, materially stating that at present there are twelve Lions clubs in this district with a membership of 771. He dwelt upon the growth of clubs in New England saying that there are thirty at present and called the particular attention of the club to the fact that on October 15 and 16, there is to be an International Directors' Convention meeting at Worcester, Mass. Connecticut is honored by having a member on this directors' board, namely Professor Blake of New Haven. District Governor Bent spoke of the ideals of Lionism emphasizing the clubs programs for work especially in aiding and assisting unfortunate children throughout the country. In closing, he expressed on behalf of the district directors present, the pleasure at being present with the Norwich club for their district directors' meeting and extended their thanks for the hospitality of the local club.

The Lions club closed their meeting in the usual manner with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and after the meeting the district directors held a conference on organization programme work.

Senator Bingham on Inspection Trip

United States Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut made an inspection trip to the forts in Boston harbor Thursday. In the afternoon he went to Portland, Me., for a similar inspection of coast defenses.

SERVICE BUTTONS FOR 15 MORE TELEPHONE EMPLOYES

Each month service buttons of gold are awarded to Southern New England Telephone employes who have completed five years, in the service of the company, and during the current month more than 80 employes were thus distinguished for varying periods of continuous service in the business.

Of this number about 50 employes were given five year service buttons, ten had completed a decade of service while eight exchanged their ten year buttons for that of a slightly different style, which donates a service of 15 years.

Nine employes, seven men and two women, were awarded the gold and jewelled emblems representing 20 years in the ranks, while two were given 25 year and the same number 30 year buttons.

The list of employes of the telephone company who have served from five to 40 years, and a bit more for a few of them, indicates that telephone people are steadfast and happy in their work and treatment.

There are 21 employes on the September list of service button awards, appearing in the current issue of The Telephone Bulletin, who have 15 years or more of service.

The aggregate service of this small group of employes is 410 years.

In this group of long service employes are: Cornelia Hurlburt, New Haven; James E. Murdock, Torrington, 30 years; Louis C. Clarke, New Haven, 25 years; Matthew D. Millard, New Haven, 25 years; Edward E. Allen, New Haven, 20 years; Herbert W. Byington, Hartford, 20 years; Herman E. Case, Stamford, 20 years; Donald A. Foley, Bridgeport, 20 years; Robert Fulton, New Haven, 20 years; John J. Linnane, Bridgeport, 20 years; Agnes B. Moriarty, New Haven, 20 years; Benjamin F. Reynolds, Willimantic, 20 years; Mary A. Weaver, Danielson, 20 years; Mrs. Emma M. Anderson, Hartford, 15 years; George Barthault, New Haven, 15 years; Carlo Colonese, Bridgeport, 15 years; Ludwig W. Hoffman Middletown, 15 years; Charles N. Lewis, Hartford, 15 years; Peter J. Myers, Danbury, 15 years; Mrs. Edna Pitney Hartford, 15 years; Clifford F. Ramsdell, Stamford, 15 years.

STORRS IS EXPECTING RECORD STUDENT BODY

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 24.—Indications point toward a record-breaking enrollment at the Connecticut Agricultural college tomorrow, when registration of all students will take place. The legislative act limiting the enrollment at the state college to 500 students at any one time has apparently helped to swell the list of those desiring admittance, for there are more students applying for admission this year than ever before.

With 456 permits to register already mailed, authorities at Storrs are faced with the problem of selecting the most promising students of the large group still desiring admittance, this procedure being necessary in order to keep within the 500 maximum quota set by the 1925 legislature.

The high school records of prospective students are being used as a basis of selection, those standing in the upper two-thirds of their graduating high school class being given the preference. For those who stood in the lower third of their class in high school, the college is requiring them to take intelligence examinations, which if they pass with high marks will enable them to enroll.

Nolled on $10 Payment.

At the city court session Thursday morning, on recommendation of City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins, Judge Arthur Libby nolled on payment of $10 the charge against Edward Lynch for failure to grant the right of way. Mr. Lynch was operating a machine owned by Francis T. Diggins of this city, and it is claimed pulled away, from the curb near the Chelsea Bank, without giving timely warning A Luxor cab, driven by Thomas Shahan, was coming along at the time, who claimed that in order to avoid hitting Mr. Diggins' machine he pulled to the left striking a bus owned by the Connecticut Company which was being driven in the opposite direction.

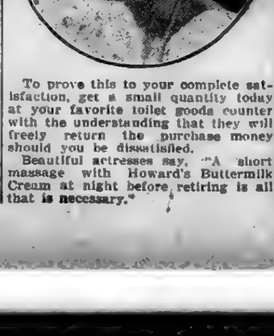
GREAT ENGLISH BEAUTY SECRET "HOWARD'S BUTTERMILK CREAM"

Druggists told not to take anyone's money unless this delightful new vanishing Cream quickly shows a decided improvement.

BIG DEMAND, SAYS LEE & OSGOOD CO.



Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that while it turns the dullest, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows' feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction, get a small quantity today at your favorite toilet goods counter with the understanding that they will freely return the purchase money should you be dissatisfied.

Beautiful actresses say, "A short massage with Howard's Buttermilk Cream at night before retiring is all that is necessary."

AMERICA'S TERMS FOR DEBT SETTLEMENT GIVEN FRENCH

Secretary Mellon Has Determined That French Offer of an Initial Payment of $25,000,000, With Graduated Increases Yearly Over a Long Period, is Wholly Inedequate —Americans Decline to Accept the Picture of French Conditions as Being as Bad as Suggested—Caillaux and His Associates Are Pondering Over the Terms Submitted by the American Commission.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(A. P.)—The Franco-American debt funding negotiations passed quite suddenly today from the buoyant stage of preliminary gestures and ceremonies, and became a sober battle with an array of cold facts and figures.

The transition was accomplished by presentation to the French negotiators of a comparatively brief memorandum in which Secretary Mellon, the American chairman, stated the American view of the French settlement offer submitted yesterday. Those views were sharply defined observations as to the French ability to pay. Mr. Mellon's comments on the offer were described as unequivocal.

There were indications tonight that the swift turning of the corner was regarded by some of the French commissioners as precipitate, almost to the point of abruptness. American members said, however, that Finance Minister Caillaux, head of the foreign commission, was ready for work at the first meeting. Both French and Americans were impressed with the seriousness of the task before them yet neither was willing to entertain any suggestions of defeat.

More than ordinary official secrecy surrounded the suggestions and the comments made by the treasury secretary. But information trickling through the barrier indicated that Mr. Mellon had stated the French offer of an initial payment of $25,000,000 and with graduated increases yearly over a long period was wholly inadequate. There was the further evidence that the Americans declined to accept the picture of French conditions as being as bad as suggested and the Americans therefore were unwilling to go further with an plea for extreme leniency on that circumstance alone.

The French minister and his associates were given the brief meeting today to ponder over the suggestions made so pungently by Mr. Mellon. They had several meetings among themselves, and will have more tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations committee aired a new method of pressing his campaign for a settlement by the French. He chose a plan which he believed would properly reflect the French ability to pay. Mr. Borah made public a letter to Secretaries Mellon and Hoover, both members of the funding commission, asking what loans foreign governments have floated here or are preparing to float among private financial interests in the United States and what interest rates they have shown themselves willing to pay when dealing with private creditors.

The senator believes that if European governments are negotiating large loans here at interest rates of from six to eight per cent, giving securities acceptable to American bankers, the foreign debtor nations can afford to pay the term imposed by the funding commission in the British settlement. Mr. Borah insisted that France was economically and financially able to pay her debt on such terms.

There was no comment either from Mr. Mellon, or Mr. Hoover on the Borah letter. Most of the American commissioners however, have formed definite views as to the economic condition of the nation and the fiscal position of the government. They are going ahead, therefore, with an apparent plan to reconcile the French and their conclusions and the status of the negotiations on that basis were represented tonight as offering various angles of progressive development.

Mr. Mellon was optimistic, so was M. Caillaux. Yet neither felt free to define the progress made today. The treasury secretary explained there was a wide difference in the positions of the two. Both have now been stated. the American in general terms, and the American commissioners who share Mr. Mellon's optimism believe France will raise the original figure of $25,000,000 when further suggestions are forthcoming from M. Caillaux.

Belief prevailed tonight that the finance minister will have a new offer to present, perhaps tomorrow or Monday M. Caillaux was not certain whether he and his colleagues would continue their conversations with the Americans tomorrow or wait until Monday because of engagements already made by some of the French negotiators Should there be another French offer immediately, some officials felt the Americans would submit a counter offer, and that it would approximate the terms accorded the British.

While there was indication that both sides were somewhat taken aback by the wide divergence of views between the two commissions, it was recalled that a similar situation arose during the conversations on the British funding settlement. Apparently grave differences were reconciled then and the fact served as the basis for a belief that temporary halts in the present negotiations were unlikely to have serious consequences.

Little reference has been made thus far to the questions of the interest rates. That phase is awaited by the Americans, some of whom, at least, feel they can form a better judgment of a whole settlement after receiving the French view. It was thought likely, however, that some mention of the interest will be made directly from American quarters when the two groups again sit across the table from each other.

Although it was insisted that the move was intended only as one of cooperation with the American press, M. Caillaux tonight announced the appointment of an official liason between the French mission and the Washington correspondents. He selected Henry Dumay, editor and principal owner of one of the important Paris dailies to serve as his spokesman, although M. Caillaux will continue to receive the correspondents for a daily interview.

CAILLAUX ACTING ALONE IN DEBT NEGOTIATIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—The code experts of the French embassy, who had counted on a lively time putting into diplomatic cipher M. Caillaux's exchanges with Paris during the debt negotiations here, are finding instead that time is hanging heavily for them.

True to his promise when he left home, the French finance minister is going it alone in his negotiations with the American debt commission. He consults sometimes with his colleagues on the commission, but he is sending no messages to his government and is receiving no advice from it.

GOV. TRUMBULL PROCLAIMS OCT. 9 FIRE PREVENTION DAY

HARTFORD, Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—Calling attention to the great annual loss by fire in this country, Gov. Trumbull today issued a proclamation designating Friday, October 9, as Fire Prevention Day in Connecticut. The governor recommends that all citizens, particularly school authorities, give attention on that day to the study and teaching of the prevention. The proclamation is as follows:

"The loss by fire of lives and property in the United States was, last year the largest ever recorded. The property loss per capita was nearly five times that experienced in comparable European countries. In view of the fact that the great majority of fires are preventable by proper care, such a record can only be characterized as one of shameful waste. An insurance policy may relieve to some extent the individual property owner, but no insurance protects the nation from the direct loss of its citizens and its wealth. The price of every commodity includes the price you pay for some one's carelessnes.

"Sober thought, sound education and intelligent action are essential to the correction of this, as of any other drain on our national resources. To give specific opportunity for the consideration of this problem and by special directions of the general assembly, I designate Friday, Oct. 9, next, as Fire Prevention Day and I earnestly recommended that all citizens, and particularly all school authorities give attention on that day to the study and teaching of fire prevention.

"I suggest also that if this sort of education is to be effective, the ordinary virtues of care and common sense be emphasized in this connection not merely as objects of annual veneration, but as every day economic necessities."

AN ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK FOR TRADE IN NEW ENGLAND

BOSTON, Sept. 25—Although the fall outlook for New England wholesale and retail trade is encouraging, it is probable that up to the first of October neither of these lines will have reached its estimated normal volume of trade for any month of this year, the federal reserve bank of Boston announced today.

Department store sales were about the same in volume in the first three weeks of September as in the corresponding period last year. Last year's sales were below normal. Trade conditions in southern New England stores in August and the greater part of the year have been above the average for New England as a whole.

Increases in wholesale shoe sales have resulted from larger sales of rubber footwear rather than of leather. Wholesale stocks were smaller than in the two previous years.

In the women's apparel lines, misses', juniors' and girls' wear, sold more readily. The volume was only fair in men's furnishings and boys' clothing sales were slow.

DENOUNCED AT HEARING AS A "DELIBERATE LIAR"

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—Jeremiah Slocum, Jr., of Stamford, a grand nephew of Mrs. Russell Sage, and a son of Colonel Slocum of Pittsburgh, a reputed multi-millionaire, whose petition for a discharge from bankruptcy was heard this afternoon before Referee John Keogh, was denounced as a "malicious and deliberate liar," by Simon Leaderer mining expert and inventor, 56 Broadway, New York city, who has a claim of $25,000 against Slocum. Mr. Slocum, who is also a grandson of Commodore Slocum, and was formerly vice president of the D. E. Corbett company, filed a petition of bankruptcy last spring with liabilities of $168,726.34 and no assets.

The hearing today was the third granted upon Mr. Slocum's petition for a discharge, the other two being held in Stamford. He was represented at today's hearing by Judge E. K. Nickerson and John J. Finney, of New York city.

According to the testimony given by M. Leaderer, Mr. Slocum and William A. Adelson, formerly general manager of the Corbett company, which was a holding corporation, came to his office in 1919. He accepted their joint notes, three in number, for $25,000, in exchange for which he gave them from time to time 45,000 shares of the National Tin company, quoted at 58 cents per share. Mr. Leaderer said that he was president and owner of the tin company. The money was used to float the stock of the Osceola Celluloid company.

The world is but a fleeting show to which all are admitted free—but it sometimes costs a lot to get out.

Thirty groups of vaccinators began work today.

Movement For Security Pact

GENEVA, Sept. 25—(A. P.)—With negotiations about to be inaugurated between the allies and Germany for a security pact, the assembly of the league of nations today gave special attention to a friendly French gesture toward German, conveyed in the words of M. De Jouvenel, former minister of education. It was the hope of all that the German nation would soon be cooperating in the councils to Germany while arguing that the assembly must respect the viewpoints of all countries

FORMER ATTORNEY COAKLEY HAS BEEN SUED FOR $500,000

BOSTON, Sept. 25—Charges that Daniel H. Coakley, disbarred Boston attorney, defrauded her of $145,000 while representing her in obtaining a settlement from Horatio G. Foss, an Auburn, Me., shoe manufacturer, are contained in a suit against Coakley for $500,000 brought in the superior court by Mrs. Oda Pappathanos of Boston. She seeks the $145,000 plus five times the lawful rate of interest.

In her bill of complaint the woman asserts that in 1919 she brought a claim against Foss involving charges the nature of which is not disclosed. In order to avoid the publicity of court proceedings she said, Foss made a settlement of $150,000 through Coakley, who led her to believe that he had obtained only $6,000 from Foss' attorney and paid her only $5,000. Herbert L. Baker, of Boston, the attorney who represented Foss, has since died.

Coakley has filed a general denial and a motion for amendment of the complaint. He declares that if Foss ever gave his attorney $150,000 it was never paid to Coakley and that the suit should be directed against either Foss or the administrator of Baker's estate. He asserts also that Mrs. Pappathanos accepted the $5,000 as full payment.

Coakley was disbarred in 1922 after he had been named by Attorney J. Weston Allen in an official report as one of the conspirators in the blackmail cases which led to the removal of the late Joseph C. Pelletier as district attorney of Suffolk county. In July, 1924, after a sensational trial on charges of conspiracy to extort money from various persons on accusations that he would protect them on serious charges, he was acquitted.

GOLD LYING IDLE CAUSES COLLAPSE IN WORLD TRADE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—American gold lying idle instead of being employed in the development of world business has resulted in "a complete collapse in world trade," according to Lieutenant Colonel E. Vernon Willey, chairman of the federation of British industries, who arrived today on the Aquitania.

Lieutenant Colonel Willey, accompanied by Guy H. Lacock, director of the federation's foreign activities who come to the United States to confer with American industrialists on a program designed to bring England and the United States into close cooperation in stabilizing and improving economic conditions throughout the world and reopening world trade.

Prior to the world war England loaned approximately $1,000,000,000 a year, to other countries to stimulate world trade, he said, but since the war has not had the funds to do so. Gold which poured into the United States during the war has not been returned into the international trade channels, he said, and this situation has led to "the demoralization of world trade."

As a barometer of the "trade collapse" he pointed to the immense ocean tonnage which he said was now laid up and which can not be returned into the trade routes so long as the distribution of gold remains so unequal.

America has two alternatives if she wishes to be prosperous, Lieutenant Col. Willey said. Either she must physically transport pairs of her gold and serve back to Europe, or she must follow England's pre-war example and advance foreign loans in order to keep world trade healthy and alive.

INTERPARLIAMENTARY UNION CONVENTION NEXT WEEK

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—Nearly 200 members of 41 parliaments of the world are expected here this week end as delegates to the twenty-third conference of the Interparliamentary Union, which will be held in Washington from October 1 to 7.

Describing the body as an "unofficial parliament of parliaments," Arthur Deering Call, director of the conference said today the programme would include discussion of international law; a European customs agreement; the problem of national minorities; control of the drug traffic; reduction of armaments and parliamentary government. Results of the debates will be embodied in resolutions that will be taken back to the various legislative bodies represented by the delegates, who will urge the adoption of the measures.

Controversial subjects and current political problems will not be debated, Mrs. Call expressed the opinion that the incident caused by the revoking of an American visa granted S. Saklatvala, communist member of the British house of commons, who intended to attend as a member of the British delegation, would not be brought up.

The conference will be opened by Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg. On October 8 the delegates will leave for Ottawa, Canada, where the closing sessions will be held October 12 and 13.

NEW BRITAIN TO HAVE TWO DAY FLYING MEET

NEW BRITAIN, Sept. 25—(A. P.)—Between 20 and 25 airplanes will be here tomorrow for the flying meet which is being held Saturday and Sunday under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The merchants of New Britain have provided 21 cups for trophies which are being offered for prizes in the various events.

Break in Helium Gas Cells of Shenandoah

Testified by James H. Collier, Chief Rigger, Who Had Supervised Those Cells.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—A failure of several of the helium gas cells in the airship Shenandoah before she began to break up was testified to today before the naval court of inquiry by James H. Collier chief rigger who had supervision over those cells.

Collier's testimony was in sharp cotrast to that of a dozen other survivors, all of whom declared that they saw no signs that any of the cells had failed under the enormous pressure to which they had been put when the craft reached an extreme altitude of 6,065 feet.

Despite this, the chief rigger was pospositive in his declaratoions, reiterating them time and again under direct examination, by members of the court and a rigid cross-examination by Lieut. Commander C. E. Rosenthal, senior surviving officer of the Shenandoah.

Collier said he was off duty and asleep when the airship was sucked into the vortex of the storm. When he was awakened he looked at No. 9 gas cell and saw that it was about 30 percent, deflated and also that several gas bags forward were deflated probably equally as much. No. 3 cell was "100 per cent, and then some full."

"I knew the ship was done for then and there," he declared, adding that this was before he had heard any noise of the ship's structure giving away.

His declaration came with startling suddenness and immediately led to sharp questioning. "Did you hear any sound of the ship breaking up before you saw the gas cell was deflated?" asked Captain Paul Foley, the judge advocate.

"No sir," the witness replied. "No 9 bag was deflating when I woke up and I heard no sounds of breakage until I was out on the keel of the ship going aft."

Collier said that after he observed the condition of the bags he told a fellow member of the crew in a nearby bunk that the ship was gone, explaining later that the condition of the bags led him to believe that a loss of helium was responsible for the swift fall the Shenandoah then was taking.

"Does your experience teach you that if the gas bag is 30 per cent. deflated it means the ship is lost?" asked Rear Admiral Jones, president of the court.

"In view of the fact that the other cells forward were equally as much deflated," Collier replied, "and the bag aft was 100 per cent. full, yes, sir."

Taking over the cross-examination, Commander Rosenthal developed that Collier had heard no sound of escaping gas when he awoke or later.

"Did you see any rip or tear in the gas bag?" asked Rosendahl.

"No, sir," was the response.

The witness declared that he had inspected the ship before sh esailed and that as far as he could observe there were no defective gas bags in the Shenandoah and the condition of her hull was good.

Before Collier took the stand, Arthur E. Carlson, another chief rigger, whose duties included those of looking after the gas cells, had testified that when the ship was on her uncontrolled ascent just before she broke up there was no excessive presure on the cells. While his position later was such that he could observe only one bag, he declared that so far as he had knowledge all of the gas bags were intact up to the time the craft was wrecked.

20-STORY SKYSCRAPER IS A POSSIBILITY AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25. (AP)—A skyscraper, twenty stories tall, with rapid elevator service, class rooms, living quarters, swimming pools, libraries and dining rooms, in the middle of the old campus at Yale, was mentioned by Dean Frederick S. Jones, of Yale college, as a bare possibility for a solution to the problems of the future expansion of Yale university.

At present Yale can expand in only two directions, and either possibility, York street or the far-removed Pierson-Sage square, might destroy much of the centralization which has been the keynote of Yale campus plans in the past.

"Fifteen years ago I suggested this skyscraper solution as a bare possibility," said Dean Jones. "It could be built in the middle of the old college quadrangle, and the traditional buildings, the fence and flowers could be left untouched around it. This would relieve the congestion which forces us to house a large part of the class in separate houses for lack of dormitories, and would lead to even more convenience than we now have here."

It was also pointed out that Pittsburgh university is now building a skyscraper to house the complete university, and that the cost would not be excessive, considering the huge sums Yale has spent on other recent buildings. Foundations could be built so that additions could be made as they were needed.

Affairs of Shipping Board Are Critical

A Solution of the Problem Will Be Attempted Perhaps Within a Week.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Shipping board affairs have admittedly reached a critical point with the question whether Leigh C. Palmer will be retained as president of the Fleet corporation as the issue. The long-existing disagreements between Mr. Palmer and a majority of the board have developed to the degree that President Coolidge has taken a hand in the situation and indications are a solution of the problem in some form will be attempted, perhaps within a week.

The board, which itself has had numerous disagreements on pending questions among its own membership, has almost from the first found itself at odds with Mr. Palmer on policies of administration. These have involved terms for sales of ships and lines, the number of ships which should be kept in operation, and the relative merits of expending operations at the expense of economy.

In the background has stood an apparent feeling of some commissioners that in delegating powers to the Fleet corporation the board had in effect abdicated functions conferred upon it by law.

Indicating his direct interest, Mr. Coolidge today summoned Commissioners Plummer and Hill to the White House to obtain their views. Previously he had discussed the situation with Chairman O'Connor of the board. On his behalf it was later stated that the chief executive had reached no conclusions but was concerned in the administration of the $350,000,000 government property for which the board under the law is trustee and had the one desire to aid in the solution of the board's difficulties.

At the same time, it was stated for Mr. Coolidge that there was considerable doubt whether the board could be directed at all in the administration of its affairs on the ground that it was an idependent bureau under the jurisdiction of neither the executive or legislative branch of the government.

In the midst of the general discussions, Mr. Palmer refrained from comment beyond saying that he had "enough business to do going along with things as they are here." So far as known no appointment has as yet been made for him to see Mr. Coolidge.

PROGRESS OF PROCTER SUIT AGAINST SPRAGUE

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—William C. Proctor, Cincinnati soap manufacturer and national chairman of the committee which supported General Wood for president in 1920, tried to introduce modern merchandising methods of the campaign and "sell" his candidate as he would sell any commodity to the public, but failed in the attempt.

This was the substance of a deposition by Herbert Satterlee of New York, organizer of the Wood committee, read today at the trial of Colonel Procter's suit for $50,000 against Colonel A. A. Sprague, treasurer of the National Wood committee. Proctor claims the sum is due on a $100,000 note to raise campaign funds, which he says they signed jointly. This Sprague denies.

The soap manufacturer, the deposition said, had little faith in the old fashioned political mass meetings and torch light processions but proposed to "sell the candidate to the people just as if he were an unknown, new proprietary article, appliance or invention."

Other depositions taken today were from prominent supporters of General Wood, including James J. McGraw of Tulsa, Okla., John C. McGee of California, Dr. Alexander Lambert, at that time president of the American Medical association; M. F. Waldorf, New York; James R. Garfield, Ohio, Fred M. Alger, Michigan; Fred Joss of Indiana, and Fred Dow Walker of Oregon.

These depositions were introduced in an effort to show that while these men were members of the national committee or otherwise connected with the Wood campaign, they actually had little or nothing to do with the campaign itself, which was in Colonel Procter's hands. Federal Judge Slick adjourned court early this afternoon for the week end.

WATERBURY DEMOCRATS NOMINATE CITY TICKET

CHINESE TONG WARRIORS TO BE EXPELLED FROM THE U. S.

Federal Government Agencies Are to Take a Hand in the Situation Arising Out of Outbreaks of Feudal Tongs—City Manager of Cleveland Has Ordered Buildings in Chinatown in That City Razed—Result of a Murder and the Arrest of 450 Chinese—Chinese Minister Has Appealed to the State Department—Several Hundred Chinese Are Awaiting Deportation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—With several hundred Chinese awaiting deportation in New York and the Chinese quarters of Cleveland and Boston facing condemnation as fire and health hazards, requests were made of two government agencies today to take a hand in the situation arising out of the latest outbreaks between the two feudal tongs:

The action of City Manager Hopkins of Cleveland, in ordering buildings in the Chinatown of that city razed after a murder there Tuesday night resulting in the arrest of 450 Chinese, prompted an informal appeal to the state department of Alfred Sze, Chinese minister, to determine the actual condition of affairs among Chinese there.

Representatives of the Hip Sing Tong, one of the warring factions, petitioned the federal trade commission to investigate the operations of its old rival, the On Leong Tong, which were alleged to involve conspiracy, intimidation and violence to prevent members of the Hip Sing Tong from trading in interstate and foreign commerce Nine Chinese merchants were listed in the complaint as having been specifically affected with approximately one hundred others, whose names were not given.

Although it was not known what action, if any, was taken with regard to the situation in Boston, the state department telegraphed Governor Donahey of Ohio, for information as to the Cleveland developments to be turned over to the Chinese legation. The minister also is understood to be ready to dispatch a representative to the Ohio city should conditions warrant.

The truce between the two rival tongs recently signed in New York is believed in Chinese circles of that city to have been voided by the killing of a Chinese in Boston shortly before it was signed, but negotiations are continuing between the Chinese Benevolent association, a merchants' organization of New York and tong leaders in an effort to make the treaty effective.

The On Leong Tong, otherwise known as the Chinese Merchants association, was charged in the Hip Sing petition with "unfair methods of competition in commerce, to the detriment of the public," and the trade commission was asked to investigate its operations.

Another federal agency, the labor department, under whose supervision the immigration law is administered, has taken cognizance of widespread efforts in many cities of the east and middle west to deport Chinese believed to be in the category of undesirable aliens. It is pointed out, however, that the department's immigration bureau is acting only in specific instances at the request of its agents.

MAYOR HYLAN CONSIDERING RUNNING ON THIRD TICKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—The fight for New York's mayoralty took a swif turn today when Mayor Hylan, defeated for the democratic nomination Sept. 15 by State Senator James J. Walker, assured a group of his supporters at city hall that he would give serious consideration to their petition that he run on an independent ticket.

His assurance was a distinct departure from his attitude immediately after the primary when he said that he was through with politics. Since then, however, the mayor has been importuned by several independent political organizations to make the race on his own ticket.

Today delegates from the Progressive party, the Hylan 5-Cent Fare club and independent democrats of the Bronx, called upon the mayor at his office and assured him of their support if he would run independently. In the meanwhile he had been conferring with other of his adherents who told him there was an insistent demand that he run on a third ticket.

The mayor has until Oct. 6 to decide whether or not to run, as nominating petitions must be in by that date.

The recent campaign cost the Hylan committee $91,196. The committee reported to the board of elections today that $88,668 had been received in contributions, leaving a deficit of $2,528. The largest contributions came from William Randolph Hearst, the mayor's chief supporter, and Philip Belrolzheimer, city chamberlain, each of whom gave $25,000.

ROUSING RECEPTION FOR MITCHELL IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—A rousing reception was given Colonel William Mitchell upon his arrival here from Texas tonight, in readiness to appear before the president's air board, but the aviator himself had nothing to say concerning the controversy he has aroused over the nation's air defense.

A drum and bugle corps supplied by two American Legion posts and a few hundred citizens greeted the former assistant army air chief at Union station as he arrived with Mrs. Mitchell.

Seized by friends and admirers when he appeared at the gate, the colonel was hoisted to their shoulders and carried through the station. Above the noise he managed to make himself heard by questioners, however, but he indicated only that he had "ceased firing" for a time, at least, at the administration of the army and navy air services.

"I'll wait until I'm before the board before saying anything more," he declared. Asked about the 800 pounds of manuscript en route to be used in his testimony, the colonel said: "I have nothing to say about that, either."

Still held aloft, Mitchell was carried to a waiting automobile while a parade formed behind him to the crashing of bugles and drums.

In the parade were two uniformed veterans of the Spanish-American war. Two standard bearers of the American Legion posts carried the American flag and a Legion banner.

BANKERS ASSEMBLING FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—The vanguard of New York bankers left tonight for Atlantic City, where the annual convention of the American Bankers' association will be held next week. A feeling of cheerfulness is expected to prevail, due to the fact that the "frozen" credit situation in the northwest has been practically ironed out, bank failures are at a minimum and most institutions are in a liquid position. Although holdings of securities are large, they are not believed to be unwieldly and those held as collateral are generally well secured. Many of the largest industrial companies are relatively free of bank indebtedness, and bank funds are apparently sufficient to meet the normal fall expansion of business without a strain on the credit situation. The war debt situation is slowly righting itself and large foreign loans and credits are in prospect.

POLICE ARE SEEKING THE SLAYERS OF DAVID BRAM

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Federal authorities joined with police today in an effort to trace the slayers of David Bram, drug and whiskey peddler, pickpocket and bail jumped from Kansas City, who was found dead in a sedan in the upper east side this morning.

Whether the murder was a reprisal by a bootleg gang against one of its renegade members could not be determined definitely tonight, but investigators worked on a theory gained from underworld sources that Bram was killed because he was the "stool pigeon" who furnished the tip that led to the raiding of headquarters of a national bootlegging organization in office buildings in Times Square Wednesday.

Bram's body was found in the front seat of a sedan after it crashed into a taxicab while speeding toward the East river, the "gansters' burying ground."

The taxi driver leaped from his car to note the license number of the sedan, three occupants of the other car sprang out and ran away waving revolvers.

A policeman was called. Bram's body was hunched in the front of the car and was not found until the policeman opened the front door and it fell sideways and sprawled over the sill. Bram had been shot twice in the head by bullets of different calibre and had been dead only a short time.

In Bram's pockets was a roll of bills totalling $1,430, some small change and a Hebrew "Mezuzzah," a small scroll, inscribed with the Ten Commandments. No marks of identification were found, but fingerprints records revealed that he was the man wanted by Kansas City police and for whom a $200 reward was offered.

His record showed he was a dealer in narcotics and whiskey, and had been suspected of running liquor from Canada recently. It was also stated that he had operated as a pickpocket in Toledo, Chicago, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and New York.

Bram was 37, but gray streaks in his black hair made him look older. He wore extremely flashy and expensive clothes. Beside him in the car was found a cheap automatic pistol, which was loaded.

Detectives said that the case bore many similarities to the murder about three weeks ago of Morris Grossman, gangster and gunman of the lower East side who was found burned to death in a flaming sedan less than a mile from the place where Bram's body was found today. Grossman's hands had been tied behind his back and he had been shot five times in the head and chest. That also was believed to be a case of gangdom turning upon a member who had squealed.

WAGE INCREASE FOR EASTERN MASSACHUSETTS TROLLEYMEN

BOSTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—An increase of three cents an hour over the present basis wage rate of 59 cents an hour was granted to motormen and conductors of the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway in an arbitration award tonight. Requests for other changes in wage rates and working conditions were denied.

The arbitration report was written by Judge Thomas J. Enright, of Lowell, neutral member and chairman of the board agreed upon by the company and the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes. James H. Vahey, of Watertown, representing the association, concurred in the report, but Fred A. Cummings, of Lynn, representing the company, refused to sign it.

WILLIMANTIC

The Town of Windham evening school will open Monday evening, October 5, at Windham high school auditorium, registration for the courses to be made next Wednesday and Thursday evening, from seven to nine o'clock. Classes are to be held Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, with the instruction divided into units and classes which will meet according to schedule. This plan has been arrived at so that pupils may enroll in one or more courses. All persons with the exception of those already enrolled in the public schools of the town, are eligible to attend. At the end of each unit students whose work is satisfactory and who have attended 75 per cent of the sessions, will receive certificates. Laurence King of the high school faculty will be the principal of the school. Each course names below will be started, provided that a registration of fifteen pupils for one particular course is secured. Any new courses will be started with fifteen pupils enrolled. The grammar school branches is a course designed for those wishing to continue the elementary classes and advanced arithmetic, spelling, civics and English grammar. Citizenship courses will be given to those who cannot read or speak the English language and is valuable in preparing the pupil to become a citizen of the United States. Cooking and sewing classes will be given for two hours Monday and Tuesday for cooking and two hours Wednesday and Thursday for sewing. Commercial subjects include elementary and advanced bookkeeping, the Gregg system in shorthand to beginners and those who took the course last year with reasonable success, and typewriting for beginners and advanced. Business English and corresponding and commercial arithmetic complete the list. Good respected, womanhood honored. Of courses already planned upon.

The time does not change in Willimantic at midnight tonight (Saturday), but that of practically every other city in the state does change to conform with Willimantic and nature's time. Residents of this city who have any contact whatsoever with the world outside of this little sphere, can breathe a sigh of relief, as the sadly mixed-up time arrangements once more become uniform. Willimantic remained standing still when other cities hereabouts were adopting daylight saving. A motorist would go to Hartford and arrive there according to the clocks, two hours later. He left Hartford to come here and if he drove at a fair rate of speed got to Willimantic before he started. Commercial men were "going cuckoo" as one of them said, trying to find out whether they were coming or going and when it was time to eat.

The New Haven railroad puts into effect its winter time table beginning Sunday. There are several changes in the matter of adding and dropping passenger trains on various divisions of the system, but in only one instance does it affect the number of trains arriving and departing on the four divisions of the road having terminals in this city. Only two passenger trains daily in both directions will travel between Willimantic and Providence on week days and the same number of trains in both directions over the Air line division, between this city and New Haven. Patrons are pleased to learn that the trains on this division will omit side trips from Amston to Colchester. There are four daily and three on week days only, a total of seven trains which will leave Willimantic for Hartford. Two trains daily, week days, and three on Sundays will leave for Boston, the Sunday train leaving at 6:40 a. m., recently put on, will be continued. A mixed train will leave here daily for Putnam only at 5:30 a. m., reaching there at 7:20 a. m.

In all there are but fifteen trains leaving Willimantic daily for the four divisions, as compared with thirty-five trains some thirty years ago. The train leaving here at 5:45 a. m. (Standard time) will now leave at 6:45, a. m., same time, for Chestnut Hill, Leonard Bridge, Amston, etc.

Mrs. Mary Matchuk, of the Cheewink district, Chaplin, drew a fine of $100 and costs, when found guilty of the sale of liquor, and $50 and costs for having liquor in her possession with intent to sell, at a session of the Chaplin town court Friday morning. Mrs. Matchuk was given a leeway of two weeks to settle her assessment of $150.50. She pleaded not guilty to both counts. Testimony for the state was given by State Policemen Henry Heinold and Klousosky of the local temporary barracks, who testified that the woman had sold one of them a pint of liquor Thursday of last week and that a raid the following day netted nine bottles of home brew, Mrs. Matchuk denied ever having made the sale and said that the home brew was not intoxicating. Justice of the Peace Charles B. Russ believed otherwise, however, and then imposed sentence.

An Overland sedan owned and driven by Abraham Z. Rainville of Moosup, and a Dodge touring car driven by Delmar V. Potter of Willimantic, R. F. D., collided on lower Main street at 7:15 o'clock Friday morning, doing some damage to both cars, for which the owners will settle. The police were notified.

Funeral services for Albert M. Perkins were held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at 62 Church street, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead officiating. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were sons of the deceased.

Alfred Bardolino, of 183 Mineral Springs avenue, Pawtucket, R. I., was charged with operating a motor vehicle without having a Connecticut registration when presented in Chaplin town court Friday morning. He was arrested by State Policeman Henry Heinold while driving one of the interstate auto passenger busses on the Providence-Hartford route. Bardolino pleaded guilty to the charge stating that one of the regular busses broke down and he used one that had no Connecticut markers. Justice of the Peace Charles B. Russ imposed a fine of $50 and costs, remitting $25 of the fine. The total assessment was $39.46. Grand Jurer Frank McLandon prosecuted the case.

In making a turn into a driveway on West Main street, about 8 o'clock Friday morning, a Republic auto truck owned by the L. M. Hartson company, of North Windham, and operated by Richard E. Wright, was run into by a Ford auto truck owned and driven by Antonio Giraca, of 92 Hope street this city. Both machines were travelling in the same direction and Giraca claimed that he got no signal that the truck was about to make the turn. Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley investigated the accident.

The city garbage truck driven by Eugene J. Campbell and a touring car owned and operated by Dr. George E. Wilcox, of this city, collided on North street Friday, doing slight damage to a fender on the Wilcox machine, for which Campbell agreed to settle. The matter was reported to the police.

Physical Director Richard E. Holden, of the Y. M. C. A., was the guest of honor at a dinner served in the "Y" Friday evening and attended by General Secretary Albert B. Mullin, the board of directors and friends of the newly appointed director. Mr. Holden completed a course this summer and is now recognized as possessing the qualifications of an efficient physical director.

Twenty-one tables of which were at play at the opening social event of the season at the Willimantic Country club, Thursday afternoon. Guests from many surrounding towns were present. At auction, Mrs. A. S. Wheelock won first prize and Mrs. G. K. Lemingwell, of Windham, was given the consolation award. Mrs. J. Arthur Girouard won first prize at whist. Mrs. Edward G. Kenny was awarded the consolation. Mrs. A. W. French was at the tea table and Mrs. Louis A. Arnold was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Thomas F. Foley, of the firm of Foley & Henry, truckmen, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital Friday morning when his left leg was fractured just below the knee, while he was assisting in moving furniture from the Philip Bachert home, 106 Prospect street. Mr. Foley was carrying a mattress and in going down a flight of stairs made a misstep and fell. He was removed to the hospital in the ambulance.

Local telephone company employes and friends who attended the dinner and dance in Norwich Thursday evening were: Misses Helen Ottenheimer, Alice Casey, Claire Foley, Arlene Weatherhead, Helen Sugrue, Katherine Grimes, Ernestine Lincoln, Ruth Weatherhead, Mildred Moore, Ruth Doyle, Mary Sugrue, Irene Randall, Marion Johnson and Maude Hickey, Manager A. L. Weatherhead, S. F. Reynolds, C. E. Smith and E. S. Johnson, H. C. Knight, vice-president and general manager of the Southern New England Telephone company, delivered the address of the evening.

The Windham high school Lyceum meeting was held Friday forenoon with President John Nichols in charge. Reports of the various school activities were read and Principal Egbert A. Case who is starting on his sixteenth year at Windham, spoke briefly. President Nichols delivered the annual message to the students, setting forth the aims of Lyceum.

Workmen in the employ of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company were digging on Church street Friday, in an attempt to locate a leak in the gas main. An excavation was made at one spot but the work was later transferred to a section of the newly laid concrete roadbed.

Alphege Coutu, 26, of Perkins Corner, sustained painful injuries, Friday forenoon, when the middle finger of his left hand was caught and badly torn in a machine at the S. C. S. Box shop. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital and given surgical attention by Dr. J. Arthur Girouard.

Daniel Cremin has purchased the former L'Heureux property at 305 Pleasant street, from John A. Kelley.

The motor bus service between this city and Colchester will not start until about the middle of October, it was stated Friday by an official of the Connecticut Motor Bus Transportation company, correcting reports that the service would begin next Monday.

Mrs. Maud S. Deming, president of the Department of Connecticut, W. R. C., attended a session of the Past Department Presidents' association held Friday at the home of Mrs. Eva Russs in Glastonbury.

News Tersely Told.

Miss Anna May Moran, is visiting at the summer home of her uncle, Henry L. Bostwick, in Merrow, before resuming her studies at the Connecticut Agricultural college in Storrs.

Mrs. Belle B. Eggleman has as guest, her sister, Mrs. George B. Lee, of Portland, Me.

James E. Preston, formerly of Norwich and Willimantic, now of Boston, traveling agent, of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, is a guest of Allen B. Lincoln here for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Morrison have as their guest for three weeks G. E. Taylor, of Galveston, Texas.

Miss Alice Bugbee, of New Haven, is spending the week-end at her home here.

Cards have been received from Quebec, from Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Donahue, who are on a honeymoon trip.

Miss Elizabeth M. Case, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Case, left Friday to resume her studies at Wellesley college.

ST. JOSEPH'S SCOUT BAND IS THE PRIDE OF THE TOWN

WILLIMANTIC Sept. 25.—There was much rejoicing here Thursday night and Friday as the news of the award of the New England juvenile band championship to St. Joseph's boy scout band became generally known. Willimantic has a great and just pride in the band, composed of boys whose average age is fifteen, and its accomplishment at the Eastern States exposition at Springfield, Mass., Thursday put everyone in a jubilant state of mind. As soon as the information was received here Mayor George W. Hickey got busy and within a few hours had completed plans for an impromptu civic celebration to welcome the boys home. Members of the B. P. O. E. band cancelled previous engagements and turned out in good numbers. On Main street they headed a band of over two hundred citizens who paraded about the streets awaiting the arrival of the boys, but the latter had remained at the exposition to witness the festivities, after giving a concert at the opening of the vaudeville show. As the midnight hour approached Mayor Hickey announced that the "welcome home" would be cancelled and the paraders disbanded with expressions of disappointment.

The contest at Springfield was brought to a close Thursday afternoon with the appearance of the local boy scouts' band. Other juvenile bands had participated earlier in the week. The band played three selections, an overture, "Home Circle," Schiepegrell; a medley "Beauties to Erin," C. W. Bennet; and a march, "Headway," Harold Bennett. The six judges and thousands of eager listeners were captivated by the technique finish of the interpretations and the award of the first prize of $100 was announced almost instantaneously. It was a big day for Willimantic a history-making day for the scouts, and the day of all days for their leader, Charles N. C. Wheeler, veteran bandsman, who has given unselfishly of his time and knowledge in the interests of the boys. The band not only ranks with the average senior band in proficiency but is now the champion juvenile band of New England and hereby one of Director Wheeler's aims in life is accomplished.

During their concert in the evening at Springfield the band was accorded applause that was unparalelled at any time during the remainder of the evening. They will appear again for a concert at the exposition Saturday. The members of the band who participated in the contest and their ages are: Charles N. C. Wheeler, leader, Clifford Greene, 20; Harry Jones, 15; William Jones, 17; Francis Dillon, 15; Richard Pickett, 16; James Hallock 20; Thomas Costello, 14; Rodney Clune, 15; John Costello, 15; Gerald Abern, 14; Harold Lester, 13; Harold White, 17; Joseph Hinds, 15; Uric Marcoux, 15; Lester Carter, 13; Joseph Zakulekiewicz, 20; Aime Marcoux, 17; Lawrence Day, 18; Harlow Smith, 16; Walter Costello, 16; Ralph Williams, 15; Everett B. Greene, 15; Donald Haggerty, 14; James Lester, 12; Louis Counihan, 13; William Costello, 16; Lawrence Haggerty, 16; William Gurnik, 16; Arthur McCarthy, 17; Patrick Dillon, 13; Francis McCarthy, 15; Howrd Jacobs, 15; Everett W. Greene, 16; William Jacobs, 17, and Arthur Paradis, 14, drum major.

ALLEGED H. O. LADD STARTED RUN ON TRUST CO. BANK

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 25.—Herbert O. Ladd, a carpenter of 106 Quercus avenue, was arrested this afternoon charged with making derogatory statements affecting a bank. He was placed under a bond of $1,000 for a preliminary trial in the police court this (Saturday) morning. It is believed that the case will be continued for a week for further investigation.

Ladd, who is employed by a local contractor engaged in building an addition at the Rossie Velvet Co., mill dition at the Rossie Velvet Co., mill mantic Trust Co., as being the ringleader in and the originator, or one of those, who circulated malicious statement which caused depositors to make a run on the bank Monday and Tuesday of this week, during a flurry of excitement in the belief that the bank was insolvent.

Employes of the Rossie Velvet Co. headed the line of those making withdrawals, it is claimed. The rumor has since subsided and business at the bank is normal.

At the request of the state bank commissioners, state policemen O'Keefe and Lavin of the Hartford barracks were sent to this city to make the arrest.

NORWICH MAN DIES IN ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 25.—George A. Shaheen, 52, of Norwich, died at St. Joseph's hospital here, Friday morning, after a brief illness. He was a native of Assyria and had resided in this country for about twenty-five years, having made his home in Norwich for the past two years. He was engaged in the dry goods business, selling from house to house. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Ctum Shaheen, and three daughters, Krma, Chmone and Chma Shaheen, all of this city.

MYSTIC

At the funeral services for Dr. Alexander Marshall Purdy, held at his home 15 Pearl street, Thursday relatives and friends. The Episcopal service was read by Rev. Lucius W. Shey, of St. Mark's church after which he chose a text and paid an eloquent tribute to Dr. Purdy's life and work. He recalled how Dr. Purdy never refused to go day or night, if he was able to do so and spoke of the good a man can do in the medical profession in relieving pain and suffering. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, where L. P. Doyle and S. J. Austin, officers of Stonington lodge, I. O. O. F., carried out the irtual of that order. Rev. Mr. Shey read the committal service. The honorary bearers were Mystic physicians, Philip H. MacGowan, William H. Gray, Louis M. Allyn, Charles F. Congdon, and Arthur H. Myers, with William M. Hill of Noank. The active bearers were C. C. Potter, F. O. Burroughs, George E. Tingley, George D. Johnson, Ernest Franke and Brown MacKenzie. There were beautiful floral pieces. Representatives of the Masons, Odd Fellows, Red Men, and Hook and Ladder Company, were present. His two sons Clifford and Marshall and two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Burdick and Miss Constance Purdy, also his brother Calvin were present.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' society of the Congregational church was held in the parish house Thursday afternoon with an attendance of 28. The annual reports showed a good balance in the treasury. In June sunshine bags were distributed, and for members were to put in one cent for every pleasant day during the vacation. These were brought in and opened. Nearly forty dollars was added to the treasury. The officers were re-elected as follows: President, Miss Wilhelmina Schroder; vice president; Mrs. A. E. Harrison, secretary and treasurer; Miss Julia Foote. Some of the members have taken trips during the summer and were given five minutes to tell about these outings. Miss Schroder spoke of her trip to Portland, Oregon and other places. Miss Julia Foote told of a motor trip to Plymouth, Mass., Mrs. E. C. Page of a 1500 mile motor trip to Niagara Falls, through New York state and Canada; Mrs. H. B. Noyes went on a trip to Plymouth, Vt., where she saw the father of President Coolidge and Mrs. A. E. Harrison described her recent trip to Canada and Vermont. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bloom are in Rainey, Pa., called there by the death of a relative.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. MacDonald and daughter, Mrs. Philip Harris have returned to their summer home in East Killingly.

Rev. E. F. Eldredge of Niantic attended the funeral of Dr. A. M. Purdy.

Otto Huber is visiting in Astoria, L. I.

Mrs. J. D. Desley of Old Mystic was a visitor here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Denison attended North Stonington Grange Fair on Thursday.

Fifteen gathered for the Methodist prayer service Wednesday participated in a lively discussion based on part of the letter to Thessalonians. After the service the Sunday school board held a meeting and laid plans for a Sunday school rally, October 4.

Friday night, there was a box social in the chapel of the Methodist church, under the auspices of the Epworth league. Admission was free, but each young woman brought a box packed with lunch for two and the men had the opportunity of purchasing the boxes.

STONINGTON

Nicholas Lucker and sons Adolphus and Nicholas, Jr., have returned from a trip to New York made by automobile.

Harry Robertson of Plainfield was a business caller here Thursday.

Robert Eugene Cushman of Stonington and Miss Gertrude Priscilla Stevenson of Mistuxet Avenue, Mystic, were married by Rev. Lucius Shey of St. Mark's church, Mystic at 6.45 p. m., Tuesday in the church. Over 150 attended the wedding. Mr. Cushman is employed by the Atwood Machine Co., of the borough. He formerly was manager of the National Economy Store here. He and his bride left on a wedding trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Bradley entered with a week end party on their steam yacht "Winoka". Their guests were Rear Admiral H. O. Dunn and Mrs. Dunn of Westerly, Mrs. John Opie, and Mrs. W. W. Brown. They were entertained at Block Island by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert O. Swain.

Erick Schaffer will leave today (Saturday) for New York where he will enter the conservatory of music.

The local fishing fleet craft were all held up and searched by the coast guard boats in the harbor Tuesday. The C. G. boat officials are very efficient in their duty in this vicinity.

James Lynch was in Westerly on Wednesday.

Mrs. James Bliven of Westerly was a guest of Mrs. R. W. Edgar Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas Wood, Misses Violet and Myrtle Wood and Harold Wood of Alton, R. I., were visitors in Stonington borough Wednesday.

The L. C. B. A. of St. Mary's branch held a meeting at the Knights of Columbus home, Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Poe of Cheshire are visiting Stonington relatives.

Sample ballots for the use of electors previous to the election set for Monday, Oct. 5th have arrived.

The ballots are one ticket with republican and democratic nominee listed.

Women Invest in Racers

French women have become such enthusiastic followers of horse racing that many society women and actresses have clubbed together and are purchasing blooded animals, "in cahoots," so they may be represented on the turf. In this way several women who could not buy valuable racing stock alone can by sharing the expense with others be well represented on the track.

Baseball players, as a rule, are not superstitious, but most of them believe that a home run in time saves the nine.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The trolley situation appeared to go a bit further up in the air Friday, when announcements were made of a hearing to be held at Norwich Friday of next week over, it was stated, substitution of busses for trolley service all through this section of eastern Connecticut—from Norwich to the state line to the north, from Central Village to Moosup and from Elmville to East Killingly.

On the heels of this came the rumor that the trolley line would encounter difficulties in being allowed to operate its cars over the four new grade crossings between Danielson and Elmville that have been brought about by the new layout of the Danielson-Elmville state highway now under construction over a partly new route. All of these new crossings are within a quarter of a mile of this stretch of highway.

Trolley officials are exceedingly reticent as to what the Connecticut company contemplates as to operating cars over the lines in this territory indefinitely. Hearings of next week likely will begin to bring things to a head and at least point to what may be expected in trolley or bus transportation facilities in this territory in the later fall and winter.

There appears to be no doubt at all that impending changes of importance are to be anticipated. The trolley lines here are not paying. The revenue is even less than it was a year ago, and it was not too good then. It is not indicated that the public hereabouts would complain at all over the substitution of busses for trolley cars. Patrons are concerned chiefly with having as dependable a service as the trolleys are supplying, and there is no vain saying that the busses can furnish as adequate a service.

Another few weeks likely will bring about such changes as it appears almost certain are impending. The public can wait patiently until it hears all about what is to be done; but in the meantime the public is very curious.

Of interest to Killingly and all other towns in this corner of the county is the following announcement, relative to evening courses at the Putnam Trade schools:

The State Trade school of Putnam, in offering evening classes in various trade subjects and related work, is anxious that the best possible results may accrue to those who devote their spare time to self-improvement. To this end it is desired to make clear to those interested the object of vocational evening school work and how the ambitious may best improve their time in the short periods of study provided for by this section of the school's activity.

The essential aim of evening school courses is the vocations is to assist that class of workers in industry who believe in promoting individual advancement, by gaining a more complete knowledge of the work in which they are engaged, from which class of workers modern industry has drawn so much of its dependable and competent leadership. To get the greatest amount of direct benefit from enrollment in these classes, it is advisable that a subject for study be chosen which has a definite bearing and relation to the student's regular day employment.

In this way the weekly periods do not become isolated units in the experience of the learner but serve to fill in and round out to a more complete understanding the problems met with in regular employment. While many take up evening school work as a pleasurable diversion from their day occupations yet it is not necessary to elect a subject entirely foreign to regular employment in order to secure this attractiveness of change, as the number of subjects available for study in these classes make it possible for most of those entering to make a selection both pleasant and profitable.

Persons engaged in textile work have a wide variety of studies to select from which are definitely related to the industry, such as cloth analysis, designing, yarn calculations, doubling and drafting, mill costs, weaving, loom fixing, or other special subjects.

Anyone in the building trades may find pleasure and advancement in such work as estimating costs from plans, drawing of house plans, mathematics as applied to the trade, framing problems, steel square application, or a study of processes employed in cabinet work and general mill practices.

Auto mechanics can find opportunity for study of best machine methods, processes of machine assembly, electricity as applied to ignition, or mechanical drawing. Machine operators have opportunity for further study and application on machine operations different from that on which they have had experience, as well as shop math, hardening, or other items directly related to their day employment.

Mill mechanics, or machinists, may find here the chance to gain a knowledge of tool making, drawing, blue print reading, or some shop problem with which they are not wholly familiar. Those employed in electrical work of any nature can find many attractive features to study closely identified with their particular calling, from study of electrical principles to power plant operation and motor design and repair.

In the home economics department all items of instruction tend directly toward the training required by the home-maker, and is especially valuable to girls employed during the day in industrial pursuits.

In general, past experience and records of the school show that the student who takes up a study definitely related to his employment finds keen delight in being able to apply the knowledge gained directly to the job and very often problems met with on the job are brought to the class for solution. Thus the learner has the satisfaction of seeing direct results from his endeavors, while the student who selects something entirely foreign to his regular employment naturally sees no immediate benefit or advancement from the short period of study permitted, loses interest and finally drops out.

Friday afternoon, the funeral of Yolande Ouillette, year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Ouillette, was held from their home on the West Side, burial being in Holy Cross cemetery. The child died Thursday from diphtheria. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Class officers have been elected as follows at Killingly High school: Senior, president, Fenton Gallup; vice president, Mildred Tillinghast; secretary Helen Keech; treasurer, John Crosby; junior, president, Richard Garrett; vice-president, Ruth Cunneen; secretary, Lloyd Babcock; treasurer, Harriet Beecher; sophomore, president, Marvin Chase; vice-president, Monica Lambert; secretary, Pauline Chartier; treasurer, Lewis Lague.

Friday brought an event in which women were vastly interested, but held none except possible financial concern for the men. The millinery opening brought forth numbers who delighted in seeing the many beautiful new things athat have produced for the season now opening.

Numbers from Killingly will be interested in the hearing to be held at the town hall building in Plainfield Wednesday afternoon October 7, relative to the proposed new highway from Norwich to Danielson via the Green Hollow road. This is a matter in which communities all along the line will be interested and promises to bring out a large attendance. State Highway Commissioner John Macdonald will attend the hearing.

Members of the Sons of Veterans representative of various sections of Connecticut came here Friday evening to attend a district meeting held with Colonel Edward Anderson camp of Danielson. Members of the G. A. R. were invited to attend. A supper was served.

The warning for the annual town meeting, as prepared by the selectmen, includes articles under which action may be taken to see whether the town will accept proposed plans for an enlarged high school, making an appropriation of $350,000 for the same and appoint a building committee. The matter is of such very great importance than an unusually large meeting is forecasted.

A parade, incident to a grand rally day in the Sunday schools will be participated in Sunday morning by representatives of five churches of Danielson—Congregational, Methodist, St. Alban's, Baptist and Pentecostal. Sidney W. Marland is to be marshal of the parade with Amasa D. Pierce, B. C. Hopkins, Harold Holehouse and George H. Miner as aides. The route of the parade will be from the Baptist church through Academy street to School to Center to Main to Davis park to Broad street. A short service will be conducted at the park. There will be singing, a prayer by Rev. R. C. Stimson and a children's story, by Frances Danielson.

Train schedules effective Sunday make some changes for Danielson from the schedules in force during the summer season. Week days the north bound trains will run at 6.18 a. m., 8.39 a. m. and 3.34 p. m. South-bound trains week days will be at 11.04 a. m., 1.54 p. m. and 7.49 p. m. On Sundays the north-bound trains out of Danielson will be at 8.48 a. m., and 8.56 p. m. South-bound trains Sundays will be at 11.04 a. m. and 7.49 p. m. Today is the last day for trains to run on the summer schedule.

It will be noted that there are changes of importance for Danielson. The number of trains remains the same as heretofore—three in each direction daily.

Slides showing plans for the proposed addition to Killingly High school are now being shown at the theatre, as an aid to familiarizing voters with plans that have been approved by a special committee of the town.

The Holbrook company of Westbrook has the contract for building the new reenforced concrete bridge over the Assawaga river at Main St., for $5,127.60. The bridge is to be 28 feet in width.

Miss Marie Weaver, of the operating force of the S. N. E. Telephone company, at the Danielson office, has been awarded a 20-year pin, significant of the long service she has rendered the corporation.

PUTNAM

The house that C. D. Sharpe recently bought on Wilkinson street was built for and originally owned by his mother.

There is a good deal of good natured fun heaped on Mr. Sharpe, who is superintendent of the Putnam Water Department. At the time of the recent fire at the Standard Oil company plant, he hurried to the fire in a car belonging to the department. Later he reported to the police the theft of his personal automobile. The state police were notified, and everything that goes with an automobile hunt was well under way, when it was discovered that the supposed stolen car was safe in the garage, where it it had been all day, the search was promptly called off. The department car was also discovered on a side street not far from the fire, where the driver had parked it.

Frank Cordier, Daniel Weeks and A. Bernier have gone to Florida, making the trip by automobile. They have a camping outfit for sleeping and eating accommodations and expect to make many stops along their route. They may decide to remain in Florida all winter.

Mr. and Mrs. William McCoy attended the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield and remained over and returned home today.

Franklin Perry, P. H. S. '24 has entered Amherst college, of which his father, Dr. E. F. Perry, was a student at the same time that President Coolidge was there.

Sunday will be Rally Day at the Second Congregational church and church school. At 7:30 Sunday evening there will be the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting with Herbert Clark leader. The subject will be, Christian Friendliness to South America, Matt. 4: 18 and 17.

The Methodist church will observe Sunday, October 4 as Rally Day with special exercises and a class of nine will be graduated from the primary department at that time.

Clarke King of Pomfret has moved with his family to Putnam.

"Pete" Dumas has returned from a visit to Philadelphia. While there he saw Thomas J. Corcoran Jr., who was formerly agent of The French River Textile company.

Allis W. King, agent of the American Express company at Putnam is moving his family from Grove street to the house on Center street, recently purchased by him from Henry Converse.

Miss Ellen Wheelock is the guest of relatives at Uxbridge, Mass., for a couple of weeks.

George H. Gilpatric Jr., manager of Putnam High School football team has announced the following schedule of games with one open date, Saturday, November 14 Saturday, October 3, Palmer at Palmer Saturday, October 10, Webster at Putnam; Friday, October 16, Plainfield at Plainfield; Saturday, October 24, Warwick at Putnam; Friday, October 30, Killingly at Killingly; Saturday, November 7, Webster at Webster; Saturday, November 14 open; Friday, November 20, Southbridge at Southbridge; Thursday, November 26, Killingly at Putnam.

There were 55 applicants before the naturalization court here. Thirty were admitted to full citizenship and the oath of allegiance to this country and its institutions was administered by Miss Marjorie Bradford, deputy clerk of court. The majority were from Putnam but most of the towns of the northern part of the country were represented.

Miss Eleanor Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Carpenter of South Main street has returned from a visit with friends at Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Duffy and two children have returned from a visit to Ocean Beach.

MISS MARGARET BLUI

Col. Flynn of the regular army and Mrs. Flynn have been guests of Col. Flynn's sister, Miss Mary Flynn, of Woodstock.

George A. Rawley, who has a wholesale supply house in Webster, Mass., has a contract for plumbing work for a 12-tenement apartment house to be built in that city. He says that he believes such a building would prove a good financial investment, also a fine asset for Putnam.

"The apartments in this building will consist of five, six and seven rooms, of modern construction, fine material and fine workmanship, and with all of the conveniences typical of present-day homes. There will be gas and electric lights, gas, electric coal or oil heat. The entire building will be heated by one central heating plant. This will permit the owner to charge an average rental of $40 a month, including heat. In addition to the other attractions, to have heat throughout the winter as well as during the fall and spring months that require it, without laying in a supply of coal or oil and without the work and annoyance of taking care of a furnace, appeals strongly to a family who live in a rented home.

"Nearly all of the apartments have been leased before the house is well under construction. Wouldn't the same thing prove popular in Putnam, where the scarcity of tenements for small families still exists?"

The funeral of little Nancy Moss, who died Wednesday, her fourth birthday, her fourth birthday, after an hour's illness, was held this afternoon at the home of her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Russell. Rev. J. F. English, pastor of the Congregational church, conducted the services which were largely attended.

MEN'S INHUMANITY TO WIVES RESULTS IN FOUR DIVORCES

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 26—In superior court here today, Judge Haines heard four divorce suits and granted decrees in all of them. None was contested.

Mary F. Breault was granted a decree from Amos Breault because of cruelty. They are Willimantic people. In response to a question as to whether her husband had starved her, Mrs. Breault replied, "Yes, many times." She testified that he had hit her, kicked her, choked her and threatened to kill her, when she asked for food for herself and two children.

A woman welfare worker in Willimantic testified to going to the Breault home and found the woman and children had nothing to eat. Once when Mr. Breault had got up from a sick bed and gone to work in a mill to keep her children and herself from starving.

Rosalma Robitaille of Putnam was granted a decree from Oliver L. Robitaille of Providence on the ground of desertion. Constable Peter A. Gardner testified that he had seen the defendant in Putnam recently and asked him if he had received the notice and defendant said he had. When asked what he was going to do about it, the husband said he was going to do nothing—that his wife could get all the divorces she wanted.

Mrs. Robitaille testified that her husband had become intimate with another woman and went away with her sixteen years ago. It was 12 years before she saw him again and then it was a chance meeting. He had done nothing toward her support and she had worked in the mill to support herself. The petitioner's sister corroborated her testimony and said that she was sure that the deserting husband left Putnam with another woman. The degree was granted on the ground of desertion and the plaintiff was allowed to resume her maiden name of Rosalma Lapoint. J. E. Carpenter was her attorney.

Ellen Brown was given a divorce from Everett Vernon Brown, because he had deserted her. They were married in 1914 and have three children the two youngest being twins born about seven years ago. He left his wife in 1918 shortly before the twins were born. Since then the plaintiff has lived in Putnam and Willimantic, for the last year and a half she has made her home with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Andrews, on Farrows street. No adequate reason was known to plaintiff for her husband leaving. Other witnesses corroborated her statements.

Fannie Spink of Eastford asked for and was given a decree of divorce on the same grounds, desertion, from Nathan Spink, an employe of the state highway department. On the stand plaintiff said that her husband had been in the habit of drinking to excess for the past ten years, that he had grown worse in the past few years. Since prohibition, she said, he had made his own, took it to bed with him and drank during the night.

At the Brooklyn Fair a year ago, he had a bottle with him, got intoxicated and when they started home in a car he was mad as well as drunk; he told her that she was going to ride faster than she ever had before. He made his threat good, she said, by driving 65 miles an hour and during the ride he opened the car door and said that he was going to throw her out. Asked how she determined the speed she said they had been stopped by a state policeman, who told him how fast they were going.

Arriving home, he beat his wife, threw her into her bedroom and locked the door. Finally her son, 20 years of age, interfered. When she declared that she would make complaint to the officers he said that he would leave home. He packed up that night and the younger son if he wanted to go wit hhim, and they left the house together and started for Florida, where they remained seven months.

Both boys gave testimony to the same effect. In Florida the younger boy said that his father had continued drinking as usual. After leaving he did not contribute to his wife's support. E. C. Morse was the attorney in the last two cases.

TRIBUTE TO ATTY. SEARLS—BAR ASSOCIATION MEETS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 25—The oath of office was administered to Howard C. Bradford, newly appointed state's attorney in superior court here today by Judge Frank D. Haines, immediately following the opening of court. Judge Haines paid a tribute to the late State Attorney Charles E. Searls, as well as to Mr. Bradford. He said:

"You have been chosen for an office which has been very ably filled by one of the most distinguished lawyers of the state. As you know, it carries with it great responsibilities and our selection means that the judges of the state repose confidence and trust in you, as well as have a high estimate of your legal ability."

The first case called was one in which the state was represented, Constable Henry C. Barlow, of Ashford, asking for a maximum reward of $100 provided for by the statutes for furnishing information that resulted in the arrest and conviction of an automobile thief. Mr. Barlow told of the circumstances of the case where he had arrested a suspect named Kennett, who subsequently admitted his guilt.

Mr. Bradford said that the petitioner has apparently not spent much time or effort in the case and that in his judgment $50 would be ample compensation. The court approved the suggestion and Barlow was allowed that sum, which will be paid from the state treasury.

At a meeting of the County Bar association William A. King of Willimantic, ex-attorney general of the state and dean of the bar, was elected president to succeed Charles E. Searls. Attorney Arthur G. Bill of Danielson who is county coroner, was elected vice president. J. F. Carpenter, A. G. Bill and Judge Foss of Willimantic were elected a committee on supplies. E. C. Morse, L. H. Miron and A. S. Macdonald were named a committee to renew the lease of the bar library room.

JEWETT CITY

Chief Thomas Wakely and his first assistant, Peter Bryant, have offered their resignation as officials of the A. A. Young, Jr., Hose and Ladder Co. No. 2. Every effort, and all possible influence, was brought to bear by their friends, both in the company and out of it, that they might reconsider, but their decisions were found to be final. The conditions and facts, upon which is based their refusal to further act are best known to themselves.

Chief Wakely, is a fire fighter and smoke eater from the word go. In his systematic attacks upon some of the worst blazes that Jewett City ever saw he has proved himself at once, fearless, capable and efficient. What is said of the chief may fittingly be applied to his first officer. With the backing of one of the acknowledged finest fire companies in the state, or any other state, the fiercest blaze and the toughest problems never have got-ten away. No! not once—that the Rioux block stands today is proof of their skill. A meeting was held Thursday evening and Austin Harris was appointed chief, Mose Loranger, first and Walter A. Field, second assistant with Clovis Casavant and Leslie Hyde still serving respectively as treasurer and secretary.

The borough is a unit in its admiration and allegiance to the fire company. There came the feeling that the organization must materially suffer, when new officers were elected to supplant the old. But the new officials, who are to take over the guardianship of the borough's property, are men from the ranks, each with a record of proven efficiency and courage.

Of the new chief—There is a new recruiting lithograph recently adopted by the U. S. government army service to be seen today displayed in any city recruiting station, that carried the picture of a redheaded young man, clad in the regulation khaki of the enlisted private. The banner bears this slogan—A Red-Headed, Red Blooded, White Man—That's "Red" Harris, the new chief.

Sixteen years ago, upon the intelligence of an anxiously awaited telegraph dispatch from the operator at Taftville, hail the town hurried to the local railroad station and waited in breathless expectancy.

Soon away down in the bend of the "seven mile curve" there appeared a small yellow speck, no larger than a man's hand. It was the first trolley car that ever passed through Jewett City. The local band played, hats were thrown in air and all the people cheered and cheered. Alas! soon the survivors of that noble band must go to the same depot to the doleful strain of a soft pedal dirge. (Dead march in Saul has been selected). It's the same depot, it will be the same "seven mile curve" and there will appear a yellow speck again, and it will be the last trolley ever to pass through Jewett City. There may be a few doleful remarks as loyal patrons awake to this, which must be near the final blow. Yet, Jewett City people have become accustomed to the adjusted schedules and improved service cars, that it is quite doubtful if the sorriest of all the mourners will squeeze a single tear.

Any Connecticut trolley man may be asked! What of Jewett City's patronage? He will tell of several hundreds of perfectly good fares every day, with Saturday's double service always crowded.

Now it's coming to this, sure as shooting. Busses or Shank's mare, and as Boss Tweed once said, "What yer going ter do about it?" The meeting to be held Oct. 2, will settle the fate of Jewett City's trolley service.

Mrs. Andrew McNicol, entertained Friday at her home on Pleasant View, Mrs. Bernie Friberg and children, Virginia and William and Mrs. L. Call all of Swampscott, Mass. Mrs. Friberg is the wife of Bernie Friberg, the star second baseman of the Philadelphia Nationals. When Mrs. McNicol was Miss Evelyn Reid, and when Mrs. Friberg was Miss Ruth Call, both of Lynn, Mass., they were students at the same seminary. The pleasant acquaintance which began as school girls, is continued in the warmest friendship.

Harvey Maynard, in charge of the night carding department for the Ashland Cotton Co., finished his assignment with that concern with the close of the trick of the Friday night shift. Mr. Maynard is one of the supernumerary police officers of the borough. As an expert carder and an efficient and fearless officers of the law, all hats are off to "Cap" Maynard. The officials of the concern, as well as his organization with whom he has come into pleasant nightly association are sorry that he is to leave. He has, as yet, no plan in mind for future business.

Friday night the employes in the carding department presented him a handsome set of silver-mounted military hair brush.

We place on sale this morning men's work shoes, all sizes, at $2.49 a pair. Special bargain. Finn Bros.—Adv.

The Ladies' society of the Baptist church was entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nelbert Myott. Several committees were appointed in connection with the coming sale and supper, with others of the management to be selected. The hostess was assisted in serving by Miss Myott, Mrs. Martha Tripp, Mrs. Nellie Swift, Mrs. Frank Brown and Mrs. Ruth Hewlett.

Mrs. M. A. Anderson and Mrs. William Read are among the few that have found fringed blue gentians this fall.

The change of time Sunday will mean that the borough's places of amusement will begin at 2 p. m., standard. Lodges and clubs will open at 2, except Mt. Vernon at 7:30.

People who have been chestnut trees are aware that nutting time is here again. The early boys are at the yard shortly after dawn, but they are second to The Bulletin boys who go on their routes with bulging pockets.

Friday, a big Rolls-Royce, with a Manhattan registration number, stopped in front of a Main street tree, while its long occupant, a woman of 60 or more, alighted and picked from the curb, a horse chestnut, smiled, held it up for the chauffeur to see, and bade him drive on.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cheshre, Frank Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Medick were in charge of the program at the Pachaug Community club Thursday evening. There were one hundred and thirty present. The singing of America with Miss Ethel Popple, accompanist, was the first number. Arthur Milliard played harmonica solos and Helen Weaver piano solos. Rev. J. W. Payne gave an address on Newspapers, Mrs. Christina Murphy sang, and there were readings by Arthur Johnson. The singing of Star Spangled Banner closed the program. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. The committee for the October meeting is Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Holmes, George Palmer, Lucy Miner and Alexina Pepin.

THREE DIMICCO TRIPLETS, BORN SEPT. 7, HAVE DIED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 25.—Labor day, Sept. 7th, triplets, all boys, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Di Micco, of Green avenue. Their combined weight was 18 1-2 pounds.

Under the caption—Boy Triplets Bless Jewett City Family, teh story was told in most of the dailies east of the Mississippi. Seven days ago one of the babies died and Friday the other two died from inanition.

Over a thousand persons from all around the section had been to see them and to congratulate the proud and happy mother.

POETRY

THE PROUD VEGETABLES

In a funny little garden not much bigger than a mat,
There lived a thriving family, its members all were fat;
But some were short, and some were tall and some were almost round,
And some ran high on bamboo poles, and some lay on the ground.

Of these old Father Pumpkin was, perhaps the proudest one.
He claimed to trace his family directly from the sun.
"We both are round and yellow, and—we both are bright," said he,
"A stronger family likeness one surely scarcely wish to see."

Old Mrs. Squash hung on the fence—she had a crooked neck.
Perhaps 'twas hanging made it so—her nerves were quite a wreck.
Near by, upon a planted row of faggots dry and lean,
The young cucumbers climbed to swing their Indian clubs of green.

There, in a spot that feels the sun, the swarthy egg-plant weaves
Great webs of frosted tapestry that hangs them out for leaves.
Its funny azure blossoms give a mighty shrivelled wink,
And lifting up the leaves display great drops of purple ink.

Now, life went on in harmony and growing indolence
Till Mrs. Squash had vertigo and tumbled off the fence;
But not to earth she fell! Alas, but down with all her force,
Upon old Father Pumpkin's head, and cracked his skull, of course.

At this a fearful din arose. The yells began to split.
Cucumbers turned a sickly hue, and daikon had a fit.
The sweet potatoes rent the ground—the egg-plant dropped his loom,
While every polished berry seemed to gain an added gloom.

And, worst of all, there came a man, who once had planted them.
He dug that little family up by stalk and leaf and stem,
He piled them high in baskets in a most unfeeling way—
All this was told me by the cook—we ate the last today.

—Mary McNeil Fenollosa in Providence Bulletin.

THE HEAVENS ARE OUR BIBLES.

The heavens are our riddle; and the trees
Forested earth, the grasses rustling plain Snows, rains, and thunders. Sun, and even we
Before ourselves stand enigmas. In vain!
The stars still march their way, the year still rolls,
The forests wave, the plain drinks up the sun,
And we stand silent, naked—with frivolous souls.
Before our unsolved selves. We pray to no one
Whose hand should help us. But we have no voice;
Skies clear and darken; the days come and pass.
Nor any bids us weep or bids rejoice.
Only the wind sobs in the shrivelling grass.
Only the wind and we with upward eyes
Expectant of the silence of the skies.

—Herbert Bates.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

The greatest consolation some people seem to find as age grows upon them, is that they don't look it—by change.

A DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

According to information which comes from Geneva the league of nations is disposed to go ahead with its plans for calling a conference on the subject of disarmament. This is in keeping with the plan that was advanced after it was decided in this country that the time was not ripe for calling another conference for extending the disarmament agreement.

If the league goes ahead with its plan it is to be expected that the United States will receive an invitation to participate. None has yet been extended but the president has seen the advisability of letting it be known that attendance at such a conference is a matter which would be left by him with congress. There is no intention of allowing the wrong impression to be gained in regard to our part in such a gathering.

This country has expressed itself in no uncertain terms in regard to the league and our membership therein. We have steered clear of league projects and there is no disposition to permit any misinterpretation of the administration's attitude. It is well known that there is strong sentiment here for disarmament, quite as much as there is for keeping out of the league issues a call for the consideration of further disarmament this country will be invited to join. It is quite important that we should be, and but for the fact that it might be under league auspices there is little reason to question our participation therein. Just because the league may set in motion the move for further reduction in armament does not, on the other hand, mean that we should refuse to aid in bringing about a condition which is generally regarded as beneficial for the entire world. When the next disarmament conference is called it is to be hoped that it will be at such a time and under such conditions that it will be able to accomplish as much as was done at the Washington conference.

TRAIN CONTROLS

As the result of a vast amount of study and experimentation, backed up by a recognized need, of some such device, the automatic train control is being added to railroad lines each year. The first of next month the Chicago & Northwestern will have 150 miles where such an arrangement will be in operation for the protection of the traveling public.

Death at the throttle, fog, sleep, illness and poor memory have been responsible for many railroad wrecks where many lives have been lost and huge property losses sustained. Disregard of orders has also made its contribution to the wreckage toll. The human agent is not infallible and it remains for an automatic device to be placed on railroad systems that will supplement the engineer of the locomotive and act in the keeping of orders when he fails to do so.

Development of such control has been perfected to the point where the interstate commerce commission has ordered the railroads of the country to equip their lines with such safeguards. It is recognized that it means a large outlay but safety is given first consideration. In spite of the cost the roads must comply with the requirements. Many already have equipped certain sections of their lines with such a device, and they have been giving careful study to the various forms of train control.

In connection with the Chicago & Northwestern's equipment it is announced that it has cost about $2300 a mile. If that could be considered an effective device that would not require replacement every little while there would be much less thought of making such an outlay, but automatic train controls are still undergoing development and it is going to be a big problem for the railroads to handle if the control system which is installed this year must be ripped out and junked next year in order to get something better and more certain. That is one of the grounds taken by railroads in endeavoring to get a longer period for beginning such work. They apparently figure that the testing period for such devices has not ended.

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE

That the Riffian leader does not like the presence of the American aviators in Morocco is indicated by the announcement that he will give $5,000 for any one that is brought in dead or alive. This is an announcement which means that he is going to make a special effort to penalize those who are fighting him and it comes without protest actually being made to the American representative in that country.

That American aviators are aiding in the war against the Riffs is no secret. It is known that they are there and they are making it plain that they have no intention of abandoning their endeavor. They are to be numbered among those soldiers of fortune who are ready to participate in any fight that develops, taking the side which appeals to them and getting their satisfaction out of the adventure and the risks that are involved.

That they do not represent this government, or the sentiment of this government, has been made clear by the recent declaration by the department of state to the effect that their acts are in violation of the laws of this country. The presence of American aviators in any revolt may be interpreted by those who do not know better as representing the attitude of this government and mean, as the result, the development of difficulties.

In recognition of this our government has taken occasion to repudiate any such interpretation before it was made. While it may not be possible to actually require the American aviators to abandon their work with the opponents of Abd-el-Krim, and while there may be no disposition to regard their participation as indicative of American sentiment, this government has nevertheless seen the advisability of taking time by the forelock and stating its position before there has been an questioned raised. It changes nothing so far as the determination of the fliers is concerned but it serves to clear the situation as to where this country stands.

A PERTINENT QUESTION

In connection with the coal strike and the efforts which are being made to replace anthracite with bituminous coal, the Philadelphia Ledger asks: "As matters are going now, how long will it be until the men who own the coal and the men who dig it will be the only people who will be burning hard coal?"

This of course takes into consideration the considerable reduction which had already taken place in the market for hard coal before the present strike was inaugurated. It recognizes the fact as set forth by the chairman of the governors' fuel committee for New England when he says that the patience of the consumer is surprised to the breaking point. It gives heed to the fact that, with the disposition to adopt substitutes those who become accustomed to using other than hard coal will not be inclined to seek any other fuel. And when there is no demand for hard coal outside of Pennsylvania, a serious blow will be dealt to one of the biggest industries of that state and to one of the sources of state revenue.

It isn't to be supposed that the Ledger believes that there will be no more demand for hard coal, but the question it asks indicates that it recognizes the dwindling demand and the importance of getting away from the strike in the coal mines that takes place every two years or so to the disgust and discomfort of the users of such fuel.

It is well that consideration should be given to such a possibility before the time actually arrives when it is found that something else will not only do but to more desirable from the standpoint of heat and pocketbook.

CAPITALIZING COURTESY

Word comes from Portland, Me., to the effect that the practice of roughneck methods with visitors in motor vehicles has been banned, that the notice that officials must be gentlemen in being respected and this improvement is to be noted in the cities as well as the towns.

Any state has reason to require its officials to be gentlemen, to recognize the fact that the motor traffic of the present day will be greater before it is less and to deal with the situation in the best way possible.

It will be remembered that it was not many years ago that speed traps were established and certain officials were taking advantage of a new opportunity to fatten their pocketbooks. That was during the days when it was considered that there should be a regulation of speed at all points on the highway, and before the traffic problem had become as serious as it is today. Now instead of the speed traps there are states which are requiring drivers to get off the highway unless they and their machines can make from 30 to 35 miles an hour. This is done to avoid congestion where there's heavy traffic.

Times have changed but courteous treatment still pays whether it is dispensed by a road official or by someone else. In the present lack of uniformity in state requirements it is necessary to allow some consideration for the fellow from another state, and Maine like many other states knows well that much business hangs upon the reception that is given to the tourist. Maine is acting in a way to encourage business instead of driving it away. Courtesy always pays.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The one hundred and fifty clergymen representing the various religious denominations of Connecticut who accepted the invitation of the Pastoral union of Hartford seminary to attend the lectures given by Prof. Raymond C. Brooks of Pomona college last week were amply repaid for accepting the generous invitation. The very mention of his general theme is sufficient to indicate the boldness of the speaker and the timeliness of his general subject: "Is Christianity Sufficient for Our Modern World?" This thought was made wonderfully clear in the following sub-topics, each constituting a single lecture. (1) How has our Conception of Christianity Been Modified by our Modern World? (2) Breaking Old Methods—Judaism, Hellenism, Romanism, Protestantism. (3)—The Outlines of a Universal Religion. (4) Can the Religion of Jesus Become the Religion of Humanity? (5)—Can We Reasonably Hope to Make Our Modern World Christian?

The one outstanding feature of this August vacation season this year seems to the writer to have been the wide departure from the older methods of travel. This break from the old method has not suddenly sprung into existence. It has been growing for several years, but has never been as pronounced as this year. This of course is due to the increased use of the automobile. It is now quite possible for a man and his family during the month of August to travel over the major part of this country and the southern portions of Canada with comparative ease and quite inexpensively, by lodging at night in provided camping places, and getting meals at tea rooms at prices that make the summer hotel keeper livid with rage. It it not extravagant to say that the automobile has brought a new world to people of moderate means.

Campaigning conducted on the mud slinging basis has been revived with energy in the recent mayoralty primary contest in New York. This item has nothing whatever to do with the political side of the struggle. Voters have a perfect right to express their choice of men for office. Each side is justified in working hard for the election of his candidate. If we believe in certain principles, it is morally wrong not to work for them. It is equally wrong to try to advance ourselves by pulling somebody else down simply because he doesn't believe as we do. It is still worse to be vituperative and throw mud at the other fellow, and charge him with things that cannot be substantiated. The great city of New York has been humiliated in the eyes of the world by this condescension into the slime of ward politics. Let us hope that the campaign that will start ere long for the November election will be conducted on higher levels.

Do we fully realize what a potent factor faith is in all of man's community relations? Primarily faith is a great moral quality, but it is also the basis of all great business transactions. If an individual, a corporation or a nation has credit, it is because they inspire faith. Somebody believes in them. A good illustration of this fact is seen in the recent success of Canada in floating a loan of $70,000,000 in New York city at the low rate of 4 per cent. There are very few nations today that could borrow money in New York on such favorable terms. We believe in Canada, and this belief on our part reacts on Canada, and hence the bond of interest and sympathy that is more than a century old is likely to continue. It is hardly too much to say that faith is the basis of business success.

The statement has been made that high grade plays and motion pictures are not paying propositions, and that the shekels come in far more freely when plays and pictures are a bit "off color," and the more "off" they are, and yet kept just within the bounds of law the more abundantly do the shekels flow in. If this is true it is not very flattering to either the intellectual tastes of the moral standards of the American people. From very early times in the theater has been an educative force in the world, and the character of its productions reflects the tastes and standards of the people. Lack of patronage does not always come from a lack of appreciation of good things. Slim congregations do always indicate religious apathy. If it is possible for communities to be overchurched—and sometimes they are—it may also be possible for a community to have more theaters than the public can support.

One of the very important phases of work planned by the Federal Council of Churches is religious education. Why should we not make more of a university out of the church? Intellectually why should not our Sunday schools stand on a level with the public schools? But they do not. The children of the Sunday schools are also in the day schools, and hence the difference does not lie in the children themselves, but in the extent and methods of instruction. Why is it that Protestants have been so derelict in this direction is very hard to explain. The problem is all the harder because Protestants have taken the lead in secular education. The vast number of our colleges and universities proves this statement. Religious education is trying to correct this glaring defect.

Just what impetus an agricultural fair may give to agriculture is very hard to say. That they do something is proven by the fact that they are kept up year after year. Probably the sight of a big squash doesn't make anybody wild for farming. It is at least entertaining to see big things whether they are fine things or not. We like to see both big things and fine things exhibited at an agricultural fair whether they are products of the soil or manufactured articles. We like to see alert horses going fast, and stupid oxen going slow. We like to see the fat hogs root, the vain turkey gobblers strut and the placid cows chew the cud. We like to see any animal clower or upper) do a real stunt and we clap our hands in appreciation. It also amuses us to see the fakirs ply their trade because it emphasizes the old saying, "what fools we mortals be." But above all the chief benefit of an agricultural fair is its sociality. It brings out all types. It breaks down all distinction and reminds us of the human race.

Courage is always an attractive feature of the human personality. Persons who dare to do things are always magnetic. Of course we admire most of all those who risk their lives for something worthy. Humanity will never forget the courage of Columbus. The Pilgrim fathers also come for their share of praise. Are we not in danger of forgetting those pioneers who braved so much to put America on the map? They faced the wilderness with its perils without a trembling muscle. There were the Indians, the climate, wild beasts, exposure to accidents and fevers, and to the danger of getting lost and losing life from starvation. About the only protection they had was great physical endurance, a trusty rifle and powder. All this comes to mind when we recall that 105 years ago today one of the greatest of the pioneers, Daniel Boone, died.

Playgoers of Boston are to see a version of the war play "What Price Glory" with all profanity omitted, it was decided. The producers accepted the dictum of Mayor Curley conveyed to them by City Censor Casey.

MACMILLAN PARTY VISITS NORSE RUINS

While the Peary, airplane carrier of the MacMillan Arctic expedition lies in the harbor at Godthab, Greenland, the Bowdoin, with Comdr. MacMillan and the entire scientific personnel of the expedition aboard, is visiting various fiords and ports to the south of Godthaab to study the remains of the authenticated Norse ruins of those places.

After a brief survey of the Greenland ruins the Bowdoin expects to rejoin the Peary and both ships will proceed to Labrador, there to make a more thorough survey of ruins which are thought to date back to the sturdy Northmen or Normans of the time of Eric the Red and his redoubtable son Leif.

If the comparison of the Labrador ruins in Labrador with those of Greenland establishes a direct connection between the two a new chapter, long suspected and much discussed, but not yet proved, will be added to American history, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

Planes May Be Used

If Comdr. Byrd, in charge of the naval unit of the expedition, deems it feasible airplanes will be used to visit interior ruins, reported by Indians and Eskimos, but never yet visited by white men. If weather conditions prevent flying, attention will be then directed to the ruins in far northern Labrador, accessible for the scientific study of MacMillan and the technical members of his party.

Explaining the significance of these ruins, the National Geographic Society bulletin continues:

"For many years history students have engaged in spirited discussions about the theory that Norsemen visited the shore of America 400 years or more before Columbus was born. The ruins and other remains said to have been left by these hardy adventurers of the North along the Atlantic coastline have received the alternate support and ridicule of authorities.

"The question at issue has been: 'Are they Norse ruins or do they belong to some unknown Indian or Eskimo civilization?' The sagas, or legends of the Vikings, too, have been placed under fire. According to some they are merely curious compounds of myth, history and genealogical details largely handed down in their early stages by word of mouth—hence unreliable.

Runic Characteristics

"In Greenland Comdr. MacMillan and his aides will observe the Norse, or Runic, constructed, principles. They will know what to look for in the ruins of northern Labrador, about which there has been so much speculation. Missionaries and Eskimos tell of ruins which seem to be nearly enough preserved to afford clear ideas of the original structures. If these can be studied and they are identified as authentic Norse ruins, tenth century communication between the old world and the new will be proven.

"Remains left by the Norsemen have definite characteristics, which readily distinguish them from Indian or Eskimo ruins. The Norsemen built of stone, using mainly large, flat slabs, and congregated in settlements that sometimes were fairly large. Although the Eskimos sometimes erect sod huts, being nomads, they would not consider a permanent habitation when a skin tupik in summer and a snow igloo in winter answers all their needs.

"The Eskimos also are hunters and fishers. Wild game of the tundras and fish from the sea satisfy their indiscriminate palates, and the supply is always ample. The Vikings raised cattle and some grain. Where they went they took cattle and grain with them, building large stone corrals for the cattle and storage bins and for grain. In addition, the Norsemen had respect for their dead, as burial places, sometimes marked by stone monuments, found near the Greenland settlements, indicate. The Eskimos show no respect for their dead, while their mode of burial is hardly worthy of the name.

Norse Sagas of "Wineland"

"Many Norse and European sagas tell of voyages to the so-called islands of the north,' and of a mysterious but bountiful 'Viniand' or 'Wineland,' a country where vines and grain grew uncultivated. According to the most authentic Norse legends the coast of North America was first seen by Bjarni Herjulfson in 985 A. D., while this adventurous viking was on his way to the Norse colonies along the west coast of Greenland. No attempt was made then to explore the country, but his glowing descriptions of the land, which soon came to be known as 'Wineland,' led Leif Ericson, in 1000 A. D. to visit its shores.

"It has been held that the Norsemen reached as far south as Cape Cod and planted colonies that flourished there for 50 years. The capture and sacking by the Hanseatic League of Bergen, Norway, and the occurrence of the black death, cutting off communications with the mother country, are advanced as contributing causes to the decline and final collapse of the Viking colonies in America. A similar fate befell those in Greenland.

Legends of the Eskimos

"According to Labrador missionaries, the Eskimos themselves have traditions about strange people who came long ago in big boats and settled on the outermost islands of the Labrador coast. They never penetrated into the interior, the Eskimos say, because they fell to quarrelling with the Eskimos and were driven away. One explorer tells of stone ruins on the Boothia peninsula, near the magnetic pole, about which the Eskimos have similar traditions. Another Eskimo legend relates that Eskimos found ruins of houses unlike their own near Cape Chidley, the northernmost tip of Labrador.

"Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, Labrador medical missionary, has found curious piles of flat stone on the summit of lofty cliffs along the Labrador coast. These may have been lookout towers, a precaution against the Eskimos. Similar ones have been found near the Norse settlements in Greenland. Several ruins also are reported in the neighborhood of Nain, 70 miles north of Hopedale, where the Bowdoin broke its propeller on the northward voyage this summer. The coast north of this point has seldom been visited and may produce other finds in addition to the archeological."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Evolution

Mr. Editor: The letter on evolution by Pro Veritate says: "Evolution does what it sets out to do." Now, may I ask what has evolution done since the world began? Man is practically the same as in the beginning. The ape also as far back as we can trace is the same.

Dr. Etheridge, fossiologist of the British museum, said: "Nineteenths of the talk of evolutionists is sheer nonsense, not founded on observation, and wholly unsupported by facts. The museum is full of proofs of the utter falsity of their views."

Prof. Beal of King's college, London, said: "In support of all naturalistic conjectures concerning man's origin, there is not at this time a shadow of scientific evidence."

Prof. Fleischman, of Erlangen, said: "The Darwinian theory has in the realms of nature not a single fact to confirm it. It is not the result of scientific research, but purely the product of the imagination."

Man tries to square all of his ideas with his dominating belief. If he believes in the Bible account of man's creation, he will believe in God, and in prayer, and his belief in immortality will be consistent with his belief in God and prayer. If, on the contrary he accepts as his dominating belief the hypothesis that man is next of kin to the ape, his whole philosophy of life will, in time, be brought into harmony with this hypothesis.

Facts show us that Darwinism carried to its logical conclusion gives such men as Nietzsche, as we know very well, whether their are slaughtered Darwinism—and a tree is known by its fruits. Compare his ideals or lack of ideals with the ideals of the Christ and His true followers. In 1908, over 30 years ago, while an international peace congress was in session in Paris, the following editorial appears in L'Univers:

"The spirit of peace has fled the earth because evolution has taken possession of it. The plea for peace in past years has been inspired by faith in the belief of the divine nature and divine origin of man; men were then looked upon as children of one Father, and war therefore was patricide. But now that men are looked upon as children of apes, what matdecency and security possible. It will or not."

If the above utterance can be regarded as prophecy how completely it was fulfilled during the last war. As James Russell Lowell said: "When the microscopic search of skepticism which has haunted the heavens and sounded the seas to disprove the existence of a creator, has turned its attention to human society and has found a place on this planet ten miles square where a decent man can live in decency, comfort and security, supporting and educating his children, unspoiled and unpolluted, a place where age is reverenced; manhood respected womanhood honored, infancy protected, and human life held in due regard—when skeptics can find such a place ten miles square on this globe where the gospel of Christ has not gone and cleared the way and laid the foundations and made decency and security possible, it will then be in order for the skeptical literate to move thither and ventilate their views. But so long as these very men are dependent for every privilege they enjoy upon that religion which they discard they may well hesitate before seeking to rob the christian of his faith and humanity of its hope in the Saviour who alone has given to man that hope of eternal life which makes life tolerable and society possible and robs death of its terror and the grave of its gloom.

Man is the handiwork of the Almighty. He beckons man upward and the Bible points the way. Man can obey and travel toward perfection by the path Christ has revealed, or man can disobey and fall to a lower level than the brutes about him. Looking heavenward he can find inspiration. What time has he to hunt for "missing links" or in searching for resemblance between his forefathers and apes?

Will you please read the first two chapters of Genesis, also the three last chapters of St. John and the last chapter of Revelations. And may you see the light.

A BELIEVER.

Man Vs. An Animal

Mr. Editor: A recent correspondent says: "The consensus of the foremost race in intelligence, ingenuity and culture offers christianity in first place and it furnishes, as its copy, a personality which no other civilization past or present can show in comparison." Does not this writer know that the close to a thousand years of christian church rule in Europe is one of the darkest pages in human history? Superstition and ignorance reigned supreme. Disease considered an affliction of the devil or devils, to be treated by priestly exorcism. Study of the human body and medicine discouraged or actually forbidden. This reign of superstition and ignorance was broken when the pagan knowledge of science began to permeate Europe. Nothing was added to mathematics from the Egyptian Euclid's day to Newton's time. The christians of Europe who wanted real knowledge went to the Moorish schools in Spain to study medicine, arts and sciences. The christian drove the Moors out of Spain and the only things there worth going to see, after hundreds of years of christian rule, are the works of art and aqueducts left by the Moors.

The Roman Catholic church belittled this life and its only hope to the suffering masses was a promise of an uncertain future life. The Protestant church has done but little better: Representing man as a fallen angel and under certain conditions promises future bliss.

These so-called christian nations with their high ideals (?) and scientific knowledge have made of themselves (from Spanish times down to our own United States) the most ruthless robbers and exploiters of less fortunate peoples, even their own.

Truth and facts are what we should want, not vain dreams and imaginings. The fact is that man is an animal. He thinks he is an intelligent animal. Doubtless he is the most intelligent animal that has yet existed on this earth. This earth is his home. The only home he has had or is ever likely to have. Man today is supreme. In past ages other orders of animals have had their day and are gone. If man is to continue to be supreme he must learn all he can of the laws of nature and bend himself and them to his good. He should cease his personal and national strife and seek the well being of the race as a whole or we may be destroyed by his own Frankensteins.

Every race has had its men who have tried to teach it the duty of fellowship and to love righteousness for righteousness sake, on the whole but with little success. Your correspondent appeals to the selfishness of personal enjoyment of the here and the hereafter as an argument for belief.

The so-called christian church teaches peace, love, brotherhood in times of peace, and hate, lust, murder, in times of war. Its members profess love one day and practice selfishness six days.

The hope of the future to the race of men depends on the truths discovered by science, and to the love of truth, fellowship and righteousness which it is the duty of the church to teach and enforce in its membership.

Evolution as a Theory

Mr. Editor: The intent of these letters is not to provoke discussion. Apart from my legitimate business I would not have time for idle arguments.

The purpose is, if possible, and we believe it is, to give to your readers a rational view of what evolution really means as a theory applying to the universe and its origin.

We are not out to argue that all we see of progress and evolvement is utterly all, for change and decay all around we see. Also we see change and development, so we are not out to deny an evolution which logically affirms that the earth bringeth forth fruit of herself, "first the blade, then the ear, after that, the full corn in the ear."

What is comprised in the evolutionary theory? Well, when stripped of all superfluous wording, the contention loses all its apparent conflict with religion, it is nakedly a contention between mind and matter.

We claim that the universe as we see or conceive it, originates in an intelligence. Evolution claims as its explanation that all things, systems, solar and terrestrial, even intellect itself, have been, and are being, derived from dead unconscious matter. That matter and matter alone constitutes the present, and all primal existence, and all forces and products; and that all causation and results, the evolutionist thinks he gives sonling from present observed and existing laws of nature, causes and results. The evolutionist thinks he gives a better solution of the universe than we have. In fact, as held by him, the best solution we ever have had. As his theory is the later one and the novelty, the burden of proof rests with him, and the populace should understand that his theory is not to be accepted just because it is novel.

A man may say he has a theory by which we may mount to the moon or communicate with Mars, but unless he can show his ability, his dissertations about the contrivance, however convincing, are not proof, and should not be accepted without a demonstration. His claim is stupendous and so requires stupendous proof.

This is actually the predicament in which evolution finds itself. It admits itself an hypothesis and reasons itself out to be the best yet, more simple than creation by intelligence acting upon matter, yes, producing matter, as the revelation we have, puts it in our theory.

The evolutionists theory that all creation functions from the crude to the complex, compels him to produce mind from matter. This he has not done, nor can do—either by experiment or analogy. We claim that mind, the intelligence of the higher, comes first, and of necessity.

We cannot attribute to dormant matter the energy and possession of laws without intelligence, nor imagine an evolution which has not first been involved. Either matter was first invested with potencies fitting it for future evolvement into higher forms or else creative intelligence acting upon it, produced the results we see. In either contingency there is full evidence that there can be no universe by evolution from mere matter, for as we have said evolution can only equal involution, and be co-ordinate with it. To use a biblical and homely illustration, "the (evolutionary) bed is shorter than that a man can stretch himself on it, and the covering narrower than that he can wrap himself in it."

Sunday Morning Talk

A VISION

"And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then I said, Here am I, send me."

There can be no service without vision and no real vision without service.

The incentive for doing comes from seeing. No time in life is quite so valuable as that inwhich vision comes. The "practical" is not to be despised, for it is necessary, but is not all. We smile sometimes at young people's aspirations and call them air castles. Perhaps they are, but they are not to be scuffed at. For out of them come ideals and dreams which lend human nature upwards toward heights whereon may be built grand and lofty structures. "Where there is no vision the people perish." The need that we should turn our help grows more and more apparent. When God would have Moses build a tabernacle in the wilderness that the people might worship Him aright, He took Moses into the mountain and showed him the pattern of it. Afterward He charged him to see that he made it in all respect "after the pattern shown him in the mount." Our lives are to be like that, patterned after the visions we see.

Saul had a vision. From that day he became Paul, and his was a changed and most successful life, having met the Saviour, having heard His message, having seen the great possibilities for good open before him, his soul was awakened to high things and he began a course of obedience to a heavenly vision which led him ever on and on. That was the secret of his success in the mightiest work for Christ and the world that has probably ever been accomplished by man—except by the Christ the Son of God. We might even say that it was this fact of following a vision which inspired Christ Himself, for we are told that it was "for the joy set before Him He endured the cross, despising the shame." He, too, was following a vision. It was that of a redeemed world.

From Small Beginnings

Samuel Drew, the Shoemaker, a Great Scholar.

A young man 20 years old, sat with tears in his eyes listening to what was said at the funeral of his brother, with whom he had many times enjoyed pranks and escapades. They had been a daring couple, and had united with other young men in real adventures. Now the brother had died, and the younger one, Samuel Drew, was left. The words that he heard made a deep impression on him, and for the first time in his career he began to think life a really great matter. His father had been an ignorant man who had always worked for others on farms in the south of England. At first the boy had played about in the fields and watched his father work. Then there had come a time when he had gained strength enough to work himself, not at the hard farm work but on the bench as a shoemaker.

"It will do you no good to argue with Sam Drew," the men said. "He has an answer for all that you can say. He does nought all day but think."

In fact the young man had a quick tongue and a repartee for anyone. He had a quick mind, but an untrained mind. With this advantage to start with he set about self-training. He had never been able to go to school but he had picked up the ability to read and write. Now he began to read, and to think about what he read. He joined the church and soon became a preacher. Fourteen years after his brother's death Samuel Drew wrote a book in which he set forth his ideas on religion and the spiritual life. Crude as it was, the book was an honest expression of thought. It won praise for its writer. Stimulated by this he wrote other books, all along the most serious lines. Before his death at the age of 63 he had written a shelf full of books including histories, biography, essays, religious discussions, and a great work in which he set forward his belief in the immortality of the soul. He became an editor, and the director of a publishing house, and was honored by one of the best of the British universities. When he died in 1833 he was recognized as one of the leading English thinkers. It had paid the young shoemaker to listen to a really serious talk.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dwight W. Morrow, who is serving as chairman of the special board appointed by the president to inquire into the aircraft situation, is a noted New York lawyer and financier whose advice and direction have been and are much sought by others. He was a director of the War Savings Committee of New Jersey, in which state he resides, and was chairman of the New Jersey Prison Inquiry Commission some years ago. For his services in connection with military shipping matters during the war he was awarded the distinguished Service Medal. Mr. Morrow is a native of Huntington, W. Va. Stories That Recall Others

No One to Hear

Jane, age five, has the mumps, so her mother has been forced to leave her alone in the house when she had gone on errands to the grocery store. The other day she came home and found that Jane had fallen and hurt herself slightly.

"Did you cry?" her mother asked.

"Of course not, mamma, there was no one to hear me."

Destination in Doubt

"I am sorry but I have lost mystic-ket." The passenger, a well known traveler and speaker, was explaining to the conductor on the train. The conductor happened to know him and that he was distressingly absent minded, for he had had similar experiences with him in the past.

"That's all right, Mr. A." he replied. "Everyone knows who you are. You will certainly find the ticket somewhere among your things. Just mail it back to me when you get to your destination."

"But my good man," the fellow answered despairingly, "my destination is written on the ticket."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE LIDI

When the breaking waves of the Adriatic dashed high recently, it was the Lidi, the series of sand bar beaches separating the islands of Venice from the open sea, that bore the brunt of the blow. More than 40 bath houses at the Lido, the famous international watering place on one of them, were swept away by the sea. Again, as in generations past, the city escaped almost unharmed.

"For although the Lido is generally thought of only as the Atlantic City of Newport of southern Europe, the string of islands from which it derives its name has played, and continues to play, an important role in the centuries old drama of wealth conquest and charm of the Queen of the Adriatic," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "Without them, and the tide they control today, due to dredging, however, and Venice would have needed heavy fortifications in place of airy palaces if it had been any less, the city would have been malarial and unhealthy. Malamocco is the main approach today for vessels of heavy draft. The other ports, Tre Porti, and Chioggia together are not as important as the Lido.

"The Lido, however, owes its chief renown to the fine bathing beach facing the sea. Along its windswept sands Byron and Shelley raced their horses before the vogue of sea bathing. Here artists set up their easels to catch that soft and luminous harmony of Venice from a distance.

"The parallel drawn between the Lido and Atlantic City, while a close one, is not quite complete. Although the Lido is even more to Venice that Atlantic City is to Philadelphia, it is only in certain sections of its two miles of seafront that the public can bathe. The rest is subdivided with barbed wire, which extends into the sea a distance beyond the endurance of all except the most seasoned swimmers. Between these barriers, in a sort of no-man's-land for the uninitiate, society disports itself and keeps the rotogravure editors supplied with 'copy.'

WANT OLD NEWGATE FOR STATE MUSEUM

The fate of Newgate prison, in which British soldiers were confined during the Revolution, became unsettled recently with the death of the owner of the ruin. For years he had maintained it as a museum much visited by automobile tourists who poked about the underground cells. Now it is suggested that the state of Connecticut take it over and maintain it as a relic. Standing in picturesque surroundings, little remains of the structure above ground. The records of the prison and of the mining operations on the site it occupies are few.

One of the few accounts of it as it appeared in its heyday was written by Elisha Niles of Colchester in his diary. Under the date of Saturday the 18th (January, 1794) he wrote:

"Set out for home from Hartland. I came to Granby and to satisfy my curiosity I went a few miles out of my way to see that noted place Called New Gate Prison or Simsbury Mines & I must Confess that it Exceeded my Expectation as a place of Curiosity.

"It is Enclosed by a Picket of Timber and plank about 12 feet high with Iron spike in about 2 inches of Each Other all round which is about 10 or 12 Rods squire. Within which Stands Major Curtices house which stands nearly Right over the prison and a Black Smiths Shops with Conveniences Enough for 20 or 30 Convicts to work at Advantage when I was there.

"There was 22 prisoners to work Each Chained to the Block making Nails they were Guarded by a Sergeant. & 5 or 10 soldiers Major Curtice having charge of the whole. the Entrance Into the prison or Dungeon is by lifting up a trap door in the Guard-room where with the Assistance of a Candle you Descend Down a ladder about 60 or 70 feet through a Descent of about 3 feet Square of hewn Stone. After you Come to the Bottom by turning to the Left hand a few steps you will come to the Room where the prisoners Lie at Night there are several Other Rooms or Rooms Cut through the Rocks for near 100 feet in Sundry Directions one of which Leads to a well on the East of the prison through which all the Air is Communicated to the prisoners to keep them from suffocating and is the well which Supplies all the Guard family & prisoners to use both for Cooking and Supplying the forges.

"after Surveying the Whole Above and Below Accompanied by Major Curtices son the Corporal of the Guard I took a Glass of Bitters paid the Customary fare Being 9 pence Treated the Centry who stood at the Gate and proceeded on my way towards home."

Col. Norris G. Osborn, president of the Connecticut state prison board, says of the prison: "What there is left of it stands as a warning against the purely punitive system of incarceration."

DEFENDS OPERATIONS OF BUREAU IN CONNECTICUT

The operations of Veterans bureau activities in Connecticut was staunchly defended at Washington Friday morning by Personnel Chief Longfellow and Rehabilitation Chief S. L. McCoy against charges of the disabled veterans committee to the effect that rehabilitation in Connecticut is only 20 per cent. efficient. Mr. Longfellow, on whom the blame for alleged copditic is placed in a report of the committee, denied knowledge of any existing dissatisfwaction in the work of the Connecticut regional office and declared that he had nothing to say regarding the accusation of the committee.

It was pointed out from his position that he is not directly responsible for rehabilitation work and that if there was any criticism of the Hartford personnel, he would have heard about it long before this. This, he said, was not the case.

Mr. McCoy was equally surprised to learn of the committee finding and stated definitely that Major T. J. Bannigan, regional director at Hartford, has built up a reputation for his office which is equalled in few offices of the country. "Such a condition as is reported by the veterans' committee is not something which could grow up overnight," he said. "We have from time to time sent men to the Hartford office to learn conditions there and have always received favorable reports. That office has a comparatively light load in its rehabilitation work, having but about 250 cases at present, and it does not seem likely that these charges can be well founded."

An additional point was brought out by Mr. McCoy to the effect that the regional office is directly responsible for the rehabilitation work in Connecticut and that there is where responsibility for any inefficiency in its conduct should first be placed. "Since I have been in Washington, about eighteen months, I have not heard a single complaint about the Hartford office," said Mr. McCoy.

MAN ATTACHED BY A COW WHILE PRACTICING GOLF

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—George Patterson, 62, of Columbus, Ohio, general agent for the Pennsylvania railroad, western region, was attacked and injured by a cow here today while playing golf. Patterson, who came here for the big P. R. R. athletic meet tomorrow, was practicing on the golf course when the cow broke loose and attacked him, one horn tearing a nasty gash in his hand. He will be unable to take part in the golf contest.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS FOR EXTRA LAND FOR SHANTOK PARK

Condemnation proceedings are to be brought by the state in order to get possession of the Frank J. Foote farm in Montville as an addition to Shantok Fort tract that has been acquired as a state park by the state park commission.

Upon application made to Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court upon behalf of Attorney General Hisely and the state park commission for the appointment of three appraisers in condemnation proceedings, Judge Brown has appointed a hearing to be held in the superior court at New London at 10 o'clock on the morning of Friday, Oct. 9.

In the application, which was presented by Senator Lee Roy Robbins, acting as counsel for the attorney general and the state park commission, it was stated that the Foote farm is wanted by the park commission because it is "so situated in relation to the Shantok Fort property that the interests of the state requires the land for the purpose of a public park and recreation space in connection with the Shantok Fort site."

The Foote farm, which consists of about 18 acres, lies to the south of the Shantok Fort park site, and the condemnation proceedings are to be taken up because the state park commission has not been able to reach an agreement with the owner to buy the farm at a satisfactory price to all concerned. It is understood that $1,000 has been offered for the farm by the state park commission.

Papers giving notice of the hearing were served upon Mr. Foote Friday by Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton.

FORECLOSURE FOR $9,793.11 GRANTED AGAINST CHARMATZ

Foreclosure on two farms in North Stonington and Preston in favor of the Federal Land bank of Springfield and against Jules Charmatz and others was granted by Judge Allyn L. Brown Friday morning at the superior court short calendar day at New London. The amount of the debt is $9,793.11. Charmatz disclosed no defense.

The foreclosure action was brought on two mortgages, the first dated May 2, 1918, for $4,000, payable in 34 annual installments of $260 with a final payment of $250 on Nov. 1, 1953, and the second dated Aug. 26, 1922, for $6,000, payable in 68 annual installments of $195 and a final payment of $194 on Nov. 1, 1957.

The Windham County National Farm Loan association of Willimantic, endorser of the $6,000 note and Laura B. Schnitzer of New York, claiming an attachment lien for $6,500 and costs were named as party defendants.

An order allowing compensation to the receiver of the Uncas Paper Board company of Thameaville, for the third period, June 12, 1925, to Sept. 12, 1925, was entered by Judge Brown.

Other matters on the motion list were disposed of as follows:

Motion for more particular statement, case of Louis E. Perkins vs. Edward W. Perkins, et al., granted.

Supplemental judgment in case of Barkers Trust Co. vs. Shaller, et al., entered.

Other actions on the list either went off or were postponed until next Friday's short calendar session.

THREE CONNECTICUT BOYS WINNERS AT SPRINGFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 25.—Three Connecticut boys, members of the Connecticut agricultural college dairy products judging team, received high honors this week, when they won the intercollegiate dairy products judging contest at the Eastern States exposition at Springfield.

They are Lawrence W. Smith, '28, of Washington, who placed first in individual scoring; John R. Kuhl, '26, of Mansfield, who placed fourth, and Arthur R. Lorentzen, of Naugatuck, '27, who placed tenth.

Teams defeated by the state college dairy experts include those of the Pennsylvania state college, Massachusetts agricultural college, University of New Hampshire and University of Maine.

Classes judged included milk, butter, vanilla ice cream and cheddar cheese.

Correct scoring by expert judges had been done before the student judges made their scores, and the grades of the various contestants were determined by adding the differences on scoring, placing and criticism. The contestant having the lowest score won first honors, which went to Lawrence Smith with a score of 77 points. His nearest competitor was Paul Farrar, of New Hampshire, who scored 91 points.

The Connecticut team score was 283.65, as against 296.75 for Pennsylvania, 320.25 for Massachusetts, 328.25 for New Hampshire, and 445.75 for Maine.

Prizes won by the Connecticut team include the dairy products perpetual judging contest trophy, the Eastern States exposition banner, medals and cash awards.

The team was coached by E. O. Anderson, newly appointed assistant professor of dairy husbandry, who succeeds Prof. R. C. Fisher.

REGISTRATION OF STUDENTS AT AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

STORRS, Sept. 25—Registration of all students of the Connecticut Agricultural college, excepting those in the two-year course in agriculture was begun today and will continue tomorrow morning. Indications point to the largest entering class in the history of the state college, as well as the largest total enrollment. Complete figures were not available tonight, and no announcement is expected from the office of Registrar George E. Torrey until tomorrow noon.

Today the freshmen have been busy taking the required intelligence examinations, and under-going physical examinations. Classes will begin Monday morning at eight o'clock.

DAYLIGHT SAVING IS OVER FOR THE YEAR

Norwich will be on standard time when business opens on Monday as the daylight saving period passes away on Sunday morning.

Norwich people should set their clocks and watches back an hour when they retire tonight (Saturday) so that when they awake Sunday morning they will be in step with standard time.

The Norwich public schools will go on standard time Monday morning.

Church Time For Sunday

Churches of the city will hold their services on Sunday at varied time, some holding to daylight saving time for this Sunday and others going to standard time.

The following will hold their services on standard time: Trinity Methodist, Norwich Town Methodist, Third Baptist, Trinity Episcopal, Greeneville Congregational, Park Congregational, Central Baptist and German Lutheran.

Churches that will keep to daylight time this Sunday are the United Congregational, Christ Episcopal, St. Patrick's and St. Mary's Memorial.

Public Dahlia Show

A number of flower lovers from Norwich will go to New London today (Saturday) when the Savings Bank of New London is to have a public exhibit of prize dahlias from H. M. Manwaring's gardens, afternoon and evening.

Mr. Manwarings will be present to explain the merits of the different varieties.

RECEPTION GIVEN FOR GENERAL MANAGER KNIGHT

At a reception and dinner given Thursday evening at the Wauregan house for H. C. Knight, vice president and general manager of this district of the Southern New England Telephone Co., a 20-year service button was presented to Harry Emmerich of New London.

Mr. Knight, C. H. Clements of New Haven, supervisor of cable instruction, and W. T. Nott of New Haven, general secretary of the telephone employes' association, were speakers at the dinner. In the course of Mr. Knight's remarks he spoke with high appreciation of the late John E. Vaughn of this city, who was one of the district representatives on the general conference board, and whose personality, sincerity and devotion to the business led to his election to the head of the commercial section of the board.

The following committee was in charge of the arrangements for the reception: Harry Lyons, Putnam; chairman. Henry O'Brien, Margarite McVeigh and John Walch of Norwich; Wilson Decker and E. L. Beebe of New London; Miss M. Mather of Deep River and Charles Smith of Willimantic.

DIVORCE FROM HUSBAND IN ATLANTA PRISON

One divorce petition was heard and granted by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court at New London Friday morning, being the only divorce case assigned for trial.

Matilda Daze Blanchard of Taftville was granted divorce from Adelard B'anchard, alias Stewart Lawne alias Charles Patler, who is now in federal prison at Atlanta, serving a term of two years to which he was sentenced on March 19, 1924. He was accused and pleaded guilty to violation of the Mann act in transporting a woman named Evelyn Fox from Providence to New London for immoral purposes.

The couple were married April 10, 1923, but lived together only a short time, according to Mrs. Blanchard's testimony in court. She was granted a change of name to Matilda Daze.

SALEM JUSTICE BINDS THERON MORGAN OVER

Theron E. Morgan of Lyme, charged with breaking and entering in the daytime, the house of Alvin G. Shorten at Salem on Aug. 13 and also a similar charge on Aug. 3 was bound over to the superior court this week by the justice of the peace, John E. Hackett, in Salem.

A New London attorney entered a demurrer for Morgan, which Justice Hackett overruled and bound the accused over to the next term of the superior court under bonds of $2,000 furnished by his father, Griswold H. Morgan.

COMMUNIST'S CAREER SERIOUSLY DAMAGED

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—Shapurji Sakatvala, communist member of the British parliament, barred from this country by the state department, today cabled the American Civil Liberties Union that he would follow the "advice of lawyers, also your public opinion," as to the advisability of making a legal test case of his disbarment. The union recently informed him it would furnish legal aid if he desired to fight his case in the courts.

Sakatvala also said he had mailed a "full case of documents and official reports of speeches," to the union. He asserted that "they show falsity of private reports used by the American government" in arriving at its conclusion to forbid him to attend the inter-parliamentary union at Washington, D. C. He charged that the state department's action was "doing serious damage to my political career, forcibly preventing my legitimate presence at an important world conference."

BRIDGEPORT DEMOCRATS MAY NOMINATE WOMAN

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—Mrs. Florence E. Hogan, wife of Alderman Willis E. Hogan, democrat, Sixth district, enjoys the distinction of being perhaps the first woman ever offered support of a district political organization for an aldermanic nomination in this city.

When a committee representing the Sixth district democratic association called on Alderman Hogan to offer him support for the nomination, he declined for personal reasons. Mrs. Hogan was asked if she would accept the club's endorsement. She declined, giving household duties as her reason.

BALLOTS FOR SMALL TOWN ELECTIONS SENT OUT

HARTFORD, Sept. 25.—(A. P.)—Official ballots for the small town elections on October 6, have been prepared for 134 towns by Deputy State Secretary Elmer H. Lounsbury and have been sent out, or will be sent tomorrow to the town clerks. Two other towns will use paper ballots, Madison and Stratford. The necessary data has not been received from Stratford and a controversy over the personnel of the republican ticket at Madison has delayed preparation of the ballots for that town.

Session For Making Voters.

The selectmen will be in session in the town hall with the town clerk today (Saturday); assisted by the registrars of voters, in order to make voters from the names on the to-be-made list. There are over 500 on the list of to-be-mades.

The hearing on the new rates of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company before the public utilities commission at city hall, Providence, closed yesterday.

A carload of beer, valued at $4,500, shipped in Canada, was formally seized by federal agents in a Lawrence, Mass., yard of the Boston & Maine railroad.

Connecticut College

On Friday evening Connecticut juniors entertained their freshmen sisters with a boat ride about New London harbor. The girls cruised about singing songs, chatting, and laughing in jolly groups, and at twelve a tired but completely happy bevy of faculty and students returned to their respective rooms to dream of moonlight waters, darkly gleaming beneath tossing boats.

Thursday afternoon Elizabeth Damerel of Westerly, R. I., president of the athletic association of the college, told C. C. freshmen what the association stood for in the eyes of the students and their friends. The hut that is at Miller's Pond was built entirely by the students themselves, and by a drive for funds last year the association managed to pay off all the cost of this necessary addition to the outdoor life of the college.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday at five o'clock the faculty and students of the college are invited to join the classes of soccer which are being given as an added sport this year to all that are interested.

The athletics offered as regular fall sports by the department of physical education are horse-back riding, tennis, hocky, and riflery. Classes in these sports do not begin until all physical examinations, which are required of every student are completed; that is not until October fifth.

The glee club try-outs, held annually by Dr. J. Lawrence Erb, will take place next Monday.

CONN. AGGIES WILL PLAY MIDDLETOWN TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 25—The Connecticut Aggies, winners of the New England College Conference Football Championship in 1924, open this year's campaign tomorrow when they meet Wesleyan at Middletown.

Indications point to a fast game with the forward pass and open play in general predominating; Sani Hull, Wesleyan's new mentor is a pupil of Bob Zuppke, famous Illinois football coach and he brings to Middletown the same system of play followed by Illinois and the western colleges generally. This discards the conservative policy followed by so many eastern teams, and a more open game, featuring a liberal use of the aerial attack, is followed. Reports from Wesleyan indicate that the Aggies will have to solve many puzzling formations and trick plays if they are to stop the Red and Black attack.

Coach Doyle may have a few tricks of his own, and when it comes to putting on a forward passing attack Doie ranks among the best in New England. The Aggie eleven has been hard at work during the past two weeks, and the overhead game has been by no means neglected. Long drills have been held in both offensive and defensive features of this scoring weapon, and if the contest should resolve itself into a forward passing battle, the Aggies are likely to give a good account of themselves.

At the close of practice this afternoon, the Connecticut eleven looked good. Every man is in fit condition for tomorrow's battle, and although a hard tussle is expected, optimism prevailed throughout.

Couch Doyle anounced his starting lineup for the game as follows: ends, Captain Brink and Flemmann; tackles, Zollin and Nanfeldt; center, Daly, quarterback, Schoffield; halfbacks, Eddy and Moreland; fullback, Makofski. Lorentzen, who has been making a great fight for a guard berth will probably see action during the game, as will Flimer, who has been showing up well in the backfield.

Paul Bitgood of Danielson, is starting his third season as regular left guard for the Aggies, where it is certain he will give a good account of himself.

Wesleyan's probable lineup against the Aggies: ends, Steele and Piper; tackles, Captain Phillips and Dunn; guards, Brooks & Briggs, and Thorndyke; center, Nelson; quarterback, Wiellan; halfbacks, Lester and Nivling; fullback, Boyd.

Officials: referee, Joe Coulter, Brown umpire, A. R. Gorman, Columbia; Head Linesman, L. I. Harding, Rhode Island State. Game will be called at 2 p. m. standard time.

Led by Cheer Leader Conklin, the Aggies held a big mass meeting in Hawley Armory, at Storrs tonight. Impromptu speeches were made by Coach Doie, Captain Brink and various members of the team. Connecticut's songs and cheers were rehearsed by the entire student body, which returned to college today, and the incoming freshman and their first opportunity to see a Connecticut Aggie football rally. Indications point to a large number of the Storrs students and faculty members to lowing the team to Wesleyan tomorrow.

Following the game, the Middletown Local Alumni club will hold a banquet at which members of the football teams will be guests.

TILDEN AND ALONSO TO PLAY IN FINALS

CHICAGO, Sept. 25 — (AP) — William T. Tilden and Manuel Alonso, the middle states team, advanced to the finals of the intersectional team tennis championship tournament here this afternoon when Alonso took his singles match in three sets from Louis B. Dailey, 6-2, 6-7, 6-2. Tilden had previously defeated Fred Baggs of the metropolitan team, 6-1, 6-0.

Tilden and Alonso made a clean sweep of the series by taking the doubles from Baggs and Dailey, in straight easy sets, 6-, 6-1.

TREE DISTRIBUTION UNDER THE KINKAID ACT

More than 195,000 trees were distributed last year to farmers in the Kinkaid district of Nebraska from the United States forest service nursery at Halsey, Nebraska, according to a circular just issued by the United States department of agriculture, "Tree Distribution Under the Kinkaid Act of 1911." This brings the total number of trees distributed since 1912 above 1,800,000.

Reports sent in by the farmers who have planted trees received from this nursery indicate that an average of about half of them survive. This is a good showing considering the inhospitable sand hill sites on which many are planted. Some planters who take unusually good care of the trees have obtained almost perfect stands.

Jack pines planted by the forest service itself on the sand hills at Halsey have succeeded so well that true forest conditions now prevail in some of the plantations. The circular states that 10,000 acres have been successfully planted by the government, and even on the roughest and lightest sand hills in the state 50 to 85 per cent. have survived. Some of the trees planted twenty years ago have reached a height of 32 feet and a diameter of 6 inches, and the average height and diameter of trees of this age are 24 feet and 4 2-3 inches respectively.

"The main object of the tree distribution by the government," says the circular, "is to stimulate interest in tree growing, chiefly for the production of fuel and fence posts and the establishment of windbreaks. With proper care, wood-lot plantations should begin to yield fence posts and firewood in 15 years. Since trees will do well on soils not suitable for farm crops, profitable use can be made of what might otherwise be unproductive areas. Furthermore, the establishment of windbreaks and wood lots makes living conditions pleasanter and adds materially to the value of the property."

The circular gives directions regarding species to plant and methods of planting and caring for the trees.

Cost of Laying Sea Cables

With the successful laying of the second Atlantic cable in 1866, the pioneer work of submarine telegraphy ceased, for sufficient experience had been gained by that time to insure a fair prospect of success in all further undertakings.

The cost of an ocean cable depends upon the type, for some contain but one conducting wire, such as the Atlantic type, while others have 4, 7, 16, or as many as 28 cores. The latter usually cross rivers and harbors.

To take an average of types, the cost may be said to work out at about $25,000 a mile, more than seven times the cost of a land line, and for repairing about $250 a mile.

Many cables have earned colossal sums of money. The old Malta-Alexandria cable made $15,000 during the first week of opening 50 years ago. The Persian Gulf cable made $500,000 in five years. Returns depend a great deal upon the life of a cable. Some buried in sand and slime carry on undisturbed for an astonishing number of years, while others, by reason of their restless beds on a rocky bottom, quickly need repair.

"Poor Whites" in Need

It is estimated that there are between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 "poor whites" living in comparative need and ignorance in the Southern Appalachian mountains. They are not southern people in the usual sense of the word, but are of vigorous native American white stock. They fought on the Union side in the Civil war. They are of Scotch, Scotch-Irish, French, Huguenot and British descent. They live in their isolation in the mountains, with seldom any intercourse with the outside world.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES

Large and Red. Body Affected. Cuticura Heals.

"My face and parts of my body were affected with large, red pimples that were very annoying. My clothing irritated the breaking out on my body and I could not sleep at night. The pimples disfigured my face and the trouble lasted three or four months.

"I tried different remedies and was treated without help. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased more and in two or three weeks I was healed." (Signed) Miss Sylvia Weiss, 330 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., Apr. 6, 1925.

TWO NEW STATE CHAMPIONS CROWNED AT DUWELL BOXING BOUTS LAST NIGHT

Two new state champions were crowned last night at the boxing show of the Duwell A. A. at Duwell Field Friday night, Tracy Ferguson taking the state welterweight crown by gaining a close decision over Sheik Leonard of Wallingford and Young Coulon of Taftville snatching the flyweight crown from the brow of Happy Rollison of Shelton in just two and a half minutes of fighting, in the first round.

Ferguson's victory was not popular with the crowd and as Referee Billy Conway of Hartford raised Ferguson's hand the action met with a chorus of boos from the ringside. The opinion of newspaper men at the ringside was that the bout was a good draw.

The fighting in the main bout was typical of Leonard and Ferguson who have now fought eight bouts with Ferguson now having the edge on the Sheik in regards to decisions. In this bout the fans got their money's worth for it was slug and slug, a give and take affair that furnished plenty of excitement. Ferguson's left, which he kept in the Sheik's face most of the ten rounds, was his chief weapon of defense and he used it effectively. Leonard, seemingly unable to get inside the left, slugged with his right to the body and his blows in the first few rounds, especially the fourth, landed with crushing force but Ferguson weathered the storm.

The bout opened fast with Leonard putting Ferguson on the defensive, the Sheik sending in blow after blow to the body and Ferguson countering with a left jab and a right to the body. Leonard easily had the margin in the first two rounds. The third was Ferguson's by a slight shade but in the fourth Leonard opened up with both hands and bored into Ferguson sending him against the ropes repeatedly. In this stanza Leonard landed with his left to Ferguson's mouth and the blood started to trickle from his mouth. The next four rounds were about even both boys slugging each other about the ring, but in the two rounds Ferguson crossed his right with his left and these two gave him a shade on the Sheik who was apparently fought out.

Young Coulon Wins State Title

It took Young Coulon of Taftville just two and a half minutes to snatch the flyweight crown from Happy Rollison's head where it has rested since the Shelton lad annexed it early last spring. Coulon made short work of the champion and it was over almost before the crowd realized what had happened.

The champion came dancing out of his corner with a splendid show of speed but was met by Coulon in the middle of the ring with a left hook that made him cautious. Coulon used a right overhand chop which he followed up with a left uppercut. Rollison was smothered under this attack in the first few seconds as the Taftville lad kept boring in. A right overhand chop that landed flush on the Shelton lad's jaw sent him face down on the canvas. Rollison took the count of nine, shaking his head to clear the cobwebs.

He came up but was shaky and endeavored to clinch but Coulon backed away shooting in the left and right with terrific force. Backing Rollison to the ropes Coulon shot over the right to the jaw and Rollison dropped again. He took a count of nine and came up with a glassy stare in his eye.

Coulon backed Rollison into Rollison's corner and with his right crashed to the jaw, following this with a terrific left uppercut which lifted Rollison from his feet, dropping him in his own corner. Referee Conway did not even stop to count Rollison out but grabbed Coulon's hand and raised it in victory.

Coulon showed up well using a pretty shift and landing either hand with telling effect. His hitting power was terrific for so light a boy and every time he landed he rocked the champion from head to bottom.

Kaplan Knocks Out Ciccora

Izzy Kaplan of Meriden won an easy victory over Sailor Ciccora of the Sub Base in the second semi-final bout, knocking the sailor out in the third round. Ciccora, substituted for Martin Flaherty of Lowell, Mass., who when he weighed in tipped the scales at 152 while Kaplan was only 141. Owing to the great difference in weight the bout was not allowed.

Ciccora was in poor condition and Kaplan played to the body continually landing heavily throughout the first two rounds. Ciccora was unable to stand the heavy punishment and in the third round Kaplan sunk a blow to the stomach that sent the sailor down on the canvass. Referee started his count but the sailor's seconds tossed in the towel.

Referee Conway's decision met with a chorus of boos and cries of foul the crowd thinking the blow that floored Ciccora was low.

Fast Preliminary Bout.

Without a vestige of science but with a willingness to give and take Young McCarthy and Young Falcone, both of Norwich, battled four slashing rounds to a draw. Neither boy had anything on the other and for a curtain raiser this bout was all that could be desired.

The Attendance.

The official attendance at the bout was 853 paid admissions, and the gate receipts approximately $1,500, of which Ferguson and Leonard each got 35 per cent.

John J. Riley was the announcer and Jack Carney the time keeper.

Louis (Kid) Kaplan, world's featherweight champion, was introduced and was in his brother Izzy's corner during the second semi-final bout.

FITZGERALD AND DONOHUE EXCHANGE BLOWS AT FIGHT

The feud between State Boxing Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue and Dave Fitzgerald, New Haven referee, broke out again last night at the Leonard-Ferguson bout and resulted in blows being exchanged between the two men.

The trouble started during the semi-final bout between Izzy Kaplan and Sailor Ciccora. Fitzgerald, in company with two New Haven friends, accosted Donohue on the outskirts of the crowd, and grabbing Commissioner Donohue by the coat let loose a tirade of vile abuse accusing Donohue of double-crossing in regards to refereeing the Kaplan-Herman bout at Waterbury last month.

Donohue backed away and Fitzgerald launched another flow of abusive language and both men came to blows. Donohue tripped and fell and the crowd and several police officers rushed in and separated the two. Fitzgerald replied to Police Chief Linton that he had troubled Donohue at all and accused Donohue of hitting him without cause.

Later in the evening after the fight was over Fitzgerald made another attempt to get at Donohue, but Robert Donohue, son of the commissioner, and Police Officer Keenan sent Fitzgerald on his way.

Donohue said after the fight that he received Fitzgerald's resignation as a state referee Thursday, although Fitzgerald had threatened to resign right after the Kaplan-Herman bout. Donohue said that the letter and Fitzgerald's name were typewritten and the boxing license enclosed in the letter.

JOHNSON SENDS BEST WISHES TO SENATORS

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—President B. B. Johnson of the American league, tonight wired congratulations to President Clark Griffith and Manager "Bucky" Harris of the Washington Senators upon their winning the pennant in the junior circuit.

"Hearty congratulations over the victory of the Washington club in its long strenuous struggle for the American league pennant," he wired President Griffith. "It was one of the best contests ever staged in the history of the organization. Here's hoping you may bring home the 'bacon' in the world's series."

To Manager Harris he wired:

"Hearty congratulations to you and the members of the Washington club in winning the American league championship. Much credit is due you for the sportsmanlike manner in which the victory was accomplished. May your work in the world's series be crowned with success. American league patrons have unbounded faith in the skill, strength, and courage of the Washington team."

PRINCETON WILL MEET SCRUBS IN PRACTICE

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 25—The Princeton varsity football team will have its first strenuous workout of the season tomorrow when against the second team in a practice game. Varsity enjoyed a rest today.

No changes have been made in the regular lineup by Coach Roper which indicates that he has made a tentative selection of regulars to start against Amherst next week.

Carl Moeser is apparently Roper's choice for one of the end positions. He has given great promise in practice thus far. He has the necessary weight needed for the wing position, and supplements this with speed and sure tackling.

Kicking practice occupied most of this morning's work-out. Jeff Rosengarden of Philadelphia, tried the first place-kicking of the season under the direction of Stan Keck, who declared his pupil had possibilities. Lea and Chandler, punting today, averaged about 40 yards to their kicks. Ewing, Chandler and Caulkins all showed ability to drop-kick.

MOOSUP TO PLAY RIVERVIEW ON SUNDAY

The attraction at the Carpet grounds next Sunday will be the fast Riverview nine, the state hospital team, with whom a two out of three series has been arranged. This game, according to Loughran, is one of the most expensive games he has ever promoted in Moosup, hence the need for the best sort of support. The visitors have taken on Eddie Goodrich, premier pitcher of the New Departure team and with Tony West on the bench has a good pitching staff.

In this series there bids fair to be keen rivalry as Mgr. Loughran used some of the Riverview men last year who are not used this year. As another star man on his team, Mgr. Donovan of Riverview has a very fast second sacker of the New Departure nine. Moosup will have Clabby as at this writing there is more or less rivalry between the managers over this man.

Frechette will be with Moosup again next week as what was first reported to be a broken finger turned out to be merely a dislocation. Joe Morrissey will be back at his regular position. Allard has left for Storrs college so will no longer be available for the Moosup nine.

NEW BRITAIN TEAM AT STATE HOSPITAL TODAY

The attraction at the state hospital diamond Saturday afternoon will be the Kensington club from New Britain, member of the city league of that state, which will cross bats with the Riverview nine, in an affair that should be interesting and exciting. This club has been playing good ball around New Britain and with Pollitis and Barry, the battery, should give the Riverview team a tough battle. In view of this fact Riverview will call upon Lefty Harrell to put them over with Belair on the receiving end. Manager Bill Donovan will fill out the remainder of the team with Mills, Hamil, Normandin, Liberte, Moore, Noel and Clabby. Morin and Curran will umpire the game, which is to start at 2.45.

Airlie Team to Play Taftville.

This afternoon at the Airlie field in Hanover the Taftville A. A. will clash with the Airlie team in the first game of a late season series. Neither team has announced its lineup.

ANNUAL FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS TODAY WITH SEVERAL CONTESTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(By the Associated Press)—The first offensive of the annual football campaign takes place tomorrow with college battlefronts extended to all parts of the country.

The majority of leading elevens throughout the gridiron sphere will swing their forces into action then, although there are a number of notable exceptions, including the teams of the western conference and the eastern "big three." These outfits will have their initial tests in combat a week from tomorrow.

In the east, however, such outstanding institutions as Pennsylvania, Cornell, Dartmouth, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, West Virginia, Colgate, Holy Cross, Rutgers, Lafayette and Columbia open their drives.

Notre Dame, 1924 national champion, figures in the middle west's list of curtain raisers, while California, undefeated for five years, helps start off the season on the Pacific coast; and the south's leading hopes, partially vested in such teams as Georgia Tech and Alabama, set off on the chalk-marked trail.

With a few exceptions, east and west, the opening battles will amount chiefly to preliminary skirmishes; tests against comparatively minor opposition for the major elevens which are focusing their main attention on later clashes with traditional or intersectional rivals.

Outstanding among these exceptions are the games involving Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., with Baylor university, southwestern champions of 1924, and University of Pittsburgh, one of the east's most promising teams, against Washington and Lee, which stood out among the best in the south last fall. Both contests are likely to be hard fought with special interest centering on the showing of the new front-line forces which Notre Dame will send into battle for the first time.

Among the up-state rivals of New York, Cornell begins the season at Ithaca against Susquehanna, which should not offer serious opposition, despite the pessimistic outlook of Coach Gilmour Dobie. Syracuse opens against Hobart, while Colgate tackles Canisius of Buffalo in other up-state headliners.

Columbia, starting under the tutoring of Charley Crowley, a disciple of Haughton and Rockne, will be watched in her opening contests against Haverford.

Dartmouth, co-holder of the eastern football laurels with Yale and Pennsylvania last year, begins another promising season against Norwich, which Brown, facing the most formidable schedule of her career, gives her machine an initial test against Rhode Island State.

The "little three" also swings into action, with Williams, 1924 champions, meeting Hamilton, Wesleyan opposing Connecticut Aggies and Amherst facing Rochester.

Pennsylvania, pointing toward a succession of difficult battles later with Brown, Yale, Chicago and Illinois, takes on Ursinus for preliminary testing, while Penn State, grooming for big games at home with Notre Dame and Michigan Aggies, has Lebanon Valley for opening opposition.

West Virginia goes away from home to begin her campaign against Allegheny at Erie, Pa., while "Uncle Charlie" Moran's Bucknell eleven takes on Western Maryland.

ACADEMY LOSES TO WESTERLY IN OPENING GAME OF SEASON

Friday afternoon on the Academy Campus Westerly gave the N. F. A. a set-back in the nature of a 17 to 0 defeat. Westerly had the advantage from the start of the game and never lost it. While both teams were green the Westerly eleven had an attack that the local boys were unable to successfully cope with.

Honors were about even throughout the first quarter with neither side able to score on its opponents. In the second quarter, however, Westerly took the offensive immediately and scored a touchdown before the quarter was half over. In the third quarter Westerly again took the offensive immediately, and scored a touchdown and field goal before the Academy boys seemed to realize what was happening. The Norwich team had what slight advantage there was in the last quarter. The Academy had some advantage over Westerly in weight, but Westerly showed greater speed and pep in running off its plays.

Captain Novogroski of Westerly won the toss and chose the north goal to defend. The following is the game play by play.

First Quarter

Tomari kicked to Meikle on Westerly 25 yard line who ran it forward 10 yards before being tackled. Turco took the ball through tackle for four yards and then on the next play it ran around end for five more. Salamano then made first down on and off tackle play. Meikle ran the ball forward for eight yards around right end. Turco hit the line just off guard for one yard. Martinolli then tried an end run which was unsuccessful. On their last down Westerly tried a forward pass that was fumbled. Academy's ball. On the first play C. Brewer broke away for a long run but was brought back as Mousley was off side and Norwich received a five yard penalty. C. Brewer was again given the ball and rushed it forward six yards. His brother Radio Ed on the next play took the ball forward another six yards making it Academy's ball first down. On the next play, C. Brewer lost two yards. C. Brewer again rushed. This time he gained three yards. Tombari was called back for a punt and sent the ball thirty yards down the field to Westerly's thirteen yard mark.

Second Quarter

Westerly sent Turco off right tackle for four yards. Meikle then took the ball for a long end run getting sixteen yards and first down to Westerly. Following Meikle's example Turco went around left end, for eleven yards and another first down. Meikle again took the ball, this time for six yards around right end. Turco hit the line off tackle and went eight yards before he was stopped. Salamano also hit the line and made first down. Martinolli slid between tackle and end for a touchdown and the first score of the game. Meikle kicked a pretty goal. Meikle made a beautiful kick-off which floated down the field in Captain William's arms, who ran the ball forward twenty yards the ball, however, was brought back and the Academy penalized for using their hands. Tombari and Brewer each hit the line for three yards and Tombari took the ball over again for a first down. C. Brewer made three yards on his first try, while Radio Ed met a stonewall in the Westerly line on the next play. C. Brewer gained two yards on the left side of the line. On the next play Polsky was off side and the Academy penalized five yards. Ebeno Tombari was sent back for a kick and punted to Martinolli who ran the ball forward ten yards before he was stopped. Westerly was off side on the next play and lost five yards as a consequence. Meikle tried an end run which netted only two yards. Turco, on the next play, made no gain, and Salamano only obtained one yard on a fumble off center Meikle tried for a field goal, but missed by yards. Academy's ball. Captain Williams went off tackle for three yards. C. Brewer made a yard and a half through the center of the line. Williams lost a yard and a half on the next play. Tombari punted to Meikle who was downed after a short run by Polley. Martinolli went around left end but was tackled by Sargent after a gain of only three yards. Salamano went out wide around right end for an eight yard gain.

Third Quarter

Meikle kicked off to Williams who ran it up twenty yards before tackled. Tombari was thrown for a short loss. Ed. Brewer hit the line for a one yard gain. C. Brewer went off right tackle for four yards. Tombari punted to Meikle on last down. Sargent tackled and brought down Meikle before any long gain was made. Martinolli went wide around right end for four yards when he was brought down by Waters. Meikle hit the line and made first down, with a yard to spare. Martinolli went off tackle for five yards and on the following play Turco gained about four and three quarters yards in the same place. Salamano made five yards and first down through the center of the line. Meikle running across the field and then cutting in gained nine yards. Turco went through tackle for first down. Salamano also went through right tackle and gained four yards. Meikle fumbled the ball and was thrown for about a seven yard lose. Meikle tried a forward to Salamano which was a success and netted nine yards. Salamano crossed the Academy goal line for the second touchdown of the game. Meikle drop-kicked the goal.

Meikle kicked off to Williams who ran the ball up ten yards before being tackled by a Westerly man. Tombari gained about a foot off left end. C. Brewer was thrown for a loss of four yards. Tombari kicked to Meikle who ran the ball forward about fifteen yards before he was downed. Westerly was penalized fifteen yards for using their hands. Westerly tried a forward pass but failed. Meikle went around left end for fifteen yards and kicked a pretty field goal from the fifteen yard line.

Fourth Quarter

Meikle kicked off to Courbois who carried the ball forward twenty-five yards before being downed. C. Brewer was thrown for a four yard loss. Tombari went through tackled for four yards and then on the next play kicked to Martinolli on Westerly's thirty-five yard line. Meikle hit left tackle for six yards. Martinolli also tried tackle but was unable to gain an inch. Salamano went through right tackle for five yards. On the next play Westerly fumbled but recovered the ball without any gain. Meikle tried a forward that was not completed. On last down Meikle punted to Vitalagano on the Academy's thirty-yard line. Vitalagano hit tackle, but was held for no gain. On the next play Vitalagano made a beautiful twenty-yard run down the field. Brewer hit tackle for eight yards and Tombari took the ball over for first down. Tombari gained three yards off tackle and the referee blew his whistle.

For the Academy the Brewer bros. Captain Williams and Fedley were the stars. Meikle, Salamano, Captain Novogroski and Martinolli were the shining lights of Westerly high. Both teams played under a disadvantage. It was the first game of the season for both teams and was also the first league game of the season for both schools. Westerly was undoubtedly the better team of the two today. The next game between these schools should prove an interesting one as both will have had more experience than they have now.

The following is the lineup for both teams:

Westerly		N. F. A.
DeRocco	center	Schwartz
Fiori	right guard	Feldley
Smith	right tackle	Kramer
Rossi	right end	McCluggage
Meikle	quarter-back	Capt. Williams
Turco	right halfback	C. Brewer
Salamano	fullback	E. Brewer

Substitutions were:

Academy—Sargent for McCluggage, Counelli for Polski, Courbois for Captain Williams, Vitalagano for C. Brewer.

Westerly High—Bruno for Ledwidge, Zuressi for Capallo, Daly for Martinolli, Dougherty for Fiori, McFarland for Captain Novogroski.

The officials were referee, Guyer, umpire, Williams, and headlinesman Whopies. All from Storrs college.

Notes on the Game

The Academy showed a lack of teamwork and a greenness that caused many uncomplimentary remarks amongst the spectators.

The pep and go that the Academy has been showing in practice lately was entirely missing today.

Westerly deserved the victory. They worked hard and played well together.

The game drew a large attendance. Local support is not all that it should be. Norwich was far from being generous with her cheering.

Courbois, Sargent, Connell and Vitalagaro, who played subs in the game, showed up well. Especially Vitalagaro, who made several nice gains.

WORCESTER TOWN TALKS AT JEWETT CITY SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon at Ashland park the Ashland A. A. takes on the famous Town Talks of Worcester, Mass., champions of Worcester for the last four seasons.

This club comes there with a record of 54 wins and 9 defeats against the leading semi-pro clubs in the state of Massachusetts and is without a doubt the fastest club that has appeared in eastern Connecticut this season.

The Baystaters will go up to the plate in the following order: Murphy 3b, Earley 2b Henrickson, formerly with Worcester Eastern league, ss; Kelliher 1b, P. Carroll rf, T. Carroll cf, Bunker lf, Regan c, Flodman or Grudeff p.

The locals will line up: "Nap" Liberty ss, Raney 2b, "Spike" Liberty p, "Chip" Dugas 3b, "Bill" Liberty c, Benjamin rf, Rafil cf, Gilbert lf, Robertson 1b and Stanley utility.

An official National league ball autographed by members of the Pittsburgh club, National league champions, namely: Manager Bill McKechnie, Hazen Cuyler, Max Carey, Moore, Grantham, Stuffy McInnis, Barnhart, Pie Traynor, Wright, Gooch, Earl Smith, Sheehan, Emil Yde, Lee Meadows and Babe Adams will be given away at this game.

All tickets sold will be numbered and the holder of the lucky number will be presented this valuable trophy. There will be no increase in admission prices.

Arrangements have been made to handle the largest crowd of the season, so come early and get a good seat.

The grounds have been put in first class condition, so everything is all set for Umpire Tommy Corcoran to yell "Play ball" at 3 o'clock sharp.

AUSTRALIAN WOMEN WIN FROM AMERICAN TEAM

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25—The Australian women's tennis team, which is making a world tour, today defeated an American team drawn from the leading players of the eastern states two matches to one. Each team won a singles match, while the visitors took the doubles. Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, several times women's national titleholder, was the only American to emerge victorious, and she was given a stiff battle by Mrs. R. R. Harper, won in straight sets, 7-3, 8-6. Miss Edna Boyd, No. 1 on the touring team, easily defeated Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, the score being 6-4, 6-2.

The American doubles team, Miss Martha Sayard and Miss Penelope Anderson, Played brilliantly against their more experienced opponents, Miss Boyd and Miss Floris St. George, but were defeated after three closely contested sets. The scores were 2-6, 6-4, 7-5.

DUNDEE REFUSED SANCTION OF N. Y. COMMISSION

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(A. P.)—Johnny Dundee will not have the approval of the New York State Athletic Commission in his attempton to regain recognition as world's featherweight champion.

This was announced today by the commission after it heard a protest from Scotty Monteith, manager of Louis (Kid) Kaplan, who was officially designed as featherweight titleholder by winning the commission's championship elimination tournament last winter after Dundee's voluntary retirement from the 126 pound division.

Monteith charged that Dundee has publicly claimed the title again and announced he would defend it at the featherweight limit in a bout with Babe Herman at the Polo Grounds October 5.

J. B. MARTIN TEAM TO PLAY ROSSIE ON SUNDAY

The J. B. Martin team will clash in the third and deciding game of the series with the Rossie Velvet team at the J. B. Martin park on Sunday afternoon. The two clubs each have a close verdict over the other and Sunday's battle will prove the deciding game between these clubs.

Want Small Bore Rifle Match

Harry Sargent and George Greisshamer of Baltic challenge any two-man team in Eastern Connecticut for a match with the small bore rifle. The distance is to be 50 yards, standing, and any rifle and sights may be used, the target to be the Standard American. The match may be arranged by writing through the Bulletin or communicating with the challengers.

OPENING GAME OF WORLD SERIES TO BE PLAYED AT PITTSBURGH, OCT. 7

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(By the Associated Press)—Now that the outcome of the National and American league pennant races has become a mathematical certainty, Pittsburgh and Washington, the rival world's series contenders, are free to concentrate their efforts upon preparation for the annual baseball classic, which starts at Pittsburgh on Wednesday, October 7.

Clinching of the pennants almost simultaneously and a fort-night before the close of the major league seasons is a sharp contrast to last year's events, when the closeness of both races left the outcome in doubt until the final few days of the campaigns. The contending rivals this season have ample time in which to give overworked veterans a needed rest, patch up injuries and map out their battle strategy.

There may be a little less "master-minding" than usual in this year's series, with John McGraw of the Giants missing from the picture for the first time in five years, but McGraw's processes may be given a counter-part by Fred Clarke, veteran adviser to the Pittsburgh forces. Clarke, who was winning pennants with the old Pirates when McGraw first took control of the Giants, is credited with having done much of the deep-thinking for the new National league champions.

In this matching of wits, however, Clarke and Bill McKechnie, manager of the Pirates, will have a nimble-minded opponent in Stanley (Bucky) Harris, who has established himself as a strategist of the first rank in spite of his youth and comparative inexperience.

Harris figures that if his club beats a bat on the sandlots of his home town, Pittston, Pa., when Clarke was leading the Pirates to their last pennant in 1909.

Harris paused recently in his pursuit of the mathematical pennant certainty to give a correspondent of the Associated Press a few of this views on the Pirates.

Harris figures that if his club beats the Pirates it will be done with right-handed pitching, a view which also is shared by McGraw, who is qualified to speak with authority on the merits of both outfielders.

Walter Johnson and Stanley Coveleskie are the pitching aces upon whom Harris will place his main reliance with not a few hopes also resting on Alex Ferguson, veteran acquired from Boston and Fred Marberry, rescuer-in-chief of the Washington staff.

The consistency of the world's champions figures not a little too, in Harris' calculations.

"My club has always been at its best in the pinch, when the stakes were highest," he says. "I know I can count upon my men when it comes to a show-down."

YALE VARSITY SCORES FOUR TIMES ON SCRUBS

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Yale varsity football team featured the final hard workout of the week with four touchdowns against the scrubs in a 20-minute scrimmage. Kline took the ball across three times on line plunges, and Allen made the fourth touchdown after a 30-yard run. The scrub eleven threatened to score when a forward passing game worked the ball down to the varsity's 20-yard line. Flaherty at that point intercepted a pass, after which the varsity held their opponents in their own territory.

The varsity lineup was Coleman and Bradley, ends; Richards and Butterworth, tackles; Flaherty and Root, guards; Sturhahn, center; Bunnell, quarterback; Allen, Kline and Cottle, backs. During the latter part of the scrimmage Failing replaced Cottle.

When the second varsity scrimmaged the second scrub team Fishwick ran the team, with Noble, Barclay and Lindley, the backs.

Captain Joss who was on the field in a suit yesterday did not come out today, and there is little possibility that he will start the season against Middlebury a week from tomorrow.

Haney Recovering.

BOSTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Infielder Fred Haney of the Detroit club who was injured in Wednesday's game here when a pitched ball off Howard Ehmke of the Red Sox struck him on the head, will leave for Detroit tomorrow night. Physicians at Peter Bent Brigham hospital where Haney was taken for observation after the accident today reported that he had suffered no serious consequences.

BROWNS NOSE OUT SENATORS IN EIGHTH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—St. Louis defeated the champion Washington Senators 4 to 3 today, by rallying in the eighth inning to tie the score, and putting across the winning marker in the ninth. "Dixie" David, veteran Brown pitcher, gave six bases on balls but allowed the champions only seven hits, four of which were garnered by Outfielder Rice.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Just a half century ago this week the United States circuit court, sitting at Hartford, awarded to Jotham H. Payne of this city, damages of $4,000 from the city of Norwich, as the result of a fall which Mr. Payne sustained on Franklin street, badly injuring his ankle. Mr. Payne had asked for damages of $15,000 claiming that he was permantly lame as the result of the fall. The same week the annual meetings of the Central School district and the West Chelsea School district were held and the annual reports of the district school boards and treasurers received and accepted. Interesting events taken from the files of The Bulletin of September, 1875, are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 20, 1875—A meeting of the voters of the Central School district was held at the town hall on Saturday evening to nominate candidates for the board of education and clerk and treasurer to be voted for at the school meeting this afternoon. The caucus was called to order by Mayor Osgood and Joseph Selden was appointed chairman. C. H. Dillaby was chosen secretary. J. G. Lamb and N. S. Gilbert were nominated for three years and C. H. Dillaby for two years.

While Captain William R. Potter was driving up Broadway Saturday night his carriage came in collision with the pile of lumber in front of the new Catholic church, turning him out and injuring the carriage considerably. General complaint is made by drivers on Broadway of this lumber, which occupies a large part of the street.

There was a narrow escape from fire in the Richards building Saturday morning. Some one dropped a cigar stump in a box in one of the closets which set fire to the contents and burned the base boards slightly. It was put out before doing any damage.

Tuesday, Sept. 21, 1875—The annual meeting of the corporators of the Free Academy was held at the Peck Library. L. F. S. Foster, Charles Osgood and Gardiner Greene were re-elected trustees for three years and the treasurer's report was made and accepted. At a subsequent meeting of the trustees, H. B. Norton was re-elected president, E. Learned, secretary and treasurer, and Gardiner Greene auditor. It is hoped that as the result of some liberal arrangements recently made, the canvass for funds will succeed in putting the institution on a solid basis.

The annual meeting of the Central School district was held in the town hall yesterday afternoon. The polls were opened at four o'clock. Ebenezer Learned was appointed moderator and John T. Brown, clerk.

The Hon. H. H. Osgood was re-elected treasurer and T. B. Bishop clerk in place of Mason Kinne, resigned. The treasurer's report for the year was submitted and accepted.

West Chelsea School district—The annual meeting of the West Chelsea School district was held at the High Street school house last evening. The report of the board of education was accepted. It was voted 100 to 62 to increase the number of the board of education to nine.

Roswell A. Breed was appointed clerk, Alvah Francis, treasurer and C. G. Willis collector for the district.

A tax of four mills was laid upon the property of the district, to meet the expenses of the year, according to the recommendations of the board.

Wednesday, Sept. 22, 1875—On Monday evening last, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Hyde, having through a kind Providence reached the tenth anniversary of their marriage, and having found life's pathway smoother and sunnier by walking in it together, invited their relatives and friends to the number of one hundred to unite with them in celebrating the event. To this invitation there was a general response from those dwelling near as well as afar off. The evening was propitious, the guests numerous and happy, the entertainment sumptious, the presents various and valuable and the occasion generally pleasant and delightful.

Messrs. Barstow and Cunningham, the owners of the Horse Railroad, were in town yesterday, and decided to put the road in thorough condition, and to purchase several new horses and cars.

At the Preston town meeting, which by a special act of the legislature is held the third Monday in September, the reports of the town officers were received and accepted. A town tax of 12½ mills and a road tax of 2½ mills was laid.

Thursday, Sept. 23, 1875—The case of Jotham H. Payne against the city of Norwich, was tried before the U. S. circuit court at Hartford, yesterday. The plaintiff sought to recover $15,000 damages for injuries sustained by spraining his ankle while walking on a defective sidewalk on Franklin street on the evening of June 29th. The plaintiff testified that on the evening mentioned he was walking up the street, when he suddenly stepped in a depression on the sidewalk, turned his ankle and ruptured the ligaments, from the effect of which he has become permanently lame. On the part of the city it was claimed that a paving stone was in some way broken and removed from the sidewalk, and the cavity filled with earth which had been worn and swept out, leaving a depression 15 inches square and 2 1-2 inches in depth at the place of greatest depression. The judge charged the jury strongly against the city and they returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $4,680.

As John Turner was driving on East Broad street yesterday forenoon his horse took fright and ran away. Mr. Turner was thrown out against a stone curbing and sustained a dangerous cut on his head. He was carried into J. F. Sevins, nearby and is considered to be in a serious condition.

Maggie Mitchell received a warm welcome in Breed hall last night from a crowded house. The play was "The Pearl of Savoy," the title role of which this charming actress has made as distinctly a creation of her own as Fanchon or Little Barefeet. The stage was extended, and considering the arrangement of the hall, the play was handsomely mounted.

Friday, Sept. 24, 1875—The business done by J. P. Collins & Co., manufacturers of turbine water wheels, iron machinery, etc., requiring different if not greater facilities, Mr. Collins commenced in April last the erection of two buildings on East Thames street, which are now about completed. The main building stands by the tracks of the Northern road, and has a fine water frontage for vessels, the depth of the river there being from ten to fifteen feet. The building is of wood and measures 103 feet by 84 feet with a clear rise of 18 feet from floor to beams. There will be about thirty men employed in the shop. The building is heated by steam. On the other side of the street is another building, 240 feet long by 33 feet wide. Mr. Collins was his own architect. The carpenter work was done by Arnold & Hiscox and the brick work and roofing by Ansel Clark.

The concert at the Broadway church next Monday evening will embrace music of a secular character, and one entered selection. The musical character of the ladies and gentlemen interested in it is well known and no other assurance is needed that the concert will be a highly enjoyable one.

John Turner, who was thrown from his carriage Wednesday, was much better yesterday and will be out in a few days. Mr. Geer of Lisbon, was more badly hurt than was at first supposed. He was removed to his home.

The stone, which cost the city $4,600 is at police headquarters.

Saturday, Sept. 25, 1875—The selectmen yesterday decided to offer a reward of $200, the largest sum which the law permits, for the arrest of the murderer of Mrs. Catherine Dixon in Norwich Town. They state that the matter was not brought to their notice until Thursday evening and that as soon as possible thereafter they took the necessary action. A petition was in circulation yesterday asking District Attorney Waller to call upon the governor to also offer a reward for the detection of the criminal. This being done, several officers were despatched yesterday in pursuit of Robinson, the suspect.

A large party of friends of Miss Jennie Rogers called at her home below Thamesville last evening and enjoyed themselves until a late hour. Before leaving they presented her a pair of fine pictures.

A match will be trotted at the Fair ground this afternoon between Lonesome Phoebe, owned by George Rathbone of Colchester and Lady Brown, owned by Frank Brown of Franklin. The race will be called at 3 o'clock.

George F. Utley of Hartford, formerly of this city, has been elected secretary and treasurer of the Hartford County Baptist Sunday school association.

Seine fishermen along shore are troubled by sharks which entangle themselves in the nets and tear them in making their escape.

The brig George, with a cargo, arrived at the wharf from the West Indies yesterday.

HAMPTON

Mrs. Starr and daughter Jennette have returned to Uncasville after spending the summer at their cottage in Hampton.

The annual Grange fair was held Friday afternoon and evening at Grange hall. A good sum was realized.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Chappell and son and Mrs. Chappell's father, Mr. Whiting, of Mansfield, called at Wallace Jewett's Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid society held its annual business meeting at the chapel Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock to elect officers.

Miss Mabel Fitts, of Hartford, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fitts.

THOMPSON

The W. C. T. U. met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Hall. She was assisted by Mrs. William Mayhew as hostess.

The Thimble club opens its year's meetings October 8th at the home of Mrs. George Tefft. The subject is Homes—Past, by Mrs. M. H. Elliott, and Present, Mrs. Ronald Bernklow.

The Woman's Missionary society is to meet Wednesday, Oct. 7th, with Miss Sarah Munyan.

Some changes were required at the Marot Girls' school to accommodate the record registration.

L. N. Elliott is representing his company at the Eastern States Exposition.

Dr. Paine's family drove over Bald Hill in Union last Saturday.

The T. M. H. S. seniors held a food sale on the porch of the bank building, Wednesday afternoon.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

SPANISH WAR VETERANS

Spanish-American war veterans from all parts of the country will bear down upon St. Petersburg, Fla., and capture it as their own during the days of the national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans, Sept. 27 to Oct. 1. The encampment grounds on Old Tampa Bay are on the site of the same place where the boys of '98 camped on the old camp grounds while waiting to get into the fight in Cuba. This twenty-seventh national encampment is the first staged in Florida since the Spanish-American war.

The national officers will have their headquarters at the Princess Martha hotel. The Massachusetts delegation is also at this hotel. The New England overflow will occupy the Huntington hotel, the auxiliary, nurses and kindred organizations of women will be at the Suwanee hotel. The Military Order of the Serpent will be at the Detroit, the Department of Florida at the Poinsettia, the National Commandery Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American war, whose main offices are at the State house, Boston, will be at the Princess Martha.

The program of events opens with arrivals, receptions, reunion at the hotels and registration on Sunday. Memorial exercises will be held Sunday evening in Williams park, Comrade J. J. Lankess in charge.

The business sessions of the veterans and the auxiliary will be held each morning at the Plaza theatre. Monday the address of welcome will be given by Gov. John W. Martin, followed by greetings from U. S. Senator Park Trammell, U. S. Senator Duncan U. Fletcher Hon. H. J. Drane, Mayor C. M. Blanc and J. M. McDonald, representing the General Leonard Wood camp. The response will be given by Wilhilmina K. Borgmeier, president-general of the auxiliary, Cora Geddes Taylor, president of the Spanish-American nurses, and Commander-in-Chief Chauncey W. Herrick.

Monday noon luncheon to department president will be held at the yacht club. Later in the afternoon the women of the city will hold a reception at the yacht club to welcome all visiting ladies. The late afternoon will be given over to motor trips around the city. The Knicker corps in charge of Miss Billie Perrine, manager of the motor club, will direct this trip.

Monday evening a grand reception and ball will be held at the Coliseum, the largest dancing hall in the south. Tuesday noon the Spanish War Nurses will be entertained at a luncheon and all afternoon the American Legion will entertain all visitors at a fish fry at the Waterfront park.

Many novel features are planned for the entertainment of marchers and those in the side lines during the mammoth parade staged for Tuesday evening. Wednesday afternoon visiting delegates and groups will put on a varied program at Williams park, including the presentation of a flag to the city by the National Auxiliary, drills by visiting teams and other events.

The famous Snaixs parade followed by the Crawl will pass along Central avenue Wednesday evening. Thursday morning the election of officers will conclude the business sessions. During the afternoon and evening the veterans and guests will be entertained on their old camp grounds at Tampa by the city of Tampa. At the conclusion of the encampment a large delegation will leave Tampa for a four days' trip over the battlefields and places of interest at Cuba.

MASONIC

Herbert B. Kind, of this city, and William Hoppin of New Haven, were the two Connecticut candidates who had conferred upon them the 33rd degree of Masonry at the Supreme council of 33rd degree Masons meeting of the northern jurisdiction which was held in Pittsburgh last week. Among the prominent 80 candidates receiving the degree was Charles P. Taft of Ohio who is a brother of ex-President Taft.

EAGLES

Norwich Aerie held its regular meeting Monday night, Worthy President George Nadolnoy presiding, in the presence of 75 members and visitors from the Grand Aerie. These included John Lenny representing the organization department, Matthew J. Smith, grand worthy conductor, William F. Kelley, state trustee, Murray Carter, past worthy president and John Fitzgerald, past worthy president of Waterbury Aerie.

State Trustee Kelly gave a report of the Grand Eerie convention held in Toledo, Ohio, which was one of the largest conventions ever held by the Fraternal Order of Eagles. John L. Lenny came in place of J. S. Parry, grand secretary, who was unable to come owing to an automobile accident. Brother John Lenny from the organization department gave a very interesting talk on what the Fraternal Order of Eagles has done and is trying to do. They have helped pass the widow's pension, helped pass the workingman's compensation law and Frank E. Herring, editor of the Eagle Magazine has been declared the father of mother's day, and at the present time the order is working hard to pass the old age pension law. Matthew Smith, grand worthy conductor, also gave an interesting talk.

An official circular read from the grand worthy president stated that the order increased its membership 100,000 the last year and during his term he wants an increase of 200,000 by the end of May 1926 and he asks each aerie to do its share. Norwich Eerie's quota is about 200 new members, and in order to get this number the standing committee on class initiations has made plans for a class on Thanksgiving eve which is the big night of Norwich Aerie as that night the committee serves a turkey supper to its members. The committee is planning for one hundred candidates for that class on Thanksgiving eve.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, met at the Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon with the president, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury in the choir. All the officers of the corps were present. As the department inspector, Mrs. Augusta Ranney, of Hartford, was present full work of the ritual was carried out and nine new members were initiated. There were several visitors from W. W. Perkins corps, No. 13, of New London, present. Mrs. Lillian Browning was reported ill in the Willimantic hospital. First general orders from the new national president were read and the new national pass word was given. It was voted to hold a sale and supper the date to be announced later. Annual visiting day at Norotop in Wednesday, Sept. 30. Mrs. Atterbury and others will attend and will carry some gift to each veteran. After Mrs. Ranney had commented upon the work of the corps, Mrs. Atterbury presented her a gift. Then the visitors were called upon for remarks, and Mrs. Fox of New London, gave two pleasing recitations. Mrs. Stetson and Miss Grace Stetson told of the large gathering they attended last winter in St. Cloud, Florida. Mrs. Prest of New York told of her home corps being 42 years old, saying that she is one of the three living charter members. During intermission ice cream and cake were served under the direction of M. Florence Dean. The corps closed with the salute to the flag and singing America.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Neighbors' night made an evening of special interest for the meeting of Norwich Grange, No. 172, Wednesday evening in Steiner hall, when besides the 62 members of Norwich grange present there were visitors from Preston City, Lebanon, Bozrah and Ledyard, which gave an attendance of over 100.

Worthy Master Arthur W. Avery appointed the feast committee for the next term as follows: Mrs. Adelle Spalding, Mrs. Charles Beaver, Mrs. Jahn, Mrs. Hastedt, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Bjork. There is to be a supper held at the next meeting night which will be the first meeting in October.

After the business had been disposed of, the program for the lecturer's hour was given as follows:

Piano duet, Mrs. Pultz and Mrs. Pitcher of Lebanon; original paper on current events, Cynthia Crary, Preston City; grange song, No. 127; reading, with encores, E. H. McCall, Lebanon; vocal solo, with encores, Frederick Wilcox, Preston City.

The retiring feast committee served coffee, sandwiches and cake.

The next meeting is the last at which applications may be handed in for the class in initiation.

AMERICAN LEGION

About $1,000,000 short of its goal, the American Legion has set out to complete its $5,000,000 endowment fund by Oct. 5. The proceeds of the fund's investment are to care for World War veterans' orphans and disabled veterans.

Eleven states will have completed by October 5 at least the preliminary organizations for the child welfare service to be supported from the fund the legion announced this week. New Hampshire already has its functioning, and organization is under way in Kentucky, Tennessee, Kansas, Colorado, Utah, Oregon and Washington.

Illinois, Indiana and Iowa are to plan their organizations before the national convention meets in Omaha, Oct. 5-9.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart legion, Norwich chapter, No. 124, met at Moose Home Thursday evening, with Senior Regent Mrs. Mary Hunter presiding. Mrs. Theresa Watters of the entertainment committee announced a whist and pinochle for Wednesday evening Sept. 30th, at Moose home. Plans are in order for a bazaar and entertainment to be held in the near future at Moose Home, of which Mrs. Margaret Rogers is chairman. A new auditing committee of the following were elected for this quarter; Mrs. Grace Walz, Mrs. Margaret Rogers, and Mrs. Mary LaValle.

After the meeting Mrs. Emeline Hanson, senior regent of Marblehead Chapter No. 754, presented Norwich Chapter No. 124 with a traveling emblem of the Women of Mooseheart legion, which was originated for the purpose of spreading a spirit of fraternity among the chapters and the Loyal Order of Moose. It was made and originated by Mary D. Wormald, recorder of Lawrence Chapter No. 146. It was dedicated with special ceremonies on April 30th, 1924, in Pilgrim hall. It has the approval of the grand regent, Rodney H. Brandon.

Mrs. Hanson made the following presentation speech:

"I am the traveling emblem of the Women of Mooseheart legion. It is my duty to travel from north to south, from east to west, from New England's rock bound coast to California golden shores wherever these women see fit to take me. My colors are red, white and purple. Red for the unswerving faith in Mooseheart and Moosehaven. White for the hope which inspires us to strive onward that Mooseheart and Moosehaven may reach the highest pinnacle to which they aspire. Purple for the charity which urges us to work that the little children of Mooseheart may never know that they have been deprived of any of the necessities of life nor that the aged at Moosehaven may ever feel that they have been an encumbrance upon us. These are the lessons which I bring to you and which I must take to others and when I have traveled over this world I will be welcomed back by Lawrence Chapter and given a place of honor because I have accomplished what I set forth to do."

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

The first regular meeting of the fall season was held Monday evening in the Legion rooms on Shetucket street by the Woman's Auxiliary of Fletcher post. There was a good sized attendance. In addition to routine business plans were made for a picnic next Tuesday, Sept. 29, at Mrs. William Bogue's at Haughton cove. It is expected that the members will go by the 10:15 trolley and if is desired that those who will attend should notify Mrs. J. B. Oat, telephone 384-5.

"It's a car I am glad to have in my garage" alongside my limousine"

An Owner

. . . in these words, an owner of a couple of large, expensive cars summed up his opinion of this Overland . . . Pride of ownership! Sterling worth, through and through! That's the backbone of Overland's popularity. Regardless of their financial standing, owners know this car today as America's outstanding light-car value—the one light car with nothing "cheap" about it.

was $655 Now $595 f.o.b. Toledo

. . . for less than $600, a full-size 5-passenger Sedan with Sliding Gear Tranmission—room and to spare for 5 regular people to ride in . . a smartly-designed car, clean-cut, rakish, low, extraordinarily good-looking! . . body finished in polished lacquer, rich deep blue with glistening jet-black trimmings, as handsome a light automobile as anybody ever looked at. Women want it!

Wider seats

—the widest of any light car built—new, single-piece, undivided front seat, 39 inches wide, 19 inches deep; wider back seat, 45 inches wide, 18 inches deep—You know what that means to your driving comfort-and-freedom. No more 100-mile fatigue. You know what such ample seat-space means to the comfort and convenience of your passengers. No more crowding!

Big wide windows

—more than 20 square feet of window space—all the air and all the broad, uninterrupted vision of a touring car with closed-car protection, closed-car snugness, closed-car warmth and comfort whenever you want it!

Extra wide doors

—easy entrance and exit to both front and rear seats. No discomfort to anybody getting in or out. Each door has four extra heavy hinges. Use them as rough as you like, these doors are there to stay. They're built to withstand punishment!

Very latest one-piece windshield —especially valuable in night-driving. Gives clear, unobstructed vision. Mose easily adjusted—you don't have to fuss with it. Adds greatly to the car's appearance. Easier to clean and to keep clean. One of those little things that mean so much. You need this new-day light-car feature and, in this extraordinary car-value, you get it!

Fine broadcloth upholstery —expensive looking, very durable; deep comfortable seats; Brussels carpet in rear, rubber carpet in front; more leg-room for the driver, more space for your passengers; big-car value, big-car atmosphere all the way through at even less-than-current light-car cost—in what other light car can you be certain of such splendid dollar-for-dollar value!

A 27 horsepower engine

—sturdy, reliable, a bearcat on the hills, with all the power you need for 50 miles or 50,000; L-head motor, larger valves, more efficient and giving more power than over-head valves; a quieter motor because it has only half the number of working parts.

Chassis

—strong, rigid frame with lots of bracing—springs of Chrome Vanadium steel, the finest and strongest spring steel known—in Overland springs every leaf is genuine Chrome Vanadium, exactly the same material that you will find in the world's finest automobiles; front wheels mounted on Timken taper roller bearings; rear wheels, on New Departure ball bearings; Molybdenum steel tapered steering knuckles; irreversible type steering gear; only 27 points to lubricate on entire chassis against 35 to 60 in other cars . . . in what other car in Overland's price-class, or in what car selling for several hundred dollars more, can you match, or anywhere near it, this impressive list of Overland advantages!

Modern disc type clutch

—one of the finest clutches and used in many of the highest priced cars made in this country. The fact that it runs in oil instead of being run dry means that you have no clutch lubricating problems. You who are used to frequent and troublesome lubrication of your clutch bearing will appreciate the vital advantage of this exclusive Overland feature . . .

Ignition system

—Auto-Lite starting, lighting and ignition—enclosed storage battery holder—drum type headlights, legal lens, braced with tie bar—dimmers in headlights—thief-proof ignition lock—dash light—as you can see, an ignition system throughout that is positively the same high standard that you get in cars costing two or three times the money!

A rear axle system

—the equal in strength and size to that used in cars having double the weight of Overland; axle shafts of Molybdenum steel, the toughest steel known—it carries the highest elastic limit of any steel used in the making of automobiles—In the entire three years in which Overland has used this axle system there is no case on record where an axle shaft has ever been broken.

Extra big, extra strong brakes

—extra efficient, extra sure—one full square inch of braking surface for every 19 pounds weight of car. Step in and see this great Sedan, for $595. Very easy terms. Only a small amount down. 12 weeks for the balance. Your present car to apply as part payment.

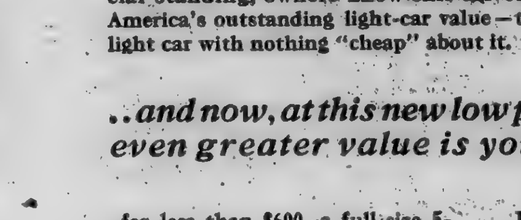
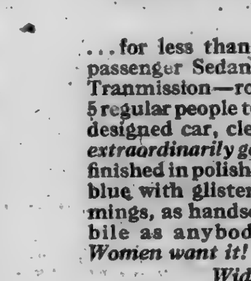
BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES





H. CADY

"Good morning, Unc' Billy," said he.

Unc' Billy Possum Drops a Hint.

A hint is like a planted seed;
'Tis all some pepple ever need.
—Unc' Billy Possum.

Peter Rabbit had stopped near the foot of Unc' Billy Possum's hollow tree. Unc' Billy happend to be sitting in his doorway. At sight of him Peter had a sudden thought. It popped into his head that Unc' Billy himself was from the Sunny South and that he and Ol' Mistah Buzzard had long been the best of friends. Of course, Unc' Billy wouldn't know what to do with my Mrs. Buzzard would choose for a nest. Peter wasted no time.

"Good morning, Unc' Billy," said he. You are looking fine this morning. I don't think I have ever seen you looking finer."

Unc' Billy grinned down at Peter. "Ah certainly feel fine, Brer Rabbit," said he. "If Ah felt any finer Ah wouldn't know what t odo with myself. Now, yo' all, Brer Rabbit, look a bit thin to me. Yes, suh, yo' look thin to me. Pears like you must be running around too much."

It was Peter's turn to grin. "I have been running around considerably, Unc' Billy," said he. "I've been looking for the nest of Ol' Mrs. Buzzard. And I've looked and looked and looked until my legs ache and my neck aches."

"And haven't yo' found that nest, Brer Rabbit?" inquired Unc' Billy.

Peter shook his head. "No," he confessed. "No, Unc' Billy. What is more, no one else has, and if there is any tree-top in all the Green Forest that hasn't been looked through for a nest I'd like to know where that tree is."

Unc' Billy chuckled. He chuckled and he chuckled. He chuckled so long that Peter began to get suspicions. "What is the joke?" demanded Peter.

"Is there a joke?" asked Unc' Billy, pretending to look very much surprised.

"If there isn't, what are you chuckling over?" demanded Peter.

Again Unc' Billy began to chuckle. "Brer Rabbit," said he, "Brer Rabbit, yo' all certainly do tickle my risibilities. Where else besides the tree tops have yo' all been a-looking?"

"Nowhere else," replied Peter. "Where else should we look?"

"Ah can't say where yo' should look," chucked Unc' Billy. "But if Ah was to go looking for Sis Buzzard's nest it wouldn't be in any tree tops. No, suh, it wouldn't be in any tree tops."

Peter stared hard and long at Unc' Billy. Could it be that the Buzzard nest wasn't in a tree top at all? Peter remembered that Whitetail the Marsh Hawk didn't build in a tree. He remembered that there were several feathered families whose nests were on the ground. It didn't seem as if Ol' Mistah and Mrs. Buzzard, who spent so much time high in the air, would make their home on the ground. No, sir, it didn't seem as if they would do that. But it might be. No one so far had looked anywhere except up in the tree tops. Unc' Billy Possum had dropped a hint worth following. He, Peter, would begin his search all over again, and this time he would forget the tree tops, altogether. "I guess I'll be moving along," said Peter to Unc' Billy.

Unc' Billy's shrewd little eyes looked more shrewd than ever and his grin was a broader grin than ever. "Must yo' hurry, Brer Rabbit?" said he.

"Yes," said Peter, "I have some important business, some very important business to attend to. Good by, Unc' Billy."

"Good by, Brer Rabbit," said Unc' Billy. "I hope that impo'tant business won't take you up in the tree tops." He chuckled as he said this.

"It won't," replied Peter, and away he went, lipperty-lipperty-lip.

Named From Wreckers' Trick

Nags Head, N. C., is a historical and romantic spot on the Atlantic Ocean, abreast of Roanoke Island and 45 miles from Elizabeth City. Nags Head got its name from the tricks of the wreckers of the olden days. One of these piratical people conceived the idea of tying a lantern to the head of a horse whose legs were fettered with hobbles. And as the horse limped up and down the beach, the storm-tossed mariner out at sea, taking the light for that of a able seaflers in safety, would hold up his helm for what he thought the calmer waters inside, and would eventually find himself upon the treacherous sands of the coast.

Life after all is but a big bundle of little things.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

The Glittering Heights

You work till your hopes have grown weary;
Your flushed inspiration seems dead.
You work when failure makes life dreary,
Still ambition holds you by a thread.
You work to excel proud winners
Whom Triumph has given a name,
Which casts upon them the reflection
Of what you have envied as fame!

It's the pay for the winning
And the price of the best thing is high
But it's worth every effort but sinning
And failure is when you don't try.
By the test of the struggle you gain it
And find it is one of the things
If you give what you must to retain it—
It will help you forget there are kings.

But when you've arrived, when you've landed,
And do not need hope as a prop,
You may feel that some things are demanded
Of those who find room at the top.
You can sell stuff that didn't get over
Because you did not boast a name.
Know the joy of living in clover.
With only a little of fame!

Oct. 7—Club No. 2 meets in Odd Fellows' hall, 322 Main street. Each should bring cup, plate, knife and fork.

Oct. 16—Club No. 2 meets at Goshen hill, Lebanon.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

STANZA: Letter sent as directed.

DELIAH DEAL: Matter has been attended to.

ELLY JAY: Your name has been added to the Corner list.

PICNIC SEPT. 30 AT NORTH WINDHAM

Dear Social Corner Editor and all the Sisters: There will be a picnic at the North Windham hall Wednesday Sept. 30 and I would like all the sisters from all the clubs to come that can. Bring plate, cup and silverware as usual and something to eat and you will be waited on by Tuny Ann, Alfara and others.

ALFARA.

RAYMOND

Dear Social Corner Friends: Something more in the way of reading trust you will like this one too.

Raymond situated on the shores of Sebago lake is a typical Maine village, poetical in its setting of ancient elms, quiet, restful and attractive to the summer visitor seeking vacation joys. It is full of historic spots and has been more than ordinarily blessed by nature in its scenic aspect. More or less uncertainty exists in regard to its first settlement.

From 1770 down to the opening years of the last century all traveling to and from the town was done over the old forest trails, marked with spotted trees. These later became well defined highways. Raymond today still remains an old time village, undisturbed by modern methods of commerce and trade. The town is rapidly developing into a summer resort of no small proportions. It is on the main highway from Portland to the White Mountains and other sections of the famous Sebago Lake region.

On the Raymond cape shore on Jordan's river and the picturesque Panther pond are scattered numerous summer cottages, and on Jordan's river is located one of the state fish hatcheries, and this site is always a center attraction for tourists. One of the best known among the buildings in the town is the Hawthorne cottage situated near the boyhood home of the great novelist, Hawthorne.

Frye island and the images in Sebago lake are but a short distance away.

Raymond was incorporated as the 146th town, June 21, 1803 and was named after Captain William Raymond who had the grant in 1767 for himself and company, in consideration of services in the Canadian expedition under Sir Wm. Phipps. The town of Canco was taken off in 1841. The population at the last census was 500. Raymond is 16 miles from Dry Mills.

Trust you will like my story for I know you would like the place if you were to visit it.

USE FOR PAPER BAGS

To Social Corner Editor and Social Sisters: I see by the paper that you have decided to hold your meetings in Odd Fellows hall. Well no doubt you will enjoy it after you get used to the change, as well as C. A. R. hall. I have not had the opportunity of attending any of the Social Corner meetings as yet, but hope to some time.

Greetings to all who are in trouble of any kind. Many have had a wonderful vacation during the season, and it has been pleasant to read of the different, lovely trips.

Somehow I did not get to a vacation this season—just enjoyed several trips to the beach for the day. It always is a pleasant trip and so restful.

Calla Lily: Was glad to hear you say that you were going to try the tomato pickle recipe. Hope that you will like it.

I wonder if any of the sisters realize how many, many uses paper bags can be put to. All sizes of bags that groceries are delivered in can be used. When sugar and any clean thing is removed, fold them in their original folds and place where they will be handy to carry a little lunch in, to put used a milk bottle. If you are taking it somewhere. In the days of lamps they could be used to place over the chimneys to keep them nice and clear for the evening, and for some fruit and vegetables that rot easy. The directions may be put paper around to keep from the light. There are your bags handy and many other uses may be found for them. Even the soiled ones can be filled with the scraps, for the garbage can and toss away out of the way which will keep the nice clean longer than it otherwise would be.

Well hoping this finds all the sisters well and cheerful I am as ever.

Pegasus.

THE SIGN LIBRA

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: Some one has spoken of the fact that many members have their birthday in this beautiful month of September, which reminds me we are now beginning the sign Libra, astrologically speaking. The sign Libra (the balance) is the 7th sign of the Sodiac. It is masculine, equinoctial; begins September 24th and ends October 23rd; corresponds to the loins, back and kidneys of humankind; rules wealth and fortune. The natural planet is Venus; the colors are crimson, black and light blue; the gems are opals and diamonds; the tribe is Reuben, meaning "perception and foresight." December and August are favorable months for persons born in the sign Libra. Friday is the fortunate day of the week. As Libra is an air sign, her subjects do well on high ground and away from large bodies of water. The most favorable week in from April 14th to 20th; and from Dec. 6 to 13th.

Airy: Where are you? Won't you write one of your interesting letters to the Cornerites?

Balsam Fir: Many thanks for mint roots and letter.

Primrose: Your letter to the Corner was most interesting.

Grace and Hope: Your description of trips were so realistic. One fancied one were traveling with you.

Sassy: Well, I've heard of different kinds of "gallops," so there.

Pleiades: Its 40 years since I heard that song Ki-me-o.

Crimson Rambler: Hope you are in better health.

Ableten: Thank you for stamps for my collection.

Black Eyed Susie: Am sending all I have of the poem I Remember, by Thomas Hood.

I remember, I remember, the house where I was born,
The little window where the sun came peeping in at morn.
He never came a wink too soon, or brought too long a day,
Now I often wish the night had borne my soul away.

I remember, I remember the church
spires tall and high.
I used to think their slender tops were close against the sky.
It was a childish ignorance, but now
'tis little joy
than when I was a boy.

Best wishes to all from

ARIES.

GREETINGS FROM OLD HUNDRED

Dear Social Corner Sisters: In reading the Corner pages, concerning the meeting of Club 2 on Oct. 7, there must be some mistake, or else there will be a new club formed by those who are going to meet in L. O. O. F. hall. At the last meeting of Club 2, the secretary and treasurer's resignation was received and accepted, and a new one appointed; also hostess and helpers were selected and the soliciting for the next dinner arranged.

I realize the club was very large and it seems a good solution to divide it.

We had a very nice meeting with appetising dinner of beans, slinds, tomatoes, relishes, cake, pie and coffee and a pleasant social hour followed.

Joan: You always are so willing to favor us with your good music.

When you are playing I can close my eyes and time and years fade. And I feel my self young once more, as I listen to the dear familiar old times. Thank you.

Whirlwind and Foxglove: How good it was to see your cheery faces. After all your auto troubles you came up smiling.

Jennie: Always pleased to meet you. And also read your good letters.

Theoda: Being one of our first members, was glad to have you come. We shall never forget it was through you and a few others we were able to enjoy these lovely times.

Saville: We missed you. Did you have company or were you too busy canning?

Free Air: Saw by the paper you are going to Florida, hope not for always. How I did laugh at your letter about going. Hope you have a dandy time. And we will look for some letters from you. I had to miss some of Club 4 meetings so know just how disappointed you were.

Snowflake: Don't worry about the next meeting we will all rally to your support. And I just feel in my bones we will have a splendid meeting Oct. 7 at Buckingham.

God bless the Corner.

GREETINGS FROM HONORAY

Dear Editor and Members: Just a line to let Keziah Doolittle know that I am still alive.

I saw quite a few Corner members at our annual flower show Saturday. It certainly was worth going to see. Dahlias led all other flowers in number and variety and asters came in second. The vestry of the church was given to the display of vegetables and fruits, of which there was a goodly supply.

Fan Tan: Have another piece of cake?

Plain Nancy: Guess again.

Nelly Grey: How did you like the last Wednesday?

Avon: I still have my prize. Have you sampled yours?

Lydia: Did not see you at Wildwood. Were you ill?

Happy Go Lucky: How about another? I am rather thirsty.

Gipsy Wanda: Still collecting?

Twice Twenty: Is it not about time we had another spread? I have not quite got over the last one.

Cactus Blossom: Saw you the last time I was in Danielson. You and G. S. were talking out in front of the postoffice steps.

Come on Keziah and use that pen of yours. I think I win this time.

Hope to see some of the members at the fairs this season.

Best wishes.

HOW TO MAKE MARGUERITES

Dear Social Corner Members: I haven't written for some time and I think I'd better hurry or the rest will leave me far behind.

I see that some of the members send in pieces of poetry and I am send one, too.

Here's a recipe for

Marguerites: Whites of 2 eggs, 1-2 cup walnut meats, 1-2 cup of dates, speck of salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat whites until very stiff—add sugar, salt, and vanilla. Stir together carefully with a spoon and add walnut meats and dates cut in small pieces. Drop by teaspoons onto saltines or buttered tins. Bake in slow oven until puffed and brown, about 20 minutes. If baked too quickly the mixture will fall.

I wish someone would kindly put in some good candy recipes. I'm rather tired of fudge.

Editor: I haven't been a member long but should like to become one if there is room for me.

Best wishes to all from

ELLY JAY.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS-IN-LAW

Dear Cornerite: How many mothers make it pleasant for their sons when they are going to marry or how many make it unpleasant for him? The point which I view is this: We married so why not take the girl into your heart!

The natural girl goes to the altar so all-full with love, so overflowing with tenderness, that she intends and confidentially expects to take into her heart of hearts every living creature who has the slightest connection with "him," unless she has already had a reason to expect hostility or inhospitality from those nearest him. She has no expectation but to love and be loved. If "he" has brothers they are no more likely to be touched and disarmed by this attitude, if he has sisters, the chances are about even whether or not they will be; and if he has a mother—alas! it would seem, from the examples about us that, here, the chances are that disappointment awaits her.

The typical mother of the bridegroom will have two grievances. In the first place she is "losing her boy," she is "giving him up." In a sense of course this is true, and no amount of philosophy can alter the fact. It is true that somebody else will mend his clothes, plan his meals, and off the machinery of his life; somebody else will have most of his time, share most intimately his daily interests. But if he has ever been a son worth having, and she a mother worthy of the name, a dozen wives could not usurp the place, which in his heart of hearts, has belonged peculiarly to his mother. In the typical case that is all she has really possessed since he outgrew the habit of running to her to cry into her apron; and in that she will find her solace, if she is a wise woman.

As to the rest—how large a place she continues to hold in his daily life—that will depend chiefly upon the attitude towards the young usurper of her prerogative. If she will but ungrudgingly open her heart, nine times out of ten that erratic young person will fly into it with her arms outstretched; for the normal girl's instinctive attitude toward "his" mother is a very beautiful type, mingling of gratitude and wonder. That is why, if her enthusiasm is met on that threshold by repressed lips and critical eyes, the shock of surprise and disillusionment and hurt pride is so bitter.

I know a mother-in-law who feels perverted at the usurpation of her daughter-in-law — whose son cannot talk ten consecutive minutes without reaching out instinctively for a newspaper or magazine. And yet he has a deep and genuine devotion for his mother exactly as deep and genuine as he had before, he thought of getting married. The interloping girl has taken nothing from her. The mothers should love their sons so well that their concern for the happiness of their sons fills so much in their hearts that there should be left no room for bitterness or jealousy. And then both would have their demand in the very thing which, above all, they crave: a rare and untiring devotion from both son and daughter-in-law.

LIVING ON $16 A WEEK

Dear Sisters: I don't know, but think $16 a week not so bad to live on if you understand the mode of cooking. Of course you don't expect meat very often. How can you unless you understand cooking the cheaper cuts, which are more desirable, even if you have all the money you wish.

If a family of six has $16 a week that is $72 a month. One fourth of $72 is $18, which should be the price of your rent a month. I would put by $4.50 a week and then put $3 a week by for fuel. That leaves you $11.50 for the remainder of the week. As for what you should cook, I will begin with Saturday. Have a big crock of beans, brown bread, some kind of pickles, a rice pudding. Have your hearty meal at six o'clock when your husband comes home.

Sunday you could have oyster stew for breakfast, have your dinner about four o'clock by getting a piece of beef to pot and serve with sweet potatoes or potatoes and squash, with a nice gravy, and also have a nice gravy browned. For dessert, gelatin and cream.

Monday you can have meat that is left over. Stew up with a pan of onions, mix with a little flour and put in your meat. Serve with potatoes and turnips.

Tuesday—Take what baked beans you have left and a can of corn, a piece of butter, salt and pepper and you have corn beans. Boil potatoes in the water before putting corn and beans together, mash potatoes in the water, about 2 potatoes to 2 quarts.

Wednesday—Take different kinds of vegetables, the more the better, peel and slice or cut in cubes, put in kettle cover with water, salt and pepper and boil rapidly for an hour; then set on back of range and let simmer. When ready put in a generous piece of butter and three cups of milk. Serve with crackers. This is fine for chilldren.

Thursday—There will be enough left to help to make hash. Get two pounds of beef for a stew, put through grinder and cook one-fourth of it for hash with salt and pepper of the other make a meat loaf for Sunday.

Friday—Buy a haddock, make a nice dressing and stuff it. Make gravy, serve with potato and onion. Then there is shaved beef of which 25 cents worth will make three meals.

You can buy a smoked shoulder sometime during the week. Boil and skin and save the bones for pea soup. Do not put right in at first let boil up. Strain, then put in pint of split peas and a small onion. Cook slowly for two hours or a little more. "Potted head" is a very economical and very nice to have on hand. Buy any amount of shin beef, bone and all. I usually buy four pounds. Wash well, cut off all the fat you can, place in a stew kettle, cover with water. Put over a slow flame and let it boil about four hours or until there is about 2 cups of liquor left. Remove from fire pick over carefully, removing all fat, bone, etc., and using just the lean meat. Cut this meat into bits. Skim fat from the liquor, season highly with salt and pepper and pour into a bread pan to about the depth of 1 1-2 inches. Set away to cool and when cold, put in refrigerator until next day. Turn out in a platter and slice as desired.

Hamburg Hearts—To one pound of chopped beef add one minced onion, salt and pepper to taste. Pat and shape in hearts. Put in dripping pan and brown a golden brown. Remove and make the following gravy: Add water to drippings, bring to a boil; add one tablespoon minced onion with one pepper minced; simmer until flavor is extracted. Thicken with one tablespoon flour, salt and pepper. Place hearts in this and cook from 15 to 20 minutes. This makes a very tasty dish.

Hope I have helped you.

Give them cereals with plenty of milk for breakfast. Here is an inexpensive and delicious cake: 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons cocoa, 1 cup sour milk, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 3-4 cups flour. Bake in loaf.

Frosting: 1 1-2 cup of confectioner, sugar, 1 tablespoon cream, 1 tablespoon of hot water and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Beat up all together until like cream. Then there are inexpensive puddings, baked apple pudding, prune, Denver, Portland, Indian, tapioca, and cocoanut pudding. Will send them in later.

A TRIP DOWN THE CONNECTICUT

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: The beautiful days of September are nearly at a close, and it is regretted that the rainy days have happened to fall on the Social Corner picnic dates, several times. It is very interesting to read the Accounts of personal, or family trips, that some of our sisters have enjoyed. I was especially interested in Grace's letter about Vermont for I have been in some of those places she mentioned. The Connecticut river, with its odd fashioned covered bridges presents a much different appearance in those northern states, than it does through our own state bearing its name. As I have lived, the greater part of my life near to, or in view of the Connecticut river, it seems a part of my home surroundings. Those who live in other sections of the state, and have never seen the river, or more than that, enjoyed a call on the trains, from Hartford to Long Island sound don't know what they have missed. Let us fancy we take a trip some fair morning, even though it be September, for with our wraps, and imagination, we shall keep warm. There will be room for every sister, and her family, and we will name our boat the Social Corner steamer. We must start from the capitol city, where the daily boats leave for New York. As we glide out into the wide stream with the picture of the city of Hartford, its tall buildings, and church spires, as we see them on the horizon line, we realize we are drifting away from much business activity, industrial and social life. As we look forward, and on either side, we see green fields, with beautiful trees, and a glimpse of Wethersfield, on the west shore, the river here has a wide bend to the east. Soon we may sight the village of Glastonbury, which lies quite a distance back from the shore. However, here is a boat landing; but we will pass along. As we proceed, we observe the river is widening, and the highlands of Rocky Hill, contrast with the level land on the opposite side. A little ferryboat runs back and forth here, and I believe it is the only one we shall see on our trip today. Just as we pass Cromwell, on the west and approach Portland on the east, we are confronted by a beautiful island known as Willow island. It contains about an acre of land with many large trees. As we pass to the east of it, and where the channel of the river is very deep, we are quite close to the noted brown stone quarries, although the business is now at a standstill. What seems to be a barrelr across our watery path are two bridges that connect Portland with Middletown. However, before we are due there, the large draw opens on each bridge and we pass through, as though, the highway and railroad convience were not there. The city of Middletown has a wide river frontage, and we see not the best of the residential section. Another wide bend in the river to the east, and then a very narrow space to pass through, with high wooded lands on each side. This unusual spot is known, as the "narrows," and shortly we are sailing on wider surface, and more level land attract our attention, right and left. Passing the little hamlet of Middle Haddam, then Higganum, we find another island to dot the river. This is known as House island. About 2 miles more, and we see the old town of Haddam, most of it built on high land, and just a little back from the river. Another drawbridge here connects Haddam with her neighbor East Haddam, across the water. The scenery at this point is especially pretty, many neat little homes, with well kept lawns, flower and vegetable gardens, are seen along the shore, on both sides, also summer hotels, with wide verandas which appeal so invitingly to the passersby. Although we proceed rather slow, as most water craft do we are reminded of faster travel, by the steam trains, of the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad, which has a line parallel, with the river, and known as the Valley division. Passing Hadlyme a very quiet, restful little spot, on the east bank, there is Chester nearly opposite. The river is quite wide here, and continues so, for about two miles till we reach the thriving village of Deep River; also the largest island that appears in view. Essex is our next port. Here we see many old time houses, some painted red, along the shore. We almost feel that we are in a lake, instead of a river, the waters edge so far apart. Before we reach our destination we pass another old town, on the east. This is Lyme, where its hills and huge rocks are very prominent. Again we must go through two more draw bridges, which permits our passage into a larger body of water and pass the early settlement of Saybrook, at the mouth of the Connecticut river and Long Island sound. At a point of land, we see the tall white lighthouse, standing as a huge sentinel and guide, to all who pass this way. We have only traveled in our fancy, about 50 miles, which is but a short link of the entire Connecticut river.

JENNIE.

HOME DRYING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Sun drying of pears, apples, peaches, vegetables and fruits — the simplest form—is to spread the slices or pieces on sheets of paper or lengths of muslin and expose them to the sun. Muslin is to be preferred if there is danger of sticking. Sun drying requires days that are bright and hot with the air free from moisture. Care must be taken to provide protection from rain or dew. Just before sunset the vegetable or fruits which are being dried should be taken indoors overnight. There should be a covering of cheesecloth. Once or twice a day the product should be turned over when first taken out. Sun drying has the double advantage of requiring no expense for fuel and of freedom from danger of overheating. A sun drier easily constructed is made of light strips of wood, a sheet of glass, a small amount of galvanized wire screen and some cheesecloth. Size for glass top is 18 by 4 inches. To hold glass make a light wooden frame with strip of wood 1-2 inch thick and legs of material 1 by 1 1-2 inches.

KEEPING HER MEMBERSHIP

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I'll begin by quoting Edison's radio speech "Hello."

I suppose every one is busy canning and pickling at this time but was glad to see our page running over again last week.

Rosalind: Did you try the Creole corn this year We thought it fine.

Welcome to our Corner Mrs. Dan. You must practice your music so when we have another gathering you can give us a solo. If you try all of your minee meat recipes you will be busy for awhile.

Sorry I didn't see Bug at our flower show. I know you would have enjoyed it. You would have met several of the sisters.

Glad Twice Twenty is having such a gay time. Hope she will have a whole lot more of them.

Hon. Tin Biscuit can't you stop doing stunts long enough to write a letter?

I am not in a writing mood this morning but thought I would send a few lines to hold my membership so will simply say good morning and make my exit.

RECOVERING FROM PAINFUL ILLNESS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: It is a long time since I have written to the Corner, but have been interested to read the page each week when able.

What a lot of new sisters we have and how nice to have so many interested but how we miss those who have left us to go to the welcome "well done good and faithful servant, enter into the joy of our Lord."

I think there is not one of the new sisters that I can place by reading their pen names as being an acquaintance of mine, but perhaps if I knew their residents or saw them or even knew their real name might find that they were friends or at least acquaintances.

It is now three years since I have been a shut-in and so have been unable toattend a single social Corner gathering of any kind and I miss them and you all very much.

This past summer has been a long hard one of much suffering some intense suffering. Since June I have been much worse than before, have not been able to go out anywhere in anything or even have the Missionary Daughters or Missionary meetings at my house. Only two or three times have I been able to get off my verandah and step on the ground.

And since the 26th of August have suffered extremely with muscular rheumatism in my left limb so I could not bear my weight on my feet.

I cannot make anyone understand how much or how severe that suffering has been unless they have been right there themselves.

Until the past two weeks have been unable to get steady help but now have a 14 year old girl who comes in every morning and stays until after dinner each day. My husband gets the supper now. He has had to go to the restaurant for his meals much of the time and I have not cared for food very much during the summer but my friends and neighbors have been very thoughtful.

I can get around the rooms a little now with a pair of crutches. Previous to the girl coming a very kind neighbor came in for ten days each morning and did for me and again at night she came and put me to bed.

The friends often bring me in some cake or some thing to try to tempt me, such as chicken broth, cream chicken or the like.

Now I am a little better, do not suffer as much, can get my clothes off and on by taking lots of time and sitting on the edge of the bed can turn over in bed.

I realize all the time how much I have to be thankful for and try and keep cheerful most of the time and count my many many blessings over and over and thank my father many times a day for friends, comforts, use of my hands and eyes, and the many other things I have and enjoy of which many are deprived of.

Now with a warm welcome to each new sister and sympathy for each sick or afflicted one and best wishes for the editor and each member of the Corner, I am as ever an interested and well wishing long member of the Bulletin Social Corner.

Have not been able to do up any canned goods, vegetables pickles or fruit this summer so shall think of all as enjoying your good things and take comfort in doing that. Did up some pineapple and made two kinds of jelly before I gave out so have a little to enjoy myself. Yours in Economability, with love.

DELIAH DEAL.

BUSY WITH CANNING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Am pleased to see by the paper that we are to meet in Odd Fellows hall Oct. 7.

I have been doing a lot of canning this year, made chili sauce and grape conserve, canned peaches and expect to make some jell and spiced peaches. They are very nice with cold meats.

Foxglove: Was awfully pleased to get your letter inviting me to go with you but I was already in Norwich but would be very pleased to go some other time. Will answer your letter later. Have been very busy since I came home canning and cleaning.

Calla Lily: Had I known you were going to the Social Corner I wouldn't have called but I called you up and you said you weren't going. Sorry to have kept you home.

Priscilla: Where are you keeping yourself lately? Don't you go to any of the ball games? I go quite often. Used to see Ruth but don't any more. Do you miss going to the stock company?

Joan: How are you these days? Will soon be winter again and we will have to stick around the fireside.

Golden Glow: What were you doing sitting under the apple tree as I passed by?

Bumble Bee: How are you?

Would love to see you as it is sometime since we met.

Nellie Bly: How are you and Mr. Bly enjoying yourselves in your new home?

I guess I will ring off before I take up the whole page.

Yours for the Corner.

TIGER LILY.

"MY RAINY DAY CAKE"

Dear Social Corner: I would like to say to Cady that her mince meat sounds fine. It is worth trying. If my family ate green tomato mince meat would certainly try it, although it strikes me they would not know the difference between that and the mince pies made of meat. Usually they do not care for meat and they do not eat tomato but you certainly have a wonderful sounding mince meat recipe. You know I am interested in cooking and like the genuine article. I am something like Dr. Wiley, the well known government food expert, who some time ago, went into a cafe in Washington. Seating himself and waving aside the bill of fare, he said; "Bring me a small chicken pie."

A few minutes later it was sent in and set before him, brown and hot; and with a smile of anticipation he broke the crust to encounter just beneath it a three-inch long chicken feather.

"Take this away!" he commanded. "What does this mean anyway"

The waiter, a resourceful fellow, leaned over, and in a confidential tone, said:

"Why, I'll tell yah, mah; it's dis way: you know dat Dr. Wiley's been raisin' sich a howl 'bout food not being what it's claimed to be, de cook dan puts one chicken feather in each one ob dem pies to show folkes dey's gittin' de genuine article in dis hash place, sah."

Dr. Wiley said nothing. There are times you know when silence is golden so the waiter never knew the difference but I think that was one on Dr. Wiley. Don't you?

I have read and heard so much about the faking of food that at times I can hardly credit it. Can you, man or woman of the business world, calculate the number of times you have made a figure in cheap restaurants—you of the countless thousands who rush out when hunger demands and business permits to get a meal in a hurry?

I was in a large city and I did not desire to eat in a cheap restaurant and neither did I wish to pay $2 a day for my dinner which was the price at the hotel where I was stopping. was there three months so I decided to take my meals across the street from the hotel where there was a fine restaurant.

There was a fairy lunch rancing near there. The manager patted out to the customers on the plate and would tell you that only milk and rice, or milk and bread pudding, and the eggs the customers order a la carte were cooked on the place. They may be cheap; I was told they were home made. The pies, cake, charlotte russe, pastry and so on came ready made from a wholesale baker and yes the restaurant was sold to be "domestic." Can you imagine anything like that? I want to send you a wonderful chocolate cake recipe.

Chocolate Cake: Two tablespoons of cocoa in 1-3 cup of sour milk stirred to a cream, 1-2 cup of sour milk, 1-2 teaspoon soda dissolved in it; pour these on 1 cup of sugar and 1 tablespoon of melted shortening, 1 1-2 cups of bread flour into which put 2 teaspoons of baking powder. Stir until light as a feather.

The frosting I make with 1 1-2 cups confectioner's sugar, 1 tablespoon hot water, 1 tablespoon of cream, 1 teaspoon of butter and 1-2 teaspoon of vanilla. Now beat this until the right consistency to spread well. This cake is original and I named it my "rainy day" cake.

ETHELYN.

PLEASED WITH NEW MEETING PLACE

Dear Social Corner Friends: Here I am with all my feathers on; I have been moulting lately; now I am up for action. I attended the gathering in our new hall this month and oh, sisters it is wonderful, just come and see for yourself. So neat and roomy! I want to attend all meetings now. I had the pleasure of meeting with a few of the Social Corner friends down to Hodgson Camp, Waterford, Sept. 5. I motored down with Theoda and Bubby and Brave to enjoy the day eating clams and during the day several other Social Corner friends came. Aunty No. 1 and family and Leah and family were there for a vacation. So we went down with food and dishes and helped dig clams and then made a large clam chowder and you know the rest.

It is an ideal place for a good time. Am sorry but they return home the 23.

Suppose the sisters have been busy canning. I haven't done one quarter the amount of canning I usually do. I wonder how many of the sisters have ever been to the Devils Hop-yard" it is on the Colchester road. It is certainly worth going to see. The caretaker told us over 200 came in one Sunday. There is natural falls there. Here is why they call it the Devil's Hop-yard. A man by the name of Dibble lived there and raised hops and they nick-named him "Divil" hence the name "Devil's Hop-yard." He is dead and gone also the buildings, but the view is still there also the "devil's foot-print, but the rain has washed it so it is twice the regular size.

Hope to see a good" number out to our next meeting in Willimantic Chamber of Commerce rooms. If you come once you'll come again.

Bachelor Maid: Suppose you come home tomorrow the 22. I do hope you are feeling fine.

BIDDY.

GREETINGS FROM KEZIAH DOOLITTLE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I thank all who so kindly remembered me on my birthday, with cards. I haven't my book with me containing the pennames and birthdays of the members so cannot send you any.

Rock Moss: I saw by the paper where you called on friends in E. K. recently.

Carol: Did you call on any of the Social Corner sisters while in Norwich?

Barbara: Why didn't you tell us it was your wedding anniversary, so we could have helped you celebrate?

Gadabout: I received your letter, and will try to answer it soon. Am glad you are gaining so nicely. Why not write a letter for the Social Corner? It would seem good to have one from you.

Chelsea: I was pleased to see a letter from you. I think you have my address, haven't you? How do the children like their new school?

L. J. E: Is it "out of sight, out of mind?" I should think you would miss my talking tea with you. How is Mrs. A.? If she sees this I shall expect to hear from her. Did you attend the last gathering of Club 2? Twice Twenty: I hear you have been enjoying a vacation. Write us about it.

Some one wants the line so will ring off.

KEZIAH DOOLITTLE.

A PAINFUL EXPERIENCE

Social Corner Sisters: Last week's letter from Sassy entitled Scars recalls an incident in my childhood that hurts to this day, more than 50 years later.

I was a child of 12, and had always been to a country school, where all the pupils were in one room. My parents moved to a large place and I was sent to a graded school.

The first day I did not go until afternoon. All of you who have been through the experience of entering a new school and facing a roomful of strange children, know there is nothing harder in our childhood. The teacher did not call me to come to any classes at first, but when the first class in reading was called to come out on the floor, one girl turned and beckoned for me to come, (as I came to know later she did it just to be unkind.) That called the teacher's attention to me and he called me to the class.

I had not found what books I should need, so had not brought any. The reader they were using was a new one to me, Hillards Sixth Reader.

The reading lesson that day was, A Dialogue from Ivanhoe and a part of the paragraph that came to me was, "Front-de-Boeuf heads the defenders!" Now I was a fairly good reader for my age, but the new place, new book and fright was too much for me. The knight and I went down together in defeat, I called him, "Found de-Duck," and I can hear that girl laugh now. I'll admit it was funny but I did not see it then.

It came recess time but I remained in my seat too ashamed and miserable to move.

My world was people with savages and I would not go among them.

As I sat there fighting to keep back the tears, a sweet voice said, "Won't you come with me" I looked up to see the prettiest girl I had ever seen. She looked like an angel to me. I went with her and she was always one of my dearest friends.

Later her parents moved to Salt Lake City, and I heard she became the fourth wife of a Mormon elder. Dear girl if she has ever come to a hard spot, I hope some one has said to her, Come with me.

As for the other girl if she had married the Mormon, my sympathy would be with the other three wives.

Now to change the subject, we have a very remarkable child in our family. He has two little feet, and two little hands, two big black eyes, and one little tooth and he can cry so loud that he disturbs the neighbors. When that happens grandma says, "tummy-ache," but great aunt says, "temper." Now from my description you will see he is a most unusual child. (If you don't believe it ask Practical Polly) and we are absolutely sure he will one day be president and I want all the Corner sisters to begin instructing their children and grand children to vote for him.

May be you think I am a little premature in asking this for a young man seven months old, but I believe in preparedness.

FLY AWAY.

FURNISHING ROOMS

Dear Social Corner: I am writing this to the sister who wishes to know how to furnish her rooms to rent, what to ask for them and what sort of people to rent the rooms to. How to secure patronage and how lodgers expect to be treated once they are admitted to the household.

First in furnishing it is the best policy to buy only what is durable and good looking. Practically all rented rooms are used as sleeping rooms, hence the bed and bedding are of the first importance. Use as much of your appropriation as is possible for good springs and mattress. There are a very few persons who do not appreciate a good bed, and a sagging, uncomfortable one will often send a good lodger elsewhere.

The same consideration of comfort should be kept in mind regarding pillows. The more expensive ones are always the cheapest in the end. Blankets are far better than down quilts, because the former are easily laundered, and, in case of frequent change of tenants, this is essential. Two counterpanes are necessary. Some lodgers, particularly women, prefer a couch to a bed. In this case also, the springs and mattress should be good. When space and expenditure will permit a couch is desirable even for a room which contains a bed, as the tired tenant may lie down with his shoes on. Then it can be utilized in case of a guest who may come to spend the night. In a rented room, for a man, or woman, or a married couple, it seems better to provide a dresser than a chiffonier or dressing table unless both can be afforded, as drawer space and a mirror are essential.

There should at least be two chairs, one a roomy, comfortable one; a table, and, if possible, a desk.

There is something specially attractive about a desk. I knew a woman who rented seven rooms. In only one of them was there a desk. That was the one nearly always chosen, even though it was less desirable in many ways than the others.

There was a clever device, that I saw applied to a library table, which seems to be a good thing for use in a room which is sublet. The drawer has a top in which is a place cut out for an ink well and a lift, uncovers an compartment for pens, another for stamps and a place for envelopes and paper. Any carpenter or handy man could easily convert an ordinary table-drawer into such a convenient desk arrangement.

If a wash tub is necessary, it is pleasant to have a screen before it and its appointments should be kept spotless. A towel rack should always be provided, and there is no greater "drawing card" for a room than an abundance of towels and hot water. A room thus equipped gains a reputation which is a great asset and is seldom empty. Especially where only one room is rented, it is often more satisfactory to permit the tenant the unrestricted use of the basin in the bathroom and in any event many lodgers or tenants prefer to furnish their own soap but it is not good policy to risk an empty dish for some one who may happen to be without soap.

The day of carpets is nearly over. Almost any kind of floor can be so treated that a rug or two makes it comfortable and sanitary. Grass rugs are inexpensive and attractive as are many of the more dainty rag rugs. The one important point to regard is the color harmony of floor coverings with that of walls and window hangings, a rule which brings out a good effect. Plain rugs and draperies with figured paper and vice versa, it is better I think to leave the walls bare, and the dresser free from any encumbrances. Pictures and toilet articles I think are rather personal things, and often articles of this sort often causes embarrassment to the tenant.

Closet space is most desirable always, and plenty of hooks should be provided.

In general the charge should be governed by the amount of the rental of the whole house. If a house of eight rooms is worth $40 a month unfurnished, then $5 is paid for each room. Working with this as a basis and studying carefully the value of furnishings, their wear and tear, the daily attention given them and a fair profit above this, a proper rental may be determined upon. In case the house is owned it may be estimated for what sum it would rent for monthly. I think rental is decided largely by locality, proximity to business districts or by attractiveness of a residential street or neighborhood.

The most desirable are acknowledged to be men, who just sleep in their rooms; but there are always women who appreciate a good home, and who, in the words of one of them, "make less trouble than any man living."

When ready to rent a room, the way of finding an occupant is usually simple. Just mention your plan to your friends. One or another is always hearing of some one who wants a room.

School superintendents always want to know where to send teachers; officials in churches like to know about rooms in private families, also an advertisement in a newspaper so worded as to convey the idea of home comforts will usually bring inquiries.

The relation of the tenant to the family adjusts itself, if a little tact and consideration are used. Some persons prefer being let strictly alone to go and come as they will, others welcome a kind word to drop into the living room for a few minutes visit. Offering the freedom of the house I think is more often appreciated then abused.

OBSERVATIONS BY LORETTA

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I must write a few lines as I have some messages to deliver. I want to tell Balsam Fir how much I have enjoyed her letters and especially the one description of the town of Windham for there is where my husband came from and several years ago I made one visit to Maine and visited at North Windham. There was a very pleasant and polite gentleman who, took me to my destination as my brother-in-law had not received the word to meet us. His name was Manchester I think. He was a violinist and played for all the dances in that section. Maine is a beautiful country all I saw of it.

And now I want to tell the lady who was expecting children to come into her home and share it with another family that there is nothing any better than your own home. No house is big enough for two women, and the children would be an annoyance and cause discord and then ill feelings would result. I would advise every woman to keep her own home and her own money.

Now I must say a word to "Yankee in Crackerland." I hope you won't have to live on crackers. I guess you are think it is a pretty good place although not my native state.

I am sorry for you. I have wished so many times I could be in Florida but your letter makes me think perhaps I am as well off in Connecticut. Wherever you go the living conditions are different and one has to adapt themselves to conditions the they find them.

Are you there for a season or for all time? I hope to hear you are more contented later on.

CANDY RECIPES

Dear Corner Members: Some one asked for some candy recipes, here are a few I'll gladly pass along:

Maple Squares—Cook one cup of maple syrup and granulated sugar to 234 degrees F., or until it forms a hard ball when tested in cold water. Remove from the fire and pour slowly over the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs, beating constantly. Add 1-2 teaspoon of vanilla, and continue to beat until thick and creamy; pour into a buttered pan and cut in squares.

Velvet Fondant—Chop one cup of Maraschino cherries, drain, and dry in a warm place. Put two cups of sugar, 1-4 cup of cream, and 1-4 teaspoon of cream tartar in a saucepan and cook to 238 degrees F., or until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Allow to cool, then beat until creamy. Add one-half cup of chopped walnuts, the dried cherries, and one teaspoon of vanilla. Beat until stiff, then knead well, then turn into a long roll, cut in slices and place on wax paper to dry.

Pineapple Squares—Chop two cups of canned pineapple and dry in a warm place. Cook two cups of sugar, one half cup of cream, and 1-4 cup of milk to

WESTERLY

In the regular session of Third District court in Westerly Friday, Judge Michael J. Turano acted also as court clerk in the absence of the regular clerk, Mr. Walter Flynn, Jr., who is on his wedding trip.

The following was read by Judge Turano: Civil Docket, Sante Guidice vs. George Biana. Continued one week.

Michael H. Scanlon vs. Peter DePerry. Set down for trial in one week.

Charles B. Brooks vs. Otto Seidner. Continued one week.

Criminal Docket.State, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, compl't. vs. Tony Fiore.Continued one week.

Judge Turano took up the trial docket and called Morris Sax, 31, of Providence, against whom the complaint was made that on September 16th on Broad street, Hopkinton, he operated an automobile at an unreasonable and improper rate of speed. He pleaded guilty. Town Solicitor Ferguson told the court that the speed was around 35 miles an hour. Judge Turano fined him $10 and costs which were paid.

Simon E. Kinney, 36, of Pawcatuck, was charged with operating an automobile in Hopkinton September 15th, at a rate of speed unreasonable and improper. Through his attorney, John Gallagher, he entered a plea of nolo. Attorney Ferguson informed the court that the case was not a flagrant one and that when the officer blew his whistle to stop, not hearing it, the defendant continued. He recommended a lenient fine. A fine of $5 and cost was imposed.

Antonio Gippone, complained of by Chief Brown as playing a game of cards on the first day of the week, two weeks ago, and who pleaded not guilty changed his plea to guilty and was fined $5 and costs. Louis Pingalore and Joseph Salemano, who were arrested by Prsiolman Champlin at the same time and when arranged the same Sunday pleaded not guilty changed their plea to guilty and were fined $5 and costs each.

Triffle Christian, 38, arrester by Patrolman George H. Champlin on High street Sept. 21, was arranged on two counts. On both complaints he pleaded guilty, the first being the operation of an automobile without license, and for which he paid a fine of $25 and costs. The second charge was that on the same date he passed a traffic signal at the corner of High street on the left side. On plea of guilty he paid a fine of $5 and costs. He was apprehended on lower Elm street and it was found that he had not held a operator's license for two years, his last date being 1923.

James Tough, 43, died at 8.45 o'clock Friday morning at his home, 73 Mechanic street, after an illness of about six months.

Mr. Tough, a granite cutter by trade, came to the United States from Scotland about 30 years ago and had resided in Westerly most of the time since then. For years he was employed by the Smith Granite company. He was a member of the Caledonian society, the Improved Order of Red Men and the local granite cutters union. He leaves his wife, Annie B. Walker Tough, and three children, Mary, Mildred and James, all of 73 Mechanic street.

Radical changes in the schedule of the Norwich bus line will take effect next Sunday, Sept. 27, it was announced today by Nick Mooney, proprietor of the line.

The new fall and winter schedule calls for four trips daily. Busses will leave Westerly at 7.45 a. m., 11.45 a. m., 3.15 p. m. and 6.15 p m., arriving in Norwich one hour later in each instance. Busses for Westerly will leave Norwich at 9 a. m., 1 p. m., 4.30 p. m. and 7.30 p. m., arriving one hour later in each case.

Officer Roy Shirley of Station No. 2, Boston police department, has been the guest of Westerly Police Patrolman Robert Kessell and was a visitor at the Westerly Police station Thursday.

Judge Chris Ledyard S. Anthony of North Stonington accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Irving Thompson of Westerly, having returned from a visit at Brooklyn, Conn., county fair, left Westerly Thursday for a days' visit by automobile to the Eastern States Fair at Springfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Amos E. Burdick of Pawcatuck having closed their summer home, Clark cottage at Charlestown Beach, have returned home.

The steam shovel of Samuel Narfone was taken Thursday morning from the work of excavating the sewer trench on High street, near the junction of Dixon street, where sewer mains are to be laid, to the freight yard at the Westerly station of the New Haven railroad. The digger began excavation work at the east entrance of the freight yard, in preparation for the laying of cement for the new driveway to be laid at a cost of about $10,000 between two of the freight sidings, the work to be completed before cold weather.

Miss Marion Burdick is having two weeks' vacation from her duties at the Westerly branch of the Industrial Trust company.

The Needle club of Westerly held a picnic at Anguilla, Wednesday afternoon.

Assistant Manager R. C. Fach, of Bridgeport, of the Mohegan stores was a Westerly business caller Friday.

Dr. John Ruisi of Westerly attended the medical clinic the past week at Yale University.

CHAS WHITMAN BOUND OVER ON TWO COUNTS, GOES TO JAIL

WESTERLY, Sept. 25 — Charles Whitman, 34, presented today in the third district court on complaint of Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, of Washington county, that on or about the 9th day of April he entered the unoccupied dwelling in the daytime with intent to commit larceny, at the farmhouse of Judge Oliver H. Williams, near Woodville, and took from it a breech loading double barrel shotgun valued at $20, a Winchester rifle, $18, a Smith and Weston revolver, $12 and two bamboo fishpoles, $25, in all to the value of $75. He entered a complaint of nolo.

Sheriff Mitchell testified that at the time of this alleged break Judge Williams had seen a man he thought was Whitman leaving the place and that from that time began a search to locate Whitman, in Carolina, Wood River Junction, Bradford and in Westerly. It was not until Thursday afternoon that he found him in Hope Valley and took him to the Westerly police station. Whitman had nothing to say in his own behalf. Judge Turano adjudged him probably guilty and bound him over to appear before the Grand Jury at the November term of Superior Court for Washington county, requiring surety in the sum of $3,000 bonds.

The second complaint entered by Sheriff Mitchell alleged that on or about the 21st day of November, 1924, Whitman entered the house of Geotgiana R. Wandling in the town of Hopkinton, near Woodville, R. I., with intent to commit larceny and that from this house was taken away a large oil lamp, a small lamp, two quilts, a picture and a teapot, all to the value of $9. A like plea was entered by Whitman to this complaint. Sheriff Mitchell told the court that of some of the goods taken part had been recovered, being found in the house at Carolina, occupied by Whitman.

Probable guilt was found by Judge Turano and Whitman was bound over to the November term of Superior court for Washington county on this complaint and surety was required in the sum of $1,000. For want of bail he was remanded to the county jail at Kingston.

Deputy Sheriff Casey, of Pawcatuck, was reported as wanting Whitman to explain some Connecticut breaks, if possible.

Tree Cuts Initials

An American beech tree was cut down about one mile north of Morrisville, Pa. On splitting a section of this tree into firewood, a remarkable work of nature was brought to light. On one of the pieces of wood were plainly embossed the initials "A. J. D., J. E. D., 1839," and on the other piece were letters and figure exactly corresponding to the embossed ones, says Nature Magazine. A careful examination shows that the tree must have been about 67 years old when the initials were cut. The embossed part was nearest to the bark.

It is supposed that the tree, in growing, gradually overgrew the part with the initials cut in it, when its tissue was pressed into the mold-like initials, forming genuinely embossed letters and numerals. Who has a better explanation? What a story of love or romance! The sections of wood are owned by Henry Moon of Morrisville, Pa.

Remove "Bark" From Dog

In a clinical demonstration at Portland, Ore., conducted by the American Veterinary Medical Association, the "bleats" were removed from two goats and the "bark" from a dog, says The Pathfinder. The operations were performed for the instruction of visiting practitioners.

According to Dr. Frederick Whipple, of Peoria, Ill., similar operations can be performed on any animal as easily as tonsils are removed from human beings. Persons interested in humane work, Dr. Whipple says, are studying the method with a view of saving the lives of dogs which have made nuisances of themselves by barking too much.

NEW LONDON PATROLMAN, OFF DUTY, ACCUSED BY JORDAN VILLAGE GIRL

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—The New London police department is in for another bit of unwelcome notoriety for it became known today that Patrolman Howard Sloan has been accused of conduct unbecoming an officer, the charge by Richard Storey of Jordan Village, Waterford, acting as guardian of his daughter, Anna, 16. Storey preferred charges late yesterday afternoon to City Manager William A. Holt. City Manager Holt is absent from the city today so it could no be learned when a hearing in the case will be held but it is known that before City Manager Holt left the city he notified Acting Captain James C. Sullivan that the charges against the officer had been made and that a hearing would take place as soon as he could arrange for it.

Storey and his daughter appeared at the office of City Manager Holt about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon and the girl related what is alleged to have occurred to her and which is the basis of the charge preferred.

Sloan is on his vacation. It is understood that the girl, who is keeping company with a sailor named Hubbell, stationed at the state pier, were at the union station waiting room Monday morning between one and two o'clock. While the girl and sailor were occupying one of the benches, it is claimed that Sloan appeared at the station in citizens clothes and after observing the couple, he approached them from the station. After the couple were on State street Sloan is alleged to have caused the girl to enter a machine owned by Sab Santinella, 14 Shaw street, who was recently convicted of violation of the liquor law, but who was not occupying the car, having loaned it to Sloan. With the girl as the only passenger of the car other than Sloan, it is alleged the officer drove into the country where he detained the girl for a long time and finally made proposals of such a nature that the girl resented the actions of the officer, whom she believed was a special agent in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. Finally, it is alleged, the officer elected the girl from the car when his proposals were stoutly rejected.

About 8 o'clock in the morning, Augustus Stearns, of Quaker Hill, a local insurance agent, was starting from his home to come to New London, when he observed the girl in the highway, and extremely nervous and showing blood smears about the face and head. Mr Stearns questioned the girl and to him she related what is alleged to have occurred in the automobile, which incidents led to her being in Waterford. Mr. Stearns then offered to drive the girl to her home, but she refused to go until she had visited Hubbel at the state pier, and inform him of what had occurred. When the automobile reached the corner of Main street and Crystal avenue the girl alighted and walked to the pier when she informed her sailor acquaintance of her alleged attack. Finally when the girl reached her home she informed her father of the experience she had been subjected to and the father decided to take steps to determine the identity of the officer and cause the latter to be punished. Believing that the officer was one of the special agents of the railroad the matter was taken up by Captain Kelley of the railroad police and it was then brought out through admission from a night attendant at the railroad restaurant that the officer who approached the couple and who departed from the station with the girl was Officer Sloan. This having been determined, Storey went to the municipal building where he laid the facts of his daughter's alleged attack before the city manager, who gave Storey positive assurance that an early hearing of the charges would take place.

For the first time in some four months there was no session of the police court this morning. Whether the wave of conformity with law will recede soon cannot be predicted; but the police declare that this is only a calm before the storm, and that there will be a sufeit of cases before the month has passed out.

Assistant Manager Pendleton of the Mohican hotel is having a vacation. As soon as he returns to his duties Manager Frank B. Walker will make a trip into Canada, to be absent a fortnight or more.

The snappy cold weather has brought little bluefish into the harbor and mackerel are also putting in an appearance. Fisherman deeclare that the fish will not appear in large numbers till after much colder weather, for they point out that October will have a high temperature during the daytime while that period holds. The fish are not fooled by a little low temperature, but gauge their movements more accurately than does the thermometer.

Mackerel in the market has varied in price during the past week, 40 per cent. At the beginning of the week the price at retail was 15 cents a pound while yesterday a pound of the fish cost 25 cents. Why the deviation the marketmen could not explain, as the fish were the same that had been offered for sale a week ago.

Freeman, who spent the greater part of the summer sojourning in Europe, arrived in New York this morning on the liner President Harding and returned to New London late this afternoon. Congressman and Mrs. Freeman did not go to their residence on Stanners street, were married last Hotel Mohican.

Fenmore Grann, Washington street, this afternoon, was ordered by Patrolman Michael Dorsey to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and answer a charge of violation of the traffic ordinances in parking his automobile in State street for a period longer than 30 minutes.

An automobile owned and driven by Lee F. Sherman, 8 Beckwith street, struck a cyclist, Jck Copeland, 44 Blackhall street, late this afternono on Broad street, corner of Hempstead street. The youth was knocked from the cycle and sustained severe injuries and bruises, which were treated at the office of a physician to which place Sherman conveyed Copeland. The bicycle, which was left beside the highway where the accident occurred, was stolen during the time that Copeland visited the physician's office.

John McCarthy and Robert Connors, two youths in passing through Montauk avenue, near Denison avenue, late this afternoon found a bicycle that had been abandoned. Later it developed that the wheel was the property of a boy named Pulusta, 120 Main street and had been stolen.

More trouble in the police department occurred this afternoon when Acting Captain James C. Sullivan suspended Motorcycle Officer George McCaskey for violations of the police rules and regulations. It is understood that the suspension has been approved by City Manager William A. Holt, who was absent from the city during the day, he having returned late this afternoon from Pawtucket to which city he went in company with Highway Commissioner Courtland R. Darrow to inspect road work under construction.

The suspension of McCaskey resulted when the officer refused to accept orders issued to him by Acting Desk Sergeant William Babcock McCaskey was at the police station about 1 o'clock for his lunch period. At the time the police were conducting a raid and Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy, who was a member of the raiding squad being absent from his post, made it compulsory for Traffic Officer Frank Linehan to perform duty at a fixed post an unreasonable length of time. McCaskey was ordered by Acting Sergeant Babcock to perform traffic duty and relieve Linehan, until such time as the raiding force returned to the police station. McCaskey refused to carry out the order and even when Acting Sergeant Babcock informed McCaskey to perform the work ordered and for the officer to take his lunch period when he had been relieved of traffic duty McCaskey still refused to carry out the order. Upon the return to the station house of Acting Captain James C. Sullivan the disobeying of the order by McCaskey was reported to him with the result that McCaskey was relieved of duty indefinitely and until such time as City Manager Holt gives the officer a hearing. It is understood that the hearing will be held within the next two or three days.

MR. AND MRS. T. W. MEANEY HAD LASHIN'S HOOCH

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25.—Thomas Warren Meaney and his wife Irene, 57 Truman street, were arrested this afternoon following a raid at their home, the couple being charged with violation of the liquor law. They are at Liberty on bail of $1,000 each, Frederick H. Gavitt becoming surety on the bonds. Meaney and his wife will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. The raid revealed a large quantity of liquor and equipment used in the conduct of the booze business, such an amount that it required a motor truck to convey it to the police station.

The raid was made at the order of Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry N. Hollandersky, who provided Judge Victor Prince with such information that a search warrant was issued. The raid resulted, it is understood because of several complaints having been made recently of the place and because men were observed entering and leaving the house at all hours of the day and night.

The search warrant was given to Sergeant Nelson Smith. That officer, accompanied by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen William Grafrano, William Corcoran, Clyde Murphy, Frank Philopena and William Florian went to the Meaney home, which is located on the third floor. Throughout the house the raiders uncovered 11 gallons of alcohol, 21 quarts of whiskey, 45 cases of home brew beer, a wash boiler containing empty mason and bops, four cases of empty bottles, two cases of soda, a box containing bottle caps and capper, seven empty gallon jugs, three bar-

Breed Theater

A paradise for women and a holiday for men is an exact classification of A Slave of Fashion, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, which opens a three day engagement at the Breed theater, Sunday, under the impression of this reviewer some of the most gorgeous and striking costumes ever seen in a picture are on display in this film. And the story is so far off the beaten path that the men will get as much enjoyment out of its originality as the women out of the fashion display. It tells about a small town girl who longed for New York life and luxury and who almost lost her reputation and family in realising her desire.

Norma Shearer heads a great cast including Lew Cody, Vivia Ogden, Mary Carr, Miss Dupont, James Corrigan and Sidney Bracy.

Palace Theater

If a vote was taken as to the most popular picture Thomas Meighan ever made, The City of Silent Men would stand high in the rating. The Confidence Man would be right up among the leaders, too.

Both were tales with a prison flavor. Now Tom comes along with a bigger and better picture in which he spends considerable of his time "making little ones out of big ones" after he is sentenced, unjustly accused of making away with considerable money from his father's bank in which he is vice-president.

The Man Who Found Himself, which Booth Tarkington wrote especially for the Paramount star, puts it all to the screen at the Palace theater.

The Merchant's and Seamen's National Bank is the pride of Tom's father who deplores his elder son's tendency to mix with the socially elite rather than pay strict attention to business.

It is taken for granted by everyone in the town that Tom is to marry Nora Brooks (Virginia Valli). Tom's rival for the hand of Nora is Lon Morris, also a rival banker. When Tom is away for three days on a yachting trip with a millionaire, it is Morris who inflames Nora's suspicions that the young widow, Evelyn Corning is in some way responsible for his absence.

New Sales Record Made by Willys-Overland in Canada

With retail sales in the Dominion of Canada showing district increases of from 19 to 82 per cent throughout the territory, the percentage of increase tabulated generally for the northern neighbors of the United States show that sales increased 36 per cent. according to figures just released by Canadian officials of Willys-Overland for the period ending July 31.

The striking sales gain noted generally throughout the Dominion presents some interesting figure and comparisons. Before the end of July retail sales in Canada surpassed the sales figures established for the entire 12 months of 1924, with both Overland and Willys-Knight sales showing a decided impetus. The retail sales increase over last year, according to officials, show a 86 per cent gain over the similar perior of 1924.

British Columbia provided a striking illustration of Willys-Overland popularity in the Dominion with a 65 per cent increase in sales registered. Alberta and Saskatchewan both showed a decided gain in sales for the period with 31 per cent increase noted in registered sales. Registered sales in the province of Manitoba showed Willys-Overland's increase totalling 50 per cent more than sales registered in 1924, while the province of Quebec also showed a decided increase in its sales.

Willys-Overland's sales in the maritime provinces showed an unusually healthy increase. In 1924, retail sales showed an increase of 70 per cent over 1923, while the period ending July 31, 1925 showed a startling sales increase of 83 per cent over the entire 12 months of last year. In addition with new car registrations of all makes totalling only 48 per cent in the Province of Ontario where 56 per cent of the cars sold in the Dominion are registered, Willys-Overland sales took an enormous increase over last year with an 82 per cent gain.

In addition to showing a decided increase in sales over the first six months' period, Willys-Overland retail sales are showing a perpetual increase for each month of the year according to Willys-Overland officials in Canada.

Palace Theatre

A vaudeville bill that plays fast and pleases opens with Covan and Howard a couple of fast stepping boys that offer steps that are even new to the patrons of the Palace who have seen some very good dancing acts. These two boys start the show rolling at a fast pace and Princes and Demar come on second and keep up the tempo with their comedy talk and singing. Miss DeMar has an unusually pleasing voice while her partner furnishes many laughs and plays the piano in a way that brings many rounds of applause.

The Bishop Lynn Revue is without doubt one of the best that the management of the Palace has offered. Music, singing, dancing, special scenery.

The seven Tasmanians, seven whirlwind acrobats close an unusually good bill and Larry Semon in Montgomery and Stone's famous play the Wizard of Oz is just one hour of laughter.

Starting tomorrow night the regular season prices for pictures will go into effect. Sunday evening adults thirty-five cents, children with adults twenty cents. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday matinees, children cents, adults twenty cents. Evenings adults thirty five cents children twenty.

Next Thursday night the management is going to give a Ford touring car to the man or woman who tells the best Ford story. The details will be announced in Mondays' paper.

Paul Specht's Original Orchestra

Paul Specht's original orchestra including "The Georgians" direct from New York will appear at the Norwich state armory tonight, Saturday, Sept. 26.

The orchestra is the one that makes records for the Columbia phonograph company and included with them are the "Georgians" whose jazz records are known the world over. Specht also played for the Prince of Wales both in London and on the "Berengaria."

Paul Specht's orchestra has attained international reputation having played in France and England at the leading amusement places. They have headlined the biggest, vaudeville circuits here and abroad and everywhere have met with the greatest success.

Paul Specht's orchestra who will play here will render their selections just as they are recorded for the Columbia phonograph company so dance lovers of this city will have an opportunity to hear this unique type of melody in the original.

Palace Theatre

Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, who is now on his third-of-a-century tour at the head of his own organization, recently came across this program for his first appearance in Chicago with the United States Marine Band in 1891. The programme numbers included the "Rienzi" overture by Wagner, Weber's "Invitation to the Waltz," "The Pearl Fishers" by Bizet, the "William Tell" overture. Gounod's "Funeral March of a Marionette," a humoresque, "The Contest" the ancestor of the "Follow the Swallow" humoresque of thirty-five years later, a symphonic poem "Ben Hur's Chariot Race" also his own composition and "Stacatto Polka" by Mulder, and an aria for soprano "The Pearl of Brazil" by David.

"A director who sought to present such a program today would find himself playing to empty benches for the entire program were it known in advance and certainly to a rapidly diminishing audience were the program kept secret until the beginning of the concert," said Sousa recently. "Audiences are as appreciative as ever of good music, but there must be more light and unbuckneyed music. Audiences are different because they live in a different set of surroundings. The motion picture, the automobile, the airplane, jazz and even the talking machine have come since that program was played, and the press notices indicate that it pleased the audience which heard it. Nothing indicates the change in American musical tastes like the programs of a quarter to a third of a century ago, when compared to those of today."

Broadway Theatre

"Lost—a Wife," a William de Mille production for Paramount, which will be the first feature Sunday at the Broadway Theatre, is a story of a young American whose fondness for gambling wins, then loses a beautiful girl bride and eventually wins her back.

Adolphe Menjou, Greta Nissen and Robert Agnew are featured in the cast of the picture, which is an adaptation by Clara Beranger of Alfred Savoir's stage hit, "Blanco," which in turn was adapted from the French by Clare Kummer.

Menjou, as Tony Hamilton, better known as "Bet-a-Thousand" Tony, meets Charlotte Randolph (Miss Nissen) at a fashionable hotel in France. He is struck by her beauty. Hamilton learns that her title-hunting mother has managed to get her engaged to a scatter-brained duke. True to form, Tony bets friends that she does not marry the duke—and goes further than that—he bets five thousand that he marries her himself that very night.

—and we'll leave it to the picture to reveal how he makes out.

To take Mr. de Mille's own word for it, "Lost—a Wife" is one of the most human and entertaining pictures he has ever made.

Action, thrills, romance. These are the elements of the pictures that please people most. Villians are only to be hissed and to provide difficulties for the hero to overcome otherwise he would get the girl too easily.

"Tainted Money" a new Perfection Picture which will appear at the Broadway Theatre as the second feature Sunday has just the elements and is everything good that may be said about it. William Fairbanks is the hero and Eva Novak the heroine and a pretty one at that.

The special enlarged orchestra will give this program a royal send off. A comedy and new Kinograms make this a 15 reel show lasting fully 2 1-2 hours. New Sunday prices, all seats 25c.

Waterproof Clubs

A new process for treating wooden golf clubs makes them waterproof and extremely hard, says Popular Science Monthly. Heads of seasoned persimmon wood are subjected to a vacuum that extracts every particle of air and moisture from the wood, which then is impregnated with the newly discovered chemical. The club heads then are dried and hardened.

Clubs treated in this manner are said to have greater driving power than other wooden clubs and not to shrink or expand with varying atmospheric conditions. Inserted face plates are not required, since the chemically treated wood is itself harder than fiber, bone or ivory.

Athlete Takes Up Mission Work.

After winning several events at an athletic meeting recently, Eric Liddell, the "flying Scotsman" and Scottish Olympic 400 meters champion, left Edinburg on his way to China for missionary work. Liddell was hauled through the streets in a decorated carriage by fellow students and a large crowd at the station sang a hymn, "Jesus Shall Reign," as his train moved out of the station.

MARKET WAS STRONG.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26, (AP)—Stock prices staged a remarkable comeback in today's market with buying influenced by the retention of the 3 1-2 re-discount rate by the New York Federal Reserve bank, and reports of further improvement in several lines of industry. Pool buying was again conducted on a large scale with the result that bear traders, who sought to cover their commitments, were forced, in many instances, to bid high to get their stocks back.

Business news was largely favorable. It included the declaration of of an extra dividend of $1 on St. Joseph Lead and the calling of a special meeting of Fleischmann Company stockholders for November 10 to vote on a proposal to increase the authorized common from 1,500,000 shares to 4,500,000 shares and to issue three new shares for each one now held.

"Trade and industrial advices," says Bradstreet's Review, "point to a further quickening of fall trade activity." Dun's reports that "more definite signs of wholesome business progress are appearing each week."

American Can was the spectacular feature of the stock market, scoring an extreme gain of early 13 points at 242 and closing just below the top. Eastman Kodak jumped 8 1-2 points to 115 1-2 and Chrysler moved up over 5 points to a new record top at 170. Net gains of 3 points or more also were recovered by Du Pont, General Electric, Hudson Motors, Remington Typewriter, Union Bag and Paper, Sonotone, Hosiery preferred, Otis Steel preferred and United Fruit, the last named climbing 9 points to a new high record at 239.

Public utilities presented several outstanding points of strength. Detroit Edison showed an extreme rise of nearly 10 points at 151 3-4 and then yielded 3 points on realizing, while American Express, American Water Works, Brooklyn Edison, Lake Clede Gas, Pacific Gas and Electric and West Penn Company closed 3 to 7 1-4 points higher. Buying of these issues was associated with reports of large current earnings and suggestions of special dividend distributions.

Revival of activity and strength in Foundation company which closed 4 points higher at 135 1-2 after selling nearly a point above that figure, was based on expectations of substantially increased earnings through recent foreign contracts. Tobacco stocks continued to advance with American Tobacco, Lorillard, Reynolds Tobacco "B" and Tobacco Products making the best gains. Sugars were slightly firmer on covering. Oils also displayed a little better tone with special strength being shown by Marland.

Commission houses reported a good investment inquiry for the rail shares. The so-called Van Sweringen issues were in brisk demand on speculative expectation of an early and favorable interstate commerce commission decision on the "Nickel Plate" merger. Chesapeake & Ohio touched a new 1925 high at 111 3-8 and "Nickel Plate" attained a new peak at 138 7-8 but both forfeited part of the day's gains. Norfolk & Southern was run up over 4 points to a new high at 44 and Norfolk & Western attained a new maximum at 141 1-2 and then dropped to 139 1-2, where it was off 1 1-2 on the day. Atlantic Coast Line advanced over 2 points.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent, advanced to 4 1-2 and then to 5 per cent, advanced to 4 1-2 and then to 5 per cent, advanced to 4 1-2 and then to 5

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Grace Lucier and her daughter Miss Blanche Lucier of North A street were among the local people who attended the Eastern States exposition in Springfield, this week, motoring up in Mrs. Lucier's car. They returned with Mrs. Lucier's son, Edward Lucier and Frank Murphy who also visited the exposition this week.

John Meyer of Providence street is enjoying his annual vacation and is spending a few days in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wohlleben, Louis Wohlleben and John Wohlleben of South A street motored to Springfield Friday, to attend the Eastern States exposition.

The A-o-wa-ki-ya Camp Fire group held its weekly meeting Friday evening in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational church, with the assistant guardian of the camp, Miss Elsie Heap in charge. The guardian, Mrs. Eugene N. Monty is absent from town, being on a motor trip to Canada.

Mrs. Mary Smith of North A street and Walter Udelle of Norwich attended the Eastern States exposition at Springfield Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Weeks and family of Versailles left town to pass several months in Florida.

All machinery in the Ponemah Mills stopped for two minutes at two o'clock Friday afternoon, out of respect to the memory of the late Kenneth F. Wood, one of the directors of the corporation who passed away this week, and whose funeral was held in Pawtucket, R. I., Friday afternoon. During the two minute period, the mill bell in the No. 1 tower, tolled slowly.

Edward Buotte has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah company.

Cards received this week from Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader of Dion street who are enjoying a motor trip through northern New England, being accompanied by Mrs. John Grieshammer and her daughter, Miss Margaret Grieshammer of Baltic, locate the party at Montreal, P. Q., Canada.

A flood of questionaires from the office of the deputy collector of internal revenue was received at the local post office this week. What the rule of the government is in seeking to obtain this information, is not known. Scores of those who are not liable to a return receives the questionaire, and have to prove to the office of the collector that they are not liable. In many cases the information sought relates to incomes of several years ago.

The Sunday morning service at the Congregational church will be on standard time as well as the church school at noon and the Young People's meeting in the evening.

Wants to Help Others

"I could not rest because of coughing at night," writes Mr. L. E. Davis, 651 E. 46th St., Chicago, Ill. "Tried FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR and it is the best remedy for coughs and colds I ever took. I introduced FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR to several of my friends and they think it's the best they ever used." FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR just naturally hits the spot and gives quick relief from coughs, colds and hoarseness. Get a bottle from your neighborhood store today. Lee & Osgood Co.

BUILDING ROADS AND BRIDGES IN STATE AT COST OF $6,220,475

Roads and bridges, being built at an estimated cost of $6,220,475 are under construction in Connecticut at the present time, it is shown by a statement issued Friday by the state highway department.

A total of 139 miles of roads is in various stages of completion in all parts of the state, the summary reveals. The cost of the road work will be approximately $6,080,475, or about $47,000 a mile. The amount being expended on bridges is about $140,000.

Macadam surfacing and reinforced concrete paving are the types of construction being used on the bulk of the work. Of the 139 miles being built, 49.2 are of macadam, costing $1,733,076. Concrete roads aggregating 41.3 miles will cost $3,200,635. The figures also show that bituminous macadam surfacing is being used on 21 miles of new roadway and will cost $850,032.

Asphalt paving on 1.36 miles of roads will cost $76,732 and grading and drainage work on 4.3 miles will be done at a cost of $250,000.

The largest contract under construction at present is in East Hampton, on the Cobalt road, where much re-locating is being done. The cost of this road will about $328,000. Another large contract is the Southington-Cheshire road, where an eight-inch concrete highway, twenty feet wide, is being built, at a cost of $197,330. The Cromwell section of the Hartford-Middletown highway, where a twenty-foot road is being laid, will cost $181,750. Other leading contracts nearing completion are in Plainfield, where more than three miles of concrete are being laid, costing approximately $195,000; in Westbrook, on the Boston Port road, at a cost of $225,300; in Stamford, $170,000, and in Greenwich, $170,000.

WORK PLENTY, LIVING COSTS HIGH IN MIAMI

Plenty of work here, wages about the same as they are in the north, but high living costs, says Louis Vrondos, formerly of 30 Cliff street, in a letter to The Bulletin from Miami, Florida, where he is now located.

Mr. Vrondos speaks especially of the many real estate offices along the principal streets of Miami. Boats southward bound are crowded, he says, and in order to be sure of accommodations, it is necessary to make reservations two weeks in advance. Mr. Vrondos says in his letter:

"For the benefit of those who want to come to Miami or the state of Florida, I wish to write something about this strange place. I call Miami strange, because it is, compared with any other American city. First of all I am going to write about the sea trip we had. We left New York, Wednesday, Sept. 16, and we arrived in Miami Sunday morning. The trip was fine, every state room was occupied. We had our daily paper, published aboard ship every morning. The news came by radio and the papers were distributed among the passengers at a subscription rate of 50 cents for the voyage.

"If anyone from Norwich is planning to come to Miami they should make reservations for the boat two weeks ahead of time, because all the boats are crowded. We had about a dozen sleeping on the floor on our boat and some passengers were turned down at the pier as there was not room enough for them.

"Miami is a very attractive city, with impressive buildings. There are about fifteen skyscrapers under construction besides many new houses. Work goes on every day, including Sundays, repairing the streets, sidewalks, building new roads, etc. The East Florida railroad is building a double track along its line. Everybody is building and there is plenty of work for everybody but the living expenses are very heavy. The hotels charge $5 a night for each person in the room, or $10 for a single room. The apartment houses charge $15 to $25 and up a week for rooms. Restaurants charge a dollar each meal and you have to stand in line to get a seat, sometimes as long as 20 minutes.

"One thing that impresses the new comer is the number of real estate offices on the principal streets. Ninety-five per cent of the stores on the ground floor of the main buildings along the principal streets are occupied by real estate men. The climate down here is very hot. No need to wear coats.

"I forgot to write about the wages the workingmen get. The wages average about the same as they do in the north."

WARNING POLICE TO WATCH BUS DRIVERS

A request addressed to superintendents of city police departments to be particularly watchful of the operation of busses within their jurisdiction has gone out from the state motor vehicle department. Owing to the large size of the average bus and its greater potential danger, the bus driver, in the opinion of the department, "ought never to be allowed to take any liberties whatever, for what constitutes safe driving for a smaller car is not necessarily safe for his vehicle on account of its size and momentum."

The following is the text of the department's communication:

"The department of motor vehicles is receiving many complaints about the driving of busses. The bus driver, because he has a large vehicle in his control and because it is capable of such high speeds, ought to be most carefully supervised. He ought to be about as perfect in the management of his vehicle as possible, especially in city driving where most of the complaints occur; he ought to be made to give his signals and to operate in a manner which will not interfere with other traffic, even at the expense of loss of time to himself. He ought never to be allowed to take any liberties whatever, for what constitutes safe driving for a smaller car is not necessarily safe for his vehicle on account of its size and momentum.

"I am asking you to please intrust your men to watch this particular type of driver from now on and to insist upon exact compliance with all the regulations and laws. This is more in view of what I believe to be the situation in the future than as it exists now."

LEBANON FAMILY OF 9 FOUND PHYSICALLY FIT

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Sept. 25.—Seven families, one with nine children, from Lebanon, Conn., the oldest of which is 18 years old, and the youngest is nine months, were examined in the Fitter Families contest booth on the Avenue of States at the Eastern States exposition on Wednesday afternoon.

Officials at the booth said that in the examinations of the family from Lebanon it was found that the children had perfect teeth, something unusual for a family of this size, and that all were physically fit. The family winning in each of the respective classes will be given a silver loving cup.

Given Surprise Shower

Mrs. John A. Barry of 209 Hickory street was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening when a number of her friends gathered to give her a miscellaneous shower. Mrs. Barry received some pretty and useful gifts. During the evening dancing and music were enjoyed with Miss Della Allard in a fancy toe dance, after which a dainty luncheon was served.

That wife governs best who doesn't let her husband know she's trying.

WHOLE TOWN OF STAFFORD HONORED FATHER O'NEILL

This week's Stafford Press, referring to a former Norwich curate, says:

Twenty-five years ago Monday, Rev. Felix J. O'Neill came to Stafford Springs and began his work as pastor of St. Edward's church. Those who were residents of the town at that time and who look back upon things as they were, and then make a survey of conditions today, will know better than type can tell of the progress and change, growth and power, influence and achievements of St. Edward's under the guidance of Father O'Neill. It would make a long story in itself, but perhaps it is better, and probably Father O'Neill would prefer, to have the attainments and achievements speak for themselves in the minds and memories of the people, not only of his parish, but of the town as well.

To fittingly commemorate such an important event as the twenty-fifth anniversary of a pastorate, notable in any church, his parishioners and many friends gathered Monday night in St. Edward's hall to honor Father O'Neill by their presence, and with a more substantial expression of good-will and gratitude by presenting him with a purse of $1,200, a contribution made not alone by members of Father O'Neill's parish, but by people of the town also.

Rev. Father O'Neill is well known throughout New England, where through his scholarship, poetic ability and literary accomplishments he has made for himself a name which admits him to the inner circles of art and literature.

THE FUR CHOKER POPULAR STYLE DAY STOCKS PROVE

Furs, natural and dyed, play a large part in Fashion's favoritism this season. Especially is the fur choker in demand, stone marten and squirrel being among the most popular of skins. A smart choker gives a touch of elegance to any street costume, while the little band of stylish fur is also a comfy addition to one's garb.

Among furs in general cinnamon fox is largely used for trimming, as is also platinum wolf. Cross fox, natural or dyed squirrel and dyed opossum are employed widely as a handsome mode of finishing a coat or street dress.

It is welcome news that the prices of outer garments appear lower this season than last.

This is evidenced by the tags noted Friday on a line of handsome coats just hung on the rack. These were in all the new materials and colorings, fur-trimmed, yet they ranged in price from $35. to $59.75. It is doubtful if such favorable price makes could be found in any other city; but Norwich merchants are making special rates on merchandise during the Autumn Style Days, this week.

Buying of coats, dresses and hats went on steadily Friday, for the weather has grown too chilly to delude any person into thinking that summer is coming back and that past-season apparel and millinery can go any longer. As a matter of fact, every woman is glad of the sharp change which makes the buying of seasonable garments and hats imperative, unless one would look positively dowdy. A fresh hat bought now, or a new coat, will tide one over several weeks, until the necessity of going into strictly winter garb.

SEMINOLE INDIAN GIRL STAYING IN LEBANON

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 25.—A striking figure on the Eastern States exposition grounds this week was Red Moon, who is a Seminole Indian, from Miami, Fla., who attracted the admiring gaze of thousands as she toured the grounds and inspected the various interesting exhibits. Red Moon was cloaked in a stylish white coat which admirably set off her rich natural color and the strings of Indian beads around her neck added a bewitching touch of color.

She is in New England with a twofold purpose, to regain her failing health and to lecture on the indignities and dishonest business dealings to which her people are being subjected by unscrupulous northern real estate promoters. She says that the Seminoles are being cruelly victimized and that she is doing her bit to stop the practice so far as possible.

Red Moon was accompanied by G. W. Totten and party from the Fort Totten farm in Lebanon, Conn., where she is spending a short time in rest and quiet with her friends.

CHOIR GIVES SHOWER FOR MISS ROSE MARCHIEL

Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Anna Ostrowski of North Main street the senior choir of St. Joseph's church tendered a miscellaneous shower to Miss Rose Marchiel in honor of her approaching marriage to John Kozlowski. Miss Marchiel was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, including cut glass silverware and linen. For several years she has been a valued member of St. Joseph's church choir.

Ensign McCluskey Promoted.

Friends of Ensign and Mrs. Leroy M. McCluskey, formerly of Norwich and New Haven, will be pleased to learn that he has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant in the United States coast guard. He is now located at Mobile, Ala.

VETERANS OF THREE WARS CHEERED BY STATE GUESTS

"Spanish War Veterans'" day was observed last Sunday at the Soldiers' Home at Noroton Heights. About 300 members of camps and auxiliaries from all over Connecticut began arriving by automobile and bus loads about 11 a. m. It was open house at the home and the visitors took the opportunity to inspect the barracks, the hospital, and all other points of interest about the place. Colonel Henry J. Seely deserves much credit for the manner in which the veteran soldiers are taken care of, and for the excellent condition prevailing at the home.

Every veteran at the home—veterans of all wars—received a remembrance in the shape of cigars, cigarettes and candy from the visitors who appreciate the courtesies extended to them on this occasion by Colonel Seely, the superintendent.

About 2 o'clock all adjourned to the chapel on the premises where an entertainment for the veterans, arranged by Mrs. Bertha Comstock, president of William McKinley auxiliary of Norwalk and Mrs. Margaret Flemming, president of the Frederick A. Hill auxiliary of Stamford, was provided. The programme follows:

Opening, Star Spangled Banner, orchestra; address of welcome by Colonel Seely, superintendent; response to address of welcome and greetings to veterans, Mrs. Addie Mintz, senior vice department president of U. S. W. V. Auxiliary; selection, orchestra; vocal solo, Asleep in the Roses Until, Walter Gould, accompanied by Mrs. Benjamin Stewart; remarks, Department Commander Frank Shea, U. S. W. V.; vocal solos, Beautiful Land On High, and I Love You, by Clifford W. Locke; vocal selection by Kiwanis Glee club; remarks, Rev. James Abbott, of Bridgeport, Grand Army of the Republic; vocal solo, Mother of Mine and Just a Song at Twilight, by Mrs. Lambert H. Moulthrop, accompanied by Miss Elsie Moulthrop; vocal solo, Bells of St. Mary, and recitation, Cremation of Sam McGee, by Walter Gould; remarks by Past Dept. Commander John B. Quinn, U. S. W. vocal selections, Kiwanis Glee club; vocal solo, Because, by Miss Elsie Moulthrop; selection, orchestra.

The Spanish War Veterans and their auxiliaries appreciate the assistance of those who volunteered their services in assisting to make the entertainment a success, especially the Monkey Grotto orchestra and the Kiwanis Glee club, who went in the hospital after the entertainment in the chapel and sang for the benefit of the veterans who were unable to leave the hospital, and who were delighted and cheered by the singing.

The general committee in charge of arrangements for the day consisted of Sr. Vice Dept. Commander Benjamin Stewart of Bridgeport, Past Dept. Commander John B. Quinn of Stamford, Mrs. Bertha Comstock of Norwalk, Mrs. Margaret Flemming of Stamford, Mrs. Alice Goldkopf, Mrs. Catherine Quinn and Mrs. Sarah Whitaker of Stamford, and Mrs. Florence Coleman and Miss Katherine Godfrey of Norwalk.

The distributing committee consisted of Ellen Gray of Hartford, Annie Walker of New Britain, Mary Lane of New Haven and Mary Evans of Bridgeport.

The exercises were concluded about 3 o'clock, the visitors leaving for their homes with best wishes for officers and inmates, many of them promising to visit the home again at an early date.

Among the former officers of the department of the U. S. W. V. on the grounds were: Past Commander-in-Chief Charles W. Newton, Hartford; Past Dept. Commanders John B. Quinn, Stamford; Martin Lambscher, Rockville; Clifford Hareschildt, Norwalk; Percy Sawtelle, Meriden; Theodore Johnson, New Britain.

The Fitch Home for Soldiers was founded by Benjamin Fitch of Darien, in 1864, and at present accommodates 234 veterans of three wars, the Civil war, Spanish American war, and a few of the World war. Of the 234 veterans, 82, nearly all Civil war soldiers, are confined to the hospital wards. The home has accommodations for 600 men.

GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY FOR HER BIRTHDAY

Thursday evening, a surprise party was given Mrs. Frank Q. Smith at her home, 214 Laurel Hill avenue in honor of her birthday by the Major L. B. Almy auxiliary No. 1, U. S. W. V. Mrs. Smith received many beautiful gifts, and Mrs. Annie B. Turner president of the Almy auxiliary presented her a beautiful basket of flowers and ferns in behalf of the auxiliary.

Whist was played during the evening prizes being awarded as follows: first, Mrs. Annie L. Wilson; second, Mrs. Elizabeth Murray and consolation Mrs. Pauline Budzek.

Sandwiches, cake, coffee and ice cream were served by Mrs. A. F. Greene, assisted by Mrs. L. R. Bogue, and Mrs. R. H. Donohue. Mrs. Smith received many beautiful cards from friends and members of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21. She has been confined to her home a long time on account of illness.

ROCKVILLE SILK MAN'S EASTERN POINT RESIDENCE

Excavation has just been begun for the foundation of a new $75,000 summer residence at Eastern Point, Groton, to be occupied as a summer home by Frederick N. Belding, vice president of the Belding Brothers & Co., silk manufacturers, of Rockville. The new dwelling will be situated on a spacious site at the corner of Eastern Point road and Tyler avenue and will be designed along the New England colonial lines of architecture.

The site of the residence is opposite the summer home recently purchased by former Governor Everett J. Lake. It is expected that the house will be ready for occupancy by the early part of next May and when completed will be one of the most artistic dwelling at the Eastern Point colony.

CHIMNEY FIRE STARTS FROM FIRE PLACE

A few minutes before 6 o'clock Friday night the fire department was called out by telephone for a chimney fire at the home of Herbert Wiley, 42 Asylum street. A roaring fire had been started in the fire place and soot clinging to the walls of the chimney caught fire. A backdraft, due to dampness in the chimney caused the house to fill with smoke. A three gallon can of chemicals was used in extinguishing the fire.

Will Tell of English Travels

When the Young People's Christian union meets at the Universalist church on Monday evening at 7 o'clock Mrs. A. N. Foster, who has been abroad this summer, will give a talk on "Travels in Merrie England With a Brown Bag."

The Jewish festival, Yom Kippur, which comes Monday next, will bring numerous visitors to town.

RALLY SOCIAL BY CENTRAL BAPTIST SCHOOL

A most successfully rally social of the Central Baptist church and Sunday school was held Friday evening at Bushnell Chapel with one of the largest crowds that ever attended an event of that nature at the church. The programme was by the Bostonians who entertained so royally at the church school picnic last year at Mohegan park.

The social evening was opened by Harold S. Burt, superintendent of the Sunday school, who then turned the evening over to the Bostonians, who gave a very pleasing entertainment. They comprise Janet Hersey, "The Sunshine Girl"; Grace Deeran, violinist and Retta Wilson, pianist. Their programme comprised songs, instrumental selections and readings. At the close of the programme refreshments were served, after which all present were invited to inspect the new junior department in the recently acquired Gilbert property adjoining the church.

The new junior department comprises six class rooms and a kitchen on the first floor of the Gilbert blade. In each class room are a closet, table chairs and a blackboard. It is expected that the class rooms will accommodate 60 to 70 pupils. There is a gas range in the kitchen, with accommodations for social gatherings, and the class rooms are heated by gas steam radiators. It is expected that the new junior department will be opened for the classes a week from Sunday. The rooms are attractively arranged and are light and airy. To Frank L. Arnold is due the credit for the splendid appearance of the new junior department. The committee in charge of the social gathering comprised Arthur F. Wyman, chairman, Mrs. Harry Kromer, Ms. C. C. Gildersleeve and Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg.

MAYOR WILL WELCOME A. O. H. COUNTY CONVENTION

Mayor Milo R. Waters has accepted an invitation to speak words of welcome to the city at the fiftieth annual county convention of the A. O. H. and Ladies' Auxiliary of the order which is to be held in this city Sunday afternoon at 2:30, d. s. t., in Hibernian hall. Rt. Rev. Monsignor M. H. Mac, Rev. W. A. Keefe and state and county officers are also expected to address the meeting, which promises to be the most successful county convention of the order to be held in Norwich.

The entire membership of the four local divisions is expected to attend the convention meeting, for which plans were completed at a meeting of the committees from the four local divisions on Wednesday evening.

Missionary Meeting at Hampton

The Eastern Connecticut Branch of Woman's Board of Foreign Missions is to hold a meeting Tuesday, Sept 29, at the Congregational church in Hampton with sessions at 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Rev. John S. Porter of Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, will give an address and there will be a basket luncheon. A large number from Norwich are expected to attend the meeting.

PLAINFIELD

Irvine Dawley has purchased the farm of Walter Burdick, on the state road, below Bishops crossing. This farm is part of the old Roode estate.

Leon Frink is building a block of new garages adjcent to his present garage. When this work is completed Mr. Frink intends to leave for Florida, and make his headquarters at Miami.

The Plainfield Fire company 1 is planning to hold a dance at Grange hall in Canterbury. At present the hall is being painted and redecorated.

A whist party was held recently at the home of Mrs. Paul Pelitier on Pleasant street, for the members of the St. Annie society. Mrs. Emma Mercier won first prize and Mrs. Solloway was given the consolation award. During the evening Mrs. Chaput and Mrs. Bouley gave a clog dance. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church is to hold a special meeting next Wednesday afternoon at the parsonage, with their president, Mrs. John Kingsley. Plans are to be discussed for the fall work. The mothers who have young children will be able to leave them in charge of Miss Dorothy Prentiss and two assistants who will entertain them while the meeting is in session.

Mrs. Susan Lester of Providence is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bennett. Mrs. Lester is aunt of Mrs. Bennett.

The executive board of the Lincoln club plans to meet with the president, Walter Cleland, next Monday evening at the Congregational parsonage, to plan the program of work for the coming winter.

Rev. W. E. Prentiss and son, Marden were visitors recently at Amhurst, calling on Miss Adelaide Prentiss, who is studying at the state college for the second year. Mr. Prentiss stopped to see friends at South Haddad Falls, and Holyoke, on the return trip.

A delegation of the Lincoln club Rev. W. C. Prentiss, Arthur Mathewson, Herman Chapman, Walter Kingsley, Edward Hall, Sam Wibberley, Chas Hopkins, Ralph Hopkins, Harold Hopkins, Louis Gendron, Nathan Exley, Winfred Gardner, William Lord, Marden Prentiss and Fred Ledger, went over to Ekonk Thursday and built a barn for Dan Sullivan, who had the great loss of a fire, two years ago, losing his barn and cattle. Mr Sullivan is an old railroad man, past sixty and has experienced difficulty in trying to make a living. When his condition became known to the Lincoln club, a resolution was taken that all able should help in the re-building of a barn, and Thursday's work was appreciated by Mr. Sullivan, who termed it a God send.

Miss Jennie Baker of Putnam, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Phillips.

The standing committee of the Congregational church, held a meeting Friday evening at the parsonage. Plans are afoot to hold four socials during the next three months.

The athletic association of Plainfield high school recently elected these officers: Louis Gallup, president; Doris Generous, vice president; Clinton Peterson, treasurer; Agnes Allard, secretary.

The railroad crossing in front of Lawton Mills is being completely overhauled and when finished, promises to be one of the finest in New England. Through the courtesy of Lawton Mills all traffic is detoured through the main mill yard to the extreme south end and across the railroad tracks into the old mill village, thence back to the main highway.

The Central Village fire company held a dance Friday night at the Town Hall in Central Village. This was the first in a series of dances to be held this winter by the company.

A change in the hours of the public library has been announced by Miss Edith Blatchdale, librarian, from summer to winter schedule. Formerly the library was open Monday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings and Saturday afternoons. The new arrangement will omit Monday afternoons and the library will open Saturday evenings instead. At a recent meeting of the book committee it was decided to purchase $100 worth of new books. Miss Brightwlate also intends to continue with her Brownie class.

At St John's Catholic church the annual Forty Hours devotion will begin Sunday morning.

LISBON

The pastor's Sunday morning theme was The trinity of redemptive agencies; teaching, preaching, healing.

Rev. Maurice Reynolds arrived at the parsonage Wednesday afternoon and will take his father's place in the pulpit Sunday.

Charles Mell, of the Soldiers Home, Noroton has been spending a few days with his cousin, Clarence A. Mell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Irons, of Waterville and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burton, of Griswold, were guests of Mrs. C. A. Mell Tuesday.

Mrs. C. A. Kennedy returned Friday from a private hospital in New London, where she underwent a surgical operation two weeks ago.

A number from this town attended Brooklyn fair Wednesday.

HAS ATTENDED NORWICH FAIR SINCE THE FIRST, 71 YEARS AGO

When L. R. Barber attended the fair in Norwich last week he retained many reminiscences of the fair in his younger years. He says the first New London county fair was held on Chelsea Parade, when he was six years old and with only two exceptions he has attended every year since that time. For twenty-two consecutive years he was judge in the heavy pulling contests and has served as judge of innumerable other contests and exhibits.

He tells the story of a time in his youth when there was a tight rope walk over the deep hollow in the center of the race track. A man who was supposed to do the stunt of walking the rope fell, when half way across. Mr. Barber told them he could do it and procuring a long pole proceeded to walk the whole length without any trouble.

At the time the Twenty-Sixth Regiment was sent out, Mr. Barber led the parade on the fair grounds, riding a pair of horses with one foot on each horse.

SHERIFF TAKES CARBRAY TO WETHERSFIELD PRISON

John Carbray, sentenced to seven years in state prison, was taken Friday morning to Wethersfield by Sheriff Sidney A. Brown and Carbray spent his first night at Wethersfield prison Friday night. Carbray, since he was sentenced by Judge Leonard J. Nickerson at the last term of the criminal superior court, has been in the local jail. Friday morning about 10 o'clock he was taken from the jail by Sheriff Brown and his deputies and escorted by them to the state prison.

Carbray was sentenced on charges of assault with intent to kill his divorced wife, Anna Welton Barrett, and Herman Greiner, both of whom he shot and seriously wounded.

SUB. S-51 REMAINS ON BED OF OCEAN WITH 34 MEN ABOARD

Was Sunk by the Steamer City of Rome Late Friday Night a Few Miles Off Block Island—Slight Hope is Entertained That Any of the Men Are Alive—An Attempt to Raise the Sub Will Be Made This Noon—The Ship is Under 128 Feet of Water—The Great Derrick Ship Monarch is Due to Arrive at the Scene This Morning—One of Three Survivors Gives His Version of the Disaster.

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—With only the faintest hope that their efforts would be crowned with success, naval men aided by civilian wrecking crews continued their strenuous efforts today to rescue the 34 officers and men who went down with the submarine S-51 where she sunk in collision with the steamer City of Rome off Block Island, Friday night.

Unavoidable delays due to the absence of powerful derrick equipment, and the testimony of divers who reported that there could not possibly be life in the crushed hull of the submarine on its ocean bed 128 feet beneath the surface saddened but did not discourage the rescuers. Repeated attempts to raise the sunken craft by means of compressed air pumped from her sister vessel the S-51 failed of success, and tonight the naval officials on the scene awaited impatiently the coming of the great derick ship Monarch, due to arrive at midnight. This vessel was reported in Long Island sound off Larchmont, N. Y., at noon today.

While the rescue forces headed by Rear Admiral H. H. Cristy, commander of the submarine control force at New London admitedly labored with slight hope that any of those entombed in the S-51 had a chance of life, officers at the submarine base still refused to see the darker side of the picture.

Relatives and friends of the S-51 crew, frantic from suspense, besieged the base today and all were advised not to abandon hope. Lieutenant Commander Flanagan, the base executive officer, insisted that when the submarine was rammed a large number of the crew were in a position to lock themselves behind the water tight doors of the torpedo and motor compartments in the bow and stern of the submarine. There, if the air held out, they would be safe for at least 72 hours, which would give the derrick ship time to make the attempt at raising her.

Officials in charge of the rescue work admitted tonight that the delay in raising the S-51 afforded the most depressing aspect of the situation. The most optimistic estimate as to the length of time men might live in the compartments was 72 hours and two thirds of that time has passed since the sinking. With the Monarch arriving at midnight, it was believed the wreck could not be brought to the surface before noon tomorrow at the earliest. There was a grim impression among the rescuers that no live men might be found when the S-51 was raised and her ends cut open to release those imprisoned in the compartments.

The reports of naval divers who were first to reach the wreck last night added to the hopelessness of the workers. Chief Torpedoman J. W. Ingraham, the first diver to go down, said there was no possible chance that any of the imprisoned men were alive.

"I made up my mind to this one minute after I reached the vessel and found the conning tower hatch wide open," Ingrahsr said. "There is a hole in the port side, three feet wide and eight or nine feet long, located between the deck gun and the cut water abaft the conning tower. As I walked about the deck stamping and kicking on the hatches as a means of communicating with the crew, I saw air bubbles coming out around the hatches, all of which are closed with the exception of the conning tower hatch. I was sure then the whole boat was filled with water."

Ingraham reported that he "made all the noise he could," and then put his hand on the hatch covers to see whether there was any vibration from possible answering knocks within. There was no sign of life whatever, he said.

The first rescue step taken today was to send a diver down to the broken S-51 to attach compressed air tubes to the valves on either side of the conning tower. From daybreak on oxygen was forced into the hull to save any of the living from suffocation. Early today the N-4 carrying two expert divers in the employ of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Corporation, New York, joined the fleet which is grouped about the tender Camden, mother ship of the submarine and flagship of Admiral Christy.

The rescue fleet already on the scene of the collision was augmented late today by the naval tug Chewink which arrived with a physician and supplies aboard. Off the Camden's stern the submarine S-20, sister ship of the sunken vessel, is at anchor to mark the spot under which the S-51 rests. Other vessels in the fleet were the naval tug Falcon, the submarines S-29 and S-48, tugs and lighters sent out by the salvaging company, and the boats used by the deep sea divers.

Admiral Christy tonight awaited eagerly the arrival of Chief Gunner W. F. Loughman from Iona Island, New York. Gunner Loughman, who is expected to reach here tomorrow, holds the world's deep sea diving record. He went down in 306 feet of water in Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands, to reach the sunken F-4. A fast patrol boat is waiting at the submarine base to speed him to the scene of the disaster 50 miles away.

The check-up of the story told by Dewey G. Kile, engineer first class, one of the three survivors, gave further indication, officers here said, that there is no life aboard the S-51. These officers pointed out that Kile, Alfred Zeiler, electrician's mate second class and Michael S. Lira, fireman, first class, escaped from the rammed submarine only because their bunks were so near the conning tower hatch that they were thrown against its ladder by the crash.

The others aboard, including Lieutenant Rodney H. Dobson, the commander, who was reported trapped and dragged under by the sinking submarine when his head became entangled in the radio antenna as he came up to the bridge through the conning tower hatch, must be dead, officers here believe. They said it would have been impossible for anybody to have closed the watertight compartment doors in the minute and one half during which the S-51 remained on the surface after the collision.

About noon today the divers succeeded in placing a single sling about the stern of the sunken submarine. During the day it held its position but the divers said that the least roughness of sea tonight would displace their line. The divers worked for several hours, each one remaining under water half an hour at a stretch to make this line fast to the wreck. The first move to be made after the derrick ship Monarch arrives, one of the divers said, would be to place enough slings about the hull so that her stern could be hoisted to the surface and clear of the water. Then a plate wide enough to free the imprisoned crew or allow the passage of their bodies would be ripped open.

The S-51 then would be released and allowed to drop back to the bottom and the bow would be raised so that the torpedo compartment might be broken into. After that the engine room would be investigated, the divers said. The remaining two compartments were smashed by the bow of the City of Rome.

The spectacle at the scene of the disaster today was described by one observer as "the death watch of the submarines." The mother ship Camden with the submarines gathered about her gave the impression of a mourning group. The object of their figurative sorrow was what men at the submarine base here have called "one of the unlucky S-boats," and one of the latest type submarines in the navy. Four of the S-type, built since 1920, at Bridgeport, Conn., have met with mishaps in the last two years. The S-51 in that number, alone carried men to their deaths.

Three of the S-boats were wrecked in New England waters, the S-51 lies at the bottom of the ocean off Block Island; the S-13 grounded off Cape Cod last January and remained on a sandbar for many weeks; the S-48 was pounded to pieces on the rocks at the entrance to Portsmouth, New Hampshire, harbor, on January 30 last. The fourth, the S-6, collided with a destroyer in far east waters.

Today was another day of suspense for Mrs. Dobson, wife of the commander of the S-51 who is here awaiting reports from the rescue work. In the face of the apparently hopeless aspect of the disaster as related to her by brother officers of her husband, she has refused to surrender her belief that Lieutenant Dobson will be found safe inside his ship when the divers break open the hull. Her courage and hope are shared by the families and relatives of five enlisted men of the submarine's crew whose homes are in this city. All insist that their men are alive and will be restored to them when the wreck of the S-51 is lifted from the ocean floor.

Two of those believed to be lost are Frederick P. and William C. Teschemacher, twin brthers, of Bangor, Pennsylvania, both seamen first class.

RESCUED MAN GIVES HIS VERSION OF THE DISASTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—Dewey G. Kile, engineman aboard the submarine S-51 sunk off the coast of Block Island, reported his version of the disaster early today to the navy department. He said he was in the water one hour and fifteen minutes before he was rescued by a lifeboat of the steamer City of Rome which struck the submarine and that he saw five other men in the water who apparently drowned.

At the time of the crash he was asleep in the forward battery and was awakened by a piece of cork striking his face. When he reached the bridge, he declared he was washed overboard and drawn ten feet under by suction.

As he went overboard, he said, he saw the City of Rome backing away. He asserted that no search lights were used and that the steamer left the scene forty-five minutes after he had been rescued.

The submarine was on the surface when struck, he added, and all of the deck hatches except the conning tower hatch were closed. He expressed belief that all compartments forward of the engine room were flooded. As the submarine went down, he said, he heard the captain call to the City of Rome for a line and saw F. C. Wiseman, the lookout, drown after struggling in the water.

CITY OF ROME SAILED ON HER REGULAR TRIP SUNDAY

BOSTON, Sept. 27—The steamship City of Rome, which collided with the submarine S-51 off Block Island Friday night, sailed late today for Savannah on its regular trip, Captain John H. Diehl, who was in the wheel house of the steamship when it rammed and sank the submarine, was in command of the vessel when it sailed. Some time in the early hours of Monday the City of Rome was to pass the scene of the collision where a rescue fleet is laboring to raise the S-51 and determine if any of the 34 men who went down with her remain alive.

The steamship left with virtually full passenger list, only a few of those booked for the voyage having cancelled their reservations since the disaster. An examination of her hull early today showed three plates on the starboard bow dented and three on the port side bulged out. Several frames and floor plates were slightly distorted. Two seams and one of two minor leaks were stopped up, and the vessel was pronounced seaworthy and allowed to proceed.

Official inquiry into the conduct of Captain Diehl and his officers at the time of the collision was begun today by the local office of the United States steamboat inspectors. Captain Herbert T. Parker, inspector of hulls, and John Stewart, boiler inspector, took the statements of the captain, first and second officers, quartermaster, one seaman and a member of the engine room staff. These will be forwarded to supervising inspector of the fifth district, who will decide whether charges are to be preferred against any of those concerned.

Stewart also will interview Alfred Geier and Michael S. Lira, two of the three survivors of the submarine crew, who are at the Chelsea naval hospital. Today hospital authorities refused to permit the questioning until the two men had enjoyed a complete rest for several days.

Captain Yancy N. Williams of the Charlestown navy yard called on Captain Diehl on board the City of Rome today. It was said that the conference was for the purpose of clearing up some minor points in connection with the collision. The naval investigation will be conducted by Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, commander of the submarine control force at New London Conn.

DIVERS ARE UNABLE TO OBTAIN ANY RESPONSE

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27—A message received at the submarine base here at 10:20 o'clock tonight from Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, in charge of the relief operations at the spot where the S-51 went down, read:

"Divers have not succeeded in obtaining any response. Sling passed under stern and lift of 100 tons taken by Merritt-Chapman derrick with no success. Derrick Monarch in tow of Luka and Sagamore expected after midnight. Expect to take additional 200 ton lift with the derrick. Sea choppy but does not interfere with rescue work."

The latest information here is that the submarine is resting on a sandy bottom. Men on the Chewink, which returned here tonight, said that the crane in attempting to lift the submarine was drawn down to the edge of the water and almost capsized.

The arrival of the derrick Monarch was delayed tonight when one of the tugs hauling it got its propeller caught in a tow rope. The Monarch is not expected to arrive until 4 p. m.

100-TON LIFT WAS NOT SUFFICIENT TO RAISE SUB

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 27. (AP)—A radio message from the rescue workers at the scene of the S-51 sinking, received here late today said that a sling had been passed under the submarine's stern and a pull made on the ropes equal to a 100-ton lift. This was unsuccessful, the message added, and a 200-ton lift was to be attempted later.

The sea was choppy, the despatch said, but this was not interfering with the work of rescue.

NAMES OF THOSE SAVED AND MISSING ON SUB S-51

Improvement Noted In Retail Trade

Signs of Progress Were Present in Nearly All Lines of Industry Last Week.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—New business gains were less pronounced last week although a perceptible quickening of retail trade took place. Unmistakable signs of progress were present in nearly all lines of industry, but the improvement in some quarters was more deliberate than the financial and business centers, keyed up to the usual autumn pitch of optimism, had hoped for.

Reports of the steel trade reviews that the industry was engaged in consolidating its late summer gains rather than speeding up its producing activities were mildly disappointing in view of the steady expansion which has recently taken place. The general situation, however, was favorably regarded and another advance in pig iron prices indicated a wider demand for these products.

In summarizing the general business situation, Dun's review reported that "demands in the aggregate were notably large, but buyers, although in some cases extending their forward commitments, continued to operate conservatively and to avoid excessive accumulation of goods. As a result of this policy, which has been adhered to for a long time, business is in a sound position and gives promise of further expansions."

In the financial district the maintenance of this hand-to-mouth buying policy in virtually all lines of trade has come to be recognized as a more or less permanent policy, based upon the railroad's demonstrated ability to effect quick deliveries. The trend away from the old habits of placing heavy forward orders has been accepted as one of the strongest factors in the current stability of business.

The long series of weekly millioncar freight loadings was broken by general suspension of activities around Labor day, and for the period ended Sept. 12 the number dropped to 975,434 cars, representing decreases compared with the preceding week and the corresponding period last year. The restricted movement of anthracite coal, due to the miners' walkout, was partially responsible for the drop.

Evidence accumulated that prolongation of the anthracite strike would seriously affect the prosperity of the hard coal carriers by reducing their operating revenues, largely derived from the movement of this fuel. On the other hand, business of the railroads which tap the bituminous fields has swollen rapidly in the past fortnight, the southwestern roads, it was reported, were beginning to feel the effects of the late summer drouth in this region, but so far as August earnings were concerned they shared in the general improvement.

Weakness of the cotton, grain and sugar markets last week caused some nervousness in these fields. Cotton prices broke sharply when the government unexpectedly increased its estimate of the 1925 yield and new low levels for the year were established in the grain and sugar markets.

Substantial price reductions in women's wear fabrics for spring were announced by the largest woolen manufacturer and were reported to have stimulated buying.

MAN KILLED DURING AN ATTEMPTED JAIL DELIVERY

Miami, Fla., Sept. 27.—(A. P.)—Five white prisoners were wounded, a negro trusty accidentally shot and killed and a pedestrian almost a block from the jail wounded in the left arm at 9:15 o'clock this morning when a group of fifteen prisoners made an organized attempt to escape from the Dade county jail during the breakfast hour.

The escape was frustrated when the fifteen men were met by a volley from shotguns and revolvers by deputy sheriffs as they emerged from the jail door. In anticipation of the attempted escape the armed deputies headed by Sheriff Henry R. Chase placed themselves at various vantage points in the jail yard and fired as the men broke from the dor.

HEALTH COMMISSIONER OF MASSACHUSETTS SUICIDES

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—(A. P.) — Dr. Eugene R. Kelly, state commissioner of health and chairman of the state public health council, committed suicide by hanging in the attic of his home in the Dorchester district today. Members of his family said he had been in a condition of depression for several days.

French Experts Are Studying Debt Figures

M. Caillaux Today Will Submit a Defense of the French Debt Funding Plan.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—While their experts wrestled with calculations of cold figures, finance Minister Caillaux and his associates of the French delegation completed plans tonight to go before the American debt funding commission tomorrow in a defense of the French debt funding plan.

M. Caillaux drew up a declaration of principles tonight which he will read to the Americans at the scheduled plenary session. He is ready also to invite a similar defense by the Americans of the suggestions made Friday by Secretary Mellon when the treasury chief so abruptly turned down the first Caillaux proposal. And there were indications given by members of each delegation tonight that from statements, comparable to debate, that are expected to come tomorrow, will be developed the first actual discussion of terms.

M. Caillaux and his colleagues made a pilgrimage today to Mount Vernon as the guests of Mr. Mellon and later had lunch with the treasury secretary.

Notwithstanding the sudden turn of events which indicated to some that the commissions were as far apart as before, M. Caillaux appeared hopeful. He believed that "feasible" terms would yet be forthcoming from the discussions and was quoted as having said that French public opinion never would permit acceptance of the suggestions from the American side for they were, in view of the French, almost comparable to the terms accorded the British.

Another basis for the hope held by the French chairman was in a belief that the discussions of the merits of the two plans will of themselves suggest new methods of approach to a solution. While M. Caillaux was said to have gathered much helpful information and advice from his talks today and reflexes of these conversations are expected to develop in the joint meeting tomorrow.

Much of the conversation today was between M. Caillaux and Senator Smoot of the American commission. In French quarters it was said that the Utah senator appeared damant; that he remained unconvinced that M. Caillaux's first proffer of a settlement was the best given by the French and fully represented their maximum capacity.

On the other hand, it was freely stated in behalf of the French minister that he had submitted a genuine and sincere offer and had no intention of using it as a "feeler" of the American position. He will defend it to that end in his declaration of principles tomorrow, it was stated officially.

The French spent many hours last night and today in arriving at the conclusions to be laid before the Americans. M. Caillaux went over many phases of his problem with Emile Daeschner, the French ambassador, and he also talked with Senator Smoot about what he contemplated saying. Late in the day he called his own mission together and the members labored two hours over the details of the document which he will read in the conference as did Mr Mellon when the French offer was rejected.

SEARCH WOODS NEAR MIDDLETOWN FOR BANDIT

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 27—(AP)—An all-day search in Maromas woods by the state police from the Hartford and Centerbrook barracks failed to unearth an armed bandit who attempted to hold up and rob at the point of a gun Edward Hill, of Maromas yesterday. Hill was held up while returning from Higganum by a man with a white cloth over his face. When Hill failed to stop, the man fired at him, but the bullet went wide. Hill whipped up his horse and when he had gone fifty yards the hold-up man fired another shot. Hill notified the police.

The state police after a search found a man in the woods near Maromas' last night. When ordered to put up his hands, he dashed away and escaped a bullet which one of the policemen fired at him. The woods were surrounded, but a search failed to disclose the man.

Charles Strurs of 118 Arnold street, Hartford, went to his cottage in Higganum this morning and as he looked through the window he saw a man leaving through another window on the opposite side of the house. Dashing around the house he caught sight of the man disappearing in the woods. The man wore dark trousers, a blue shirt and had no shoes or stockings. His face was covered by a heavy beard.

The searchers believe that the man is insane. He is armed with a pistol and it is believed that he also had a rifle.

COL. HOUSE EXPRESSES HIS VIEWS ON SECURITY PACT

NEW YORK, ept. 27—(A. P.)—Colonel Edward M. House, adviser of President Wilson during the war, returning from abroad today on the steamship Duilio, said that the peace and stability of Europe depended entirely upon the security pact in behalf of France.

"If the security pact fails, anything might happen," said Colonel House.

Colonel House said he believed that for this reason, Germany was more solicitous about the pact than was France.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED IN COLLISION OF TRAINS

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 27. — (A. P.)—Four persons were killed and 12 injured when two Atlantic Coast Line passenger trains collided head-on near Newark, Ga., seven miles east of Thomasville, Ga., at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon. Three of the dead were negroes.

FIRE LOSS IN NASHUA, N. H., IS ESTIMATED AT $200,000

Nashua, N. H., Sept. 27.—(A. P.)—Fire which broke out here early today from an undetermined cause, caused loss estimated at approximately $200,000. The chief loss was to the building and stock of Charles H. Avery company, dealers in plumbers' supplies.

DISORDERLY SCENE FOR THE ITALIAN DELEGATES

Cheers of the Pro-Fascists Mingled With Catcalls and Hisses as Interparliamentary Delegates Arrived at Pier in the Hudson River—Secret Service Men, Department of Justice Agents and Policement, With the Aid of Soldiers, Agents and Policemen, With the Aid of Soldiers, Kept Kept the Crowd in Control.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—Shouts and cheers of pro-Fascists mingled with catcalls and hisses of anti-Fascists today when the steamship Duilio, bringing eleven Italian delegates to the interparliamentary union conference in Washington, arrived at the Fifty-Seventh street pier in the Hudson river.

Secret service men, department of justice agents and policemen, including the bomb squad, kept the crowd in control until the delegates had been hurried from the pier to their hotel with the aid of a detachment of soldiers from Governor's island.

After the delegates had left the pier, and before the crowd had dispersed an unidentified man, alleged by the police to be an anti-Fascist, shot and slightly wounded two Fascisti sympathizers. Scores of Italian men and women ran to shelter as he fired seven shots. The man escaped.

While the Italian delegates were arriving at the pier, a crowd of 400 anti-Fascists, many of them waving red flags, gathered outside the Hotel Plaza in the belief that the delegates would stop there while in this city before going to Washington. Four members of the crowd entered the hotel and demanded that the Italian flag hoisted above the building be taken down. The hotel officials refused and when the crowd outside shouted their resentment a riot call was sent in to a nearby police station. Reserves soon dispersed the crowd.

Italian men and women began gathering at the Hudson river pier long before the steamship was to dock. It was explained that 21 soldiers from governor's island were assigned merely to aid the delegates in removing their baggage. All persons except government agents and police were barred from the pier.

While the eleven delegates were preparing to leave for their hotel, the anti-Fascists sang the "Internationale." Only one banner was carried by this group. This banner bore an inscription derogatory to only one member of the delegation. Police tried to prevent its appearance, but failed.

Captain Gegan, head of the police bomb squad, said some of his men would be on guard constantly at the Hotel Pennsylvania while the delegates remained there. Four agents of the department of state were included in the force at the pier to prevent an outbreak. The rest of the force consisted of ten mounted policemen, ten motorcycle policemen, six policemen and detectives, ten secret service men and ten department of justice agents.

Giacoma De Martino, Italian ambassador to the United States, met the delegates at the pier. Henry P. Fletcher, American ambassador to Italy, arrived on the Duilio with the delegation. Senator Giuseppe Di Stefano headed the group and the other members were Senator Salvatore Barzilai, Senator Luigi Luiggi, Senator Domenico Nuvoloni, Congressmen Fausto Bianchi, Vittorio Buratti, Giovanis Battista Milliani, Alessandro Sardi and Filippo Ungaro; Commander Luigi Nuvoloni, secretary of the delegation, and Ignazio Antonio Guzzardo, assistant secretary.

Only three members of the delegation are enrolled Fascisti. They are Senator Luiggi and Congressmen Sardi and Ungaro. Congressman Ungaro was a commander in the march of the Fascisti on Rome.

WHAT EXPANSION OF ARMY AIR SERVICE WOULD COST

Washington, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—Disclosure to the president's air board by war department witnesses that the approved project for expansion of the army air service would cost approximately $79,000,000 a year for the first ten years and $60,000,000 a year thereafter to maintain a peacetime fleet of 2,500 planes and other auxiliary aircraft served today to bring to light that this is only one of nearly a score of similar projects now under study at the department.

Some of these, which are regarded as even more urgent from a national defense viewpoint than immediate air service expansion, involved almost equally as large expenditures in addition to present army budget figures. There is much speculation at the department as to whether the president's air board will not find it necessary to weigh these and similar non-air service problems of the navy to some extent before its recommendations for aviation can be formulated.

The army extension project, known as the Lassiter board report or "Project No. 4" in staff circles, is founded on proposals submitted by Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, to Secretary Weeks two years ago and referred to the board headed by Major General William Lassiter, then on the general staff, for findings. It involves a material and personnel expansion program covering ten years to reach a peace strength of 4,000 officers and 25,000 men operating 2,500 planes.

The only cost item dealt with by the board was its recommendation for a $25,000,000 annual appropriation for new planes and operations.

Subsequent full cost studies presented to the air board by Brigadier General Hugh Drum, of the general staff, fixed the annual expenditure required each year for the first two years as around $79,000,000 and the continuing cost of upkeep thereafter at $60,000,000.

QUESTION CONDUCT OF STATE'S ATTORNEY ALLING

HARTFORD, Sept. 27—Charges concerning the conduct of State's Attorney A. A. Alling of New Haven county in "entering places where it is public knowledge that liquor is sold," have been made to the judges of the superior court by the Public Welfare Association of New Haven. The association is composed entirely of women and its officers are Mrs. Sarah Devlin, president; Mrs. Colvin, vice president; Gertrude Sarles, treasurer and Miss Anderson, secretary. All are from New Haven.

Chief Justice George W. Wheeler declined to comment on the matter today saying "as a matter of business, it would probably be taken up at some regular meeting of the judges." He refused to comment on the character of the charges.

State's Attorney Alling characterizes the charges as an attempt to discredit his work during the Macri trial and an attempt to injure him by "persons whose corns have been stepped on once or twice." "I will not dignify the persons back of the movement by a public statement," he said, "but this welfare stuff is bunk."

The people back of the movement, he said, are in the employ of somebody closely connected with the Macri trial.

STOLEN AUTO FIGURES IN SERIOUS ACCIDENT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—Harold Sunden, 406 Maplewood avenue, was killed and Lawrence Burns, 653 Main street, both of Bridgeport, probably fatally injured early Sunday morning in Orange when a stolen car in which they were riding figured in an accident. The machine wa stolen from a garage in this city shortly after midnight and was the property of Dr. Andreas Lassko, of this city.

SURVEY OF EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES IN CONNECTICUT

HARTFORD, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—The cost of education is no greater in the consolidated schools of Connecticut than in the one room schools, while a higher grade of teaching can be maintained in the first named type, while the power to hold pupils in attendance is far superior to that of the "little red school house." These conclusions were arrived at by Emil Leonard Larson, Ph. D., after a two year survey of educational facilities here for Columbia university.

The survey and conclusions with recommendations to the state department of education have been made the subject of a volume, "One-Room and Consolidated Schools of Connecticut." The work gained the degree of doctor of philosophy for Mr. Larson and Dr. Albert B. Meredith predicts that it will be of almost inestimable value to the plans of the department during the next decade.

Based on a statistical table of the number of one-room schools in the state at successive periods, Mr. Larson, in his book, shows that should the present percentage of decrease be maintained, the one room school will be history in less than fifty years in Connecticut.

In 1860 there were 1,486 one-room schools. By 1886 the number had decreased to 1,150. Figures for the succeeding ten year periods bring the total down to 715 in 1920, a decrease of more than half in sixty years. An even higher percentage has been evident since 1920. This type of school had decreased to 647 in 1922, 63 having been closed in about two years and the next year the table shows that the number was still further reduced to 613, or thirty four for the year.

The tendency is towards a still greater elimination of the one-room schools Mr. Larson finds due to the better present day modes of transportation. "When an elementary school is closed and its pupils transported elsewhere, other things than cost enter into the action," he says. "Distance and conditions of transportation, of building, value, density of population, the number of pupils and the educational and social benefits that accrue."

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE REPLIES TO ITS CRITICS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—The department of agriculture's crop reporting board struck back today at critics of its September 23 cotton report with a statement that it "stands fairly and squarely behind its reports and accepts full responsibility for them." The September 23 report was assailed particularly by Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama.

"The complete records of the board are on file at the department." The statement issued today said, "and members of congress and others have frequently been invited to inspect them. These records contain the data upon which the September 23 and earlier reports were based and refute the insinuations which have been made that the board is affected by outside influences in arriving at its forecasts."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles Warren Plummer.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 27. (AP)—Mrs. Charles Warren Plummer, of New Bedford, Mass., died today at Grafton hotel here where she made her home. She had just returned from Saranac Lake, N. Y., where she suffered from heart disease. Funeral services will be held Tuesday in New Bedford.

Mrs. Plummer was widow of Charles Warren Plummer, capitalist, who died eighteen years ago. She made her home in Washington for the greater part of the past twenty years. She is survived by her nephew, Horace Washington, American consul general in London, and Mrs. Frank Baker, of New York city, an aunt.

SUB. S-51 REMAINS ON BED OF OCEAN WITH 34 MEN ABOARD

Was Sunk by the Steamer City of Rome Late Friday Night a Few Miles Off Block Island—Slight Hope is Entertained That Any of the Men Are Alive—An Attempt to Raise the Sub Will Be Made This Noon—The Ship is Under 128 Feet of Water—The Great Derrick Ship Monarch is Due to Arrive at the Scene This Morning—One of Three Survivors Gives His Version of the Disaster.

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—With only the faintest hope that their efforts would be crowned with success, naval men aided by civilian wrecking crews continued their strenuous efforts today to rescue the 34 officers and men who went down with the submarine S-51 where she sunk in collision with the steamer City of Rome off Block Island, Friday night.

Unavoidable delays due to the absence of powerful derrick equipment, and the testimony of divers who reported that there could not possibly be life in the crushed hull of the submarine on its ocean bed 128 feet beneath the surface saddened but did not discourage the rescuers. Repeated attempts to raise the sunken craft by means of compressed air pumped from her sister vessel the S-51 failed of success, and tonight the naval officials on the scene awaited impatiently the coming of the great derrick ship Monarch, due to arrive at midnight. This vessel was reported in Long Island sound off Larchmont, N. Y., at noon today.

While the rescue forces headed by Rear Admiral H. H. Cristy, commander of the submarine control force at New London admittedly labored with slight hope that any of those entombed in the S-51 had a chance of life, officers at the submarine base still refused to see the darker side of the picture.

Relatives and friends of the S-51 crew, frantic from suspense, besieged the base today and all were advised not to abandon hope. Lieutenant Commander Flanagan, the base executive officer, insisted that when the submarine was rammed a large number of the crew were in a position to lock themselves behind the water tight doors of the torpedo and motor compartments in the bow and stern of the submarine. There, if the air held out, they would be safe for at least 72 hours, which would give the derrick ship time to make the attempt at raising her.

Officials in charge of the rescue work admitted tonight that the delay in raising the S-51 afforded the most depressing aspect of the situation. The most optimistic estimate as to the length of time men might live in the compartments was 72 hours and two thirds of that time has passed since the sinking. With the Monarch arriving at midnight it was believed the wreck could not be brought to the surface before noon tomorrow at the earliest. There was a grim impression among the rescuers that no live men might be found when the S-51 was raised and her ends cut open to release those imprisoned in the compartments.

The reports of naval divers who were first to reach the wreck last night added to the hopelessness of the workers. Chief Torpedoman J. W. Ingraham, the first diver to go down, said there was no possible chance that any of the imprisoned men were alive.

"I made up my mind to this one minute after I reached the vessel and found the conning tower hatch wide open," Ingraham said. "There is a hole in the port side three feet wide and eight or nine feet long, located between the deck gun and the cut water abaft the conning tower. As I walked about the deck stamping and kicking on the hatches as a means of communicating with the crew, I saw air bubbles coming out around the hatches, all of which are closed with the exception of the conning tower hatch. I was sure then the whole boat was filled with water."

Ingraham reported that he "made all the noise he could," and then put his hand on the hatch covers to see whether there was any vibration from possible answering knocks within. There was no sign of life whatever, he said.

The first rescue step taken today was to send a diver down to the broken S-51 to attach compressed air tubes to the valves on either side of the conning tower. From daybreak an oxygen was forced into the hull to save any of the living from suffocation. Early today the N-4 carrying two expert divers in the employ of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Corporation, New York, joined the fleet which is grouped about the tender Camden, mother ship of the submarine and flagship of Admiral Christy.

The rescue fleet already on the scene of the collision was augmented late today by the naval tug Chewink which arrived with a physician and supplies aboard. Off the Camden's stern the submarine S-50, sister ship of the sunken vessel, is at anchor to mark the spot under which the S-51 rests. Other vessels in the fleet were the naval tug Patoka, the submarines S-20 and S-48, tugs and lighters sent out by the salvaging company, and the boats used by the deep sea divers.

Admiral Christy tonight awaited eagerly the arrival of Chief Gunner W. F. Loughman from Iona Island, New York. Gunner Loughman, who is expected to reach here tomorrow, holds the world's deep sea diving record. He went down in 300 feet of water in Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands, to reach the sunken F-4. A fast patrol boat is waiting at the submarine base to speed him to the scene of the disaster 50 miles away.

The check-up of the story told by Dewey G. Kile, engineer first class, one of the three survivors, gave further indication, officers here said, that there is no life aboard the S-51. These officers pointed out that Kile, Alfred Geier, electrician's mate second class and Michael S. Lira, fireman, first class, escaped from the rammed submarine only because their bunks were so near the conning tower hatch that they were thrown against its ladder by the crash.

The others aboard, including Lieutenant Rodney H. Dobson, the commander, who was reported trapped and dragged under by the sinking submarine when his head became entangled in the radio antenna as he came up to the bridge through the conning tower hatch, must be dead, officers here believe. They said it would have been impossible for anybody to have closed the watertight compartment doors in the minute and one half during which the S-51 remained on the surface after the collision.

About noon today the divers succeeded in placing a single sling about the stern of the sunken submarine During the day it held its position but the divers said that the least roughness of sea tonight would displace their line. The divers worked for several hours, each one remaining under water half an hour at a stretch to make this line fast to the wreck.

The first move to be made after the derrick ship Monarch arrives, one of the divers said, would be to place enough slings about the hull so that the stern could be hoisted to the surface and clear of the water. Then a plate wide enough to free the imprisoned crew or allow the passage of their bodies would be ripped open.

The S-51 then would be released and allowed to drop back to the bottom and the bow would be raised so that the torpedo compartment might be broken into. After that the engine room would be investigated, the divers said. The remaining two compartments were smashed by the bow of the City of Rome.

The spectacle at the scene of the disaster today was described by one observer as "the death watch of the submarines." The mother ship Camden with the submarines gathered about her gave the impression of a mourning group. The object of their figurative sorrow was what men at the submarine base here have called "one of the unlucky S-boats," and one of the latest type submarines in the navy. Four of the S-type, built since 1920, at Bridgeport, Conn., have met with mishaps in the last two years. The S-51 is that number, alone carried men to their deaths.

Three of the S-boats were wrecked in New England waters, the S-51 lies at the bottom of the ocean off Block Island; the S-19 grounded off Cape Cod last January and remained on a sandbar for many weeks; the S-48 was pounded to pieces on the rocks at the entrance to Portsmouth, New Hampshire, harbor, on January 30 last. The fourth, the S-6, collided with a destroyer in far east waters.

Today was another day of suspense for Mrs. Dobson, wife of the commander of the S-51 who is here awaiting reports from the rescue work. In the face of the apparently hopeless aspect of the disaster as related to her by brother officers of her husband, she has refused to surrender her belief that Lieutenant Dobson will be found safe inside his ship when the divers break open the hull. Her courage and hope are shared by the families and relatives of five enlisted men of the submarine's crew whose homes are in this city. All insist that their men are alive and will be rescued when the wreck of the S-51 is lifted from the ocean floor.

Two of those believed to be lost are Frederick P. and William C. Teschemacher, twin brthers, of Bangor, Pennsylvania, both seamen first class.

RESCUED MAN GIVES HIS VERSION OF THE DISASTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—Dewey G. Kile, engineman aboard the submarine S-51 sunk off the coast of Block Island, reported his version of the disaster early today to the navy department. He said he was in the water one hour and fifteen minutes before he was rescued by a lifeboat of the steamer City of Rome which struck the submarine and that he saw five other men in the water who apparently drowned.

At the time of the crash he was asleep in the forward battery and was awakened by a piece of cork striking his face. When he reached the bridge, he declared he was washed overboard and drawn ten feet under by suction.

As he went overboard, he said, he saw the City of Rome backing away. He asserted that no search lights were used and that the steamer left the scene forty-five minutes after he had been rescued.

The submarine was on the surface when struck, he added, and all of the deck hatches except the conning tower hatch were closed. He expressed the belief that all compartments forward of the engine room were flooded. As the submarine went down, he said, he heard the captain call to the City of Rome for a line and saw F. C. Wiseman, the lookout, drown after struggling in the water.

CITY OF ROME SAILED ON HER REGULAR TRIP SUNDAY

BOSTON, Sept. 27—The steamship City of Rome, which collided with the submarine S-51 off Block Island Friday night, sailed late today for Savannah on its regular trip, Captain John H. Diehl, who was in the wheel house of the steamship when it rammed and sank the submarine, was in command of the vessel when it sailed. Some time in the early hours of Monday the City of Rome was to pass the scene of the collision where a rescue fleet is laboring to raise the S-51 and determine if any of the 34 men who went down with her remain alive.

The steamship left with virtually full passenger list, only a few of those booked for the voyage having cancelled their reservations since the disaster. An examination of her hull early today showed three plates on the starboard bow dented and the two on the port side bulged out. Several frames and floor plates were slightly distorted. Two seams and one of two minor leaks were stopped up, and the vessel was pronounced seaworthy and allowed to proceed.

Official inquiry into the conduct of Captain Diehl and his officers at the time of the collision was begun today by the local office of the United States steamboat inspectors. Captain Herbert T. Parker, inspector of hulls, and John Stewart, boiler inspector, took the statements of the captain, first and second officers, quartermaster, one seaman and a member of the engine room staff. These will be forwarded to supervising inspector of the fifth district, who will decide whether charges are to be preferred against any of those concerned.

Stewart also will interview Alfred Geier and Michael S. Lira, two of the three survivors of the submarine crew, who are at the Chelsea naval hospital. Today hospital authorities refused to permit the questioning until the two men had enjoyed a complete rest for several days.

Captain Yancy N. Williams of the Charlestown navy yard called on Captain Diehl on board the City of Rome today. It was said that the conference was for the purpose of clearing up some minor points in connection with the collision. The naval investigation will be conducted by Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, commander of the submarine control force at New London Conn.

DIVERS ARE UNABLE TO OBTAIN ANY RESPONSE

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27—A message received at the submarine base here at 10.20 o'clock tonight from Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, in charge of the relief operations at the spot where the S-51 went down, read:

"Divers have not succeeded in obtaining any response. Sling passed under stern and lift of 100 tons taken by Merritt-Chapman derrick with no success. Derrick Monarch in tow of Iuka and Sagamore expected after midnight. Expect to take additional 200 ton lift with the derrcik. Sea choppy but does not interfere with rescue work."

The latest information here is that the submarine is resting on a sandy bottom. Men on the Chewink, which returned here tonight, said that the crane in attempting to lift the submarine was drawn down to the edge of the water and almost capsized.

The arrival of the derrick Monarch was delayed tonight when one of the tugs hauling it got its propeller caught in a tow rope. The Monarch is not expected to arrive until 4 p. m.

100-TON LIFT WAS NOT SUFFICIENT TO RAISE SUB

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 27. (AP)—A radio message from the rescue workers at the scene of the S-51 sinking, received here late today said that a sling had been passed under the submarine's stern and a pull made on the ropes equal to a 100-ton lift. This was unsuccessful, the message added, and a 200-ton lift was to be attempted later.

The sea was choppy, the despatch said, but this was not interfering with the work of rescue.

NAMES OF THOSE SAVED AND MISSING ON SUB S-51

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—Following is a list of the crew of the S-51 as reported to the Navy Department by the Commanding Officer of the Submarine Base, New London.

Saved

GEIER, ALFRED, electrician's mate, second class, 362 Tarkin avenue, New Bedford, Mass.

KILE, DEWEY G., engineman, first class, R. F. D. 1, Box 14, Peoria, Miss.

LIRA, MICHAEL, fireman, first class, 2237 Clark Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Missing Officers

DOBSON, Lieutenant RODNEY H., 60 College Street, Brockport, Conn., commanding officer.

FOSTER, Lieutenant Junior Grade F. D., Nutley, N. J.

GLASSCOCK, Lieutenant Junior Grade T. A., San Antonio, Texas.

HASELDEN, Lieutenant Junior Grade J. D., Dillon, S. C.

PINO, Lieutenant Junior Grade HARLOW M., 109 Belmont Avenue, Long Beach, Cal.

Missing Enlisted Men

BERK, PAUL DANIEL, Engineman, second class; father, Irwin M. Berk, Shoemakersville, Berks County, Pa.

CASSIDY, RALPH EDWARD, gunner's mate, second class; mother, Mrs. Maud E. Cassidy, 55 South Street, Claremont, N. H.

CRAWFORD, HENRY LEE, Radio Man, first class; mother, Mrs. Mary Crawford, 104 Carter Street, Ardmore, Okla.

EARLE, ALLAN CLIFFORD, Engineman, first class; wife, Mrs. Eunice L. Earle, 21 Summer Street, Gloucester, Mass.

ELSER, HARRY DICK, Coxswain; father, Jesse Elser, 763 Jefferson Pl., Columbus, Ohio.

FIRM, RUDY, Motor Machinist's Mate, first class; father, Frank Firm, Klein, Mont.

GIBSON, JOHN LAW, Engineman, second class; mother, Mrs. Ida Gibson, 430 Hall Street, Portland, Ore.

HILTBOLD, VALENTIN, Chief Torpedo Man; wife, Hazel E. Hiltbold, 21 Bay Side avenue, New port, R. I.

HARMAN, WALTER EDWARD, Seaman, first class; father, Walter Harman, 105 Prospect Street, Jamaica, N. Y.

JAMES, FRANKLIN PIERCE, Chief Motorc Machinist's Mate; wife, Mrs. Mary A. James, Fre Street, North Weymouth, Mass.

WISEMAN FRANK COLLINS, Torpedo Man, third class; mother, Mrs. Mary J. Wiseman, 328 West Third Street, South Boston, Mass.

Improvement Noted In Retail Trade

Signs of Progress Were Present in Nearly All Lines of Industry Last Week.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—New business gains were less pronounced last week although a perceptible quickening of retail trade took place. Unmistakable signs of progress were present in nearly all lines of industry, but the improvement in some quarters was more deliberate than the financial and business centers, keyed up to the usual autumn pitch of optimism, had hoped for.

Reports of the steel trade reviews that the industry was engaged in consolidating its late summer gains rather than speeding up its producing activities were mildly disappointing in view of the steady expansion which has recently taken place. The general situation, however, was favorably regarded and another advance in pig iron prices indicated a wider demand for these products.

In summarizing the general business situation, Dun's review reported that "demands in the aggregate were notably large, but buyers, although in some cases extending their forward commitments, continued to operate conservatively and to avoid excessive accumulation of goods. As a result of this policy, which, has been adhered to for a long time, business is in a sound position and gives promise of further expansions."

In the financial district the maintenance of this hand-to-mouth buying policy in virtually all lines of trade has come to be recognized as a more or less permanent policy, based upon the railroad's demonstrated ability to effect quick deliveries. The trend away from the old habits of placing heavy forward orders has been accepted as one of the strongest factors in the current stability of business.

The long series of weekly millionear freight loadings was broken by general suspension of activities around Labor day, and for the period ended Sept. 12 the number dropped to 975,464 cars, representing decreases compared with the preceding week and the corresponding period last year. The restricted movement of anthracite coal, due to the miners' walkout, was partially responsible for the drop.

Evidence accumulated that prolongation of the anthracite strike would seriously affect the prosperity of the hard coal carriers by reducing their operating revenues, largely derived from the movement of this fuel. On the other hand, business of the railroads which tap the bituminous fields has swollen rapidly in the past fortnight, the southwestern roads, it was reported, were beginning to feel the effects of the late summer drouth in this region, but so far as August earnings were concerned they shared in the general improvement.

Weakness of the cotton, grain and silks markets last week caused some nervousness in these fields. Cotton prices broke sharply when the government unexpectedly increased its estimate of the 1925 yield and new low levels for the year were established in the grain and sugar markets.

Substantial price reductions in women's wear fabrics for spring were announced by the largest woolen manufacturer and were reported to have stimulated buying.

MAN KILLED DURING AN ATTEMPTED JAIL DELIVERY

Miami, Fla., Sept. 27.—(A. P.)—Five white prisoners were wounded, a negro trusty accidentally shot and killed and a pedestrian almost a block from the jail wounded in the left arm at 9:15 o'clock this morning when a group of fifteen prisoners made an organized attempt to escape from the Dade county jail during the breakfast hour.

The escape was frustrated when the fifteen men were met by a volley from shotguns and revolvers by deputy sheriffs as they emerged from the jail door. In anticipation of the attempted escape the armed deputies headed by Sheriff Henry R. Chase placed themselves at various vantage points in the jail yard and fired as the men broke from the dor.

HEALTH COMMISSIONER OF MASSACHUSETTS SUICIDES

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—(A. P.) — Dr. Eugene R. Kelly, state commissioner of health and chairman of the state public health council, committed suicide by hanging in the attic of his home in the Dorchester district today. Members of his family said he had been in a condition of depression for several days.

French Experts Are Studying Debt Figures

M. Caillaux Today Will Submit a Defense of the French Debt Funding Plan.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—While their experts wrestled with calculations of cold figures, finance Minister Caillaux and his associates of the French delegation completed plans tonight to go before the American debt funding commission tomorrow in a defense of the French debt funding plan.

M. Caillaux drew up a declaration of principles tonight which he will read to the Americans at the scheduled plenary session. He is ready also to invite a similar defense by the Americans of the suggestions made Friday by Secretary Mellon when the treasury chief so abruptly turned down the first Caillaux proposal. And there were indications given by members of each delegation tonight that from statements, comparable to debate, that are expected to come tomorrow, will be developed the first actual discussion of terms.

M. Caillaux and his colleagues made a pilgrimage today to Mount Vernon as the guests of Mr. Mellon and later had lunch with the treasury secretary.

Notwithstanding the sudden turn of events which indicated to some that the commissions were as far apart as before, M. Caillaux appeared hopeful. He believed that "feasible" terms would yet be forthcoming from the discussions and was quoted as having said that French public opinion never would permit acceptance of the suggestions from the American side for they were, in view of the French, almost comparable to the terms accorded the British.

Another basis for the hope held by the French chairman was in a belief that the discussions of the merits of the two plans will of themselves suggest new methods of approach to a solution. While M. Caillaux was said to have gathered much helpful information and advice from his talks today and reflexes of these conversations are expected to develop in the joint meeting tomorrow.

Much of the conversation today was between M. Caillaux and Senator Smoot of the American commission In French quarters it was said that the Utah senator appeared damant; that he remained unconvinced that M. Caillaux's first proffer of a settlement was the best seen by the French and fully represented their maximum capacity.

On the other hand, it was freely stated in behalf of the French minister that he had submitted a genuine and sincere offer and had no intention of using it as a "feeler" of the American position. He will defend it to that end in his declaration of principles tomorrow, it was stated officially.

The French spent many hours last night and today in arriving at the conclusions to be put before the Americans. Caillaux went over many phases of his problem with Emile Daeschner, the French ambassador, and he also talked with Senator Smoot about what he contemplated saying. Late in the day he called his own mission together, and the members labored two hours over the details of the document which he will read in the conference as did Mr. Mellon when the French offer was rejected.

SEARCH WOODS NEAR MIDDLETOWN FOR BANDIT

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 27—(AP)—An all-day search in Maromas woods by the state police from the Hartford and Centerbrook barracks failed to unearth an armed bandit who attempted to hold up and rob at the point of a gun Edward Hill, of Maromas yesterday. Hill was held up while returning from Higganum by a man with a white cloth over his face. When Hill failed to stop, the man fired at him, but the bullet went wide. Hill whipped on his horse and when he had gone fifty yards the hold-up man fired another shot. Hill notified the police.

The state police after a search found a man in the woods near Maromas last night. When ordered to put up his hands, he dashed away and escaped a bullet which one of the policemen fired at him. The woods were surrounded, but a search failed to disclose the man.

Charles Strom of 118 Arnold street, Hartford, went to his cottage in Higganum this morning and as he looked through the window he saw a man leaving through another windöw on the opposite side of the house. Dashing around the house he caught sight of the man disappearing in the woods The man wore dark trousers, a blue shirt and had no shoes or stockings. His face was covered by a heavy beard.

The searchers believe that the man is insane. He is armed with a pistol and it is believed that he also had a rifle.

COL. HOUSE EXPRESSES HIS VIEWS ON SECURITY PACT

NEW YORK, ept. 27—(A. P.)—Colonel Edward M. House, adviser of President Wilson during the war, returning from abroad today on the steamship Duilio, said that the peace and stability of Europe depended entirely upon the security pact in behalf of France.

"If the security pact fails, anything might happen," said Colonel House.

Colonel House said he believed that for this reason, Germany was more solicitous about the pact than was France.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED IN COLLISION OF TRAINS

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 27. — (A. P.)—Four persons were killed and 13 injured when two Atlantic Coast Line passenger trains collided head-on near Newark, Ga., seven miles east of Thomasville, Ga., at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon. Three of the dead were negroes.

FIRE LOSS IN NASHUA, N. H., IS ESTIMATED AT $200,000

Nashua, N. H., Sept. 27.—(A. P.)—Fire which broke out here early today from an undetermined cause, caused loss estimated at approximately $200,000. The chief loss was to the building and stock of Charles H. Avery company, dealers in plumbers' supplies.

DISORDERLY SCENE FOR THE ITALIAN DELEGATES

Cheers of the Pro-Fascists Mingled With Catcalls and Hisses as Interparliamentary Delegates Arrived at Pier in the Hudson River—Secret Service Men, Department of Justice Agents and Policement, With the Aid of Soldiers, Agents and Policemen, With the Aid of Soldiers, Kept Kept the Crowd in Control.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—Shouts and cheers of pro-Fascists mingled with catcalls and hisses of anti-Fascists today when the steamship Duilio, bringing eleven Italian delegates to the interparliamentary union conference in Washington, arrived at the Fifty-Seventh street pier in the Hudson river.

Secret service men, department of justice agents and policemen, including the bomb squad, kept the crowd in control until the delegates had been hurried from the pier to their hotel with the aid of a detachment of soldiers from Governor's island.

After the delegates had left the pier, and before the crowd had dispersed an unidentified man, alleged by the police to be an anti-Fascist, shot and slightly wounded two Fascisti sympathizers. Scores of Italian men and women ran to shelter as he fired seven shots. The man escaped.

While the Italian delegates were arriving at the pier, a crowd of 400 anti-Fascists, many of them waving red flags, gathered outside the Hotel Plaza in the belief that the delegates would stop there while in this city before going to Washington. Four members of the crowd entered the hotel and demanded that the Italian flag hoisted above the building be taken down. The hotel officials refused and when the crowd outside shouted their resentment a riot call was sent in to a nearby police station. Reserves soon dispersed the crowd.

Italian men and women began gathering at the Hudson river pier long before the steamship was to dock. It was explained that 21 soldiers from governor's island were assigned merely to aid the delegates in removing their baggage. All persons except government agents and police were barred from the pier.

While the eleven delegates were preparing to leave for their hotel, the anti-Fascists sang the "Internationale." Only one banner was carried by this group. This banner bore an inscription derogatory to only one member of the delegation. Police tried to prevent its appearance, but failed.

Captain Gegan, head of the police bomb squad, said some of his men would be on guard constantly at the Hotel Pennsylvania while the delegates remained there. Four agents of the department of state were included in the force at the pier to prevent an outbreck. The rest of the force consisted of ten mounted policemen, ten motorcycle policemen, six policemen and detectives, ten secret service men and ten department of justice agents.

Giacoma De Martino, Italian ambassador to the United States, met the delegates at the pier. Henry P. Fletcher, American ambassador to Italy, arrived on the Duilio with the delegation. Senator Giuseppe Di Stefano headed the group and the other members were Senator Salvatore Barzilai, Senator Luigi Luiggi, Senator Domenico Nuvoloni, Congressmen Fausto Bianchi, Vittorio Buratti, Giovanni Battista Milliami, Alessandro Sardi and Filippo Ungaro; Commander Luigi Nuvoloni, secretary of the delegation, and Ignazio Antonio Guzzardo, assistant secretary.

Only three members of the delegation are enrolled Fascisti. They are Senator Luiggi and Congressmen Sardi and Ungaro. Congressman Ungaro was a commander in the march of the Fascisti on Rome.

WHAT EXPANSION OF ARMY AIR SERVICE WOULD COST

Washington, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—Disclosure to the president's air board by war department witnesses that the approved project for expansion of the army air service would cost approximately $79,000,000 a year for the first ten years and $60,000,000 a year thereafter to maintain a peacetime fleet of 2,500 planes and other auxiliary aircraft served today to bring to light that this is only one of nearly a score of similar projects now under study at the department.

Some of these, which are regarded as even more urgent from a national defense viewpoint than immediate air service expansion, involved almost equally as large expenditures in addition to present army budget figures. There is much speculation at the department as to whether the president's air board will not find it necessary to weigh these and similar non-air service problems of the navy to some extent before its recommendations for aviation can be formulated.

The army extension project, known as the Lassiter board report or "Project No. 4" in staff circles, is founded on proposals submitted by Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, to Secretary Weeks two years ago and referred to the board headed by Major General William Lassiter, then on the general staff, for findings. It involves a material and personnel expansion program covering ten years to reach a peace strength of 4,000 officers and 25,000 men operating 2,500 planes.

The only cost item dealt with by the board was its recommendation for a $25,000,000 annual appropriation for new planes and operations.

Subsequent full cost studies presented to the air board by Brigadier General Hugh Drum, of the general staff, fixed the annual expenditure required each year for the first ten years as around $78,000,000 and the continuing cost of upkeep thereafter at $60,000,000.

QUESTION CONDUCT OF STATE'S ATTORNEY ALLING

HARTFORD, Sept. 27—Charges concerning the conduct of State's Attorney A. A. Alling of New Haven county in "entering places where it is public knowledge that liquor is sold," have been made to the judges of the superior court by the Public Welfare Association of New Haven. The association is composed entirely of women and its officers are Mrs. Sarah Devlin, president; Mrs. Colvin, vice president; Gertrude Sarles, treasurer and Miss Anderson, secretary. All are from New Haven.

Chief Justice George W. Wheeler declined to comment on the matter today saying "as a matter of business, it would probably be taken up at some regular meeting of the judges." He refused to comment on the character of the charges.

State's Attorney Alling characterizes the charges as an attempt to discredit his work during the Macri trial and an attempt to injure him by "persons whose corns have been stepped on once or twice." "I will not signify the persons back of the movement by a public statement," he said, "but this welfare stuff is bunk."

The people back of the movement, he said, are in the employ of somebody closely connected with the Macri trial.

STOLEN AUTO FIGURES IN SERIOUS ACCIDENT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—Harold Sunden, 406 Maplewood avenue, was killed and Lawrence Burns, 653 Main street, both of Bridgeport, probably fatally injured early Sunday morning in Orange when a stolen car in which they were riding figured in an accident. The machine was stolen from a garage in this city shortly after midnight and was the property of Dr. Andreas Lasdo, of this city.

SURVEY OF EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES IN CONNECTICUT

HARTFORD, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—The cost of education is no greater in the consolidated schools of Connecticut than in the one room schools, while a higher grade of teaching can be maintained in the first named type, while the power to hold pupils in attendance is far superior to that of the "little red school house." These conclusions were arrived at by Emil Leonard Larson, Ph. D., after a two year survey of educational facilities here for Columbia university.

The survey and conclusions with recommendations to the state department of education have been made the subject of a volume, "One-Room and Consolidated Schools of Connecticut." The work gained the degree of doctor of philosophy for Mr. Larson and Dr. Albert B. Meredith predicts that it will be of almost inestimable value to the plans of the department during the next decade.

Based on a statistical table of the number of one-room schools in the state at successive periods, Mr. Larson, in his book, shows that should the present percentage of decrease be maintained, the one room school will be history in less than fifty years in Connecticut.

In 1860 there were 1,486 one-room schools. By 1886 the number had decreased to 1,150. Figures for the succeeding ten year periods bring the total down to 715 in 1920, a decrease of more than half in sixty years. An even higher percentage has been evident since 1920. This type of school had decreased to 647 in 1922, 68 having been closed in about two years and the next year the table shows that the number was still further reduced to 613, or thirty four for the year.

The tendency is towards a still greater elimination of the one-room schools Mr. Larson finds due to the better present day modes of transportation. "When an elementary school is closed and its pupils transported elsewhere, other things than cost enter into the action," he says. "Distance and conditions of transportation, of building value, density of population; the number of pupils and the educational and social benefits that accrue."

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE REPLIES TO ITS CRITICS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—The department of agriculture's crop reporting board struck back today at critics of its September 23 cotton report with a statement that it "stands fairly and squarely behind its reports and accepts full responsibility for them." The September 23 report was assailed particularly by Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama.

"The complete records of the board are on file at the department." The statement issued today said, "and members of congress and others have frequently been invited to inspect them. These records contain the data upon which the September 23 and earlier reports were based and refute the insinuations which have been made that the board is affected by outside influences in arriving at its forecasts."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles Warren Plummer.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 27. (AP)—Mrs. Charles Warren Plummer, of New Bedford, Mass., died today at Grafton hotel here where she made her home. She had just returned from Saranac Lake, N. Y., where she suffered from heart disease. Funeral services will be held Tuesday in New Bedford.

Mrs. Plummer was widow of Charles Warren Plumaer, capitalist, who died eighteen years ago. She made her home in Washington for the greater part of the past twenty years. She is survived by her nephew, Horace Washington, American consul general in London, and Mrs. Frank Baker, of New York city, an aunt.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

WILLIMANTIC

Herbert O. Ladd, a carpenter arrested Friday afternoon on a charge of making derogatory remarks affecting a bank, as an aftermath of the run on the Willimantic Trust Company, when over $25,000 in deposits were withdrawn, was not brought before the court Saturday morning. At the request of Ladd's attorney, Samuel B. Harvey, Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher asked for a continuance of the case until Saturday morning, October 3. This was granted by Judge Foss. Ladd was arrested by State Policemen Michael O'Keefe and Paul Lavin at the request of the state bank commissioners who have taken over the prosecution of the case. Four witnesses were on hand, but their services were not required. Rumors relative to the alleged insolvency of the local bank had been seething since the first part of August, but the matter did not come to head until last Monday and Tuesday, when depositors, headed by employes of the Rossie Velvet company, came to the bank and made wholesale withdrawals.

Henry Chester Hatch, 78, died at his home in Windham about seven o'clock Saturday evening. He is survived by his wife, Lucretia Johnson Hatch; three sisters, Misses Carrie and Fanny Hatch of South Windham, and Mrs. William Backus of Windham Center; and a brother, Charles P. Hatch, of Hartford. Mr. Hatch was born in the town of Franklin December 4, 1846, the son of Orville and Eunice Armstrong Hatch. For many years he was employed as a contractor for the Smith-Winchester Manufacturing Company of South Windham. He was retired fifteen years ago.

When the local W. C. T. U. held its annual meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Mary L. Stearns, the officers were re-elected, with the exception of those who declined to serve, including the president-at-large, who was succeeded by Mrs. Cora B. Nye, and three of the superintendents of departments. Mrs. Jennie R. Scripture, secretary, read her annual report which covered the activities of the organization during the year. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Mary L. Stearns, showed receipts of $926.19 and expenditures $690.21, leaving a balance of $235.98.

The case of George E. Deming, of Chaplin, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, was once more continued in police court Saturday morning, this time to Oct. 10. Deming was arrested on Main street, this city, Friday afternoon, Aug. 14, by State Policeman Joseph Kaminski.

John Meikle was injured and a Ford runabout was badly damaged, late Friday, in a collision of automobiles on Brick Top hill, opposite the Leach farm. The other machine was driven by Clarence Moriarty, of Windham road. The Ford was being operated by Henry Bernard, of 8 Milk street, and riding on the seat with him was Bennie Verreville. The Meikle boy and Henry Jackson, both residents of Lafayette street, were standing on the running boards of the Ford. In meeting at a curve at the bottom of the hill, Bernard turned his car to the right side of the road, with the result that it left the shoulder of the road and crashed into the state fence, throwing the Meikle boy to the ground. The boy was taken to a physician and treated for two broken ribs and other injuries about the body. Bernard was of the opinion that Moriarty's car had followed him from the road as it came down the hill and around the curve but Motorcycle Officer Arthur Hurley, of the local police department, and Sergeant Russell A. Harmon, of the state police force, exonerated Moriarty of all blame. Bernard then agreed to settle for the damage to the state fence.

Sample ballots for the town elections, Oct. 5, were received Saturday at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Foston. The ballots are in three columns, Republican, Democratic and blank. In the Democratic column appear the names of two substitute candidates other than those named at the Democratic caucus. In filling vacancies occurring by withdrawals from candidacy since the caucus, the Democratic town committee has placed the names of Arthur P. Bergeron for the school committee in place of James O'Rourke and Thomas J. O'Brien, in place of George H. McCracken, for agent of the town deposit fund.

Sergeant James H. Duffey, a member of the Rainbow division during the world war, arrived in town late last week while on a 40,000 mile walk, 34,000 of which he has already covered since leaving Boston in 1924. Eighteen ex-service men made the start from the Hub at that time. The trip was organized by the authorities of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, Md., in the interests of medical science and the prize is set at $25,000. When he started hiking, Sergeant Duffey weighed 144 pounds, but has now increased to 223. He will complete his trip at Wheeling, W. Va., in October, two months ahead of schedule time. His longest one-day walk is 65 miles, and his record for 72 hours is 175 miles.

The funeral of George A. Shaheen, of Norwich, was held from a local mortuary chapel at 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon with services at St. Joseph's R. C. church at 3 o'clock. Rev. Henry E. Quinn, the pastor, read the services. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Tony Abraham, of Utica, N. Y., Edward Lewis, of Stafford Springs, and Salim and James Haddad, of this city. This (Monday) morning a requiem high mass is to be celebrated at St. Joseph's church for the repose of the soul of Mr. Shaheen.

Katherine Keegan, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Keegan, of 217 Jackson street, got a broken arm Saturday afternoon, when she fell from a chair at her home. The fracture was reduced by Dr. W. F. S. Keating.

Henry P. Gazzette, of Wauregan, was charged with speeding his automobile, when in Mansfield town court Friday afternoon. He pleaded guilty and said that he had no idea he was speeding at the time, or that he was being followed by a state officer. Gazzette was returning from the Eastern States exposition at Springfield, Mass., and while traveling through the village of Merrow was going 40 miles an hour, according to State Policeman Edgar D. Abild, of Stafford Springs. Justice of the Peace George M. Andrews imposed a fine of $10 and costs, requiring $5 of the fine. Gazzette paid an assessment of $19.20.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie C. Sherman was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Clark, in Franklin, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Rev. J. F. Cobb, of South Windham, conducting the services. Burial was in Windham Center cemetery. The arrangements were in charge of Avery & VanZandt.

The Women's Circle of St. Paul's church met with Mrs. Edna Litterick, recently for a pleasant evening of cards and dominoes. Mrs. Charles A. Bates made high score at cards and Miss Myra Sweet received the consolation award. At dominoes, Mrs. Herbert Dawson was first. The consolation award was given Mrs. Emil Bernet. The hostess served refreshments.

Thirty-five new voters were made at the last "to be made" session held Saturday by the board of selectmen, Russell A. Andrews, Charles Larrabee and David F. Ahern, Registrars A. Linn Weatherhead and Thomas F. Shea and Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. Thirty-five added to eighty-six sworn in one week ago gives a total of one hundred and twenty-one new voters out of the list of one hundred and sixty-seven. Forty-six applicants failed to appear.

Mrs. Mary Hill was given a farewell party at her home recently by the degree team of Violet Rebekah lodge, No. 57, I. O. O. F. Mr. and Mrs. Hill will leave soon to make their home in New London. She was presented an electric iron.

Miss Blanche Siara brought five years' service as a nurse at the American Thread company to a close Saturday, when she resigned. Today (Monday) she will become the bride of Francis O'Donnell, of Holyoke, Mass. The wedding will take place at Miss Siara's home in North Adams, Mass.

Mail deliveries in the city will be made one hour later, starting today (Monday) to conform with the new train schedules which marks the ending of the daylight saving period. This was stated Saturday by Postmaster W. R. King.

J. Homer Hawkins, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at St. Joseph's hospital last week, is resting comfortably.

Hospital authorities stated Sunday afternoon that Michael Longo showed signs of improvement and there were reasonable grounds for the belief that he would eventually recover. Mr. Longo has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital since early last Monday morning, when injured in an automobile accident.

Members of the Masonic order and the Eastern Star chapters and guests attended service at Mansfield Center church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There was special vocal and instrumental music and addresses

WILD CAT WEIGHING 35 LBS. SHOT IN HEBRON WOODS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 27.—One of the largest wildcats ever seen in Hebron became the trophy of Rufus Rathbun of that town early Friday morning when he shot the animal in a clump of woods on his farm. The wildcat measured four feet, three inches in length and weighs thirty-five pounds. It was placed on exhibition at the Jordan Hardware company and was an attraction at an agricultural show Saturday.

RAID AT GEO. A. WHEELER'S RESULTS IN BIG FIND

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 27.—Six cases of home-made beer which will be analyzed Monday to determine the alcoholic percentage, were taken from the George A. Wheeler home, West Main street, shortly before 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon by County Investigator William E. Jackson, Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officers William S. Congdon, of this city, and Joseph Fitzpatrick, of New London, and Captain Thomas F. Grady, of the police department. Wheeler's arrest is pending the outcome of the analysis which will be reported to Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher. In addition to the evidence taken, some fifteen gallons of home-brew mash were destroyed, also the contents of sixty bottles filled with newly-made beer, but as yet uncapped.

The raiding crew, re-enforced by Motorcycle Officer Arthur Hurley, then visited the tailor shop conducted at 41 Jackson street by A. K Smith and the home of Mike Moritko on Brick Top road, but failed to secure evidence at these places.

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 27.—Owen C. Dwyer of Worcester, Mass., was apprehended by Motorcycle Officer Hurley on lower Main street here Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock, and booked at headquarters on a charge of reckless driving. He furnished a bond of $25 for his appearance in police court Monday.

SUNDAY AUTO MISHAP— CAR GOES THROUGH FENCE

(Special to the Bulletin))

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 27.—A new Studebaker touring car, owned and operated by Joseph Caboll, of 66 Meadow street, this city, was badly damaged, and the driver was arrested for reckless driving, when the machine sideswiped a Ford touring car owned and operated by Wilfred Dore Merrill, on the Storrs-Mansfield depot road, about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Both machines were traveling in the same direction and at the time of the accident were headed down a hill. The Ford driver was in the lead and when he attempted to turn into a roadway to the left of the road Caboll failed to stop and the left side of the Ford was struck. The Studebaker careened to the left, ploughed through a state fence and fell over on its right side in a ditch. The Ford followed a course to the left of the road and came to a stop when it struck a post. The larger car was damaged, having demolished fenders and running board on the right side and dents in the body. The Ford suffered the loss of a left front wheel and bent fenders. State Policeman Frank Kulowski, of the local temporary barracks, was called and after an investigation placed both drivers under arrest. The charge against Dore is failing to endorse his operator's license. Their cases will come up in the Mansfield town court Monday. Other than a shaking up, the occupants escaped injury.

PLAINFIELD

A novel idea has been introduced at the Community House by the director and physical training instructor, Mr. Dissinge. He will be assisted by the new swimming instructor, Samuel Thornton, who comes to Plainfield well recommended from South Manchester High and Suffield schools. This new feature is a swimming contest, to take place in the pool at the Community House, the number of laps of said pool to be equivalent of the distance across the English Channel.

To win this contest the victor must swim the length of the pool 2130 times, which distance would be equal to 35 miles. The participants will not be obliged to accomplish this feat all at one time, but can take as long as they wish, abiding by the rules governing the contest, which are, that if they retire from the pool, they will not be allowed to enter the same day. The one who finishes the 2130 lengths first will be the winner. All entrants will be allowed to start September 24 and it is estimated that the distance will be covered by some boy or girl in three weeks. The entrant, to be declared the winner, will be presented an attractive gold medal, and all others who finish the distance specified will be awarded a bronze medal. All wishing to enter the competition, must register their names at the office of the Community House.

The sum of $61,853 balance, is larger than ever, according to the town treasurer's reports. This balance in the town funds, as reported by Town Treasurer William H. Buteau, will make it unnecessary for the town to hire money, as this amount will carry the town until the end of January, 1926, a strong increase over any previous fiscal year closing. It has been customary to make a loan in November, until April, when taxes become available, but by shortening that period a saving to the town of at least one thousand dollars in interest, will be effected.

The recapitulation shows:

Assets: Balance $61,853.21, sinking fund in Brooklyn Savings bank $4,754.82 deposit in Norwich Savings Society $33.03, High School sinking fund in First National bank $9,429.59, balance due 1917 tax list 1919, 1919, 1920, 1921, $4,347.67, balance due 1922 tax list $2,592.23, balance due 1923 tax list $6,755.23, balance due 1924 tax list $6,240.21, total $92,726.64.

Liabilities: Order No. 52 given in 1876 treasurer town deposit fund, $700; order No. 54, given in 1876, treasurer town deposit fund, $500; order No. 48, given in 1882, treasurer town deposit fund, $1,175; order No. 134, given in 1882, treasurer town deposit fund, $1,509; order No. 195, given in 1883, $200; No. 195, 1883, $400; No. 92, 1893, $500; No. 155, 1894, $800; No. 15, 1895, $221; No. 113, 1897, $200; No. 224, 1900, $4,22.36; No. 31, given in 1887, $4,125; No. 165, given in 1902, $10,000, William P. Babcock, demand note Oct. 25, 1919, at 4 1-4 per cent. $10,000; William P. Babcock demand note, Dec. 6, 1919, at 4 3-4 per cent., $5,775; William P. Babcock, demand note, Nov. 16, 1923, at 5 per cent. $3,000; The Windham County National bank, note dated April 2, 1924, $45,000; outstanding bonds of town $150,000; total liabilities, $288,237. 45; assets, $98,726.14; indebtedness, $189,611.31.

They plan to visit points of interest on the route, including the capitol at Washington. Mr. LaFarve recently sold his farm in Central Village.

Mrs. William Bailey is slowly recovering from a serious illness.

Mrs. Eugene Currier left Plainfield Friday being called away by the death of her father, Daniel Kershan, of Coventry, R. I. She will remain to attend the funeral this (Monday) morning.

Finds a Fortune.

A mining pioneer of Vancouver, Charles F. Shaw, has discovered a deposit of chrome iron containing a large percentage of platinum. The deposit is on the banks of the Tulaman river, British Columbia, and the news of the discovery has excited such interest that over a hundred claims have been staked already. Platinum from Tulaman is not a new development, over 20,000 ounces have been won from other deposits in this region. Mr. Shaw's deposit, however, is the richest yet discovered there.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The 101st annual meeting of the Ashford Baptist association is to be held at the Baptist church in Danielson tomorrow (Tuesday). The Danielson church has made preparations to entertain a large number of people, representative of various towns of the country. The Ladies' Aid society of the church has arranged to serve a dinner and a supper for the visitors.

The program has been arranged as follows: Morning session, opening at 10 o'clock; devotional service, Rev. W. D. Hetherington; address of welcome, Frank T. Preston; response by W. H. Hackett, moderator; reading of the minutes, Rev. F. W. Tholen; treasurer's report, reading of church letters, appointment of committees, hymn; annual sermon, Rev. C. J. Armstrong; hymn and benediction.

Dinner is to be served at 12.30.

The afternoon session will be opened at 1.30 with a meeting of the Woman's Missionary society, Mrs. Henry Fryer, president, presiding. Miss Isabel Crawford will be the speaker. At 2.30 there will be a devotional service conducted by Rev. E. E. Smudt. The business session is scheduled for 2.45. At this time there will be reports of committees and election of officers. At 3.30 Rev. John Newton Lackey, D. D., will deliver an address on the Seattle convention. At 3.30 hymn and offering. An hour with the New Testament.

The day will close with six minute addresses by ten pastors: The church as the Body of God, Rev Herbert C. Plumb; The Church as a Spiritual Force, Rev. C. J. Armstrong; The Church and its Administration, Rev. E. E. Sundt; the Church as a Missionary Agency, Rev. G. F. Camp; The Church and Evangelism, Rev. B. C. Bugbee; The Church and Religious Education, Rev. H. A. Calhoun; The Church and Social Uplift, Rev. W. J. Carpenter; The Church and World Peace, Rev. Hawthorne Jones; The Church and Its Opportunity, Rev. H. D. Baker.

A week end edition of a Providence paper has the following: Michael Toporowski, 38, of Moosup, died at the home of Mrs. Annie Kokalska of Cumberland, from alcoholic poisoning. Dr. Thomas Hague, called to attend the man at an early morning hour, found him in a dying condition. Medical Examiner Alexander Marshall, Jr., viewed the body and gave permission for burial. Toporowski had been visiting in Cumberland the past two weeks.

Considering a problem that Killingly is facing now and must solve at an early date—the matter of increased high school facilities—one of the borough's successful business men points out how lucky this town has been in coming into possession of realty it now owns. There's the town hall building, purchased for $20,000, after a strenuous battle in opposition; it could not be built for $150,000 today. There's the present high school building erected less than 20 years ago at a cost just over $50,000, and not to be duplicated today for less than about three times that sum. The present high school was built only after long discussion, much opposition and trimming and paring from the original plans, which provided for a high school that would have been adequate in its appointments to meet present day needs.

Motorists do not care a thing about the state police and the officers' duty of keeping car drivers within the speed limits imposed by statute in Connecticut—not at all. An illustration of this might have been had Saturday afternoon when the driver of a special bus bearing Massachusetts and Rhode Island registration plates and loaded with young men slowly crawled up South Killingly hill behind a motorcycle officer who was just easing along. That bus acted as if it were in bad condition and was having trouble in getting along. But five minutes later—or less—after it had crossed the Rhode Island border it was plunging along through the heavy traffic at 50 miles an hour. Here was one bus driver who was held down from reckless driving by fear of the law. And there are many other such drivers.

Henry K. Dellinger, professor of history at Connecticut Agricultural college, is to be the speaker at the Subject Two Americans, at the opening meeting of the fall season of the Killingly Woman's club October 7.

Not all the foolishness happens in the silly summer season. Officers and attorneys here are pestered with early fall wrangles between couples married a year or two who are already on the verge of calling it off, and are inquiring of the legal lights as to how it can be done.

Game wardens, on the eve of the open season for hunting, are making regular tours through woodland country with a view to rounding up those good sports who always like to get out a bit ahead of time and beat the other fellow to it.

New train schedules are in effect on the New Haven road, something that should be of interest to those who want to travel out of Danielson by rail today.

Stubs driven into the sidewalks on Water street, opposite mill tenements where it may be assumed new sidewalks are to be built, have caused a number of stumble or fall over the week end, and suggests the danger of allowing such a condition and the possibility of serious injury to some aged or infirm person.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward is recovering at his home on Broad street after having been ill the past ten days.

A clause in the warning for the annual town meeting provides for action on the proposition that this town make an appropriation for the care of poor in the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, as has been done in other years.

Killingly taxpayers are studying closely the plans that have been submitted for the proposed addition to Killingly High school. The plans will be up for adoption or rejection at the annual town meeting a week from today.

Of interest to trolley patrons is the fact that cars leaving Danielson, southbound, after the even hours now connect at Central Village. Before the abandonment of daylight saving for the year it was the cars leaving here after the odd hours that connected at Central Village for points south.

Miss Geraldine Mahaler of Owosso, Mich., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Preston of Broad street.

Miss Katherine Mary Carlin of Central Village has been a visitor with her aunt, Miss Mary Shingers.

At St. James' church a class is being prepared for the sacrament of confirmation, to be administered during November.

Numbers of fans from this town watched the baseball game between Moosup and the Riverside club Sunday afternoon.

Another killing frost the fourth of the past few days, came to further blight growing things on Sunday. The mercury here dropped down to 33 degrees.

Good weather was undoubtedly a contributing cause to making extra heavy automobile traffic over the week end.

A $1,000 expenditure that the borough of Danielson has authorized for another short extension of sewer in Broad street likely will be used before winter interferes with the carrying out of such work.

This will be campaign week in Killingly for candidates on the town ticket who have a contest on their hands. The annual town meeting and election is scheduled for Monday of next week, October 5.

Well, the daylight saving communities came back to Danielson Sunday. This community has been regular—clinging to standard time right through the year.

Robert C. Miller of Hartford was a visitor with friends in Danielson over Sunday.

Dancers enjoyed themselves at Wildwood park Saturday evening. It is understood that the dance palace is to be kept open week ends until into December.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Callahan of Boston were week end visitors with Danielson friends. Mr. Callahan is head of the Callahan Detective Agency of Boston.

PUTNAM

Invitations have been issued to the marriage of Blanche Colburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Colburn of Webster, and Lambert L. Gustasson, son of Mrs. Louisa Gustasson of Putnam. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Saturday evening, Oct. 3 and will be attended by relatives and friends of the two families. Much interest is taken in the marriage as Miss Colburn is well known as one of the leading pianists in this vicinity. She attended the public schools in Webster and Bartlett High school.

For several years she has been studying under Stewart Mason in Boston and is exceptionally gifted in her art. Mr. Gustasson makes his home in Putnam with his mother and is a member of the Putnam staff of the Power and Light company.

Past masters and charter members night will be observed at the regular meeting of Putnam grange, in Odd Fellows' Hall tonight (Monday). This meeting inaugurates the fall and winter's seasons of the grange.

Miss Lorena Gallant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Gallant of Church street, who recently was graduated from Hartford hospital, has been engaged as industrial nurse for the American Thread company, Willimantic, her duties to begin Oct. 1.

Sixty members of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., went on their annual pilgrimage, their destination this year being Sudbury and Shrewsbury, Mass. At the latter town they visited the home of the Revolutionary officer, Artemus Ward. It was supposed at first that it was the old home of Charles E. Browne, who wrote under the name of Artemus Ward and was America's most famous humorist half a century ago, but it was later found that this Ward was a Revolutionary general. The party also visited the Wayside inn, which Longfellow immortalized, now the property of Henry Ford, who spends a great deal of money in its upkeep. As they entered the house Mr. and Mrs. Ford were just leaving, but the former was not recognized until the caretaker mentioned the fact.

The funeral of Miss Catherine Ryan, a former Putnam resident, and a sister of Mrs. James Sullivan, was held in Boston and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery in Putnam. Miss Ryan had been ill for two months and died at the Carney hospital, Boston.

Evening courses at the State Trade school and classes of the Putnam Evening school to be conducted at the Putnam High school building, will both start Monday evening, October 5. The trade school expects to have a large evening school enrollment. Application blanks for the various courses may be obtained at Burt's or Dupre's or at the Trade School office. Courses offered include general cotton manufacturing, drafting, machine shop practice, carpentry, instruction, electrical work and home economic courses which include dressmaking, millinery, cooking and household management.

The evening school at the High school building will be, as in former years, in charge of Lewis T. Battey. There will be courses in commercial branches, naturalization and grammar school subjects.

BULLET ENTERED WINDOW NEAR WHERE WOMAN SAT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Sept. 27—Arthur Marquis was before the city court Saturday, charged with unlawfully discharging firearms within the city limits.

A few nights ago a bullet from a revolver crashed through a window in the home of William Kilburn on Sabin street. It lodged in the wall near where Mrs. Kilburn was sitting. Marquis, who has a police record, admitted the charge but pleaded carelessness and no intent to do any harm. He was placed on probation.

TOWN DEBT REDUCTION IS $3500 FOR PAST YEAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 27—Forthcoming reports of the town of Killingly will show a reduction in debt of about $3500, as compared with the fiscal year ending July 31, 1924. With this reduction the total indebtedness of Killingly is in the vicinity of $157,000.

It is of interest to note that Killingly's indebtedness has been steadily reduced since 1920, the last year when there was a deficit, in 1920 the deficit amounted to $2,130.36.

In 1921 the town paid its bills and reduced the debt by $18,431.49. That was a banner year. In 1922 another liberal slice was clipped off the town debt—$14,142.15. The year 1923 was remarkably good, too, for the debt reduction was $11,652.22. The drive was continued in 1924 when a further reduction of $4,454.86 in the debt was achieved. Now it is good news to relate that 1925 sees a further reduction of debt by approximately $3500.

Killingly may be entitled to boast a little about good town management. In a six year period it has clipped nearly $30,000 from its total of its indebtedness—really $48,680.72, using approximate figures for this the amount of this year's reduction.

The high point in Killingly's indebtedness was reached in 1917, when the total owed by the town was $238,291.-65. There was a deficit of $4,625.50 that year.

The prospect of deficits has been largely overcome by the adoption of a budget system rigidly adhered to. The trend has been steadily downward in the town debt since the budget rule was adopted. Not a skip has been made in six years.

But this cannot go on forever. Like an individual who wears out his shoes finds it necessary from time to time to shingle his home or buy a new tire to replace an old one that has done so well on his car, there comes a time when he must face an unusual expenditure. Killingly seems to be about due to meet such a crisis as will be developed at the annual town meeting a week from today.

Too great a command of language sometimes lessens a woman's matrimonial chances.

JEWETT CITY

Jewett City Chapter American Red Cross was assigned twenty-five Christmas bags, to be sent to men in the service and away from home. These bags and the contents are on exhibition in Finn's window. The material was given by Textile Novelty Co., and the bags were made by Mrs. Frank Ray. The money to pay for buying the contents was given by different churches and social organizations and individuals in the jurisdiction of the local chapter. Mrs. J. H. Tracy, secretary of the board, having charge of this work. The window was arranged by Miss M. A. Burdick, chairman of Miss M. A. Burdick, chairman of the executive board, Miss Catherine Barnett and Mrs. Frank Ray. Each bag will contain a handkerchief, keyring and chain, mechanical pencil, envelopes, writing pad, memorandum book, face cloth, harmonica, dominoes, tobacco pouch, knife, cake of soap, and Christmas card. Each article will be wrapped in white paper and tied with Christmas ribbon. A postal card in the window was done by Herbert Wyatt, and the typewritten work by Miss Lucile Stetson. A number of letters received from recipients of last year's bags are a very interesting part of this exhibit. The window background is all of white which was donated by Aspinook Bleachery for the use of the chapter recently and red crosses are displayed on the white. All go to emphasize how large a number are interested in remembering the boys away from home at Christmas time. Jewett City chapter, which includes Voluntown and a part of Lisbon, has been alive and working, answering all kinds of appeals both at home and abroad, and filling the quotas assigned every time ever since the world war closed. These bags are to be shipped by October first and will be sent to men in foreign waters.

A few feet west of the lower railroad bridge, on the Lisbon side of the Quinebaug, there is a patch of fine white sand close to an acre in area. This spot, which has the appearance of a miniature desert, was formed by years of wash, as the sand was forced up in this sharp bend of the river. Those who during the Sunday afternoon stroll, visited this spot were rewarded by a view of the sand shrouded and lifting the quotas assigned every time ever since the world war closed. These bags are to be shipped by October first and will be sent to men in foreign waters.

Two weeks ago, the Maynard Block next to the post office, was entered through the cellar on the Atlantic and Pacific store side, and the intruder going into Arremoney's side. Thirty five dollars was stolen from the register. Last Friday night, the place was entered again, and it is said a crowbar was used to try opening the safe which contained a large amount of money. The attempt was unsuccessful.

Many were stopping at the Ford service station on South Main street, to see the locomotive model, three feet long, manufactured wholly with automobile parts. A cylinder makes the boiler, gears for wheels, radiator top for the headlight, with cab, tender dome, connecting rods and pilot all fashioned true in form of some part taken from a Ford machine.

Attending the Grand Master's day celebration at Wallingford, Saturday were: Past Most Worshipful Grand Master Arthur M. Brown; Worshipful Master George T. Bell and Everett Hiscox, treasurer, all from Mount Vernon, No. 75. Mrs. Brown, a member of Faith chapter O. E. S., and Mrs. Hiscox accompanied their husbands.

The second freeze of Friday night, one or two degrees colder than the frost of Tuesday night, finished the destruction passed over by the first. The cold spell is over, with everything that was growing, entirely ruined.

An entirely new sort of loss that will reckon up to several thousand of dollars is the loss to corn fodder. Heretofore, these early freezes, coming generally in October, have caught a few delinquent ones with small patches of uncut silage. This freeze, in late September, partially or totally ruined many acres of uncut fodder corn. The loss will be not only on sowed corn, so called but on the butts of field corn, which are commonly cut for the silo.

George A. Barber, a resident of the Masonic home had his heart made glad Saturday. He received an orangewood branch, cut a week ago from the big Royal Palms grove in Florida. Robert Olen, a Jewett City lad, now in Florida hearing of Mr. Barber's wish for an orangewood cane, sent the branch by parcelt post to H. G. Willis of this place. Mrs. Willis sent another present, a fancy silk pillow, with crocheted Masonic designs, done by hand in Irish linen.

Not many days in the calendar of the Baptist church, prove more enjoyable than the annual celebration of Sunday School rally day. Attending these services Sunday, a record number was counted by classes, making the total 210, and they enriched the treasury by $12.83. After each had received a button, a short program was announced by the Superintendent Arthur M. Brown. The primary and first year juniors did remarkably well Small boys only three feet high, recited Bible lore by the yard, while little misses repeated chapters from the testament. In a way that made the older classes wonder how it was done.

Marion Wilbur, Rollin Tripp, Robert Seaten, William Dearnley and Raymond Cathcart, were graduated from the primary and advanced to the first junior grade all receiving diplomas from the superintendent.

Miss Isabel Crawford, one of the pioneer Baptist missionaries whose field is among the American Indians, is to speak at the Wednesday evening meeting. Miss Crawford, accomplishes the complete refutation of the statement that "The Only Good Indian is a Dead One."

Lewis A. Thornton of Pleasant View will be 90 his next birthday, one of the last of the rapidly thinning ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic, a veteran of the Civil wars attended the Rally day exercises Sunday, and sat with his class. Mr. Thornton has had six children and there are four alive today—Miss Ruby, George H., Allan Gay and Miss Edith Gray. Mr. Thornton has 17 living grandchildren and 13 great-grand children. Among his early activities included voting the republican ticket at town meeting, also attending Rally day.

Twenty-five years ago an item in the Jewett City column of the Bulletin reads, "The severest thunder storm accompanied by hail and a heavy wind, that has been known in this section for several years, struck the borough between one and two o'clock Tuesday morning. The lightning was incessant and the thunder deafening. The rain fell in torrents. Large trees were overthrown near the residences of A. A. Young and John Sharkey. A telegraph pole fell upon the fence near Willard Potter's house and a tree in the rear of B. M. Smith's house was struck. On Stone Hill, William Wilcox's barn, 72x60 feet, was completely turned over. The streets of the town were badly gullied and washed.

There is as much kicking in baseball as there is in football, only it's different.

WESTERLY

The Cyclone Steam Fire Engine company, No. 2, of Westerly began a fair and dance in the Westerly town hall Saturday evening. Preceding the opening of the fair Saturday night a street parade was held headed by the Westerly Kiltie band through Broad, West Broad and High streets. Beside Westerly Fire companies there paraded Westerly and Pawcatuck Fire Police, chiefs and engineers, as well as the Watch Hill Fire company and P. S. Barber Hose company, the uniformed line comprising several hundred fire fighters.

At the Liberty street court house in Pawcatuck Saturday were made many new voters for the town of Stonington, who will be eligible to vote in the town election Monday, October 5th. There were present Selectmen John Frihance, Mystic; Arthur F. Babcock, Pawcatuck; and Joseph A. Vargas, and Town Clerk Elias B. Hinckley, both of Stonington, with Registrars of Voters Joseph H. McGuinness and George T. Lord. At the close of their work Saturday night at 9 o'clock 47 men and 44 women, who had declared themselves, were made voters. At the previous session, a week ago, 24 women and 31 men were added to the list, so that the total voting list for the town of Stonington is now 2,365 for the five districts in Pawcatuck or the Second District are listed as many voters as in the other four districts combined. The total number of those who had declared their intentions were 31 men and 23 women, or a total of 164.

By records of property transfers on file in the office of Westerly town file in the office of Westerly town clerk on Sept. 24—Charles E. Sisson of Darlen, County of Fairfield, Conn., sold to Ellen M. Grover lot of land at Pleasant View, east side of Lawton avenue, Lot 7 Lawton avenue, plan of Winnapaug Park lots.

Sept. 25—George Pickering and wife sold to Farquhar Smith a certain parcel of land of about five acres on the east side of East avenue.

A report is current that two large oil companies are negotiating to secure the site of the old Bliven Opera House, owned by David Novogrod for the purpose of installing a gas filling station. The site has recently been cleaned of the rubbish which has been there since the time of the fire, on the night of January 3rd.

In the living room of 36 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, elaborately decorated in gold and white, in a bower arched and under a wedding bell amid green foliage, Richard Harry Marzdorff and Miss Alden Marie Courchaine both of Pawcatuck, were married by Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, pastor of the Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There were assembled one hundred guests. The wedding march was played by Miss Florence Barr. The bride was gowned in white satin with maribou trimming. She wore a veil of silk voile caught with horange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Elizabeth Marzdorff, sister of the groom from Sunbury, Pa., was maid of honor and wore a peach crepe de chine frock trimmed with pearls and hat to match, her bouquet being pink roses. The best man was Joseph Courchaine, a brother of the bride. Following the ceremony a dinner was served, the color scheme of the dining room being blue and gold with table decorations of sprays of orange blossoms. Guests were present from Groton, New London, Mystic, Stonington, Woodville, Westerly, R. I., Sunbury, Pa. and Lubeck, Germany. The wedding cake was made by the groom's mother. The many beautiful gifts were of cut glass, silver, linen and crystal. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a pearl bracelet and the groom's gift to his best man a white gold chain and charm. The wedding trip is to Wilmington, Del. and they will be at home at 36 Mechanic street after October

Greatest of Artificial Lakes

A remote section of Alabama seems at first glance hardly the locality in which one would expect to find the world's greatest artificial lake. Yet such will be the case when the huge reservoir being constructed on the Tallapoosa river, to be known as Cherokee Bluffs lake, is completed, says the Christian Science Monitor. This lake will have a shore line of 700 miles and is to cover 40,000 acres of farm and forest land. It is being built for the purpose of generating hydro-electric power to care for the industrial progress of the state, and of making a vast section of the country south of its borders frost-proof, and thus more favorable to fruit growing than at present. Incidentally, this reservoir will impound 530,000,000,000 gallons, as against 170,000,000,000 at Muscle Shoals.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Breed Theater

A Slave of Fashion which opened at the Breed theater on Sunday presents a human story exceedingly well told and beautifully produced. It is entertaining from start to finish and is keyed at a tempo that holds your interest all through. It is a Hobart Henley production released and sponsored by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Samuel Shipman wrote the story originally for the screen. He shows the same skill in mapping out screen plays that he does in his spoken drama.

The story is that of a very beautiful and unsophisticated girl who has lived in a middle western village all her life, but has longed to go to the city primarily to be able to see and wear clothes. She gets her wish but almost at the cost of her good name and the wrecking of her home. However, the family honor and happiness are saved; and the girl wins a confirmed wealthy bachelor to boot.

Norma Shearer is starring as the girl. Katherine Emerson. She is a remarkable actess as well as being an unusually attractive and beautiful girl and gives a brilliant performance in this newest role.

Lew Cody is featured as Nicholas Wentworth and makes an ideal romantic lover. As usual he gives a strong performance for there is no more dependable player on the screen than Mr. Cody.

Mary Carr, William Haines, Vivia Ogden, Miss Dupont and James Corrigan all give splendid performances.

Bess Meredyth wrote the continuity and Ben Reynolds did the photography.

Palace Theatre

Throughout the world, Lieut. Com John Philip Sousa is known as "the march king." He has written more than 100 marches, one of which "Stars and Stripes Forever" has achieved the status of a national march. In every country in the world, soldiers and sailors have marched to the Sousa measure, and one of his marches "Semper Fidelis" is the official march of the United States Marine Corps. But in the thirty-three years at the head of his own organization, Sousa but four times has marched with his band.

In 1893, when Sousa's Band had been in existence but a year, Sousa marched with his men at the ceremonies opening the "World's Fair, in Chicago.

In 1898 five years later, Sousa and his band headed the procession which bade farewell to the famous Black Horse Troop, of Cleveland, Ohio, departing for service in the Spanish-American war.

A few months later Sousa marched with his band in the procession which welcomed home Admiral Dewey, hero of Manila Bay.

A few days after his participation in the welcome to Dewey, Sousa and his band marched in the parade of a Pittsburgh, Pa., regiment returning from Cuba.

Sousa has marched at the head of a band many times, of course. As director of the United States Marine Band before the formation of his own organization, Sousa marched at the inaugurals of at least three presidents as well as taking part in countless ceremonies in Washington. During the World war, he marched with his great organization of blue jackets from the Great Lakes Naval station.

Palace Theatre

"The Man Who Found Himself," the Paramount picture starring Thomas Meighan at the Palace theatre, is a story of a son of a small town banker who, in order to save his younger "respectable" brother from a term in Sing Sing, gives himself up as the guilty party after a bank robbery.

The situation is this: Ralph Morgan, in the role of Edwin Macauley, Jr., is sick and tired of hearing his wife ask him why it is he can't make a whole lot of money in a hurry so she can have some of the fine things of life. So he decides to take a "flyer" in Wall street.

Not satisfied with having shipped Meighan "up the river," the banker, Lon Morris, played by Frank Morgan (Ralph's brother in real life) who is angling for the hand of Tom's sweetheart Nora Brooks, (Virginia Valli) tells the girl that Tom took the money to spend on another woman.

In Sing Sing, Tom soon wins the confidence of the warden and is made a trusty. Meanwhile Lon Morris works hard to win Nora and finally persuades her to marry him so her invalid sister may be comfortable.

Tom's father dies of grief, and soon after this the star gets another shock by reading of his girl's approaching wedding. He escapes from prison and with the help of two former convicts, plants a clever trap for Morris.

To relate the scenes that follow would be only spoiling an evening of perfect entertainment. If you miss this one, you miss the greatest picture Tom Meighan ever made. And that's something!

Alfred E. Green who directed Tom in "Back Home and Broke," "Pied Piper Malone," etc., made this one. Tom Geraghty wrote the screen play from an original story by Booth Tarkington, written especially for Mr. Meighan.

London has a French school, the Lycee Francais de Londres of which the teachers are French and are appointed by the French government. The curriculum is based on that of the elementary and secondary schools in France, but the school is fully recognized by the London county council.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Mr. H. H. Collins, the new acting manager of the Broadway is offering for the first of this week his first personally selected program. This program of B. F. Keith vaudeville has been selected for its entertainment value only regardless of price. Get acquainted with the class of shows you are going to see henceforth by seeing this program today.

The main feature is Dolly Arthur & Co. in the musical farce "Help Wanted." The music is especially written by Chas. Rosoff. The company consists of six people including a feminine quartet of beauty and vim.

Miss Val Jean, glorifies the vaudeville girl in her versatile novelty offering.

Gertrude Barnes is assisted by Jack Ford and spread "Rays of Sunshine."

Jack McCowan "A man of very few words" is all fun. You'll roar.

Overbolt and Young come forth with more comedy, song and dance in their comedy "Special Delivery."

Found: That "something different" in motion pictures you've been looking for.

If ever there was a movie out of the ordinary, it is the William de Mille-Paramount production, "Lost—a Wife," which is the feature that is now playing at the Broadway theatre.

"Lost—a Wife" is an adaptation by Clara Beranger of Alfred Savoir's Broadway stage success, "Dance." Adolphe Menjou, Greta Nissen and Robert Agnew are featured in the leading roles in the cast.

MYSTIC

Sunday at 2 a. m. the village went back on standard time and to some it was a pleasure, for they had not changed their time-pieces, while most had done so, if not by choice because it was used here. The town clock in the Baptist church on the hill has remained unchanged, according to the state law. The N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad's winter schedule of trains went into effect Sunday.

The Groton Chamber of Commerce is an assured fact, as at a meeting last week of the board of directors officers were elected and the name changed from Board of Trade to Chamber of Commerce. The name will receive official action later. Conrad Kretzer is a director and it is expected that it will benefit this end of the town, as many here have enrolled as members.

Miss Lucy Tompkins arrived Friday afternoon to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Tompkins, who are still at their summer home in Pequot avenue.

Miss Isabel Grinnell has resumed her studies at Connecticut college.

Mrs. William Potter has returned to Devon after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Webb, on West Mystic avenue.

Capt. John E. Spafford, of the Refining company's steamer Choctaw, came to the Wilcox company dock Friday, and took on a cargo of oil to be delivered in New Jersey.

The Dinty Moor club met Thursday with Mrs. Sarah Barstow. Those present were Mrs Eva Burdick, Mrs. C. F. Congdon, Mrs. Nellie Wood, Mrs. C. C. Dodd, Mrs. Truman Jewett, Mrs. Alice Roode, Mrs. Ruth Newell and Miss Callie Chapman. Mrs. Roode won first prize and Mrs. Newell second. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Alice Roode, of Jewett City, visited her mother, Mrs. Eva Burdick, last week.

The house owned by the late Mrs. Susan Watrous on Mistuxet avenue has been changed into two apartments. George Ingram, principal of West Mystic school, is occupying the upper floor.

A local woman who lost her pocketbook in New London last week has not recovered it

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Kretzer are on a trip to the White Mountains.

The Epworth league of the Methodist church held a box social Friday evening.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. May Burton and son Henry, of Whitneyville, who have been visiting Mrs. Burton's mother, Mrs. Lucy Clarke, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Merwin, who have been spending the summer in their cottage at the lake, returned Sunday to their Hartford home.

Mrs. Nathan Griffin of Thompsonville, Conn., a former resident of Columbia, died Monday. The funeral service was held at her home Wednesday morning with burial in Columbia cemetery.

Twenty-eight pupils from Columbia are at attending Windham High school this year; 19 are carried by C. E. Hunt in his bus, and nine going on the Hebron bus. This is 5 more than went from this town last year.

A thin coating of ice formed on water pails in exposed places Tuesday night, on the Green, and a frost touched some of the most sensitive plants but surprisingly little damage was done to late crops, considering the low temperature.

Mrs. Lucy Clarke, 87, living on the Green near the post office, is very skilful with her needle and as her sight is good, is enabled to do some very beautiful embroidery. Some time ago she sent to her grand-daughter and grandson in Rocky Ford, Colo., a centerpiece and bureau scarf as wedding presents. Recently her daughter, Mrs Emily Randall, of Rocky Ford entered these pieces at the Arkansas Valley Fair, one of them in the class for those over 70 and the other in the class over 80. Mrs. Clarke has received a letter from her daughter stating that she had received first prize on both articles. Mrs. Clarke has a number of great-grandchildren, each of whom is the proud possessor of a baby dress and embroidered by his or her great-grandmother.

God hath entrusted me with Pain,
I might fully share
With understanding deep, deaf even the pain that others bear;
The privilege of Poverty, He graciously hath given,
That I may walk with those in need and speak to them of Heaven.
And Love He oftentimes withholds but I might warm my heart
At fires kindled by human hands, which He can have no part.
The pain and poverty, and loss, my Master knew below,
Are gifts His love has granted me, if I His joy might know.

SEPTEMBER NIGHT.

This misty, cool September night,
With shrouded stars and shadowed way,
And drowsy crickets in the grass
Where goldenrod and asters sleep,
Seems its own vigil not to keep,
But that of other nights, that pass
In dim remembrance of other days
On distant shores, in places far,
Cicadas now the crickets are,
In olive trees of Lebanon.
Night-blooming cereus gently stirs
Beside a dusty Syrian wall,
Egyptian stars and desert nights,
And from Point Sunium come the lights
For now the Mediterranean calls
With restless winds and purple sails
And deepening shadows on the seas.

Oh drowsy crickets in the grass,
Cease singing now and let me pass,
Lest you, too, change to memory,
Dim shrouded stars of this cool night.

FIRST WOMAN MINISTER BANS SINGING OF STATE ANTHEM

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—Ever since Mistress Nina Bang became the first woman Danish minister, also as such also head of the board of education, she has done the unexpected and startling.

First the singing of the national anthem was banned, which she claimed was too war-like to benefit the public good. And when deaf to her prohibition, the anthem was in which she happened to be, the minister remained seated and moreover, pulled his colleagues of the cabinet back into their seats by their coat-tails.

Mistress Bang plans complete reconstruction of the Danish school system according to the German method.

THE LOSS OF THE S-51

Submarine disasters are by no means unheard of but like disasters and wrecks of other kinds they are always distressing and deplorable. Submarines of the present day are larger and much more dependable than those of earlier times, but it has frequently been shown, in spite of efforts and devices to prevent them, that they are inclined to figure in collisions. Too often is it the case that submarines are lost through being rammed, and this holds true of those belonging to other countries as well as our own.

Conditions seem to have been just ripe for the catching of those aboard the S-51 like rats in a trap. That any were saved was most fortunate in view of the hour at which the collision occurred with the men in their bunks and the rapidity with which the sub went down. It received a vital blow and the chance to ward off its effects was apparently lacking.

Such an accident and such a loss serves to emphasize the risk that is run in the operation of such vessels, even under the degree of perfection to which they have been brought. Ships collide in darkness, in daylight, in fog and bad weather, but when a submarine is involved unless under favorable conditions the loss is apt to be heavy.

Just why there should have been any collision at all under the conditions which prevailed previous to the accident is hard to understand. The submarine had been seen, but not regarded as a submersible and it is to be presumed that the sub must have seen the lights of the City of Rome. Why under such circumstances there should have been a collision is hard to understand, and with all but three of the submarine crew dead, and they knowing nothing of the conditions, there seems to be slight chance of getting at the real facts.

The loss is a serious and a sad one. It emphasizes anew the perils of submarining.

AFTER SHIPPING BOARD

Shipping board troubles have been the source of much annoyance. There has been and still is a large amount at stake in the handling of the merchant ships by that body. It is possible to conduct the affairs of the board so that the best results will be accomplished and it is possible to make a mess of things through internal dissensions. The airing of personal views can easily be made to stand in the way of efficient administration.

For that reason much is to be hoped for the personal investigation which the president is making regarding the board and the strife that has developed among its members relative to the head of the fleet corporation. This board is not under presidential control: It is answerable to congress and that is one of the reasons which make it so hard to straighten out the difficulties. But that doesn't justify a continuation of conditions which are against the best interests of the country.

The awkward situation with the shipping board working as it does calls for a clear disclosure of the facts and those the president is determined to get first hand. Upon the outcome of his inquiry and the statements made by the various members, for he is interviewing them all and then placing the conditions as he finds them directly before the chairman of the board, will probably depend the action he has in mind.

It has been recommended, and it has been intimated that steps will be taken at the coming session of congress to have control of the board placed under one of the government departments. It can be appreciated that whatever the president learns as the result of his investigation will serve to guide him in whatever suggestions he may make to congress upon this matter. With nothing but national welfare in mind he is proceeding in his quest for facts in a manner that should get him down to the brass tacks and furnish him material for getting early and effective action concerning this bothersome problem.

"SERIOUS CONSIDERATION"

When the primary results were announced in New York it was apparent that Mayor Hylan was out of it but that he had an excellent chance to make trouble. If nothing else, by running as an independent candidate. It was evident that he was not without a following and it was shown from the bad blood that had been displayed that he could continue to command much support. Likewise as a third party candidate he could wield an important influence in the coming election. He might not be elected but he could make the outcome less certain.

When Mayor Hylan announced following the primary that he was through, that he would slink back into the quiet of a private citizen, it was supposed that he had carefully weighed the possibilities of running as a third party candidate, a step which had been considered likely. There was a tone of finality to his statement, especially since it followed the published report in one of the papers that had been supporting him that he would remain in the field.

Efforts to get him to run have not been restrained because he promised not to. There are those who accept defeat hard and they have united in their appeal to the mayor to be an independent. The result is that he is giving "serious consideration" to the proposition. He stands now in the position of yielding to the pressure of his friends, if he does decide to get into the race.

That he is bitter over his defeat, that he is sore at the manner in which Tammany has deserted him, that he has not had enough i. no secret. The primary result rankles among his followers in whose eyes he is still a hero. Those henchmen would have him do his best for himself and his worst for the other fellow. If he cannot have another term in the mayor's chair he can take the attitude that he will do his best to see that the organization and candidate responsible for his defeat are made to understand how it feels to have the tables turned on them. New York awaits the result of his "consideration."

COMMERCIAL AVIATION

Commercial aviation is not a matter which is involved in the present inquiries that are underway but it is a matter to which too little consideration has been given in this country and to which it can be expected that more attention will be directed in the future.

In connection with certain statements which they have made before the aviation board Secretary Hoover of the department of commerce and Postmaster General New have declared that they are not only strong in the belief that more attention should be given to commercial aviation, but that the government should lend its aid in encouraging it. What may be regarded as steps in that direction is the move of the latter department in opening the flying mail service to private enterprise and asking bids for work, while it is not improbable that the idea of a bureau to aid in the development of commercial aviation, as suggested by Secretary Hoover, will be brought up for the consideration of congress at the coming session.

Commercial aviation as carried on abroad stands out as a demonstration not only of what can be done but of what is lacking in this country. We brought out the heavier than air machine but we have lagged behind in developing it and putting it into use for commercial purposes. In other countries there are subsidies by the government and it is well known how government subsidies are regarded in this country, but there is nevertheless the best of reason for giving to commercial aviation all the encouragement possible in the interest of efficiency. When it comes to the matter of safety the records of the results in other countries only need to be consulted.

DEBT NEGOTIATIONS

There was no reason to suppose that the negotiations between the debt commissions representing France and this country would complete their work in one, two or three days. That the original French plan was not acceptable to this country need occasion no surprise. France may or may not have been testing out the sentiment of this government. Much has been said about what would be required on the part of France and what would be granted. Of necessity those engaged in the negotiations must set forth their respective positions and that work is proceeding with what must be regarded as satisfaction thus far.

We have not accepted any French offer and neither have the visitors displayed their disposition to meet the American proposition. It is apparently a case of getting down to a compromise which will not ignore the debt that is owed, the fact that it is France that owes it and the desirability of dealing with the conditions as they are regardless of what may have been the terms reached in other instances which may or may not have a bearing upon the capacity of France to meet its obligations.

The conference has opened and progressed with evidences of the utmost good will. This has even made its impression upon the French press though there was no reason to expect otherwise. Faced as a business matter there was no reason why it should be otherwise. An adjustment that is fair to all is what is desired and there is no reason why the present negotiations should not bring it about.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Insert rose cuttings in a small Irish potato and they will never fail to root.

If you spill milk on a hot stove, of dark glasses to wear when hanging out white clothes.

Bread that is two days old will make toast superior to that for which fresh bread is used.

If you a spill milk on a hot stove, cover it at once with salt so there will be no disagreeable odor.

Do not grease your cake pans with butter. It is likely to make your cake burn on the bottom.

A little shredded coconut sprinkled over any plain pudding or jelly makes it look like a rich dessert.

Doughnuts will not absorb fat if 1-4 teaspoon of ginger is added to the dough.

To prevent small mats from curling up or slipping from their proper places line them carefully with carpet, either new or old.

Cover pimentos with olive oil after you have removed them from the tins and they will keep indefinitely.

When boiling an old fowl or tough meat add a pinch of soda to the water. Simmer gently and the meat will be perfectly tender.

Always beat rather than stir your cake batter. Beating introduces air into the batter, stirring makes it more solid.

Small screw-eyes screwed into the eighthand side of the icebox with the proper distance apart make a very convenient holder for ice-pick.

Tie a cloth around your wrist when washing ceilings or anything overhead. The rag will prevent the water from running down your arm.

Frocks should never be hung up in a closed wardrobe immediately after they have been taken from the body, but should be placed where they may be thoroughly aired.

Be sure that the chimneys are clean before any paperhanging is done in the house or, when the furnace is started again your new paper will have to be cleaned.

FRIED TOMATOES

It is not necessary to secure fresh tomatoes for frying. Secure the whole, canned tomatoes, cut them into quarters, after draining, and dip the pieces in a batter made by beating two eggs, adding a cup of milk, a cup of flour sifted with a half-teaspoon baking powder and a pinch of salt. Dip the tomatoes in the batter and fry in deep fat. Should the batter prove too thin add more flour.

CANNED DINNERS

Formerly when a large family was going on a picnic or for a few days' outing a day or two had to be devoted to preparing food. We of today pack in our little camp stove and carry our food along in tin cans. Canned dinners, from soup to nuts, were at one time put up in England for explorers. An Englishman going to the Amazon jungle for a year ordered a supply of there ready-to-serve meals, but through some error he received 365 dinners exactly alike, which grew rather monotonous before he got through. Be sure to select a good variety when ordering for a motor or camping trip. Let the grocer help you.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

If a watch is kept on a table by a sick bed a good plan is to cover it with a tumbler. It will then be seen but not heard.

If you have trouble in getting your children to drink milk try stirring two tablespoons of pulp from canned apricots into the glass by way of a change. The apricots will not only add flavor but will also afford extra nourishment.

For pimples and blackheads: Make a solution of boric acid (one teaspoon) and hot water (one pint.) Bathe your skin with this lotion while it is warm. Gently press out the blackheads and pimples. Have some fresh boric acid solution to bathe with a second time. Dry with a soft, clean cloth and apply the following: Three ounces rose water and half an ounce of sulphate of zinc; shake well and add three ounces of sulphurated potash. Mix very thoroughly before using. This treatment may be taken two or three times a week.

FOR THE BABY

An excellent arrangement for the child who cannot yet walk is a large blue bowl with a small seat in the center. The baby sits in the center held in by a wooden tray and rocks in all directions, with no danger of losing its balance.

CANDY SUBSTITUTE

Dry canned pineapple in a cloth and roll it in powdered sugar for the children. It makes a good substitute for candy and is much more wholesome. The sirup, mixed with grape juice, makes a delightful sherbet.

DELICIOUS DRESSING

In making French dressing for salad where canned fruit is used mix the oil with a little juice from the can and a few drops of lemon juice. You will find this a great improvement upon the usual vinegar or just plain lemon juice.

CANDLE HOLDERS

If you have no candle-holders for Johnny's birthday cake, try sticking the tiny candles into marshmallows. All the small guests will be delighted when they find they can eat the candle-holders.

IN PLACE OF CREAM

One can whip powdered milk with the addition of a little gelatin. Take one cup reliquefied powdered milk, one and one-half teaspoons plain (not acidulated) gelatin, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla and one teaspoon powdered sugar. Moisten the gelatin in four tablespoons of the powdered milk. Place the balance of the milk in a double boiler and heat almost to scalding point. Add the softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool, add flavoring and sugar. Pour into a dish set in cracked ice and whip. If ice is not available allow the mixture to cool over night, after gelatin, sugar and flavoring have been added, and in the morning, although "set," it can be whipped satisfactorily.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Large round or square buckles, enameled in Russian designs in brilliant colors, add color to white shoes of kid.

Small square pillows of hand-blocked linen are just the thing to tuck away in the corners of couches and fireside chairs.

The newest and gayest of silk handkerchiefs are hand-blocked and batiked with very large and simple motifs in brilliant colors.

Homespun coats of white are simply trimmed with collar and cuffs of white hooked through to form a trimming that resembles fur.

A scarf that is suitable to wear with almost any coat is of white crepe de chine with broad borders of crossstitching done in rose red.

Members of the youngest set are smartly and becomingly attired when they wear little two-piece costumes of balbriggan in the delicate pastel shades.

Black shoes are expected to be very important in the styles of fall and winter. Patent leather at present is most popular in the simple opera pump or one strap styles, with black kid next in importance.

A two-piece dress in the popular tunic style is made of deep violet balbriggan and has the high collar accentuated by a square yoke of silver kid cut out and appliqued to form a zigzag pattern. The cuffs are also outlined with the kid.

Silver and gold kid will be among the new novelties for belts, and many fancy celluloid and metal buckles are appearing. The width tends to be narrow, as the demand favors belts of an inch to an inch and a half.

A fascinating dancing frock is of geranium pink chiffon with the waist embroidered in brilliants. Some of the brilliants are scattered over the skirt and a broad band of ostrich feathers trims the bottom of the skirt, which has a slight upward flare in front.

GUEST TOWELS BLOOM IN PASTEL SHADES

No longer is the white linen towel of fine weave the most popular for guest towels, for the coarser weaves in pale colors of lavendar, yellow, pink and blue have come to take its place. Pieces of white or contrasting linens may be applied with rows of hemstitching or fancy stitches and a single-letter monogram or group of embroidered flowers decorating the appliqued square.

SEMIMADE SPREADS

For the woman who enjoys a little fancy work there are attractive bedspreads that are stamped for large French knot embroidery. The design is rather unusual because it is arranged in three long stripes that reach from top to bottom. The knots are made with heavy silk.

HIGH SHOES AGAIN

High shoes for women, after having been in banishment for eleven years, again will be in fashion on the streets of London this winter. The shoes will not be the plain black and tan ones of years ago, but will be of highly colored leathers and snakes and crocodile skins. Jeweled and other fancy heels will add a piquant touch to them. Men's footwear also will undergo some radical changes —green, red, blue and brown—to match the clothing worn. Also the heels will be higher than usual.

SEWING HINTS

If you find your buttonholes do not hold very well, try marking them with a pencil. Then run a line of machine stitching all around the pencil mark. Cut through the center and buttonhole over the machine stitching. It makes a splendid, firm buttonhole.

The best kind of dishcloths are made of cheesecloth. The material should be doubled, the raw edges turned in and stitched on the machine. This will wear, and because it cleans so easily is most sanitary. Rinsing in soap and water will be all that is necessary for cleansing.

When threading your sewing-machine needle, turn the flashlight on the opposite side from the thread and the eye will show up plainly.

To cut bias folds, fold the bias material the desired depth for as many folds as needed, then crease with a hot iron. It is easy to cut biases prepared in this way.

SIMPLIFIED FRENCH SEAMS

When making a French seam use the narrowest hemmer machine attach, and it can be done quickly. A placket can be finished by sewing a straight piece of material around the entire opening. Fell it down on the right side. Fold in the strip on the side that is to come on top and let the part of the strip on the other side remain out flat. This will prevent anything beneath from showing should the placket gap even a trifle.

HAVE WORK HANDY

Keep a ball of crochet cotton and a hook in your handbag. When you are out and are kept waiting unexpectedly or when you go on a train, even for a short distance, make a narrow edging for table or bureau sets. As the lengths of laces are not very long for any one piece, the work is never bulky.

HOME STUNTS

An inkenious woman attended an auction sale at which she saw two well made hardwood commodes such as were used before bath rooms were common. Our friend bid them off at 25 cents each. Her family was hilarious but she told them to wait.

She went to a carpentery shop and had eight oak pieces cut an inch and a half square and two and a half feet long. Each of these posts was screwed at top and bottom to the ends of the commodes in such a manner that the posts did not go above the top but formed neat legs, which raised the articles of furniture to the desired height. Each leg was finished with a castor.

Next, she unscrewed the rounding backs, fastened on with cleats. Then she procured a broad board, just wide enough to cover the tops of the commodes, and four and a half feet long. The edges were neatly beveled. The commodes were set in place with 20 inches space between them to make knee room. The broad board was firmly screwed into place on top, and a surprisingly satisfactory flat-topped desk secured with a drawer and shelf room on either side. The whole was given a coat of oak stain, furnished with a blotter and a desk set, and those who had laughed before were anxious to have possession of the desk.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Women's clubs are almost unknown in Spain.

Alaska now has a club of business and professional women.

In the United States more than 2,000 women in 1,977 cities are employed as executives in banks and trust companies.

Among the most musical of the members of the English royal family is Queen Mary, whose charming singing voice was trained by Tosti.

The Rev. Lillian Herrick Chapman, an ordained minister of the Congregational church, has become one of the pastors of a large church in Elmira, N. Y.

Young women assistants employed in some of the fashionable "beauty parlors" in London now make as much as $60 a week in tips and commissions.

THE BROOM

When a broom begins to show signs of wear don't throw it away. First of all soak it in hot suds, rinse and put out into the air to dry. Then cut the bristles so that they are even lengths again, and you will find that the broom has taken a new lease on life.

OLDER DISHES

Remove the food from fine china before putting it in the refrigerator and place it on less expensive dishes. Fine china is very apt to chip and break when used as containers.

RECIPES

Nut and Tomato Loaf: Pulverized nuts, one and one-half cups; ground stale breadcrumbs; two cups; pepper, one-quarter teaspoon; pulverized onion, one tablespoon; savory seasoning, one teaspoon; evaporated milk, one cup, salt, one and one half teaspoons. Mix the nuts with the breadcrumbs and add the egg. Then stir in all the seasonings and add the combined milk and water. After 20 minutes mold in a well-greased bread pan. Bake three-quarters of an hour and serve with tomato sauce.

Chicken and Corn Soup: Take two quarts of the liquor in which a chicken has been boiled, add one pint of corn scraped from the cob and chopped, one tablespoon of finely chopped onion, and one scant teaspoonful of salt, and simmer, closely covered for an hour. Rub through a fine sieve and return to the fire. In a small saucepan melt one tablespoon of butter, add two tablespoons of flour, and when mixed, one cupful of rich milk or cream. Add gradually a portion of the soup and when smooth turn into the larger kettle. Season to taste, sprinkle in one tablespoon of very finely chopped parsley and serve.

Stories That Recall Others

A Full Crew

A first grade teacher was preparing the little ones for their first fire drill, which was a serious task. She explained that in their school two strokes of the gong told them that the nurse had come, three strokes was the doctor's signal, and, endeavoring to impress on their minds the significance of four strokes, she said, "Now what do you suppose four strokes is for?" A little one shouted, "The ambulance."

You Can't Blame the Bird

Do birds have an ear for music the same as human beings? This incident would indicate that they do.

At a certain home there is a daughter who is an accomplished pianist. She has a brother who is a saxophone player. On one occasion the daughter was playing on the piano and outside the open window, in a rose bush, sat a redbird singing with all his might. He kept it up as long as the playing on the piano continued.

After the daughter stopped playing the son began on his saxophone. Immediately the redbird ceased and flew away as rapidly as his wings would carry him.

The next day the bird was again seen in the same bush, and to see what effect music would have upon him the daughter began playing. As on the day before he sang with all his might. When she stopped and the brother began he again flew away and was never seen there again.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sixty years old today is Marie Amelie, the last Queen of Portugal, and long famous as one of the most beautiful and accomplished of the royal women of Europe. A qualified physician and learned in several other branches of science as well, the former Queen has always been a daring rider and an expert swimmer. Since the oldest son, followed shortly after by the enforced abdication of her younger son, King Manuel, Queen Marie has lived in exile in England, all that remains to her of a royal court being a charming house in Richmond Park, near London. England has always held first place in her affections, for it is the land of her birth and of her girlhood days. She belongs to the house of Orleans and her father was the Comte de Paris, Pretender to the French throne, who took refuge in England when he was sent into exile. During the late war Marie Amelie was one of the most active women in England in relief work.

From Small Beginnings

Richard Mansfield, the Clerk, the Great Actor

A 17-year-old boy, with just enough money to admit him to the United States, went about Boston looking for a job. Finally he found work with a merchant and settled down to long hours at labor that he disliked. Richard Mansfield had no wish to enter business. He had shown great skill in drawing and painting, had studied art and wished to become a painter. But he needed money and so he had to work as a clerk.

In his spare time he got out his pencils and brushes and made pictures. He resolved not to remain a clerk. Night after night he drew and painted and accumulated a number of pictures of which he felt proud. When he tried to sell his pictures he found an unappreciative world. No one would buy. He had saved up some money and so he took his work over to England, where his father's home had been, hoping to find buyers there—but all to no use. Utterly discouraged he remembered what success he had played the part of Shylock in The Merchant of Venice. Perhaps he would be a better actor than he was a painter. He found an opening in a little traveling company and went all about England, at first singing in comic operas.

As yet he had not found his real work in life, for he was destined to become one of the greatest of actors. He studied his parts more and more carefully, and tried to live the lives of the characters. He played serious parts with both comedy and tragedy. Then, little by little people began to realize his real ability. He played Shylock so that he aroused deep emotions. His Richard III was a villain indeed, but a man as well. "His Henry X was a great hero. He gave life to Cyrano de Bergerac, Monsieur Beaucaire and Beau Brummel. His Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde was a masterpiece of acting. The public acclaimed him and when he died at 50 lamented him as one of the greatest of all actors. Through constant effort, and the refusal to be downed, he had achieved lasting success in a great field of art. He made himself a permanent figure in the history of the English-speaking stage."

Royalty Enters Theatricals

GERA, Thuringia, Sept. 27—(AP)—Prince Heinrich of Reuss will fill again the post of chief dramatist of the State theater of Reuss for the coming season. He held that position last year. Another scion of a noble house to enter the theatrical business is Prince Joachim Ernst of Anhalt, who has been engaged as stage manager for the coming season at the Ballenstedt theater in the Harz Mountains.

New Scooter for Kiddies

STETTIN, Sept. 28—The latest toy for German kiddies is the "Rolling Island." Adhering to the principle of the scooter, it consists of a wooden disk with two wheels on either side and one dirigle wheel in front. The child stands on the disk and propels it forward by means of two poles in either hand.

A saving of $300 a day to a manufacturer of a wooden part for automobiles is said to have resulted from three days' attendance by one of the company's technical representatives upon the forest products laboratory course in gluing wood at the University of Wisconsin.

What Happened By the Old Stump

Look here, look there, look everywhere,
But thorough be and look with care.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit had received a very broad hint from Unc' Billy Possum. Peter isn't so stupid as not to know a hint when he receives it. "I've just been wasting my time looking in tree-tops for the nest of Ol' Mrs. Buzzard," thought Peter as he scampered, lipperty—lipperty—lip, through the Green Forest. "Unc' Billy Possum knows those Buzzards so well that he probably knows all about their way of nesting. Te didn't tell me to look on the ground for that nest, but he hinted that that would be the place to look. If that nest isn't on the ground it probably is pretty close to it. And here I've been running around with my head tipped back until I nearly broke my neck. Probably I've gone right past that nest a dozen times."

In this Peter was nearer right than he had and idea of. He had passed that nest more than a dozen times. In fact he had passed it almost every day. When he left Unc' Billy Possum and scampered, lipperty—lip, through the Green Forest, he ran until he met his big cousin, Jumper the Hare. It was near a great hollow stump. That stump was a little higher than Jumper, even when Jumper sat up straight. Neither Peter nor Jumper had ever been able to look into that stump. Now when they met they sat down right at the foot of it with their backs to it.

"Well, Peter," said Jumper, "have you found the nest of Ol' Mrs. Buzzard yet?"

"No," replied Peter promptly. "No, I haven't found the nest, but I've found out something about it."

"What?" demanded Jumper.

"I've found out," replied Peter, "that it is useless to look up in the tops of the trees for that nest because it isn't in a treetop."

"That is an excellent reason for not looking there, then," replied Jumper drily. "But if it isn't up in a tree, where is it?"

"Where else could it be?" snapped Peter.

"Well, it might be in one of several places," replied Jumper, scratching one of his long ears with a long hindfoot.

Peter pricked up his ears and stared at Jumper. "Huh!" said he. "Huh! What kind of talk is that? If it isn't up in a tree it must be on the ground, mustn't it?"

"Well," said Jumper slowly, "it might be in a hollow log."

"Who says it must?" demanded Jumper.

"I do," replied Peter. "If it isn't up in a tree and it isn't on the ground I'd like to know where it can be."

"Well," said Jumper slowly. "It might be in a hollow log."

Peter looked a little bit foolish. He hadn't thought of a hollow log. "It might," said he, "but I don't believe it is."

The foolish look on Peter's face increased. "And it might not be," he snapped.

"And it might be in a little cave in the rocks," continued Jumper.

Peter looked more foolish than ever and he couldn't think of a thing to say. He just grunted.

"And it might be in a big hollow stump," concluded Jumper. "Of course, Cousin Peter, I don't say that it is in any of these places. It may be on the ground for all I know. I just mentioned these places because you said that if it wasn't in a tree it would have to be on the ground."

"Well, anyway, I'm going to look on the ground first," declared Peter, and off he started, Jumper following. As they disappeared a bald red head was poked over the edge of the old stump. It was the head of Ol' Mrs. Buzzard, and she grinned as she watched Peter and Jumper go lipperty-lipperty-lip out of sight in the Green Forest.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Hollows in Cheeks and Neck Growing Deeper Every Week

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on, hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing, flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are as easy to take as candy and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized give you your money back—and only 50 cents for 60 tablets. Ask Lee & Osgood Co. or any live pharmacist anywhere.

But be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child—age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

An Old-Fashioned Beauty Recipe

The old-time application of Buttermilk and Cream to whiten and preserve the skin and remove harsh little wrinkles and ugly sallowness is grandmother's recipe and Women throughout the country are again using it to ensure a beautiful complexion and snow-white hands and arms.

Buttermilk, however, is not always obtainable, but a specialist has at last perfected a method of concentrating buttermilk and combining it with a perfect cream, which you can buy in small quantities ready to use at any first-class drug store by simply asking for "Howard's" Buttermilk Cream.

There is no secret about it—nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just a common ordinary buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream, centrly massaged into the fingers and around the corners of the eyes and mouth.

If you have not yet tried this simple, easy way to beauty get a small quantity of Howard's Buttermilk Cream today and let your face be the judge. Your favorite toilet goods counter can supply you. Lee & Osgood Co. is selling lots of it.

Helpful Hair Hints

A leading hair dresser says—"I have found nothing as good as Parisian Sage to make the hair wavy, soft and lustrous and make it grow abundant and beautiful." Remember the name—Parisian Sage—best for the hair and scalp. It's guaranteed. Lee and Osgood and all druggists sell it.

Visited Patient in Hospital

William Whitmarsh of Norwich has been a patient at a Hartford hospital for the past week where he underwent an operation for cataract. Sunday Mr. Whitmarsh had as callers from Norwich, his sister, Mrs. Davis and her daughters, Flora and Myrtle Davis, also his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Whitmarsh, and Mrs. A. Maud Smith of Norwich Town, who motored to Hartford.

An Hour Late For Church

A number of the members of the United Congregational church, who had not noticed that the church was to remain on daylight time for this Sunday, were greatly surprised and embarrassed when they came to the morning service on standard time. They found they were in time to hear the latter part of the sermon, having arrived an hour after the service began.

Made Trip From Newark

Mr. and Mrs. John Riegland and son, Wallace Robert, have returned to Newark, N. J., after spending the week-end at the latter's parents home, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Burnap. They made the trip by automobile with Mr. and Mrs. J. Carlos Caswell, who were their guests the past week.

"WHAT THINK YOU OF CHRIST?" ALL ANSWER, SAYS PRIEST

St. Patrick's is a church where "the poor have the gospel preached to them" and where each one attending carries out for guidance during the coming week practical thoughts and admonitions. But rarely is there heard a more searching and eloquent sermon than was that delivered Sunday at the 8 o'clock mass by the junior assistant, Rev. John J. Reilly. The preacher took his text from the gospel for the Sunday which he had just read,—it was the seventeenth Sunday after Pentecost—Matthew 22 35-46, the Saviour's question to the Pharisees, "What think you of Christ?" Summing up, Father Reilly declared that each shows to the world what he, individually, thinks of Christ every time he commits sin.

Down through the ages men have been answering this query in an unmistakable way. It was answered during the first three centuries after the Redeemer's work on earth by martyrs and saints and apostles and characters of such sterling virtue as Timothy and Titus. It was answered through the succeeding disturbed centuries by those who put their seal upon the majesty of great cathedrals, into the beauty of art and literature, and the truths of science. It is answered today in the 300,000,000 Catholics and their 150,000 priests in the countries about the world. They are saying in word and works and act, as was said at the outset, "I think Christ is the king of glory, the eternal Son of God the Father."

On every hand are those who show what they think of Christ—as those who did at Bethlehem, at Nazareth, those who wagged their heads on Calvary; Catholics are showing what they think, if they are lukewarm to the Christ of the altar, slow to accept His invitation to receive Him in the Blessed Sacrament for their spiritual food. Above all, the gentle Christ, who forgave the sinful Magdelene, had compassion for the Woman of Samaria, had in His look more love than reproach for Peter who had denied Him, was severe with hypocrites, Pharisees; and the preacher emphasized the beauty of truth and sincerity. The salient thought left with his hearers was that each one is answering in his daily life the question, "What think you of Christ?"

After confession on the previous day, row after row of penitents went to the altar to receive holy communion from Rev. Myles P. Galvin, who read the low mass, and who was assisted by Father Reilly in administering the Eucharist.

At the low mass at 7.30, read by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, such a large proportion of the Holy Name society received communion from Msgr. May assisted by Father Galvin, that the former congratulated the men on their practical Catholicity, which finds its proof in their public stand for reverence for the holy name of Jesus, and for clean speech in general. Letter Carrier Michael J. Murphy is president of this society, which includes the leading men of the great parish.

The epistle read in all the masses of the world Sunday was the significant one of unity made so much of in the Roman Catholic church, Ephesians 4. 1-5, which ends, "One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all and through all, and in us all, who is blessed for ever and ever."

Msgr. May returned Friday evening from Washington, where he had attended the national council of bishops and monsignori at the Catholic University of America.

PRESTON PLAINS POTATOES WILL GIVE DEMONSTRATION

Preston Plains, famous in Connecticut as a potato growing district, is to have its fourth annual field day on Friday, Oct. 2. Four potato farms, totalling 125 acres, will be thrown open for public inspection with the digging of potatoes by modern machinery in progress.

An innovation in the annual field day will be added this year in the form of a prize contest, open to anyone, in picking up and bagging potatoes. Prizes are being offered by Norwich Implement dealers. Each contestant will have 500 feet of row and will be supplied with baskets and bags.

The field day is held annually under auspices of the New London county farm bureau. This year the farm bureau has eighteen seed strain tests at Preston Plains and these will be dug and weighed at the field day. The program this year begins at 11 o'clock a. m. and at 12 o'clock potato chowder, coffee and rolls will be served by Mr. and Mrs. Dawley at their home. This will be followed by an address by A. W. Manchester, of Storrs, the picking up contest and the digging of the demonstration test plots.

County Agent Walter Clark announces that in case of heavy rain the field day will be postponed until the following day.

FORMER ALDERMAN CROOKS DIES FROM INJURIES BY AUTOMOBILE

Fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile on North Main street about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Edward Crooks, 56, of 215 Central avenue, a former alderman and councilman of this city, died at 5:45 at the Backus hospital to which he was hurried in an unconscious condition immediately after the accident. He suffered a fractured skull and both legs were broken below the knees.

Peter Duffile of 330 Central avenue, driver of the machine which struck Mr. Crooks, is held at police headquarters without bonds to await the action of Coroner J. J. Desmond.

The accident happened on North Main street at a point between the Central avenue corner and the tannery where there is a double line of trolley tracks in the street.

According to a statement made by Mr. Duffile at police headquarters where he was brought by Sergeant John H. Casey after the accident, he was driving a Ford coupe towards Taftville and had with him his sister and another person. They were on their way to Lisbon to visit his brother, one of whose children died on Saturday. Duffile said he was driving in the north bound trolley tracks and that a trolley car which had stopped was just starting up as he approached it. Behind the trolley car another automobile was coming and when he first saw Mr. Crooks, the latter was between the double rails, having stepped out from behind the trolley car to cross the street to the sidewalk which is on the tannery side of the street at this point. Duffile said he blew his horn, expecting that Mr. Crooks would stop, but he did not seem to hear it and kept walking across the street. The right headlight struck him, knocking him down and the rear wheel ran over him, Mr. Duffile thought.

Immediately after the accident the injured man was carried to the porch of an adjoining house and a telephone message was sent to the Backus hospital for the ambulance which arrived quickly. Sergeant John H. Casey who happened to come by in an automobile also put in a call for the ambulance and with Officer O'Neil took note of the distance within which the Duffile machine was stopped after hitting Mr. Crooks. It was stated that the wheel marks in the street showed the car ran 100 feet before it stopped.

Sergeant Casey brought Duffile and his machine to police headquarters, where Chief Linton received the report of the accident and held Duffile to await the result of the injuries to Mr. Crooks. Duffile was much broken up over the sad occurrence. The right headlight of his machine was smashed and the headlight bracket bent back, while the lower half of the windshield had also been shattered in some way. Mr. Duffile said this broke at the moment he struck the man in the street.

Mr. Crooks had left his home about half an hour before the accident, saying for a stroll. It is understood that he had not been on the trolley car.

Edward Crooks was born in Middletown, Lancashire, England, Dec. 18, 1868. He attended the schools in the town of his birth and when about 24 years of age came to this country and located in Norwich. Oct. 3, 1900, he was united in marriage with Ada L. Barnard, the marriage taking place in Norwich.

For about 30 years, Mr. Crooks had been employed by the United States Finishing company and for a number of years he was boss pipes at the Greeneville plant. Of late years by has been employed in the supply room of the repair department. He was a member of the old Greeneville board of education and had been a member of the town board of education before consolidation. He was a former member of the court of common council, a prominent member of Hugh H. Osgood lodge, No. 6920, I. O. O. F., M. U., and was a member of the old truck company, No. 2, of Greeneville. In all these affiliations he was an active worker and was a force for progress.

Mr. Crooks was a republican in his political affiliations. His service in the court of common council dates back to June, 1916, when he was elected a councilman. At the organization meeting of that council he was appointed a member of the board of fire commissioners and throughout his period of service in the council as a councilman and alderman he served as a fire commissioner. He took a deep interest in the welfare of the fire department and was ever ready and willing to work for the modernizing of the department.

After serving two years as councilman he was re-elected to the same office for two years more. In 1918, the year of the democratic landslide, he was defeated for re-election, but in 1919 went back to the council as a councilman, serving continuously as councilman until June, 1923, when he was elected an alderman and named chairman of the board of fire commissioners. He served as alderman and chairman of the board of fire commissioners until his term expired last spring when he declined to run for re-election.

Mr. Crooks in 1921 was elected president of the board of water commissioners, serving in that capacity for one year. Though he never sought political preferment, Mr. Crooks held to the opinion that every citizen should take an active part in securing good government for his city and should be willing to sacrifice some of his time and effort for the common good. He was a close reader of matters of the day and kept in touch with the trend of the times on both sides of the ocean.

He took a deep and active interest in the welfare of Loyal Hugh Osgood lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U., in which he held membership for many years, being one of the most prominent members in the lodge. He had held office in the state lodge of the order and at the time of his death was a director of the grand lodge.

Surviving Mr. Crooks are his widow and two sons, Arthur and Frank Crooks. Mr. Crooks was a member of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Greeneville.

Mr. Crooks was a citizen of whom any city could be proud. He was a true friend, possessed sterling traits of character and kindly and genial he made friends easily. He was widely known throughout the city and town and was highly respected by all and in his sudden death Norwich suffers a distinct loss. His many friends and acquaintances extend their sympathy to the grief-stricken family.

INDIAN VILLAGE FAIR PROCEEDS ABOUT $225

The various committees in charge of the Indian Village fair, held Saturday afternoon and evening in Lowthorpe Meadows, Norwich Town, are greatly pleased over its success. From the time the fair opened at 3 o'clock, there was a steady flow of visitors until well into the evening. Everything was apparently disposed of, the several tables being well patronized.

The part of the meadows where the fair was held was attractively decorated with vari-colored electric lights, strung from tree to tree, this making an artistic setting, especially in the evening. A vast number of colored pennants also strung from the trees, made a novel web-like appearance, intermingled with the lights. The pennant colors, shaded from light pink to the dull grey of the evening. While the music of the Rover brochestra lent a holiday air that was pleasing and appreciated, the young folks were enabled to enjoy dancing on the lawn, in the center of the dancing space was an old-time Indian totem pole, the property of Norwich Boy Scouts.

Conspicuous among the throng was the group of Indian maidens, Boy Scouts from Troop No. 39, Boy Scouts of Norwich Town; also Chief Occum (Lemuel M. Fielding) and Tah Yah Mosse (fortune teller), who is a sister-in-law of Mr. Fielding. From a unique enclosure constructed of small cedars, Tah Yah Mosse was busy from the time she arrived until leaving, relating past events and propheasying the future for those who visited her tent. Chief Occum had a special location assigned him where he dispensed yokeage. The ten sixteen-foot tepees, each bearing an indian emblem, were made possible through the courtesy of Grosvenor Ely. In several of the tepees was a life-size cardboard Indian, loaned by Mr. Epstein, of the Ideal Cotton company.

Through the generosity of the Norwich Gas and Electric Co., electricity was furnished for lighting; the four hundred foot of wiring with electric light bulbs attached, was loaned by the Norwich Rural Association.

Others who contributed toward the success of the fair either by contribution or loan, included William R. Perkins, Schwartz Bros., and Charles Constulus of Olympia Candy Kitchen as well as many citizens of Norwich.

One of the prettiest features of the afternoon, was the interpretive dancing by the pupils of Mrs. Edward Andrews. Little Myrtle Fuller gave Soaring by (Chalif), music by Deliber. In this dance the little girl kept a balloon in the air most of the time, making graceful and entrancing pictures. The toe dance, Zigamka Aze, was by Bella Allard, carrying a tambourine. In this were beautiful slow parts, then fast Gypsy steps that were varied and interesting, full of Gypsy abandon. Speed, was most gracefully interpreted by Dolly Edmond. The little dancer expressed the intensity and recklessness of our high pressure era and the fall which ends the dance is the symbol of its dancer. This was by Schubert, Are There Fairies? a group dance was given with grace and charm by Florence Smith, as the little Indian girl who wondered if there were real Fairies like the ones in story books. Nancy Pitcher as the Spirit of the Fairies playing her lyre calls out the real fairy, Evelyn Burbeck, who does a most graceful dance filling her cup with dew and drinking to the little Indian girl. Miss Dorothea Tucker accompanied at the piano, for the dancers. The trucking was done through the helpful assistance of William E. House.

It has been estimated that the fair approximately netted $225. This no doubt is the beginning of what will eventually prove a yearly custom.

PREPARING FIGURES ON NORWICH-DANIELSON ROAD

The engineering department of the state highway commission is at work on the preparation of the estimated cost of the proposed re-location of the highway between Norwich and Danielson. The latter part of the week surveyors were at work on the proposed new route for the highway. The department is preparing this estimate of the cost of the re-locating of the highway with a view to comparing it with the estimated cost of improving the present highway without the re-location feature.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the hearing to be held at the town hall in Central Village by State Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald on the afternoon of Oct. 7th. News of the coming hearing has been widely spread and a capacity attendance is looked for. At the hearing the public will have an opportunity to express opinions for and against the proposed re-location.

GRADUATIONS AT UNITED SCHOOL RALLY DAY

Sunday was rally day for the members of the Sunday school at the United Congregational church. The school session was devoted to a rally day gathering with Supt. Ernest L. Latimer in charge, and with a large attendance of the school members. The program included graduations from the beginners', primary and junior departments, the calling of the school roll, and a brief address by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the church. Rev. Mr. Abbott spoke on The Value of the School.

GRAND MASTERS' DAY AT MASONIC HOME

Grand Masters' day at Wallingford brought to the Masonic home Saturday members of the fraternity from all parts of the state and also many members of the Eastern Star.

The arrangements were in charge of Grand Master Walter T. Arnold of Meriden, and the host was Compass lodge for the Masons and the chapter at Meriden for the Eastern Star.

The address of the day was by the Rev. Harris E. Starr of New Haven. The report of the condition of the charity foundation which is the body which conducts the home for the order, was made by the president, Fred A. Verplanck, of Manchester.

A. O. H. COUNTY CONVENTIONS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

G. M. Kennedy, of New London, was elected county president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of New London county at the annual county meeting held Sunday afternoon in the A. O. H. rooms on Main street, this city. The ladies' auxiliaries of the county also held their convention at the same time and elected as their county president, Mrs. Susie Malone, of Taftville.

Previous to the county conventions there was a joint session of the men's divisions and ladies' divisions which opened at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Julia Brock, this city, the retiring president of the county organization of the Ladies' auxiliaries, presiding. Mayor Milo R. Waters gave a short address of welcome, and there was a short prayer by Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, pastor of St. Patrick's church, who also gave a splendid patriotic address. There were brief and interesting addresses by Rev. Myles P. Galvin and ex-Postmaster John P. Murphy.

The joint session then adjourned, the men and women holding separate sessions for the hearing of the annual reports of their officers and the election of new officers for the coming year.

The men's meeting was presided over by County President John Hourigan, of Jewett City. After he and the other officers of the county organization had submitted their reports, which were accepted as presented, the meeting elected county officers for the ensuing year as follows:

County president, G. M. Kennedy, New London; county vice-president, Michael O'Connor, of Norwich; county financial secretary, Terrence Hanlon, Taftville; county treasurer, Frank J. Murtha, Norwich.

There were interesting remarks by several prominent members of the order and the following were appointed a committee to extend greetings and thanks to the Ladies' auxiliaries which were in session in an adjoining room: William T. May, New London; Frank P. Murtha, Norwich, and John P. Murphy, Norwich.

Mrs. Julia Brock, the retiring county president, presided at the women's meeting and the usual reports of the various officers were heard and accepted. Mrs. Brock gave a splendid and lengthy report of the national and state conventions which she attended as a delegate. The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

County President, Mrs. Susie Malone, Taftville; county vice-president, Miss Mary Hartle, Norwich; county secretary, Miss Catherine Coughlin, Norwich; county treasurer, Mrs. Margaret Watterson, Norwich; county historian, Mrs. Nellie O'Neil, Norwich.

Mrs. Julia Brock, in relinquishing the office of county president, addressed the meeting as follows:

In retiring as county president, I take this opportunity of extending to you and through you to the members of your various divisions, my sincere thanks for the co-operation given to me, during my term in office, as by such aid and assistance we have been most successful in advancing the interests of the order, not only by increasing our membership, but also in promoting to the full extent a fraternal friendship between the members in this county, and to my mind that should be the principal aim in all of our efforts. I have endeavored to do everything possible in connection with the duties of my office and I feel assured it has been appreciated, judging from the great interest taken by the delegates from this county to the recent state convention in my behalf which resulted in my being selected as a member of the state board, which position I hope to conduct the affairs of with credit to those who honored me. What I have done for the order has been a pleasure and I assure you I shall continue the good work in the future as I have in the past.

Following adjournment of both conventions the 60 delegates and 100 members of both county organizations enjoyed a delicious luncheon served by the women.

At the joint meeting the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, that the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Connecticut, pledges anew its devotion to holy mother church, and as ever, we shall be found standing staunchly for our religion and always ready to add our strength in upholding the hands of our bishop and priests in their endeavors for faith and fatherland.

We renew our inviolable loyalty to the United States, its government, and its institutions, in peace and in war, and confidently look forward to future years being emblazoned with Irish achievement, as glorious as those which have made the past story of our country and state luminous with the splendors of Irish names.

We recommend to our membership a continued interest in the motherland, and cherish the hope that Ireland's progress may continue onward until she secures her rightful place among the nations of the earth.

We ask in fairness that our school histories be so edited that due acknowledgment be given our race for its record in peace and war, and that we be on the alert to discover omissions in our text books that would deprive us of our share of historical truth.

The following committee had charge of the arrangements for the joint meeting and the serving of the luncheon:

From Division No. 18—Mrs. D. Sullivan, chairman; Mrs. LaFontaine, Mrs. McNally, Mrs. Bissonette, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Callahan, Mrs. Harrigan, Mrs. Monaher and Mrs. Donovan.

From Division No. 54—Mrs. Mary McCarthy, chairman; Mrs. Swanton, Mrs. Woodmansee, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Brewer, Mrs. Coughlin, Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Peterson, Miss Nellie Nagle, Miss Margaret Slattery, Mrs. Margaret Barrows.

At the close of the women's meeting, Mrs. Brock, the retiring county president, was presented a purse of money by the New London county delegates and members of the auixiliaries in the county.

MAENNERCHOR TURNERS EXHIBIT AT SANATORIUM

The Maennerchor Turner section of Taftville gave a very pleasing exhibition in march drill, pyramid building, and general calisthenic exercises for the entertainment of the patients at Uncas-on-Thames sanatorium on Saturday afternoon.

Instructor H. Seidel was assisted by the following class members: Wilhelmina Krauss, Frieda Thoma, Margaret Heibel, Bertha Hahn, Elsie Heberding, Eva Voghtman, Irene Stecht, Beatrice Parr, Gladys Thomas, Emina Spielvogel, Hilda Spielvogel, and Alfred Puchta, Patrick Donohue, Thomas Coleman, George Krauss, Walter Haffner, Herman Krauss, William Mich, Frederick Seidel, George Gauthier, Francis Simoneau, Robert Pilling, Alfred Miller, Edward Stefanick, Peter Franiski.

Rang Angelus Too Soon.

The shift from daylight time to standard time, which took place Sunday morning, when clocks and watches had to be set back an hour, apparently led to some confusion Sunday afternoon with the man in charge of ringing the Angelus at St. Patrick's church. This is regularly rung at 6 o'clock, but Sunday it rang at 4, two hours ahead of time.

CAMP TIPPECAN SEASON HAD LARGEST REGISTRATION

The present season for Camp Tippecan at Beach pond, Voluntown, which is the camp of the Norwich Boy Scouts had its largest registration this year, which is the fifth season for the camp. It was conducted under the direction of the camp committee which consisted of Edward A. Harris, chairman, Harry W. Cardwell, George H. Young, Harry E. Prentice, J. Nelson Weymouth, George T. Briggs, L. M. Carpenter, J. Lincoln Crawford, Dr. R. R. Agnew, Dr. J. J. Donohue, Rev William C. Prentice and J. Henry Shannon, in direct charge of the camp was Scout Executive F. A. Benton.

The following report for the camp season is made by the committee and the camp directors:

Camp was set up July 3 by F. A. Benton, Thomas Baldwin, Jr., and four men sent out by L. M. Carpenter of Jewett City, Mr. Carpenter, transported the equipment.

The camp opened officially on Monday July 6 with 29 scouts.

The camp staff was composed of F. A. Benton, director and assistants, Rev. Frederick C. Williams, Victor Davis, Edward Preston, Irving Manning, Thomas Baldwin, Jr., Harry Jordan, guide, Dr. R. R. Agnew, and Reginald Laubin, John Jenks, and helper, eleven men with an average of eight men per week. 63 scouts were in camp on an average of nearly two weeks each, or 102 boy weeks and with the staff totalled 72 for the season. The Norwich Rotary club and the Norwich Lion's Club provided for six boys at camp this season.

Three overnight hikes, a hike around the Lake, one to Camp Yawgoog, six quarter mile hikes and short trips were made.

Scout executive Donald North of Boston Council, Scout Executive Burdick of New London Council, accompanied by four camp committee men, and Scout executive Fowler of Middletown visited camp. In addition there were several hundred visitors among whom were Messrs. Ross, Harris, Cardwell, Young, Crawford, Agnew, Donohue, Briggs, Prentice, Weymouth, Carpenter, Prentiss of the camp committee and council.

A number of scout masters were with us this season. Harry Jordan made 25 bows and arrows.

Scouts carved and set up a beautiful totem pole and an attractive sign was made by Irving Manning and set up at the entrance to camp.

Guide Jordan, with the aid of scouts made the shingles and covered the roof of the 24 foot by 14 foot log cabin.

The cabin was used for a camp fire one rainy night, a cheerful fire lighted in the old fire place, and the cabin christened "Tippecan Long House."

Five row boats were in commission this season, three of them purchased recently. A new raft for diving was constructed and anchored in the swimming cave.

An aluminum, twin motor was installed by the camp committee in one of the boats and used for transportation of water, milk, mail, visitors and baggage from the lower end of the lake to camp.

Several of the staff, qualified Red Cross Life saving men, taught a number of scouts to swim.

Mr. Shaughnessy of the Connecticut state department of health inspected camp and pronounced the sanitary conditions of drainage, food, water and disposal of waste, satisfactory.

A detail of scouts cut out the trail to camp and removed obstructions to automobiles.

Tuesday, July 21st the camp was requested to locate a woman who had strayed away from a nearby camp of picknickers. The executive assembled the entire camp at 4 p. m. and scoured the woods till nearly 7 o'clock in a pouring rain. They finally succeeded in locating the woman who had wandered around to the opposite side of the lake.

Dr. R. R. Agnew contributed a large army tent to the camp, and also offered three prizes of a rod, a reel and fishing tackle to the best anglers. The first prize was won by Scout William Stebbins, Troop No. 1, Jewett City, the second by Scout Donald Royce, Troop No. 9, Norwich. The prize offered for the best photographs will be awarded after the pictures are all submitted to the judges.

Four boys qualified as first class scouts: Hartwell Zuerner, Troop No. 2; Curtis Hedler, Troop No. 3; Hoyt Taylor, Troop No. 12; David Tiger Troop No. 7.

Three boys qualified as second class scouts: Bill Agnew, Troop No. 12; Albert Airey, Troop No. 3; Mitchell Haddad, Troop No. 31, Willimantic.

One qualified as tenderfoot scout, Julius Hill, Troop No. 12.

Forty one merit badges were earned: 5 athletics, 4 automobiling, 3 carpentry, 1 civics, 3 conservation, 2 cycling, 1 dairying, 1 first aid, 1 handicraft, 1 hiking, 2 masonry, 8 personal health, 1 physical development, 3 pioneering, 1 printing, 1 public health, 3 swimming.

One scout qualified for life and star. 43 first class tests were passed, 57 second class tests were passed, 4 tenderfoot tests were passed; 10 scouts won their first year camp letters, 3 scouts won their second year camp letters, 1 scout won his fourth year camp letter, 3 scouts won their fifth year camp letters. Four radio sets were installed in camp by the scouts and excellent concerts soothed the boys to sleep after taps. 518 pounds of meat, 300 quarts of milk and nearly $400 worth of groceries were supplied to camp for the season. The good cooking of the chef, John Jenks gave the boys a healthy cuisine and no sickness was noted.

The scout executive conducted a regular program from reveille to taps each day, so that much advancement in scouting was accomplished.

The registration for Tippecan's fifth season was the largest in the history.

Thanks for the camp site and numerous favors conferred are due Mr George T. Briggs of Voluntown and the efficient camp committee.

ELECT MORGAN CRONIN MULLEN ASSEMBLY HEAD

A large number of the members of Rev. Daniel Mullen Assembly were present at the Knights of Columbus home Sunday afternoon to attend their regular fall meeting and to hear the reports of Faithful Navigator Thomas H. Beckley and officers on the business of the past year. The organization has shown a large increase in membership. The substantial contribution to the Diocesan bureau of social service to help in the worthy welfare work was one of the satisfying features of the year, not neglecting the entertainments for the members at various times including the annual outing in June.

For the ensuing year the following officers were elected: F. N. Morgan Cronin, F. A., Thomas H. Beckley, F. P., John Woznick; F. C., Patrick Coleman; comptroller, Walter Casey; friar, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May; sentinels, Philip Leeney and C. L. Crowley.

The installation of the newly elected officers will take place at the next meeting in October.

WALSH'S TRIPLE IN TENTH INNING GIVES MOOSUP GAME OVER RIVERVIEW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

MOOSUP, Sept. 27—Walsh's triple followed by Morrissey's single in the tenth inning gave Moosup a 4 to 3 victory over the Riverview club in the first game of the series here today. King Bader and Toney West hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel with West having a slight shade. Bader fanned 13 while West allowed but four hits two coming in the first inning and two in the tenth. Bader was nicked for nine hits but kept them well scattered except in the third and sixth innings when Riverview scored their runs.

Moosup scored in the first inning two hits and a sacrifice netted them two runs. Riverview evened the count in the third inning when successive hits scored their runs. Moosup in the fifth inning scored one tally on two errors and a sacrifice. In the sixth Riverview evened up the count and from then on until the tenth neither was able to do anything. In the first of the tenth Riverview went out in order but in their half of the inning pushed across the winning run. Walsh opened the inning for Moosup with a screeching triple and Morrissey caught one of West's shoots and drove it to deep left scoring Walsh. Morrissey's hit would have been good for three bags but he got credit for only a single.

The game was marked by heated arguments due largely to the alleged illegal use of emory by Bader. Riverview claimed that Bader was roughing the balls and at many times during the game balls were thrown out because of rough spots on them. Bader fanned the five men that faced him in the game but after that was not so effective.

Harry Mills led in the hitting with four hits out of five times at bat. The score:

TOWN TALKS WIN FROM ASHLAND, 7 TO 4

Sunday afternoon at Ashland Park the Town Talks of Worcester, Mass., defeated the Ashland A. A. 7-4. This club is the fastest team that has appeared on the local grounds this season.

Flodman on the mound for the visitors, pitched winning ball allowing the locals but 6 hits. This lad is slated to go to the St. Louis Browns next spring.

The game went scoreless till the sixth inning. One of the outstanding features was that six double plays were pulled off, three by each club. "Pete" Ball in center for Ashland was the sensation of the game robbing Murphy of a homer in deep center with a running one hand catch.

The official National League ball autographed by the Pittsburgh club was awarded to Edward Malcolm, 159 North Main street, Norwich.

The attraction at Ashland Park next Sunday will be Roy Rock's Attleboro, Mass., team. The score:

COULON TO BOX KID FLY AT BRADFORD TONIGHT

Now that Young Coulon of Taftville has annexed the Connecticut flyweight title, he will be kept busy defending it in Connecticut. He will not risk his title in the semi-final eight round bout tonight at the Bradford arena in Rhode Island when he meets Kid Fly, champion flyweight of New Bedford, Mass., but he will meet a mighty tough customer in Fly.

This bout is only one of five well balanced numbers on a card of 32 rounds tonight under the auspices of the Bradford Athletic association. The main bout of 10 rounds will bring together K. O. Ryan, champion welterweight of Rhode Island and a student at Providence College, too, and Martin Flaherty of Lowell and Boston, Mass., who was too heavy to meet Izzy Kaplan, in Norwich last Friday night. These boys met early this summer and although Ryan was outweighed by 15 pounds, the bout ended in a draw.

The three smaller bouts will be as follows: Frankie O'Day, the champion lightweight of Woonsocket, R. I., and Young Rata, pride of Westerly, in a six round battle; Young Ross of Westerly and Jimmy O'Dowd of Danielson in a four-round mix-up, and Young Pancho of Bradford, R. I., and Kid Bruno of Westerly in the four-round curtain-raiser.

There is a paved road from Norwich to the arena, via Westerly.

NUTMEGS DEFEAT LAST YEARS GRID CHAMPS

Sunday afternoon on Sachem Field, the Norwich Nutmegs defeated the West Ends, last year's city football champs 6 to 0 in a fast and interesting game. C. McGrath made the touchdown after a run of nearly thirty yards. Herberts and Hagberg for the Nutmegs were the shining lights of the game. Bergeron and Dave Blinderman of the West Ends also provided some sensational work.

Neither side was able to score during the first quarter. In the second, however, the Nutmegs immediately took the offensive and scored a touchdown before the period was half over. The last two quarters were favorable to the Nutmegs. The whistle stopped the Nutmegs from scoring another touchdown.

The lineups were:

West Ends		Nutmegs
S. Blinderman	left tackle	Pekowski
Berglinizo	center	Johns
Brauman	right guard	Boldrighino

OGDEN SHUTS OUT BROWNS WITH THREE HITS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—Pitcher "Curley" Ogden, lately returned to Washington from Chattanooga, of the Southern League, held St. Louis to three hits today and enabled the champions to tie the season series with the Browns. Washington won 8 to 0. Only three of the champion regulars played the full game, the substitutes bagging 13 of the 17 hits garnered off Gaston and Wingard.

It was Nick Altrock-Al Schacht day at the park and the Washington comedians coaches put on their full repertoire of monkeyshines. Score:

CHAPMAN TECH-WINDHAM BATTLE TO 6-6 TIE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27—Saturday afternoon on Morgan Field, Chapman Technical High school and Windham High of Willimantic fought to a 6 to 6 tie before a very large early season crowd. Windham's touchdown was made by Meikle after a number of consistent line plunges while Chapman Tech's came when Capt. Kannenberg, quarterback for the local team intercepted a forward pass on his own fifteen yard line and raced eighty five yards through a broken field for a touchdown. Neither team was able to gain the extra point after touchdown.

Windham was the aggressor during the entire game. They had the ball in the Chapman territory throughout practically all four quarters but only had the punch to put it over once. In the last quarter Windham had the ball on the two yard line when the whistle ending the game was blown.

For Chapman, Kannenberg was the shining light with Johnny Brown also providing some nice playing. Meikle was Windham's star player.

Tilden is Beaten

CHICAGO Sept. 27—George M. Lott, Jr., and Lucian E. Williams, representing the Western association, today won the intersectional team tennis championship by defeating William T. Tilden, six times national champion, and Manuel Alonso, the Spanish star, playing for the middle states, two matches to one.

EASTERN ATHLETES PLAY PROMINENT PART IN SPORT WORLD LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The summer-long march of east and far west to national athletic titles in four major sports tonight moved on with another golf champion and two major league pennant winners from the states of the Atlantic coast.

Golf

For a time last week it seemed that the great athletic host of the middle west was about to break through with a new professional golfer's champion in Mehlhorn of Chicago as its first contribution to the season's honor roll of champions. But the indomitable Walter Hagen of Florida and New York, still the Hagen of great finishes in match play, closed with that sensational rush at the end for which he has always been famous, to resume his place in the procession of Pacific and Atlantic titleholders.

Hagen's remarkable golf in the final round, the climax to a severe test of his skill earlier in the week, established the Rochester, N. Y., links product as a winner of more championships and open tournaments than any other golfer in America. His triumph yesterday marked the third time that he has lifted the professional crown, while on a fourth occasion he was defeated on the 38th green by Gene Sarazen.

Ten straight match play victories, paralelling the amateur feat of Bobby Jones, remain in the wake of Hagens championship ascents of the last two years in the professional event. He has won the American and British opens twice, the western open three times, north and south open three times, and the metropolitan open twice, in addition to the French open the Belgian open and the innumerable sectional fixtures.

In retaining his laurels at Chicago, Hagen joined a links title parade of the east led by Willie McFarlane, new national open champion, and Jones, two time amateur king. With this trio go eastern holders of all the national tennis honors—William T. Tilden, R. Norris Williams and Vincent Richards. California joins the line with W. M. Johnston, Davis cup star, and Helen Wills and Mary K. Browne, the season's singles and doubles queens of the court, while the state, beyond the Rockies has given to pugilism one of its five new champions in Fidel Labara, flyweight titleholder to trail four victors of the East in Paul Berlenbach, Jimmy Goodrich Louis (Kid) Kaplan and Charley (Phil) Rosenberg.

Baseball

If the east has occasion to congratulate itself on the return to American league baseball supremacy of the Washington Senators, it also has been able in the past week to mark the passing of New York's national league corner on the world's series privileges to a club which, while representing the city of an eastern state nevertheless receives classification in the schedule as "western" team. But Manager John McGraw is included to take the flimsy of the New York Giants philosophically.

"The victory for Dreyfuss' club should be a great tonic for baseball," he says, "but I doubt if the game ever has seen a more noteworthy performance than ours in the face of tremendous odds which have kept running against us," he adds, pointing out that in only a few games were the Giants able to use their regular lineup as a result of a succession of injuries.

In forecasting a return to the peak of the Giants next year, McGraw, who has always been quick in the past to scatter the members of a losing club, announces his determination to keep the present machine intact. He is even willing to string along with the uncertain Hugh McQuillan, now on the suspended list, in the hope that he will mend his ways and give the club some of the good pitching which it sorely needed at crucial periods of the race this year.

Boxing

While the east last week was scratching out one arm to rake in baseball and golfing titles, it employed the other to hold down the welterweight ring championship against the final thrust of a three-year siege from the Pacific coast carried on by Dave Shade. Mickey Walker's successful defense of the title, although accompanied by a criticism of the judges decision which invariably attends all close fistic encounters, nevertheless clearly established his right to rule the 147-pound division in the opinion of a majority of ring critics.

Walker had the endurance, the strength and the aggressiveness of a miniature Jeffries; Shade the skill the speed and ring generalship of a Corbett. And at the conclusion there were quite naturally spectators who say victory in the partial triumph of masterful boxing even as there were others who recognized a measure of success in the hard-hitting, the bulldog courage and remarkable stamina of the champion.

Football

Walker's victory, added to the east's sweep on the links the court and the diamond, still leaves great possibilities to the middle west on the gridiron. With Red Grange and Illinois and with Knute Rockne and Notre Dame ready to cross the Appalachian range on an invasion which will be matched with unusual interest, football rumbles a warning of autumn revolt which may close the outdoor sport season in a blaze of glory for the states of the Mississippi valley.

WATERBURY BLUES BEAT YONKERS KACEYS, 32 TO 0.

WATERBURY, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—George Mulligan's Waterbury Blues, opened the 1925 professional football season here this afternoon with a 32 to 0 victory over the Knights of Columbus club, of Yonkers, N. Y. Harry Strubbleicher, All-American quarterback and famous star of Four Horsemen of Notre Dame last season, directed the Connecticut champions to victory. Eddie Huntsinger and Ed Garvey former Notre Dame stars, were also in the lineup. Dutch Forst, former Villa Nova star and Ken Sinninger former leader of the Holy Cross eleven, were the outstanding stars of the game, Forst scoring two of the five touchdowns.

TAFTVILLE A. A. WINS FROM AIRLIE CLUB

Saturday at Airlie field, Hanover, the Taftville A. A. baseball club defeated the Airlie team by the score of 11 to 5 in a weird game. Errors on part of the home players gave the game to Taftville in the early part of the game. Gibbons pitched good ball and only had one bad inning when the Taftville team made 4 hits in the sixth for 3 runs. The features of the game were Sullivan's three base hit and L. Dugas' home run. DANIEL W. WYANT, MAN OF THREE WIVES, ARRESTED BY NEW LONDON POLICE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27.—Daniel W. Wyant, rear of 276 Bank street, where he resides aboard a houseboat, is a much married man: too much so, for he was taken into custody early this morning in Waterford by Sergeant Nelson Smith on a warrant charging him with bigamy. Wyant is now locked up at the police station in default of bail of $2,000 and will be in the police court Monday morning.

Besides Wyant having two wives living it is known that a third woman, who died in a local hospital nearly a year ago, was known as Mrs. Daniel Wyant and was buried as such, while the records of vital statistics at the municipal building show that the woman was Mrs. Daniel Wyant, although authorities are inclined to believe that the woman was Laura Columbi, of Plainfield, the common-law wife of Wyant. The case of Wyant's relations with the dead woman and whether he legally married her is being investigated.

Wyant married Alice Helen Wahlstead 24, of Cromwell, May 18, 1915, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Homer Wesley Hildreth, pastor of Cromwell Congregational church. Wyant is also married to Iola Richards Wyant for the latter marriage was performed in New London April 18, 1925, and the second Mrs. Wyant has been living with her husband aboard the house boat since, but is now at the home of her mother, at Station 14 1-2, Waterford.

The first Mrs. Wyant gained knowledge of her husband's infidelity recently and came to New London where she exhibited proof of her legal wedding to Wyant. The police then obtained affidavits of the wedding of Wyant and the Richards girl. Sergeant Nelson Smith was given the warrant for Wyant's arrest, and last Thursday when he went to the Wyant houseboat he ascertained that Wyant had left a short time before, driving away in an automobile owned by Louis Lubchansky. The second Mrs. Wyant was sent to the home of her mother, and as was anticipated, about midnight last night Wyant appeared at the home of his mother-in-law, Sergeant Smith was communicated with by telephone and arrived at the home of the girl's mother 20 minutes later. As the officer entered the house, Wyant made an attempt to escape, but was overtaken as the fugitive reached the rear entrance and was made a captive.

The "Mrs. Wyant" whose death occurred at Home Memorial hospital, died Feb. 24, 1925. Following her death, her father, Charles Columbi, applied to the Probate court here for appointment by the court as guardian of the children and the application was approved, the two children, Dorothy 7, and Donald, seven months, being, it is alleged children of Wyant and the Columbi woman. The children were taken to Plainfield, at which place their mother was buried.

Wyant is well known in New London where he has operated a junk business and dealt in river craft for a number of years.

Thomas W. Meaney was fined $400 in the police court Saturday because he got the idea that he could sell booze and beer in defiance of the provisions of the Volstead act, which says that nothing of an alcoholic content or more than one-half of one per cent shall be sold except upon a physician's prescription and then by n authorized druggist. Mr. Meaney and his patrons are of the numerous thousands who think the Volstead law is an abridgement of their liberties, so he and they took a chance. He lost and they will have to get their drinks elsewhere in the future, for Mr. Meaney promised on his word as a man that he would offend no more. It was on that promise that he escaped a severer penalty than was imposed. Mr Meaney's wife was his partner in the business without doubt, but no complaint was made against her so she was not prosecuted. Mr. and Mrs Meaney were to have started on a vacation trip Monday, but they have postponed that until such time as things shall favor in greater degree Mr. Meaney was mad when he learned that his neighbors had complained that he was selling booze, and after he was arrested and his stock confiscated he indulged in the same stock that he had been selling and augmented his Dutch courage so that he gave the neighbors referred to a tongue lashing that had all the elements to incite fighting, though in this case there was not a blow struck. Mr. Meaney said some things that he should not have spoken and he left unsaid only the words that he could not think of. He was not prosecuted for the injury he caused to the feelings of his neighbors, as he had been penalized to an extent that he had learned the lesson the law teaches. The neighbors referred to, and there were about a dozen of them, wrote into the state police, saying that liquor was being sold at the Meaney house. They all signed their names to the complaint made to the state police, so there was no doubt that they were willing to stand behind the protest they made. The letter was immediately referred with its accusations to the New London police and the latter got busy. They did a job that brought a truck load of drink and the apparatus for preparing and holding it to the police station and the stuff was exhibited in court, where it was condemned and destroyed. Tracy Waller appeared as counsel for Mr. Meaney. He appealed for leniency for a good fellow who had been a law abiding citizen all his life and would not offend in a felonious way under any circumstances. He said he had known the accused all his life and respected him for many admirable qualities. The statement of the prosecutor to the court was such that the opinion of the attorney for the defendant was not specially impressive.

A couple of autoists were disciplined, one with a fine and the other with a chastisement, for the way they manipulated their cars. Richard L. Dean was fined $20 because he disregarded the rules of the road, turned from right to left and paid no heed to reducing speed and sounding his horn when he rounded corners. Fireman Gramm parked his car on State street for an unlimited time and disregarded the city ordinance which forbids doing that.

Three men, who had been complained against by their wives, came before the court. In two of the cases harmony had been restored in the families and the complaints were nolled. In the third there was a still further adjournment of the matter that two children may be taken into other homes for care and government. The mother was represented to be a person who indulges in liquor, so the little ones were sent to an uncle who is willing to undertake the task of rearing them and seeing that they are educated and properly brought up with home surroundings that are desirable.

Ernest E. Rogers has sold to Gerald E. Jensen a house and lot on Hall avenue.

Vianna and Robert Tetreault have sold to Floyd J. Sexton, a house and lot on Parkway.

Leon F. Moore and Flora M. Huling, both of this city, were married Saturday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Baptist church by Rev. J. Remeyn Danforth.

Catherine, aged nine months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perley Moriarty, 24 Harrison street, died Saturday at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital.

Mrs. Mary Kennedy, 70, widow of Dennis Kennedy, died Friday night at the residence of her son, James Kennedy, 164 Willetts avenue. Besides her son, James, Mrs. Kennedy is survived by three other sons, Harry George and Frank Kennedy, all of this city.

Miss Julia Agnes Jennings, about 76, daughter of the late E. B. and Melissa C. Jennings, died Saturday afternoon at her residence, 235 Montauk avenue. She had been in impaired health a long time. Miss Jennings was born in New London and was a sister of the late Charles B. Jennings, for many years principal of Nathn Hale grammar school and later superintendent of schools. Mr Jennings dying over a year ago. A sister, Mrs. Charles Oliphant, of Methuen, Mass., is the only survivor of Miss Jenhings.

Patrick McDonough, United States Coast Guard steamer Evans, Mrs. William Brennan and infant son, 42 Pleasant street; James Delaney, United States destroyer Paulding; Charles Brown, Mystic; Joseph Dial, steamer City of Boston and William Manley, United States Coast Guard patrol boat, 236, patients at Lawrence hospital, were dismissed Saturday.

Samuel Goodman, proprietor of a tailoring establishment, 49 Church street, reported to the police today that three sets of suitings, aggregating about 12 yards of cloth, were stolen from his place of business Saturday.

An automobile owned and operated by David Alter, 96 Montauk avenue, and a Hartford bus, operated by Henry Beebe, of 26 Hope street, were in collision on State street Saturday night. Alter's car was damaged.

The New Haven police have requested the New London authorities to keep a lookout for a ton and a half truck that was stolen in the former city Saturday afternoon. The truck bears Connecticut registration 17 637.

Elsie Potter, 16, daughter of George Potter, 114 Shaw street, and an inmate of the Long Lane Farm, Middletown, an institution for wayward girls, accompanied by a girl companion named Haslett, escaped from the institution Saturday evening. The police visited the home of the girl's father after having been notified by the officials of the institution of the escape of the girls, also went to the home of the Potter girl's uncle in this city, but no trace of the runaways was found.

Thomas Ryan of Boston, employed at Fisher's Island, reported to the police Saturday night that earlier in the evening and while he was walking along Water street, he was held up by five soldiers, and relieved of $85. An investigation by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray failed to reveal any clues that might lead to the arrest of the thieves.

The police received a telephone call this afternoon from a resident of Hill street who declared that a gang of youths were gambling in a shed near the residence of the complainant. Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh and three patrolmen went to the Hill street place where were four boys, none over 15, playing cards, with the stakes "penny-ante." The boys were taken to the police station and turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock, at the office of City Manager William A. Holt, charges of violating the police rules and regulations will be heard against Motorcycle Officer George McCaskey. McCaskey is charged with having disobeyed the command of Acting Desk Sergeant William Babcock to relieve Traffic Officer Frank Linehan, who had been on fixed duty at the corner of State and Main streets three consecutive hours because of Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy having been called from that station to take part in a raid. It is also alleged that McCaskey has used threatening language to Sergeant Babcock. McCaskey denies that he disobeyed the order of his superior officer and declares that when he received the order to perform traffic duty he had not taken his lunch hour because of the pressure of duty and that when he entered the station house he started to shine his puttees and informed Babcock that as soon as the puttees had been polished he would do as he had been ordered. McCaskey declares that he received a second order to relieve Linehan and then that the order was countermanded, with the result that he was relieved of all duty shortly afterwards by Acting Captain James C. Sullivan. McCaskey declares further that he will not submit to being disciplined without a hight and that he has retained counsel to assist him in obtaining his rights and being exonerated of any violation of the police rules and regulations.

An automobile owned and driven by Henry Carey, 852 Ocean avenue, struck a boy cyclist, Victor Ebersole, Lester street, this afternoon, corner of Pequot and Gardner avenues. The boy was knocked from the cycle, but sustained only minor injuries.

The police automobile, operated by Patrolman Frank Philopena, in passing through Golden street, collided with a car owned and driven by Harold M. Luce, of Circle street, Forestville, Conn., this afternoon, at the corner of Green street. The police car escaped damage, but Luce's car suffered to the extent of a smashed mudguard.

Owen Shelley, of Truman street, was arrested at his home late this afternoon by Patrolmen William Graham and Frank Philopena, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace by his wife. Shelley was locked up and will be presented in the police court Monday morning.

Complaint was made to the police late this afternoon that youths were gambling in the rear of the Stanton school, corner of Federal and Union streets. Sergeant Samuel Hick, accompanied by Patrolmen William Riordan, Clyde Murphy, John Clifford and Edward Riordan went to the schoolhouse and found Albert Soltz, 17, Federal street, and 10 other youths gambling. The boys were taken to the police station where Soltz was locked on a gambling charge and the others were turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Later Max Soltz, Federal street, father of the accused, appeared at the police station and made inquiry as to the identity of the arresting officers, alleging that one of the patrolmen had struck his son, who, the father alleged, had been under the care of a physician 21 weeks.

Albert Barbone, 17, of 61 Oak street, Westerly, was taken into custody late this afternoon, charged with being a runaway. The Westerly authorities were requested to notify the parents of the youth that the boy might be returned to his home.

Tony Perrone, 44 Orchard street, complained to the police this afternoon that a machine bearing Connecticut registration, 9355, collided with his car on Montauk avenue and that Perrone wanted the driver of the colliding car arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

Michael Shea, a stranger hereabouts a quarry worker had a close call from drowning this afternoon, when he went to the Fishers Island Navigation company's wharf intoxicated and staggered about the pier until he finally fell over the side and into the Thames river. There were numerous men about the pier at the time and prompt assistance resulted in Shea being brought upon the wharf where he was taken in charge by special agents of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad who delivered the man to the police. Shea was taken to the police station where he was locked upon a charge of intoxication. He will be given a hearing in the police court Monday morning.

MRS. GOLDIE BRONITSKY DIES AS RESULT OF AUTO INJURY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Goldie Bronitsky, 964 Bank street, died at Home Memorial hospital Saturday afternoon as a result of injuries sustained earlier in the day and following her refusal to accept treatment at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, to which institution she was admitted in the forenoon. There it was determined that the woman was undoubtedly suffering from a fractured skull sustained by being knocked down by an automobile. An autopsy was performed by Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman late Saturday when it was revealed that the woman's death had resulted from the head fracture. She was buried today in the Hebrew cemetery, Waterford.

Mrs Bronitsky was on State street, corner of Meridian street, at 7 o'clock Saturday morning and in stepping to the highway to walk to the opposite side of the street, she walked against an automobile operated by Mrs. Matilda Barrett, of Snowden street Waterford. Mrs. Bronitsky's coat caught upon the handle of one of the machine doors, causing the woman to be thrown to the highway, her head striking the pavement. Patrolman William Maulee, who was near, had Mrs Bronitsky transferred to Lawrence hospital, where an examination revealed a laceration of the scalp and possible skull fracture. Mrs. Bronitsky refused to accept treatment in spite of an attempt to have her do so and she returned home. Later in the day the woman's condition became such that her family physician was summoned and after examining Mrs. Bronitsky the woman was ordered taken to Home Memorial hospital without delay. The order was carried out, but two hours later she expired.

WOOLWORTH STORE ROBBED BY YOUTHFUL THIEVES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27.—Traffic Officer Dennis Cavanaugh detected a pair of juvenile thieves this afternoon who had robbed the Woolworth store of several dollars worth of notions. One of the boys has just been liberated from the state reform school at Meriden. Both were turned over to the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. The boys had in their possession when arrested besides the notions, $1.02, of which amount 52 cents were pennies.

MONTVILLE MAN TAKEN IN COLORED WOMAN'S HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27—The police raided the home of Dorothy Lewis, colored of 607 Main street, late Saturday night. A watch of the place and the frequenters has been made for several weeks, but not until last night did the authorities move upon the alleged resort. Shortly after midnight Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen Ernest Opperman, Henry Sylvia and Edward Daniels swooped down on the place, but they did not find the number of occupants there the officers anticipated for only one occupants of the place was found other than the Lewis woman, the fellow being William West of Montville, who was taken into custody charged with frequenting. The Lewis woman was charged with conducting a disorderly house and with West is being held for for trial in the police court Monday morning.

PATROLMAN SLOAN HELD FOR WATERFORD COURT

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27—The first move on the part of the authorities to take place following the charges of conduct unbecoming an officer being preferred against Patrolman Howard Sloan by Richard Storey of Jordan Village, Waterford, who alleges that the officer attempted assault upon his daughte rlast Monday night, when he drove Storey's daughter, Anna, to the country, was made Saturday night, when Sloan was taken into custody by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray, at the request of Constable Peabody of Waterford, who held a warrant issued by Prosecuting Attorney J. James Floyd, of the Waterford court charging Sloan with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Sloan was taken before Judge Frederick Dimmock and was held in bail of $1000 for hearing next Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Sloan's father, Henry B. Sloan, qualified as surety on the bond. The Waterford authorities, who have been investigating the alleged actions of Sloan on the night in question, declare that they were possessed of information that Sloan was preparing to leave the city and that the warrant was issued for the purpose of causing him to be held in custody until such time as the investigation will have been concluded.

The New London authorities also moved in the matter this afternoon, when City Manager William A. Holt, at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Floyd, requested the former to cause an investigation to be made by the New London police. City Manager William Holt interviewed Acting Captain James C. Sullivan and discussed the alleged charges after which Sergeant Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh started the investigation. The officers interrogated several witnesses to the alleged acts of Sloan last Monday night and Tuesday morning and will resume the investigation Monday.

It is claimed that Sloan has already made some admissions to the Waterford authorities, which corroborate the statements made by the Storey girl, while other statements of the officer differ greatly from those related by the girl.

Miss Edna Leighton Tyler was reelected president of the New London League of Women Voters for the third time at the annual meeting of the organization. Other officers elected were Vice president, Mrs. Clarence A. Carr; treasurer, Mrs. John B. Baxter; recording secretary, Mrs. Clifton H. Topping; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frederick S. Morris Horowitz, Mrs. Jennie Gardo, Miss Edith H. Fox, Miss Glodys, M. Taber, Miss Madeline Hirsch.

The reports of officers and chairmen of standing committees show a great advancement during the past year. There are at present 173 members. The annual membership campaign will be launched next month with Mrs. V. S. Bird chairman.

DEWEY KILE, SAVED FROM S-51, ARRIVES HOME FROM BOSTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 27—Radiograms received at the submarine base on the Thames today, the last of which was received this afternoon, from the fleet of naval craft at work attempting to raise the submarine S1, rammed by the liner City of Rome, off Block Island, Friday night, causing the submarine to sink with her crew of forty, indicate that the sunken craft will not be floated before Monday afternoon. The work of divers of whom there are 16, is being pushed along as rapidly as possible and air is being pumped into the supposed water tight compartments, so that if any of the imprisoned sailors are alive they will receive plenty of air.

Dewey Kile, one of the three of saved sailors picked up by the liner and taken to Boston, arrived back in New London Saturday night. Kile is none the worse for his experience, but he naturally figures that he and his rescued companions are mighty lucky, for he believes that when the submarine is floated the remaining 37 officers and sailors trapped in the submarine will be found dead.

Kile told that he and the other rescued comrades were asleep when the collision occurred, with the crash he attempted to rise, but before he could do so, he and the others rescued were washed through the conning tower and dropped into the ocean. He declares that he was in the water nearly an hour before he was spicked up by one of the liner's life boats.

GROTON TROOPER FIRES AT SPEEDING ALTON YOUTH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 27. — The quiet of Sunday evening in Westerly was disturbed when early church goers and evening visitors to the motion picture show in Pawcatuck were treated to the spectacle of a Connecticut state trooper on a motorcycle in pursuit of a speeding automobilist. He was crossing the Rhode Island-Connecticut state line into Westerly and firing his 38 revolver at the rear automobile tires of the rapidly moving Overland sedan, when in front of the Westerly town hall about 7:15.

Frank A. Beswick, 19, of Alton, R. I., had driven the automobile of Albert Placitt also of Alton, to Bridgeport, with a party, for a day's outing. Returning home, when on the Stonington - Westerly road near the junction of the Anguilla road, he was stopped by a Connecticut state trooper, Giles Watson, No. 79, of the Groton barracks, who blew his whistle as he was speeding by, Beswick came to a stop by the roadside and it is reported that waiting a while and before the officer could come up to him he attempted to make a getaway. The officer was soon on his motorcycle and started in pursuit, overtaking the automobile on West Broad street, Pawcatuck. Passing under the overhead railroad bridge Beswick is said to have first been certain that he was thinking that he would be safe from pursuit when he had crossed the state line at the middle of the Pawcatuck river bridge, put on all speed dodging automobiles, cutting out and by others, with the officer in close pursuit. Going upon the river bridge they dodged out from behind a Groton-Stonington electric car and continued through Broad street in Westerly at the high rate of speed. Patrolman George H. Champlin seeing the rapidly moving machine stepped into an automobile and joined the chase. He overtook Beswick on Elm street just before the Connecticut state trooper pulled out his revolver and fired two or three shots into the rear tires of the automobile. Officer Champlin took Beswick to the Westerly police station accompanied by Watson. A crowd of fully 400 had gathered by the time Beswick was overtaken and being brought to the police station. Beswick was locked up until Monday morning.

WESTMINSTER

In common with a large number of churches of many denominations at the request of the Conn. State Federation of churches, Westminster had the needs of Storrs college and community presented at morning worship. Prof. Brundage, state supervisor of boys and girls' activities and Miss Estelle Sprague started in Westminster one of the very first Boys and Girl's Agricultural clubs in Connecticut and has organized various other clubs among the young people since, and a very helpful cooking school was taught by Storrs instructors a little later. A county agent and a county demonstrator came from storrs here. At various times institutes of one to three days have been held in this county, with demonstrations of various descriptions helpful to agronomists. Last fall, shortly before the parsonage burned down, Rev. Morris Alling, pastor at Storrs and executive secretary of the state federation of churches, with a number of his college young people came Saturday evening and again all day Sunday and held services. After the fire Storrs was the first of the neighboring churches and communities out of town to send aid personally to the pastors and in generous measure.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Garder and two children, Ralph and Doris of Willimantic, Miss Libby Wright, Dorcett Dodge and friend from Worcester, were at W. E. Davis' (Raymond district) Sept. 13 th. The following Tuesday two sisters Mrs. Otto WeisRotten of San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. L. P. Russ of Willimantic were guests of Mrs. Caroll E Davis.

Friends of Miss Viola Kaylor are glad to see her about again, after her illness.

Communion was observed Sunday at Westminster.

Archie Green is doing some work for James Reilly in Howard Valley.

Mrs. Axel Helstrom and Miss Dorothy Miller are working in the Thread mills in Willimantic going with Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bingham and Mrs Wood, via Fort Ned.

Miss Katherine Seymour Day, granddaughter of Isabella Beecher Hooker and great niece of Henry Ward Beecher and Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe and Miss Florence S. M. Crofut of Hartford were callers on Rev. and Mrs. Davies at the Coulter house last week. Miss Day is doing special work in Columbia university but next year expects to occupy the Harriet Beecher Stowe house in Hartford now her property.

Miss Julia Green spent a part of Sunday at the home of the parents of her fiance, George Weeks, in Plainfield.

The Coulter place has been purchased by Mrs. Gardner and son, Lester Gardner of Washington, R. I. They do not plan to reside here immediately.

William Albin, a brother of Mrs. W. E. Davis of Elm Arch Farm, who had come here as an invalid to recuperate and seemed to be gaining, had a very serious condition develop Saturday and was at the point of death for several days. His family were summoned and came at once. He seems to be gaining very slowly and cannot yet be moved, but is considerably better and thought to be out of danger. A very large number of friends were callers at the Davis home to proffer aid and sympathy.

Relatives summoned included Mr. Albin's sister, Mrs. Andrew Nash of Darien and his children. Miss Nettie Albin of Darien, his daughter, Mrs. Fred Stevens and her husband, John Albin of Bridgeport. One other son manager of a business concern, could not come.

Trenor Rice and family were guests Sunday of Mrs. Rice's mother Mrs. Ida Shorter.

Oscar Olsen was in Providence the first of the week.

Edith Olsen is a student in a business college, Hartford.

Mrs. Moses A. Linnell of Manchester has been at Rose Cottage since Miss Linnell and Miss Frost returned to their schools in New York last week Sunday, her husband and their married daughter and husband came for the day.

Mrs. A. T. MacLeod, Charles Colburn and John Deviatak obtained auto drivers' licenses last week.

FARM AUTOMOBILES IN NEW ENGLAND

Automobiles owned on farms in New England total 124,000, of which 97,060 are passenger cars and 27,340 are trucks, according to automotive statistics issued in Chicago by the American Research Foundation.

Massachusetts ranks first among the New England states in the number of farmer-owned cars the figures show, with a total of 36,442 or about 30 per cent. Maine stands second with 28,789 cars on farms, and Vermont is third with 19,514. Then comes Connecticut with 18,884. New Hampshire with 15,078 and Rhode Island with 5,693.

Total automobiles owned on all farms in the United States number 3,821,085. In the proportion of cars to population the average is one farm automobile to every 8.1 farm people in America.

Farmers, according to statistics, are the greatest buyers of automobile equipment. They purchased 9,250,000 tires and 10,000,000 tubes last year. Mail order houses supplied a big per cent of these. Montgomery Ward & Company, largest retail tire dealers in the world, sell close to 3,000,000 tires a year. Other items of automobile equipment bought by farmers last year were: 1,250,000 storage batteries; 8,000,000 spark plugs; 7,500,000 feet of brake lining; 45,700,000 gallons of oil; and 18,000,000 piston rings.

Use of automobiles on the farm is increasing rapidly. It is estimated that farms will buy 1,119,500 automobiles in 1925 at a cost of $864,760,245.

Demand for Bentley-trained Men

We recently placed a graduate at $5,000, another at $3,680, and have two positions to fill at $3,500.

This is the largest professional school of collegiate grade in the world devoted exclusively to training men for duties of office manager, cost accountant, auditor, treasurer, credit man, and public accountant. It appeals particularly to high school and college graduates who plan to follow a business career. Day courses require two years for completion.

It is not too late to enroll. Send for catalog.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW WYORK, Sept. 27—(A. P.)—Reactionary tendencies prevailed in all the financial and commodity markets this week. Attempts to bolster up stock prices met with little success. Liquidation of standard industrial shares calming headway under the cover of speculative upbidding of a few motor and high priced specialty issues. After a severe general reaction, the market recovered quickly only to meet a renewed onslaught of selling as the week closed.

Progress of the French debt funding negotiations at Washington with the possibility that a settlement would lead to the early flotation of millions of millions of dollars in private loans to European countries attracted more attention in financial quarters than the erratic price movements of securities. Strength of French bonds on the New York stock exchange on an enormous turnover was thrown into sharp relief by the general heaviness of the bond market. Some of the liberty issues sold at the year's lowest levels.

Money rates were distinctly firmer and played an important part in both stock and bond trading. The establishment of higher levels in the open market revived discussion of a possible increase in the New York federal reserve re-discount rate at an early date, although no change was made this week.

New low records for the year were recorded in the grain and sugar market. Cotton prices broke $6 to $7 a bale following an unexpected increase in the government's 1925 crop estimate but made irregular recovery later.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Palm Tree

Is it the palm, the cocoa-palm,
On the Indian Sea, by the isles of balm?
Or is it a ship in the breezeless calm?

A ship whose keel is of palm beneath,
Whose ribs of palm have a palm-work sheath,
And a rudder of palm it steereth with.

Branches of palm are its spars and rails,
Fibers of palm are its woven sails,
And the rope is of palm that idly trails!

What does the good ship bear so well?
The cocoanut with its stony shell,
And the milky sap of its inner cell.

What are its jars, so smooth and fine,
But hollowed nuts, filled with oil and wine,
And the cabbage that ripes under the Line?

Who smokes his nargileh, cool and calm?
The master, whose cunning and skill could charm
Cargo and ship from the bounteous palm.

In the cabin he sits on a palm-mat soft,
From a beaker of palm his drink is quaffed,
And a palm thatch shields from the sun aloft!

His dress is woven of palmy strands,
And he holds a palm-leaf scroll in his hands,
Traced with the Prophet's wise commands!

The turban folded about his head
Was daintily wrought of

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sharples who have been enjoying a motor trip through Maine, have returned to their home on North Second avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader have returned to their home on Dion street after a week's motoring trip through the White Mountains, Maine and points of interest in the Province of Quebec, Canada. They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. John Grieshammer and her daughter, Miss Margaret Grieshammer of Baltic.

The services at the Taftville Congregational church were all held on standard time Sunday. In the evening at the meeting of the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor, the topic discussed was Our Neighbors to the South,—a missionary subject.

Nicholas Lukoff of South B street spent a few days recently with relatives in Blackstone, Mass.

A large crowd stood in Hunters avenue Friday evening to watch a human fly stunt given by one of the men connected with the carnival that is being held on the Providence street grounds under the auspices of the Taftville Athletic Association. The "fly" scaled the Sacred Heart school building, using window ledges and the tops of the window sashes, and finally gained the summit of the building amid the applause of the crowd.

The very best possible brand of weather favored Norwich merchants during their three Style Days, which ended Saturday with most satisfactory sales.

A feature is made this season of light-weight cloth dresses suitable for the warm days which always come about this time. The dark dresses which so many women will choose, after summer ends, are touched up with brilliantly colored materials, collar, cuffs, belt, the smart vestee, some feature producing a charming effect. Satin and silk afternoon or utility dresses are of endless variety and all priced exceedingly reasonably.

The fall coat is always the object of much thought with the average woman, who found Saturday a fine variety of elegant and modish garments in this line. The new plumage shades figure largely in the stocks on display—tints which take their names from wren, cuckoo, plover, tanager,—queen bird, crackle-head blue, sea swallow gray, and the like. The side flare, full backs, straight line, fur-trimmed or decorative sleeves, all the smart wraps shown are beautiful in their silhouette effect, also elegance of finish.

In millinery, the grosgrain hat, small and tight as any aviator's helmet, is one of the shapes shown. The pirate hat is picturesque and sure to prove popular. Velour is much liked as a hat material, coming in vivid autumn shades.

Skirts flare and ripple; to produce this effect many soft, silky fabrics are offered.

A chapter might be written on furs; but it is wiser to inspect them at first hand, as they are displayed in the splendid stocks which merchants show.

Where the best and newest of these may be found, The Bulletin's advertisers tell today.

Forestry Field Meeting at Farmington.

The Connecticut forestry association and the Hartford county farm bureau will hold a co-operative field meeting on the Avon Old Farms forest, under the patronage of Mrs. John Wallace Riddle. The meeting will be 11 a. m. to 4 p. m., on Saturday, Oct. 10.

Opportunity will be given to view the buildings of the school which is being built by Mrs. Riddle, and to examine the forest. This 3,000 acre tract under forestry management will be examined to see examples of improvement cuttings, fire lines, plantations and other forms of forestry work. The lands on this forest are somewhat typical of large areas in central Connecticut and show the possibility of their profitable management. The indoor program will be held at the school buildings, which are located northwest of Farmington Centre.

The meeting is open to the public, and a large attendance is expected.

An increase in the school day to six hours or longer has been made in a number of places in Massachusetts in order to give time for the necessary school subjects and for supervised study during school hours.

TOWN TAX OF 8 MILLS RECOMMENDED

SCHOOL TAX OF 123-4 MILLS ASKED

A town tax of 8 mills, which is half a mill less than the selectmen recommended a year ago, is recommended in the annual report made by the selectment for the coming town meeting. The town school board makes the recommendation that a tax of 12 3-4 mills will be needed for the expenses of the schools in the coming year, which is three-quarters of a mill more than was recommended a year ago.

In its report for the year just closing, it is shown that the business of the town which has been under the direct management of first selectman William S. Murray has been handled so efficiently and economically that although extra and unexpected expenses have arisen these have been taken care of through the money available without the necessity of borrowing extra money.

Selectmen's Report

The following is the selectmen's report:

Norwich, Connecticut, Sept. 26th, 1925.

To the Citizens of the Town of Norwich:

Your board of selectmen herewith submit the following as a brief statement of some of the more important phases of the town's business for the past year with a statement of estimated receipts and expenses for the year which is to come.

As frequently happens in the conduct of public as well as of private affairs, there have been some unexpected expenses during the past year which have had to be met by your board, while in a few departments the expenses have proved to be less than were estimated a year ago. Throughout the year the efforts of your board have been directed to conserving the resources of the town and avoiding any unnecessary expense without neglecting work to go undone. It is a source of gratification to your board to be able to state that while employment conditions in Norwich have been only slightly, if any, better than in the previous year and while no deserving requests for help have been neglected the expense of the maintenance of the outside poor as well as of the inmates of the almshouse has been substantially the same as for the past several years. Due to the vote at the last annual town meeting, extensive repairs have been made at the almshouse, the building having been generally renovated and an electrical system installed, furnishing electric lights through the entire building including the rooms of all the inmates. Your board was authorized to borrow the necessary money for this purpose and also for the increase in the expenses of the assessors' office, but were able to meet both of these expenses through the customary receipts, thus saving the town the interest charge which would have to have been met had the money been borrowed. As usual, the coal for the almshouse has been purchased in advance and is now in the bins. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis have continued throughout the year as superintendent and assistant, respectively, and their services have met with the entire satisfaction of your board and we believe of the public in general.

A considerable amount of work has been done on the highways of the town during the past year. When you consider that the highways of the town outside of the city consist of about seventy-two miles of road which has to meet with the constantly increasing traffic, under all conditions of weather, it can be readily understood that there will have to be a large amount of work done in ordinary repairs in order to meet seasonable demands of the traveling public. This work includes not only the keeping of the roadbed in condition but a constant expense for trimming trees, cutting down brush, repairing or renewing fences, culverts, etc., all of which expense is met from the regular highway appropriations. A three-ton Mack truck was purchased this year for the use of the town, principally in connection with the work on the highway and has proved highly satisfactory as a saver both of time and of expense. Some of the more important local work which has been done on the highways include regraveling and surfacing Pine street and a portion of the New London turnpike, and resurfacing the highways about Norwich Town green, also the constructing of about 150 feet of macadam at Peck's Corners and about 600 feet on the Scotland road. The appropriation or state aid roads, which at the time of our last statement had not been used, is now being spent on the rebuilding of the Gallow's Hill road by a contractor under the supervision of the state highway department. This important and much-needed improvement is being pushed rapidly to completion and will probably be finished by December 1st, and hereafter the upkeep and repair of this highway will be at the expense of the state highway department. The bridges of the town have all been kept in repair and the Laurel Hill and West Main street bridges have both been covered with sheet asphalt under the supervision of your board. The Norwich Town bridge, sometime since, was closed on account of the weakness of its supports, has had to be provided with entirely new sub-structure and will be open to traffic within a few days. Both this expense and the expense of the resurfacing of the Laurel Hill and West Side bridges have been met through the appropriation for bridges and without the necessity of borrowing any extra money therefor.

The voting booth which your board was authorized to build in the third voting district has been completed and is now in use, and in the coming town election the voters of the sixth district will be able to vote in the new Bishop school in a room provided for that purpose through the co-operation of the town school committee. We believe that these two improvements will be appreciated by the citizens of the districts affected.

Two issues of town bonds have been sold by your board during the past year in accordance with a vote of the citizens in a town meeting, the first being an issue of refunding bonds in the amount of $115,000 which was purchased by the Norwich Savings Society, and the second an issue of schoolhouse bonds to defray the expense of the new Bishop school in the amount of $100,000 which was purchased by an out-of-town investment house. Owing to the excellent credit of the town both of these issues bear interest at the low rate of 4 1-4 per cent and were sold at a sufficient premium to more than defray all the expenses connected with their issue. As in accordance with the state law, these bonds have to be issued by a serial form, the amount of $10,000 will become due upon them each year hereafter, which will necessitate an addition of about one-half mill to the amount to be appropriated for a sinking fund.

The special tax adjustment committee, appointed sometime ago at a special town meeting, has rendered its final report during the past year, this report being accepted and its recommendations adopted at a special town meeting which was held for this purpose. Its acceptance necessitates an increase in the balance of about $3,000 of the assessors' office. A letter from the board of assessors showing what they have done to date to carry out these recommendations will be found at the end of this report.

The last session of the general assembly passed an act permitting establishment of zoning districts in this town, and also prohibiting the erection of any buildings or other structure within the town, without a building permit having been first obtained from the town clerk.

This latter provision will be especially useful to our board of assessors in checking up on the erection of new buildings within the town.

For the coming year your board is pleased to be able to recommend a tax of eight mills as being sufficient to meet the town expenses, this being one-half mill less than last year. This tax, of course, will only cover the expenses recommended by your board, and if further appropriations are made in response to such petitions as may come before the annual town meeting, a higher rate of tax will be necessary. Below is a statement of estimated receipts and expenses for the coming year:

Estimated Expenses

Alms House	$ 10,000 00

The tax of eight mills recommended by your board will yield on the present Grand List the sum of $176,198.64.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM S. MURRAY,
CHARLES P. BUSHNELL,
PATRICK T. CONNELL,
Selectmen of the Town of Norwich

Town School Committee

The town school committee asks that the town appropriate the sum of $281,263.32 for the support of the schools during the coming year, this sum being equal to about 12 3-4 mills on the dollar on our present grand list. The committee's reports and recommendations will be presented for action at the annual town meeting.

To the Taxpayers of Norwich

That you may be informed as to what has been done toward revaluation of the town, the board of assessors make this report:

Following the special town meeting in June the board visited several towns, including New London, Saybrook, Middletown, West Hartford and Windsted, Conn. and Westerly, R. I., for the purpose of learning how assessments were made, how the records were kept and what office equipment was necessary. The visits to these towns has been of much benefit, perhaps, as much in showing what not to do as in what to do.

We have devised a set of record cards which we believe are better adapted to local needs than any in use elsewhere. Office equipment to take care of these records has been ordered, but will not be installed until after the lists for 1925 are received, as the work this year must be carried on as in the past. Following this, the board has devoted its time to inspection of new properties and those about which some question has come up in the past.

When the assessment for 1925 is completed everything will be ready for the continuation of the work of revaluation. The tax maps for the more thickly built sections of the town are nearing completion.

In view of the fact that building and sale of building lots is active in other parts of the town, your board believe and recommend that work on the tax maps should be continued and that an appropriation for that purpose be made.

As but little of the money appropriated for office equipment and traveling expenses of the board has been used, the sum of $2,500.00 should be reappropriated.

Signed:
ARAD R. MANNING,
JOHN B. OAT,
FRED G. PROTHERO.

POINTS OUT FIVE NEEDS FOR TEACHER TRAINING

Dr. Seldon R. Roberts of Philadelphia addressed the union gathering of members of Norwich Protestent churches Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church, stressing the value of teacher training and selecting people for teachers who are best fitted for the classes they are given to teach.

The value of training, he said, is of interest to every member of the church and in order to put it across in the proper way the entire church must back the program. Deacons and officers are directly interested, he said, because they are interested in teachers and the young people of the church. Trustees of the church are also directly interested because they must provide the funds for carrying out the work. Every church member is interested also because they all have a part in the teaching program, either as teachers or as those who are being taught.

To make the program effective a definite ideal must be set forth, a certain objective established and all efforts made to accomplish the carrying out of the ideal to arrive at the objective. We must seek His Kingdom and His righteousness for we are not children of God unless we live as he would have us, think as He would have us and do as He would do. The idea of the training classes, said Dr. Roberts, is to start the work of the Kingdom, begin with the individual, then spread out taking in countries and lands, until the world is permeated with the spirit of Christ and His righteousness.

Aim is an active thing, said Dr. Roberts, while objectives are simply terms used to convey a meaning of the work. Our aim should be to push forward in this great work until His Kingdom shall be established on earth. We need to clear our vision, have our purpose more definately set, thus enabling us to better solve the problems of life for our boys and girls. To do this we need teachers.

There are five things needed to make this program a successful one, namely, prayer, seeking out suitable persons for teachers, winning them to the work of the Kingdom, training them for their work as teachers and providing them with that which they need to successfully carry out their teaching.

We need prayer, he said, because only through prayer may we build up workers and secure teachers from those among the coming generations. We need to seek the suitable person because not everyone is suited for teaching. Many people who never have been in a church and who think they never will are best fitted for teachers and this is why we must win them to His Kingdom, said Dr. Roberts, and then we must train them that they may be fitted for the work in the church classes. Last of all we must provide them with the materials for their work, lest all other efforts shall have been made in vain.

We must make the gospel a living message, taught by living teachers, to whom the Word means something. This work requires attention from all of you and there must be preparedness, for the church cannot do this work by accident, the goal must be a definite one and our aims and purpose clearly fixed before we begin our efforts.

Previous to the talk by Dr. Roberts, which was the preliminary talk to the teachers institute which is to be carried out this week at the Central Baptist church Rev. David A. Pitt, pastor of the church, announced that the effort was at first to be a denominational one, but that it was believed to be too big for one church and therefore other churches were invited to participate, thus making it an institute for all Protestant churches of the city. Classes for the teaching of primary methods, teaching intermediate pupils, study of the New Testament, the pupil, coming school of the church, and study of text book for young people, will make up the work of the institute.

This work, said Dr. Pitt would be taken up in sessions, two each night, for five evenings and perfect attendance is anticipated for international credits.

Rev. E. C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church, announced the character of the work to be done in his classes during the institute and Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, speaking for Protestant churches of the city other than Baptist, said that he felt certain that the institute would prove of great inspiration and that he felt sure that all churches welcomed the opportunity to participate in the institute with the Baptist churches of the city.

Remarkable Squash Production.

Willis H. Spicer, of Poquetanuck, raised 150 pounds of squashes in one hill, the old-fashioned crookneck squash.

The largest one weighed 20 pounds. People came from miles around to see them, saying that it was the most wonderful sight they ever witnessed in the line of squashes. If any one can beat these he would like to hear from them.

MADE 187 NEW NORWICH VOTERS

INCLUDING 111 MEN, 76 WOMEN

When the board of registration completed its work Saturday evening at the town hall, where the members had been in session to make voters, they found that out of a total of 670 names on the lists of to-be-mades prepared by the registrars of voters they had made 187, which is about 28 per cent, a low average.

From the 326 men on the eligible list there were 111 men made voters and from the 344 women there were 76 who were made voters.

The following table shows for the six districts of the town the number on the to-be-made list and those who were made:

Dist	Men to be made	Men made	Women to be made	Women made
1	110	39	131	32
2	77	22	86	10
3	68	14	65	7
4	8	2	18	3
5	43	26	12	8
6	20	7	32	11
Totals	326	111	344	76

Those who neglected the opportunity to be made voters Saturday will have to wait until October, 1926 before they can be put on the voting lists. They will thus lose the chance to vote in the town election next week and in the city election next June. Their neglect at this time to secure the right to exercise the franchise shows a surprising lack of interest in the valuation they place upon the opportunity of casting their ballots towards the election of the officers who will conduct the town and the city affairs.

The board of registration this year was made up of W. S. Murray, C. P. Bushnell and P. T. Connell, selectmen; Charles S. Holbrook, town clerk, Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes, registrars of voters.

For the benefit of the new voters and all others who may be interested, Registrars Guy and Downes will demonstrate the use of the voting machines in the town hall on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week from 1 o'clock in the afternoon to 9 o'clock in the evening.

The highest resale value" still further enhanced by tremendously

reduced prices

THE used-car columns of your daily newspaper tell the story. You will find there but few Willys-Knights for sale. And such as are, command, always, an almost incredible premium . . .

The life of an automobile, the extent of its further usefulness, determine its resale-ability. And life and usefulness are determined, absolutely, by the condition of the engine . . .

When a car goes to the graveyard for automobiles, it goes there for one major reason, one only — It is the engine that sends a car "across the river". It is the engine that makes or breaks a car—first, last and all the time! . . .

The Willys-Knight engine never wears out

—unlike any other motor-mechanism in existence, it does not deteriorate. It actually improves with use . . . After 50,000 miles, on up to 100,000 and over, it is a smoother and quieter, more powerful and more completely efficient engine than it was on the day you bought it! . .

After more than 10 years' use—in the hands of many thousands of owners—no one yet knows the engine-life of the Willys-Knight. And it will be 10 years more, probably longer, before an accurate appraisal of its longevity becomes available! . . .

You have never heard of an owner going into any other salesroom asking for a new body or a new chassis for his old motor. Yet you will meet with this any number of times in salesrooms of the Willys-Knight . . .

Used-car experts (than whom there are no keener judges of car-values) consider a Willys-Knight at 50,000 or 60,000 miles a first-class selling proposition. Can the same be said of any other car in, or under, or considerably above its price-class, with that distance chalked up against it?

The patented Knight sleeve-valve motor

—that is the leading reason for the phenomenally long life, the perennially fine performance, and, consequently, the gratifyingly greater resale-rating of the Willys-Knight . . . No tappets, no springs, no rocker arm bushings to grow noisy, or get out of order, or replace . . . No valves to grind. Carbon is the "tuberculosis" of the automobile engine. The Knight engine is absolutely immune from that. It is positively proof against all carbon troubles. In fact, carbon improves this engine's functioning . . .

So—when you buy your Willys-Knight, particularly at these SUBSTANTIALLY REDUCED PRICES, you are not merely buying an automobile. You are making an investment in sustained motor-car satisfaction. And the dividends that investment bring to you—in service, in freedom from expense and annoyance, in pride of ownership—are matched only by its strength as a gilt-edged security, its high cash redemption value if, in any emergency, you are obliged to dispose of your car.

OLD SCHOLARS GATHER AT LAMBTOWN SCHOOL REUNION

Lambtown school, a little red schoolhouse picturesquely situated on a rocky hillside in the southern part of the town of Ledyard was last Sunday the scene of a happy gathering of former pupils and teachers. In all nearly one hundred fifty persons were present.

Mrs. Emeline Burrows Bailey of Groton, now 93 years of age, was the oldest representative of the school present and is probably the oldest living person who attended it as a pupil. She first entered the school in 1838.

Mrs. Abbie Merritt of Fort Hill, a former pupil, now 84 years of age, was also present. Others who represented the pupils of a little later period were Timothy Whipple, of Old Mystic, Misses Phebe and Carrie Watrous, Billings T. Avery, Nelson Holdridge, Austin Lamb, Alonzo Shafer, G. A. Montgomery, all of Ledyard, and Thomas Whipple of Groton.

It is said that the building was erected in 1814.

Mrs. Bailey of Groton remembers the school house, in her day, as being unplastered and altogether in the rough, with oaken benches running across the room and wooden shutters at the windows. Those who attended the school at a somewhat later period found the interior somewhat remodeled. The walls had been plastered and a continuous desk with its accompanying continuous backless bench had been constructed around three sides of the room.

While there were no regular "speeches" delivered many interesting reminiscences of happenings in the olden times were told.

Inquiries were made for the old desk at which, because of its long legs, the teachers were obliged to stand in order to write. It was said that in olden times miscreants were obliged to sit under the desk. The old desk is still in existence though its legs are much shorter, having had a few inches at a time sawed off on various occasions. It is now consigned to the girls' cloak room to make room in the schoolroom for a more convenient modern desk.

There were stories told of the planting of many of the trees in the school yard. It seemed to be customary during the first few years of Arbor day observance to give a name to the trees planted. Among the maples in the yard, "Theodore Roosevelt," "Mr. Simmonds," and "Grandma Ross" were pointed out by those who had helped to set out these living memorials.

It was the verdict of practically all present that from this time forth a re-union at Lambtown should be made a regular annual event. "Goodbye, I shall expect to see you here next year," was the parting word as the visitors left for home.

Y. M. C. A. BEGINS ITS SUNDAY AFTERNOON MEETINGS

The parlors of the local Y. M. C. A. were filled Sunday afternoon at the initial meeting of the fall season, and the entire audience evidently enjoyed the hour spent at the "Y" building. The opening exercises consisted of the singing of hymns, scripture reading and prayer, Hugh Kinder rendered two solos in an acceptable manner, and also furnished music for the moving pictures which included a large reel on "In Africa with the Camera," which was very interesting and the photography was especially fine. A reel on "The Elixir of Gymnastics," showing California orange groves and the night blooming cereus, and also some body building gymnastics. The final reel was one on Japan and an island in the Pacific, which proved full of interest.

Between the reels, Secretary Hill gave a brief talk on "The unruly member, the tongue," taking the text from the third chapter of James, "Every beast has been tamed, but the tongue can no man tame." The speaker said in part. "It is interesting and surprising to note how men and women have tamed all kinds of animals, some it would seem impossible to tame, but they have succeeded in taming them. No one, however, has yet been able to tame the tongue; we bless and curse with the same tongue; we speak an unkind or a cutting word, my, how it travels; its influence is awful, and we can never recall it, but it goes on and on doing damage. Thank God, a kind and helpful word also goes on and on doing its work of blessing through the days and weeks. We are to o apt to say of another, he is a good man, but, or she is a good woman, but; we should leave the but out of the sentence for it spoils it. It will be well if we say nothing but the kind things about others and keep silent about the unkind things, for in so doing we will be a blessing instead of the opposite. Let us do our best and let us be very careful of our words.

NORWICH IS BACK ON STANDARD TIME

Norwich went back on standard time Sunday morning the clock hands being moved back one hour at 2 o'clock. Some of the churches held services on the daylight schedule while the others went back to the standard time schedule. All trolleys, railroad trains and other transportation agencies re-arranged their schedules to conform with standard time Sunday and beginning this (Monday) morning, factories, stores and schools will operate on standard time.

Those who complained last spring of losing an hour's sleep when the clock hands were advanced one hour, made it up Saturday night as moving the clock hands back gave them an extra hour for rest.

DIVERS ENDEAVORING TO PENETRATE SECTIONS OF THE ILL-FATED SUB. S-51 STILL HOPE SOME MEN MAY BE ALIVE

Information Given by a Wireless Message From Admiral Christie—Divers Are Striving to Investigate the Condition of the Craft and Ascertain What Doors and Hatches to the Various Compartments Are Closed—Weather Too Rough For Effective Work by the Ships Bearing Big Cranes—Airplanes Have Been Ordered Out to Search For Floating Victims of the Accident.

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 28—(By the A. P.)—Baffled by the elements of nature, a heavy wind and a rolling sea, workers trying to lift the submarine S-51 from her bed at the bottom of the Atlantic, pinned their hope tonight upon the work of two divers who went down in an attempt to explore the interior of the craft.

Undaunted by the failure of the wrecking ships to work in the heavy swells, that tossed the fleet of rescue craft above waves 14 miles off Block Island where the S-51 was sunk last Friday night in a collision with the Savannah Line steamer City of Rome, the officers in charge believed they would be able to force enough air into any compartments in which men might be alive—if any such exist—to keep them alive. They thus disposed of a socalled "dead line" of time which had set 72 hours as the limit which the men could live on the supply of air they had with them.

"There is as much hope now as there ever was," Lieutenant Commander H. A. Flanagan, executive officer of the submarine base, said tonight.

The purpose of the divers who invaded the ocean was threefold. First they hoped to learn whether any of the men are alive. There is a possibility that they can determine definitely for it will be possible for them to hear any noises that the men might make inside the compartments in which they may have shut themselves. They hope, if this is not possible, to determine what doors and hatches in the vessel are closed and thus form a basis for conjecture as to the safety of those within.

Secondly, the divers will attach additional air hose to the valves of these compartments, forcing air inside for the benefit of any that might be imprisoned and at the same time forcing out through other valves any water that may have gotten into the rooms before the men were able to close the doors.

Their third task is to determine if possible, what parts of the submarine are filled with water, and what parts have been pumped out in order that those on the surface can figure out her weight. Thus they can determine more definitely how much power it will be necessary to apply when lifting operations are resumed.

The divers' job was a perilous one and a tedious one. It was not determined whether they would try to enter the submarine through the open hatch or through the hole smashed in her side when she collided with the City of Rome. In either case they would face obstacles, officers said, and would have to use extreme care to see that their sources of life, their air hose, were not caught in a manner to interfere with their supplies.

The work of these men was considered merely preliminary to a resumption of the lifting operations and officers of a boat returning from the scene tonight said the sea was moderating and that the monster wrecking boat Monarch had been recalled from the lee of Block Island where she took shelter from the heavy seas. Whether the swells would moderate to the extent that her huge cranes and those on the Century, another wrecker, could be put in motion before daybreak was problematical. But both boats stood by, ready to start the huge engines on their deck in motion, ready to tug away at the under water water ship that lay embedded in the sea.

Unless the divers hear sounds from within any compartments to which the doors are closed they cannot be positive that the men are alive, for they will make no attempt to open these doors. To do so would be fatal, for the water immediately would rush into the compartment.

The divers have carefully rehearsed their movements. They were on board the S-50 a sister, ship, today and studied carefully, the position of every door and valve. Thus if they were able to enter the submerged craft tonight they would be able to find their way about. The orders were to enter the battery room and work forward and aft.

The sea was still somewhat choppy and rough, and this added to the peril of the men, Harry Reinharther and William Reid faced.

Officers at the submarine base waited eagerly for the reports of the investigations of these two men. Rear Admiral H. H. Christie, on the Camden, flag ship of the rescue fleet, sent only meagre messages concerning the work.

Lieutenant A. R. McCann in command of the Chewink, a converted mine sweeper which returned to the base tonight from the scene described the difficulties of the wrecking ships in the rough weather. While the officers were dismayed because of their failure to continue the uplifting operations that were unsuccessful yesterday, they realized that the huge cranes on the wrecking boats made the craft "top heavy" and that it would be virtually impossible for them to work in the heavy swells.

But even when word was received at the base this work could not go on the officers here refused to give up hope. Lieutenant Commander Flanagan pointed out that if there was not hope left the divers who were sent down tonight would open the compartments in an effort to find bodies.

"It's not bodies they are looking for," he said, "it's men."

HOPEFUL NEWS SENT OUT FROM NEW LONDON

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 28.—(AP) — The elements played against those who sought to bring the submarine S-51 from her bed at the bottom of the Atlantic today and, for the time being, won their fight.

A heavy wind and rolling sea put a stop to the rescue work and what had been given as the deadline of time for the 33 entombed men to live — 72 hours after the disaster—was passed without a word or sign to buoy up the hopes of those at the naval station who waited and hoped without hope that some of their shipmates might still be alive. Even after the 72 hours had passed they refused to release the straws of hope. Perhaps the air would last longer, perhaps air being pumped into the vessel in the efforts to raise her would keep them alive. But they admitted that they had no basis for their hopes and that everything was "guess work."

"If we didn't have hopes that some of the men were alive, we wouldn't be proceeding in the rescue work as we are," Lieutenant Commander H. A. Flanagan, executive officer at the submarine base, said today.

"We're going to hope until the S-51 is brought to the surface. It's a slim chance, but in a submarine anything can happen and there is a chance."

The officers admitted their disappointment at the word that all efforts to lift the submarine had to be abandoned today because of rough weather. The fleet of rescue craft tossed about on the swells of the season helpless. The Century, which yesterday heaved and tugged at a cable wrapped about the stern of the submarine without success, stood by to await the monster wrecking ship Monarch which arrived only to find the sea running so heavy as to make it impossible to pull at the cable which also had been attached to the craft to no one hooked onto her huge derricks and cranes. The Century stood by tonight the cable to her machinery still attached, but the Monarch shoved into a cove off Block Island, about fourteen miles away to await calmer weather and a steadier sea.

In the meantime word was brought to shore that a diver went down at 5 o'clock but no report reached the station through official channels as to the purpose of his visit to the floor of the sea. Only meager messages came from Rear Admiral Christie on the Camden, flagship of the rescue fleet, but few officers here expected that another attempt would be made to raise the S-51 before tomorrow.

The weather predictions for tomorrow were not considered of the best.

The rescue work today consisted chiefly of pumping air into the vessel. Divers had attached the lines to openings in her bulkheads and the pressure was applied to drive out the water that weighted her down. This air officers said, might possibly seep through to the men in sufficient quantities to help them breathe if any of them had been fortunate enough to lock themselves in a water tight compartment when the S-51 went down. They admitted, however, that if the air could seep through the water could also. But it was a hope.

Lieutenant Commander Flanagan was besieged today with telephone calls and calers, mostly relatives of the missing men, who wanted word of the disaster.

"There's hope," he told them all.

A young man called tonight. His brother, J. J. Sheehan, motor macainist's mate, first class, was one of those reported to have been on duty in the engine room when the crash came and one of those most likely to have a chance for life. His father nearing 80 years of age was in a serious condition. His brother's bride of a few months was prostrate with grief.

"Don't buoy up their hopes too much," said the executive officer "because if the worst happens it will only go harder with them. But tell them there's hope."

"We heard last night that they had raised her 65 feet," said Sheehan's brother, "and that they had heard tappings from inside the submarine. Father was so strengthened by this report that he was able to eat for the first time since the accident happened."

After he had gone, Lieut. Commander Flanagan said there had been enough rumors and wild reports "to put Alice in Wonderland to sleep."

Call after call was made at the station. Telegrams came from relatives at a distance, begging for some word of hope, something definite. One sailor's wife, whose name was not made public, sent a telegram asking that her husband's body be sent home.

And all effort was being made to recover the bodies of those whose lives are known to be lost. Seaplanes and fast cruisers will scour the surrounding waters in the search for those believed to have escaped from the craft when she sank, but who were not picked up by life boats from the City of Rome, with which she collided.

Lieut. Commander Flanagan said hardly less frequent than the calls from relatives were those from those who wanted to offer help to the station in their work of rescue. New London townspeople came to their aid in every conceivable manner, he said, offering supplies of all sorts for the men out at sea trying to lift the craft. One man brought an invention he had worked out to lift submarines.

The station eagerly awaited word tonight from divers, who were sent down to investigate the submarine when it was found that lifting operations could not continue. These men were expected to determine what compartment doors were open and it marked the first time that any of them had ventured into the submarine itself. Whether or not they could

Worcester Bandit, John Troy, Captured

Leader of Gang That Terrorized Worcester Was Taken at Pistol Point in Auburndale, Mass.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—(AP) — John Troy, leader of a bandit gang which terrorized Worcester for more than two weeks last month, was captured here today, it was stated at headquarters.

Troy was captured at pistol point by Police Inspectors Dorsey and Augusta on Commonwealth avenue near Norumbega park, Auburndale, at a filling station where he stopped his automobile to get gasoline. He was on his way at the time to surrender to Attorney William R. Scharton of Boston, appointed by Troy's parents as his counsel. Troy was brought to police headquarters and locked up in the city prison to await the arrival of officers from Worcester.

Troy protested his innocence of the charges against him, but declined on advice of counsel to make any further statement. He was booked as a fugitive from justice.

Schwarton explained that Troy some time ago announced his willingness to surrender, but feared to go to in Worcester because of the bitter feeling against him there. It was arranged that he was to come to Boston, and he left Worcester yesterday. The police heard of the plan, however, and sent the inspectors out to arrest Troy.

A series of hold-ups and robberies in Worcester and vicinity by Troy and two companions culminated August 21 in the killing of Walter Derosier, Troy's lieutenant, by a patrolman when Derosier attempted a hold up in a lunch wagon in Worcester. The young bandit chieftian continued to elude the police and sent them derisive messages with threats of death to the slayer of Derosier. A reward of $1,000 for the capture of Troy, dead or alive, was offered.

A week ago Dennis J. Britt, the third member of the gang was captured in New Jersey.

TROY SOUGHT BY WORCESTER POLICE SINCE EARLY AUGUST

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 28. —(AP)—John Troy, who was arrested late today in Boston, has been sought by the local police since early in August when it is alleged that a bandit band of which he is the leader perpetrated a series of crimes that terrorized the city. The boldness of the bandits increased when the efforts of the entire police and detective force to capture them failed and led to Mayor Michael J. O'Hara offering a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of two alleged members of the gang, Troy and Dennis Britt.

The series of holdups alleged to have been perpetrated by the Troy gang began on the night of August 8 and morning of August 9 when three lunchrooms and two or three automobile parties were held up. One man was shot when he resisted in a lunchroom. One girl was assaulted in an automobile party and several men were robbed. From that time on the Troy gang made frequent appearances in Worcester and other places. One night soon after its first appearance it made a raid at Lake Quinsigamond and robbed more than a dozen persons.

The gangsters also appeared in Blackstone valley and were in the act of carrying off a supply of foodstuffs from a restaurant when police appeared. Troy made a getaway but the police believed for a time they had surrounded Britt and Walter Derosier in a swamp. Their vigil in the swamp was without reward, however. The police believed then that the gang had separated and for a time believed that Troy was involved in some Maine holdups. Then came the sensational hold-up of three lunchcarts in the heart of the city, which resulted in the killing of Derosier by Patrolman Daniel J. Sullivan.

HEARINGS ON NEW HAVEN-WILLIMANTIC BUS LINE

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 28—(A. P.)—Chairman Richard T. Higgins and Charles C. Elwell of the public utilities commission this afternoon, held a hearing on the application of the New England Transportation company for permission to operate a motor bus line between New Haven and Willimantic through Middletown, Portland, East Hampton and Marlborough.

Those who spoke for the petition included W. L. Barnett, E. E. Regan and W. P. Read, all of the New Haven railroad, and W. J. Flickinger, of the Connecticut company.

The railroad officials denied rumors that the Air Line railroad would be discontinued and said that the bus line would co-operate with the present service if the application is granted. There was no opposition to the petition. It is proposed, if the bus service is started, to make three round trips daily with the same fare as on the railroad. Connection would be made with all of the trains at New Haven and Middletown.

SENATORIAL PRIMARY IN WISCONSIN TODAY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 28. (AP) —The two principal candidates for the seat in the United States senate left vacant by the death of Senator Robert M. La Follette continued their campaigns right up to the eve of election, tomorrow. Indications were that the ruling issues, La Follette or anti-La Follette, would draw a fair-sized vote.

Robert M. La Follette, Jr., who captured the Republican nomination in the primary two weeks ago, is opposed tomorrow by Edward F. Dithmar, former La Follette follower, running as an independent.

Dithmar was not in the primary.

La Follette finished his campaign tonight at Waukesha, and Dithmar wound up his campaign with pleas to the voters in his county, Sauk, in an address at Baraboo.

John M. Work, the Socialist candidate, contented himself with a statement calling upon all Socialists not to be misled by La Follette's indorsement of the 1924 Cleveland convention platform and to vote their own party ticket. He accused La Follette of being insincere.

William George Bruce, a Democrat, running independent of party designation, finished his campaign on Saturday.

Commercial Planes On Reliability Tour

Sixteen Make First Trip From Detroit to Chicago Without Mishap—Fokker Was First Plane to Land.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Sixteen airplanes entered in the first commercial airplane reliability contest arrived here late today without mishap from Detroit on the first hop of a tour of the middle west for the Edsel Ford trophy.

The planes stopped at Fort Wayne en route and tomorrow morning will leave Maywood field for Moline, Ills., Des Moines, Iowa and Omaha.

Pilots said perfect flying weather was the only feature of the first day of the trip. The first of the sixteen planes landed here shortly before four o'clock and at 5 o'clock the last ship was down.

The first plane to land was a Fokker, carrying Anthony H. G. Fokker of Amsterdam, its designer. The best time from Fort Wayne was made by a Curtiss carrier pigeon plane and plane number 30 of the South AG Transport company, each plane making the distance in one hour 32 1-2 minutes.

Designed to arouse the interest of industry in airplanes for commercial purposes, a trophy will be awarded to the plane that best meets these needs upon the return of the flight to Detroit.

One woman, Mrs. Charles Bowhan, wife of one of the pilots, is making the trip.

SEEKING A RENEWAL OF HARD COAL NEGOTIATIONS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28—Another movement to bring about a renewal of negotiations between mine workers and operators for a new wage contract and end the suspension of mining that has been in effect four weeks, was started at Scranton deploring the failure of the two sides to reach a settlement and declaring itself in favor of the principle of mediation and arbitration.

The chamber appointed R. E. Weeks, A. R. Amerman and E. J. Lynett a committee to cooperate to bring about a renewal of negotiations.

A resolution was also adopted providing that in the future when the miners and operators disagree that the differences shall be submitted to arbitration and the mines operated while negotiations are in progress.

Efforts to load coal in stock at the Natalie Colliery of the Madeira Hill Company, near Mount Carmel, were stopped by officers of the United Mine Workers, on a threat to call out Colliery Maintenance men. The company took the position that the fuel was mined and paid for prior to the suspension and some of it sold, but could not be delivered because of the overcrowded coal yards in the latter part of August. The mine workers, it was said, contended that coal shipped to market at present tends to delay the settlement of the dispute between the men and their employers.

Andrew Mattey, one of the district presidents of the miners, at Hazleton today advised anthracite miners not to accept employment in the non-union bituminous mines of West Virginia and central and western Pennsylvania. Mattey said that he had learned hard coal miners were locating in those sections. Union men accepting employment in non-union mines, he said, should be disciplined.

BOY AND WOMAN SHOT BY GANGSTERS DURING FIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Stanley Brozio, 14, was killed and his mother, Mrs. Anastasia Brozio, 46, was seriously wounded tonight by stray bullets fired during a fight between two rival gangs on 10th avenue, near 34th street.

The members of the two gangs escaped after the boy and the woman were shot.

The shooting occurred in the same section of the city where Mrs. Mary Connelly was shot and killed August 6, when used as a human shield by one of the gang of buck thieves who were fighting the police. Detective Richard Heneberry was fatally wounded in that fight.

Mrs. Brozio was returning from church services with her two children, Stanley and Helen, 13, when an automobile containing 3 men drew near the curb and began firing at a group of men standing on the sidewalk. Some of the latter returned the fire. It is believed that none of the gunmen was wounded.

After the exchange of shots the automobile disappeared south on 10th avenue, and the men on the sidewalk fled. One of the them fired a shot at the crowd which had gathered about the two wounded bystanders.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The president's air board continued its aviation inquiry.

C. P. Van Swervingen again testified on the Nickel Plate merger plan.

Commissioner Benson urged a new building program for the shipping board.

Brigadier General Benjamin A. Poore was named to command the seventh corps area, headquarters at Omaha.

The French and American Debt commission resumed negotiations for settlement of the French war debt.

Major General Patrick reported that experienced aviation officers had recommended that the Los Angeles be turned over to the army.

Transfer of the shipping board to the commerce department and the federal trade commission to the justice department was advocated by Senator Curtis, republican senate leader.

Samuel Rea, retired president of the Pennsylvania railroad, suggested amendment of transportation act to facilitate railroad consolidation and a new system for settling labor disputes.

AUTO ACCIDENT RESULTED IN A FRACTURED SKULL

TORRINGTON, Sept. 28—Felix Loretti, 51 years old of Bantam is in Charlotte Hungerford hospital here in a critical condition with a fractured skull as the result of an automobile accident in Woodbury this afternoon. Others injured in the accident were taken to the Waterbury hospital.

The automobile left the road and upset. Loretti said that he was not seriously hurt and was being taken to his home in Bantam when he became unconscious. He was brought here and it was found that his skull was fractured.

PARLEYS ON FRENCH DEBT CONVERGING ON CAPACITY

French Statistical Experts Were Sent to the Treasury to Confer With Under Secretary Winston—Second Offer Made by the French Was Met With a Counter Proposal by Secretary Mellon With Terms Described as More Favorable Than Those Accorded Great Britain—Another Joint Conference of the Commissions Has Been Called For Today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—(A. P.)—Alternating waves of optimism and pessimism rolled over the French debt negotiations today but after a series of meetings between the negotiators, two more suggested plans for settlement were visible.

Two joint sessions of the commissions representing the United States and France were held, and each of them produced a proposal—the first, by France, suggesting terms regarded by the French as more acceptable than the original offer calling for $25,000,000 first payment and the second a counter proposal by Secretary Mellon containing figures described as perhaps more favorable than those accorded Great Britain.

Tonight, M. Caillaux, after sending his statistical experts to the treasury to confer with Under Secretary Winston, sought to make an engagement with Secretary Mellon. He called at the treasury but found Mr. Mellon had departed for the day.

The American commissioners frankly admitted that there was still a great difference in the views of the two groups, and the French entered today's conferences apparently doubtful, but later they apparently were more cheerful.

Notwithstanding that the negotiations thus far have brought no definite announcement of results, treasury officials held tonight to their stand that such a situation might be evident in negotiations of such a serious nature and could not be regarded as representing a stage where a break was threatened.

By some of the American commissioners, however, today's French offer was viewed as not departing sufficiently from the first proposal which was found acceptable, and they expressed optimism over the progress of the discussions.

Another joint session of the commissions has been called for tomorrow, but the indications tonight were that henceforth more of the negotiation will be carried on by small groups. It was the belief that the private talks between M. Caillaux and Secretary Mellon, as well as between other members of the two commissions were likely to provide the methods by which an understanding would be reached, if a settlement is to come from the present conferences.

Following out this idea, Under Secretary Winston in his conference with the French experts tonight made an effort to show them where their calculation of French capacity to pay fell short of the American contentions.

The fact that the experts were called in at this time caused some observers to believe that the divergence of views had been narrowed, but Secretary Mellon denied that there had been definite results from the two joint sessions. He added, however, that a discussion of actual terms had taken place, although on neither occasion were the two commissions together longer than an hour.

Much of the difficulty in reaching a settlement is over the interest rate to be paid, a group of the American delegates favoring something similar to the rate of 3 1-2 per cent paid by the British. The French understand the American position to be that while France might not be able to make large payment at present, she would be able to do so later. The French agree that France could do more later, but there is disagreement over the estimate of French prosperity.

In conducting the negotiations, the French mission has access to full reports of the opinion of the French press, which are being received daily at the French embassy. They are generally to the effect that M. Caillaux is offering as much as can be offered. The finance minister has reservations to return home October 7, but it is the belief that he would remain another week if a settlement should appear in prospect.

DEFENSE OF VALVE SYSTEM IN AIRSHIP SHENANDOAH

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 28. (AP) —A defense of the curtailed valve system installed in the airship Shenandoah early last summer and introduction of testimony to show that Commander Zachary Lansdowne had full liberty of action under his orders to make the mid-western flight constituted the high points today at the beginning of the second week of the naval court of inquiry investigating the wreck of that ship on Sept. 3.

The reduction of the number of the Shenandoah's automatic valves from 18 to 8 has been sharply criticized by Captain Anton Heinen, former German Zeppelin pilot, and at the conclusion of the day's sitting formal announcement was made by the court that Captain Heinen would be called as a witness. He probably will appear Wednesday or Thursday.

At the same time Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, president of the court, directed Judge Advocate Foley to communicate with Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, widow of the captain of the wrecked craft, to ascertain whether she desires to make any statement before the court. Mrs. Lansdowne was quoted as having said after the accident that her husband did not want to make the mid-western flight and feared storms during the trip.

Should Mrs. Lansdowne decide to appear, naval officers said she probably would be the first woman witness before a court of inquiry investigating the loss of a naval vessel.

TALKS ON PAYMENT OF THE INTERNATIONAL DEBT

WELLESLEY, Mass., Sept. 28—The most important economic problem in the world today centres around the question of transfer of money and goods in the payment of the international debt, Owen D. Young, who was general administrator under the Dawes reparation commission, said in an address today at the twelfth annual business conference at Babson Park.

"The United States wants her debtors to pay her and to pay her in full," Mr. Young said. "This is right for we should stand for the sanctity of obligations and take a firm stand against the repudiation of contract or no civilized society can exist.

That is the moral side of the question, but when gods are offered us in payment of debt and the debtor finds a tariff wall preventing delivery of these goods, what then?

"I am not speaking against a tariff as such, but we must today face our tariff problems in relation to other economic problems confronting us. While we must hold all nations to strict accountability, yet if these nations are unable to fulfill their obligations by reason of an impossible tariff barrier, the responsibility is ours."

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 28. (AP) —Continued rains along the French front in Morocco have rendered the roads impracticable for motor transport and are severing the telegraphic and telephonic connections between Fez and Taza, on the eastern part of the front. The rain appears to have halted operations on the French side.

The Riffians, however, made a counter attack in the sector of Kel-El-Loun. They also made a spirited attack on the French positions at El Bibane, in the central part of the front. Their attacks, French reports say, were scattered by Machine gun and artillery fire.

MELILLA, Spanish Morocco, Sept. 28. (AP)—Terrific rainstorms have paralyzed all naval operations along the Moroccan coast. This port is closed.

THE INTERPARLIAMENTARY DELEGATES WELCOMED

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. (AP)—An unofficial league of nations, composed of more than 200 legislators from Europe, South America and the far east, on their way to Washington, for the interparliamentary union conference, was welcomed here today first by the mayor and later at luncheons and dinners at which distinguished foreigners and American speakers stressed international accord and friendship.

A procession of about 150 men and women formed at the pier where the liner Caronia landed 155 delegates from Great Britain, Scandinavia and central European countries, but police dispersed it almost immediately. Few of the arrivals knew of the attempted disturbance.

Joining other national groups that gathered here during the week-end the European delegates went to the city hall at noon where Baron Theodor Adelswaerd of Sweden, president of the union, replied to Mayor Hylan's welcome by characterizing New York as the "most cosmopolitan and hospitable of all cities." Later the parliamentarians were luncheon guests of the League of Nations non-partisan association.

Former Justice John H. Clarke, of the United States supreme court, who presided, praised the work of the league and the union.

TEAR BOMBS WERE USED TO DRIVE MAN FROM SEWER

PASSAIC, N. J., Sept. 28—Police tonight used tear gas bombs to rout Albert Paycock, 32, who said he was a world war veteran, from a sewer in which he had made his home for the last two weeks. He was charged with disorderly conduct and will be arraigned tomorrow.

Paycock told the police that he served in the United States army at Camp Dix and that he had been out of employment for several months before he sought refuge in the sewer.

During the day he said, he would look for work and at night would raise the man-hole plate and go down into the sewer, which is steam-heated because of the proximity of some steam pipes.

Reports of a "wild man" in the sewer caused consternation among children of the neighborhood. When police investigated, Paycock, like a modern Jean Valjean escaped in the sewer labyrinth. When a fire hose failed to dislodge him, police finally resorted to the tear gas.

GANG OF 15 MEN WERE IN HOLD UP IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—A gang of holdup men, said to number 15, descended upon a store in East Broadway today and robbed M. Granovsky, a diamond importer, of $15,000 in unset diamonds, and escaped without being hindered by the crowds passing in front.

Four of the robbers entered the store.

Persons on the street informed the police that the rest of the gang mingled with the crowd, keeping the exits from the store guarded, while automobiles waited with motors running.

CONVICT AND GUARD KILLED AT NEBRASKA JAIL

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 28—(A. P.)—Fred Brown, notorious Omaha "chain man" kidnapper, and Charles E. Morris a prison guard, were killed during an unsuccessful prison break at the Nebraska penitentiary this afternoon. A convict named Smith is believed to be dying from wounds.

Brown was sentenced to life imprisonment for kidnapping two girls near Benson, and chaining them in a shack, holding them for ransom.

WILLIMANTIC

A large barn at the Brownie Siedziewsky home in Mansfield City with cattle, stock and a silo was destroyed by fire of unknown origin, early Monday morning, causing an estimated loss of $5,000. Insurance partially covered the loss. Ten cows, one yearling, one bull, three horses and twenty chickens, were lost in the burning building. Other contents of the barn included hay rakes, dump carts, a wagon, two buggies, two sets of harnesses, three hundred wooden crates and various other implements, which were destroyed. The barn was an 80 by 90 foot structure. Adjoining this was a one hundred ton silo which contained about sixty tons of corn all of which was destroyed. Raymond Siedziewsky saw the flames from his bedroom window, shortly before two o'clock Monday morning. He awakened the remainder of the household and neighbors were then aroused. A bucket-brigade was formed and served materially in saving the house, which was endangered by flying sparks. A request for assistance was made of Engine Company No. 1 but Chief Henry J. Kelley deemed it unadvisable to leave the city without adequate fire protection after considering the distance to the fire and the rough traveling which would lessen the speed of the truck.

Joseph Cavoli of 66 Meadow street, this city and Wilfrid Dore, of Merrow whose cars figured in a collision on the Mansfield Depot-Storrs highway Sunday afternoon in which the Cavoli car was badly damaged, were in the Mansfield town court Monday morning. Cavoli was charged with reckless driving. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $41.15. Dore pleaded guilty for failure to endorse his operator's license. Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews imposed a fine of $1 and costs, amounting to $17.15. Officer Frank Kulowzki made the arrests in both cases.

A Studebaker touring car owned by John Spellman, of Danielson, and stolen from that town about 9 o'clock Monday morning, was recovered in Chaplin one hour later after the gasoline tank had gone dry and the thief had abandoned the machine. The crook, who is described as being a man weighing about 170 pounds, wearing a blue suit and a chauffeur's cap, is believed to have effected his escape when he secured a ride with a passing motorist.

Spellman, a mill employe in Danielson, had left his car parked in the road while he entered a store. He had been inside but a few minutes when he heard some one starting the car and rushed out just in time to see it speeding off. He boarded another machine and gave chase, but was soon outdistanced and he returned to secure the help of the Danielson state police. The officers trailed the machine to Sherman's Corners in South Chaplin where it was found beside the road. Officer Henry Heinold of the local barracks answered a call and he followed traces of the thief and scoured the highways, but without success.

Governor John H. Trumbull will be accompanied by Mrs. Trumbull when he attends the first anniversary celebration of the dedication of the Knowlton Memorial Hall in Warrenville Wednesday. This pleasing announcement was made Monday to Allen B. Lincoln a member of the committee of arrangements. Governor and Mrs. Trumbull will arrive at Warrenville about two o'clock in the afternoon and will be entertained at dinner at the old General Palmer Inn by the committee. The Inn is a famous landmark of revolutionary days and contains many historical relics. The afternoon program includes speeches an address by Governor Trumbull and a concert by Ashford band, under Director Lyman. Between 5 and 7 o'clock a collation is to be served to all present. Professor Wheeler of Connecticut Agricultural College will deliver the main address of the evening, after which there will be dancing. The entire program is informal and public.

The newly organized Italian band will appear in a public concert at an early date it was announced Monday by Joseph Caroli, conductor of the band. The organization is made up of about thirty-five Italian musicians many of whom are young boys. Regular rehearsals have been held under the supervision of Professor Pasquale Puca, who is also director of the Norwich Italian Band and who acquired his first musical degree in Rome Italy. Professor Puca states that he is highly pleased with the progress of the band.

Fred L. Lee of Vernon and Francis E. Armstrong of Manchester pleaded guilty to breaking and entering in the night season when presented in the Coventry town court Saturday night. Justice of the Peace Albert M. Gilman found probable cause and bound the accused men over to the next term of the Tolland county superior court under bonds of $1,000 each. The men were unable to furnish the bonds and were taken to jail by State Policeman Walter Hardisty. The break was made at the home of Mrs. E. A. Andrews, of North Coventry, the latter part of March. Articles to the value of $150 were stolen. For some time the theft remained a mystery, but State Policeman Hardisty persisted in his investigation and clues gradually accumulated until the thieves were identified.

Joseph Oumas, 69, died at his home 423 Prospect street early Monday morning after a long period of ill health. He was born in Lagorale, Canada, October 20, 1856, a son of Pierre and os LeClaire Dumas. He leaves his wife and five children, Mrs. Laureat Rondeau of this city, Valmore Dumas of New Britain, Adelard Dumas, Miss Rosilda Dumas, and Hellodore Dumas, of Willimantic. A sister, Mrs. Hormisdas Perreault of Lanorale, and several grandchildren. He was a member of St. Mary's parish, also of St. Jean Baptiste Society. He was employed at mills.

The funeral of Mrs. John Casey was held from her home, 43 Walnut street, Monday morning. A high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock was sung by Rev. Paul Bartlewiski. Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance was at the organ. A solo, Nearer My God to Thee was sung by Henry Mathieu as the body was borne into the church. At the offertory Mrs. Mathieu sang Pie Jesu, and she gave He Wipes the Tear from Every Eye as a waiting hymn. Many friends and relatives attended the services. Burial was in the the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Father Bartlewski. The bearers were, William Burke, Edward Fay, Dennis F. Haggerty and Eugene Cote. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

The bearers at the funeral of Mrs. Annie C. Sherman held in Franklin Sunday were: James Hyde, A. R. Race, Fred Clark and Charles Briggs. Avery and Van Zandt had charge.

A representation of the Baptist, Congregational and Methodist churches listened to a talk relative to the state convention of Men's Bible classes in Bridgeport, October 17 and 18, at the Y. M. C. A, Monday. The talk was given by Charles O. Frye and told of the growth of a class in Bridgeport from eleven men to over 1,000 and still growing. Two thousand men are expected to attend the state convention. Each class in the state is entitled to three delegates.

That ill feelings arising from the strike situation have not abated with the passing of time was brought forcibly to the minds of local authorities late Sunday night when a good sized stone was hurled through one of the parlor windows at the home of Eugene Briere, 136 Main street. The local and state police were notified of the affair and it was found that the stone was thrown from the direction of the entrance into Brook street.

Mrs. Levi Goss wa recently surprised when a number of friends called at her home on Youngs street and presented her a beautiful floor lamp. Present were, Mr. and Mrs. Etienne Riel, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allard, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bertrand, Mr. and Mrs. Etienne Riel, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lester French, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Riel, Mr. and Mrs. William Green, Misses Rose Clouthier, Leda Caisse, Dora Pothier, Mary and Bernadette Riel, Beatrice Berard, Bertha Turner and Marceline Riel, also Eugene Roy, Alfred Chartier, Leo and Joseph Riel, Bona Gingrass and Elzear Morin, and Mr. and Mrs. Goss.

According to the monthly bulletin posted Monday in the patrolmen's room at police headquarters, for assignments for October, Officer Roderick Lariviere will patrol Sodom; Office William Hurley, Jackson street; Officer Rudolph Laramee, Center beat; Officer Edward J. Leahy, West Main street. Officers Grant Bombria and Arthur Hurley, day and night traffic.

Albert Bandreau and Miss Cecile Proulx were married at St. Mary's church at eight o'clock Monday, Rev. J. J. Papillon, the pastor, performed the ceremony, also sang the nuptial high mass. The witnesses were Walter Proulx and Etienne Baudreau, fathers of the bride and groom respectfively.

Yom Kippur or the Day of Atonement was observed Monday by local Hebrews who attended services held at the synagogue by Rabbi Max Levine. The fast which started at sunset Sunday evening continued until sunset Monday.

The Baptist church in Moosup was crowded Sunday evening, at the last of the weekly union services. The service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. C. S. Nightingale, who had valuable assistance from the visiting ministers. Rev. Truman D. Child and Rev. George H. Higgins gave strong and helpful sermons. The scriptures were read by Rev. Edward St. John, of Canterbury Plains, and prayer was offered by Rev. G. Leon Wells, of Mogsup. A well rendered selection was given by a male quartet. A union service was announced to be held at Sterling Hill the last Sunday evening in October and a thanksgiving service at St. Paul's Episcopal church in Plainfield.

The meeting of the Boy Scouts is to be held Friday evening in the Congregational vestry.

Next Sunday is Rally day for the Congregational church and Sunday school. Wednesday evening the pastor's cabinet is to meet at the parsonage.

FRENCH FARMERS ALSO FLOCK TO CITIES

France, like America, is endeavoring to promote rural life and to check the influx of country people to the cities. At a recent meeting in Rouen of the National Confederation of Agricultural Societies the principal subjects of discussion were the needs of country schools, with criticism of present methods; special training for rural teachers, their salaries, and promotion; adaptation of study courses to country life; practical and experimental agriculture; and cooperation of teachers with agricultural societies in the interest of conservation of country life. —Otis A. Glazebrook, U. S. Consul at Nice.

Competition being the life of trade

JEWETT CITY

It is expected that a number of persons from the borough, among whom will be President Ben. Schlieffer of the Jewett City Chamber of commerce, will attend the hearing in Central Village Oct. 7. State Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald will be present, and will hear the local pro and con argument relative to the proposed re-routing of the state highway that now passes through the borough of Jewett City. At a meeting of the local chamber held last month at which time Herbert R. Branche, of Norwich, addressed the members, there seemed to be a sentiment against the re-location, mainly because it was believed the town's business interests would suffer materially if Jewett City were set off the main thoroughfare. At that time a new plan for a proposed survey was presented. It is here pointed out that the fatal Bishop's crossing with its all too long list of fatalities, can easily and with little outlay, be eliminated if the state road is taken up East Main street from David Hale Panning park, instead of North Main.

There is now and then a wonderful enthusiast who expects to see the bridging of the Ashinook reservoir at Pott's Point in Tadpole, so-called for the carrying of the new survey, but it seems to be pretty good dope, that the time is far removed from now when a half million dollars is thus unnecessarily expended.

Finnis tonight, "Cold Heels," great racetrack drama.—Adv.

Scout William Stebbins, Troop 1, of Jewett City, has fallen the first prize offered by Dr. R. H. Agnew, to boy scouts for excelling in angling.

The prize, a rod and reel, was fairly won on casting points and handling a game fish with a light rod. Possibly like father like son, the senior Stebbins is an out-of-doors man and a rifle marksman of note.

The thousands of patrons of the Rom theatre are anxious about the future of the borough's excellent moving picture shows. The management of the local theatre are putting on the finest reels every week. The attendance is evidence of the local public's appreciation of Mr. Barnett's efforts to please. Several hundreds of patrons all over the town signed the following petition Monday:

To His Excellency,
Governor John H. Trumbull:

To preserve my favorite amusement, and to forestall any additional cost of admission, as a result of the film tax law, I, the undersigned, respectfully urge Your Excellency to consider the calling of a special session of the General Assembly to consider this law.

The members of the Methodist Men's club Friday evening met in the vestry for the stated September gathering, with Robert W. Robertson in the chair. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. W. Carter, the pastor. The activities of the class were set forth by the report of the secretary and treasurer which served to show the satisfactory financial and social standing of the classes. Reports of progress were heard from the several committees. The new garage committee reported that the foundation was assured. As the ushers and collectors of the church are named by the class the following were appointed: Ushers, A. C. Burdick and Harold Mell. R. W. Robertson and O. H. Thornton were appointed collectors. After business was completed the following question was discussed: "Is a strike the best method of settling a dispute between employer and employes?"

Following the discussion the social committee served a delicious oyster stew with the usual accompanying good things.

The meeting closed with the singing of the class song, God be With You Till We Meet Again. In October the class is to meet at the home of Ransom Young in Griswold.

J. W. Hannan, a Master Mason, a member of Mt. Vernon of Jewett City, and a resident of Baltic, attended the Grand Masters' Day celebration at Wallingford, Saturday.

Officer Henry Vegiard, made an arrest Saturday and Sunday also. In Judge John T. Barry's Griswold town court Monday morning the men were presented by Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Dudkowski.

Stanley Cholewa, for intoxication and breach of the peace, paid $38.37.

Alfred M. O'Neil, was found driving a car with no registration, and he with no driver's license and with markers other than those belonging to the car.

O'Neil is from North Carolina and had to wire back home for the dough $55.37 all told.

The grand closing of the camping season was celebrated Sunday afternoon at Camp Sum Rest on the Quinebaug. First on the program was a very delicious chicken dinner prepared by the well known chefs—Terrible Terry and the Derby Brothers.

The menu was as follows:

Club Alabam Cocktails
Chicken Consomme
Mashed Potato Mashed Turnip
Brown Gravy Dressing
Cranberry Sauce Celery Rolls
Roast Chicken
Pie Cake Demi Tasse

Following this delicious spread the remainder of the afternoon was given over to entertainment. Several French songs were sung by the following quartet:

Arthur J. LeClaire, Walter Hebert, Edward Blanchard and George Rochleau. The well known pianist, Doc Lucier accompanied them on the organ.

Arthur J. LeClaire, proprietor of Camp Sum Rest, was called upon and gave a humorous account of his recent trip to Moosup.

The afternoon's entertainment was bright to a very happy conclusion by the playing of "Face to Face" by Dr. Lucier.

The following guests were present Mr. LeClaire, Edward Blanchard, Thomas Barnett, George Gagnon, Homer Gagnon, Walter Hebert, George Rochleau, George Lucier, William McGovern and Ernest Loranger.

Mrs. James McCusker gave a chicken supper, Thursday evening, in honor of the nineteenth birthday of her daughter Vivian. Those attending were Louis Bakanowski, Edward Dudkowski, Homer Gagnon, William Bakanowski, Francis McLaughlin, Helen Bakanowski, Theresa Foley and Antoinette Gaucher of Baltic and Ione Barstow, of Plainfield. Miss Vivian was presented a handsome piano by her mother. There were other gifts from the guests. Mrs. McCusker was assisted in entertaining by her daughter Helen.

The annual town meeting was held at the town house in Pachaug, Monday afternoon Dr. George H. Jennings was chairman and John Welsh, clerk.

The reports of the selectmen and other town officers were accepted.

James H. Shea, was appointed a member of the committee on the Daniel S. Anthony trust fund. The pay to town officers, and local physicians who serve the town is not changed from last year's vote.

The selectmen were authorized to borrow money for temporary use, and to pay any part of the town debt that can be paid.

In the action taken relative to the making of necessary repairs to the highways of the town, the selectmen will have power to apportion this matter as they deem proper.

A sum not to exceed $700 was appropriated for the district nurse.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

COST OF BEEF CALVES CUT BY USE OF RIGHT BULL

Buying a good herd bull is the first step in growing better beef calves at much less cost per pound, says the United States department of agriculture. In common or native cow herds, calves sired by purebred bulls weigh on an average about 125 pounds a head more when 1 year old than calves run of scrub bulls, and they will sell for about 2 cents a pound more as stockers and feeders. Two-year-old steers sired by good purebred bulls weigh on an average about 200 onunds more a head than steers sired by scrub bulls, and sell for considerably more as stockers and feeders.

There is practically no difference in the cost of feed for the two classes of calves up to the yearling age, but from that time on grades develop more capacity and require more feed than scrubs. The difference in cost of feed, however, is a very small item when the values are taken into consideration. The big difference lies in the type of bull used.

Having selected a good bull, he should be the best-cared-for individual in the herd. Not only should he have special feed at times, but he should be kept in a separate paddock or lot and should not have the freedom of the herd except during limited seasons of the year. Unless a special lot can be provided, some means of giving the bull exercise should be devised.

The bull should be well fed during all seasons, but especially so just previous to the breeding season. His ration may consist of roughages mainly, but a small quantity of grain also should be used. The exact quantities of feed that should be given depend largely upon the size, age, and individuality of the animal, and the ration must be varied according to requirements. As a general rule excessive quantities of silage should not be fed to a bull doing heavy service. A safe rule to follow is to feed one-half as much silage as would constitute a full ration for an average cow.

WINTERING CALVES ON GRAIN TOO COSTLY FOR GAINS MADE

In wintering calves the use of grain in the ration increases the cost of wintering very materially and does not sufficiently increase the total gains at the time or subsequently to justify the additional expense, says the United States department of agriculture. This conclusion was reached from the results of a series of experiments carried on by the department in cooperation with the West Virginia experiment station in which grade Shorthorn, Hereford, and Aberdeen Angus calves were used to determine the effect of different winter rations on gains the following summer.

One lot of calves receiving a ration of mixed hay and a grain mixture of 3 parts corn, 1 part bran, and 1 part linseed meal made a winter gain of 98 pounds each, which was more than twice as much as another lot, which was fed corn silage and clover hay. The latter drove, however, made a greater gain the following summer on pasture and lacked only 42 pounds of reaching the same total as the grain-fed calves. The cost of the grain ration through the winter did not justify the extra gains, says the department.

In fact, the experiment was carried until the calves were 3 years old, in which time the advantage in weight due to grain feeding the first winter was practically all lost by the time they were 3 years old.

ORCHARD CULTIVATING

Horticulturists at the New York state agricultural experiment station at Geneva strongly advocate cultivating New York apple orchards during the summer and planting cover crops in the fall, because of the decided advantages of this practice over a permanent sod for most New York fruit districts as revealed by long-continued experiments and by personal observation throughout the state. Orchardists who question the merits of clean cultivation are urged to cultivate a small part of their plantings and to note the almost immediate response of the trees in increased vigor and progressiveness.

"In one of the station experiments the average yield for a ten-year period from an orchard left in sod was 69.16 barrels per acre as compared with 116.8 barrels per acre from an orchard which was cultivated duing the same ten-year period," says the station horticulturist in commenting on this subject. "Every means for measuring the growth and vigor of the trees in orchards left in sod and those which were cultivated showed a decided increase for the cultivated orchard.

"The beneficial effects of cultivation may be attributed to many factors, among the most important of which is the saving in soil moisture which would otherwise be utilized by the sod and the elimination of the competition between the trees and the sod for the plant food supply of the soil. It is well known to fruit growers that nursery stock can be successfully grown only under the most intensive cultivation; and it stands to reason that when placed in the orchard the trees should not be subjected to radically different methods of handling. Also, insect pests and diseases may be more readily controlled in cultivated orchards.

NO MORE ADULTERATED HONEY

Only 16 cases of misbranded or adulterated honey have been found by federal inspectors since the passage of the federal food and drugs act in 1906, and no cases whatever have been reported since 1920. Previous to the passage of this act adulteration of extracted honey with cheap sirups was a common practice, and it was sometimes difficult to purchase pure honey except directly from the man who produced it. Today there is practically no adulterated honey on the market. Honey is sometimes used to flavor and sweeten cheap sirups, but in such instances the mixture must not be sold as honey.

The public is still very skeptical about buying extracted honey from the grocer or marketman for fear that it is not pure. One reason for this is, of course, the fact that formerly adulterated honey could be found everywhere, and many people believe even now that it is impossible to buy pure honey except in the comb. There are also many who consider that all comb honey is artificial, it being beyond their comprehension that bees could build such pure white, symmetrical sections.

The average housewife, who knows little about honey, is often discouraged after making a purchase on discovering that her honey has started to cloud or even granulate. The chances are that she has handled the honey in the same manner that she handles other classes of food, and has put it in the ice box, the worst possible place to keep honey. Cold hastens granulation; honey should, therefore, be kept in some clean, warm place. Well-ripened honey except when left exposed to dampness, will not spoil under any circumstances. One reason for this is that none of the common forms of bacteria, such, for instance, as those causing rotting, can possibly live in honey. Granulation, however, does not impair the value of the honey. Granulated honey can be spread like butter, and if it is not desired in this form it may be liquified by placing the container of honey in a vessel of warm water until all crystals and cloudiness have disappeared.

MANY NOTABLES TO ATTEND PARLIAMENTARIANS' SESSION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—An imposing array of foreign parliamentarians will gather in Washington for the deliberations of the Interparliamentary Union October 1.

M. Herriot, former premier of France, say advices to the headquarters of the American group here, will probably attend. The daughter of Premier Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain, Lady Huntington-Whiteley, will accompany her husband, Sir Herbert Huntington-Whiteley. The Right Hon. Sir Robert Horne, former Chancellor of the Exchequer and prominent in parliamentary life, is another outstanding figure in the British delegation. Brigadier General E. L. Spears, of the British Army, an authority on demilitarized zones, is likewise prominent. One of the most striking personages in the British gathering is S. Saklatvala, a leading Communist of India.

Dr. Fernand Merlin, Senator Beaumont and Pierre Renaudel are eminent in the group from France. Germany is sending five woman delegates with Mme. Clara Mende, one of the most prominent. Dr. Josef Karl Wirth, former Chancellor, Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, Profesor Richard Eickhoff and Dr. Walter Schucking are notable in the German delegation.

Norway is sending its Minister of Foreign Affairs, John Ludwig Mowinskel. The Irish Free State has as prominent members in its delegation Sir Thomas Grattan Esmonde and General Richard Mulcahy. Newfoundland will have the Hon. Cyril K. Fox, Speaker of the Assembly, and Mon. Sir Patrick T. McGrath, outstanding in its delegation. Bulgaria's representation is headed by Vladimir Molloff.

ROB CRIPPLES AS THEY SEEK CURE AT SHRINE

LOURDES, France, Sept. 28—(AP)—Posted on the walls of the miraculous grotto here, journey's end for so many pilgrims from all parts of the world, there is a placard which reads: "Look out for your pocket-book."

Above the heap of crutches abandoned by the devout in testimony of cures there is another; and by the sacred fountain there is a third. Faith in the healing powers of the shrine brings the pilgrim, and faith in the fatness of the pilgrim's scrip has brought the picket and the conman.

The best plainclothes men from Paris, on duty at Lourdes, have caught as many as six pickpockets in a single morning. Often the thieves are young girls trained by older adepts, who are mostly old offenders fearful of the heavy punishment dealt out in France to the habitual criminal.

Lourdes is crowded in the summer with a great variety of nationalities and that means a vast variety of wallets. The thoughts of the devout when they buy candles for the shrine or gather about the pile of discarded crutches are preoccupied and abstracted. They do not resent chance elbowing or jostling nor feel the hand that slips the wallet from its resting place.

LEARNS WHY INSECTS SLEEP THROUGH WINTER

MOSCOW, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Russian scientist M. Bachmejew has determined that the temperature of insects increases in direct proportion to their activity.

Butterflies, he claims, furnished much valuable enlightenment on the problem of the winter's sleep of the insect species. He found that when butterflies were placed in a colder atmospheric medium, their temperature immediately began to drop and continued on the downward scale until a certain point was reached, whereupon the temperature would suddenly shoot up again nearly to normal and then register slighter drops. But this experiment was only possible once. When tried a second time, the butterfly invariably died.

Bachmetjew came to the conclusion that the secretions of butterflies are cooled by a lower atmospheric temperature and even frozen when the lowest point is reached. The rise of temperature after this freezing point he attributes to the liberation of the animal heat during the freezing process.

This ability of insects to support a cooling down of their secretions, without actually freezing, the scientists thinks is the secret of their being able to sleep through the winter.

Irish Finger Print Babies

DUBLIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—An increase in the number of deserted babies prompted the Union Commissioners to order that finger prints be taken of babies under three months of age who are discharges from the maternity hospital of Pelletstown. The action was inspired by a letter from Miss Duggan, a woman barrister, who pointed out that such a scheme would facilitate the police in discovering the mother or foster mother of a deserted child.

Dublin Passport Area Enlarged

DUBLIN, Sept. 28.—(AP)—In October the Free State counties of Cavan, Monoghan, Leitrim and Donegal will be transferred to the Dublin area for passport purposes to the United states. Formerly persons in those counties were obliged to get their passports through Belfast.

When the change is made the Belfast office will deal only with applicants from the six Ulster counties. The Belfast office at present has an average of 70 applications a day.

A MILL IN OPERATION

In connection with the department display of Windsor Washanredy Krinkle, we have in our large display window, west of main entrance, a miniature reproduction of the Windsor Print Works, picturing in detail the manufacturing processes of Windsor Washanredy Krinkle. This exhibit, which is very interesting, will be on display for this week only.

Drive Nets Bushels of Flies

TOKYO, Sept. 28 (AP)—Residents of Asakusa ward caught nearly 15 bushels of flies on a fly extermination day. One hundred and eleven streets each had its ingenious device of capture and offered prizes of one sen per 20 flies, glass fly-catchers, silver watch, cotton piece goods and a paper umbrella.

BIBLE TO BE TAUGHT IN TENNESSEE SCHOOLS

The state board of education at its meeting June 19 authorized the teaching of the Bible in all the schools. The following resolution was adopted on the motion of Governor Peay:

"Resolved, That the board of education of Tennessee hereby approves the inclusion of the Bible in the curriculum of elective studies for which schools may give credit.

"To this end the commissioner of education is authorized to appoint a committee of five representatives of the Protestants, Catholic, and Jewish faiths of our state, all of which have the Bible as the basis of their moral and spiritual instruction, to formulate a syllabus of Bible study, and a plan for teaching same which committee shall report as promptly as convenient to the state board of education for final approval of its recommendations."

JEWS ACQUIRE 5 P. C. OF LAND IN PALESTINE'S MANDATED AREA

The total area of land purchased in Palestine by Jews now exceeds 1,000,000 dunams, according to a report issued by the Jewish National Fund, says The New Palestine. The Fund has acquired or contracted to acquire 184,621 dunams, in addition to which decision has been taken to acquire another 62,700 dunams.

Altogether the area of land owned by Jews will now amount to 5.5 per cent of the mandated area, as compared with 3.7 per cent at the time of the last Zionist congress in 1923.

An important factor in connection with the future acquision of land is the decision of the international congress of Sephardic Jews, which was held recently in Vienna, to raise a $1,000,000 fund for the purpose of assisting the agricultural colonization of Sephardic Jews in Palestine.

Sephardic Jewish communities in the British empire pledged large sums for this fund. The rest will be raised among the Sephardic Jewish communities in the United States where a special delegation will be sent. The pioneers of the Sephardic settlements in Palestine will be recruited from the Balkan countries.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A youth of about 20 stole the touring car of Rene Caron Monday morning, drove it nearly to Willimantic and abandoned it in the highway after he had caused the motor to "freeze" by hard driving, the oil supply being low. In 35 minutes from the time the car was stolen it was in the hands of state officers stationed at Willimantic.

Mr Caron, who is in the office of the Main street plant of the Paco Manufacturing company, had his attention attracted to the street about 9 a. m. by the grinding of gears in the transmission of a car evidently being driven by a person who did not know how to handle it smoothly. The car was Mr. Caron's—left parked outside the mill office.

Dashing out to get another car and pursue, Mr. Caron lost a couple of minutes until a machine could be obtained and then put after the chief, who had gone across the bridge into Brooklyn and was heading west. At Brooklyn a state highway leads on to Willimantic and another branches toward Wauregan. At this point the chase was abandoned, as there was no way to determine which way the car had been headed. State officers were notified and broadcasted to various points including Willimantic, a description of the car and its number. The effort resulted in the prompt recovery of the stolen machine, which was at a garage here Monday afternoon for repairs.

Mr Caron had a good look at the young man who stole the car as he was getting away with it. He was a stranger wearing a powder blue suit of jazz style—bell bottom trousers et al.

It was learned that upon abandoning the Caron car near Willimantic he hailed a passing machine and asked for a ride, probably representing that he wanted to be taken to a garage in Willimantic in order to arrange for repairs for the stalled machine.

The body of Mrs. George L. Sweet was brought to Brooklyn for burial, following funeral services held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William R. Pond, in New Britain. The bearers were Frank J. Lamb, of Attleboro, William R. Pond, James A. Danielson and Everett W. Sweet. Mrs. Sweet, a resident of Brooklyn for many years, was a woman devoted to her children, her home and the church.

Delegates from many towns are expected here today (Tuesday) to attend the 101st annual conference of the Ashford association at the Baptist church. There will be morning and afternoon sessions. A dinner is to be served

Approach of the annual town meeting brings more general discussion of a clause in the warning under which the voters will consider appropriating $150,000 for proposed additions to Killingly high school. This matter is the most important one that will come before the meeting, providing, of course, that the town approves and adopts the plans of a special committee providing for high school expansion.

September compensated Monday, by turning on the heat, for the freezing ill inflicted on this territory the past week. Monday afternoon found the mercury registering 84 degrees, a drop from the low point of 28 recorded here the past week. This change of 56 degrees within a week was sought what trying on a great many people.

A delegation from Danielson will be at the Central Village hearing, having to do with a proposal for what is termed the re-locating of the Danielson-Norwich state highway. Re-locating is a word that is accepted by some as meaning that the present route between Danielson and Central Village is to be abandoned. Probably this will not be done, at least Danielson would protest against this. If the present route is to be maintained and the other road built as an auxiliary highway, that is an entirely different thing. "Re-locating" does not sound well to Danielson, though the word may have been loosely used in publicity pertaining to the coming hearing.

The first fall meeting of the Ruff-about club is to be held Thursday with Mrs. R. M. Tyrell, of North street.

Mrs. E. H. Keach, regent of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., and Mrs. C. H. Kingsbury, a former regent of the chapter, will be at the meeting at the Ellsworth home, on the 30th.

Danielson Hebrews observed Yom Kippur Monday, numbers of them being absent from town and attending services in nearby cities.

There are no changes in the final closing time of the evening mail at the Danielson post office because of the change in train schedules now effective. The office is closing at 6:30 p. m. for the day, as has been the rule for a long time past.

A story that could not be checked up Monday was to the effect that a man with a revolver in his hand had attempted to leap on the running board of a car running at night on the Willimantic road near Stetson's corner in West Brooklyn. The driver, it is related, evaded the man by speeding up his car.

South Woodstock has a strange pair of pals—Dick, a horse 33 years old, and Jane, a cow of the age of four years. They are the property of Gustave Erickson. Dick is spending his declining years grazing about a pasture. In another pasture Jane feeds each day. At 5 o'clock each evening the pair meet on the way to the stables and invariably have a nose rubbing period, by way of greeting. Following this Jane takes Dick in hand for his daily grooming, lapping the horse's sleek coat as a cat cares for a kitten. This over, they proceed to their stalls, parting with another good night rub of noses.

There were large audiences at the Orpheum theatre Monday, to see the showing of The Ten Commandments, a film of unusual interest.

Cashier Francis E. Storer of the Windham County National bank, will be in Boston on a business trip today (Tuesday).

Eugene C. Milton returned to his home in Holyoke Monday after a visit with friends in Danielson.

PUTNAM

Rapid progress is being made on the new Memorial bridge over the Quinebaug. A large force of carpenters is building the wooden forms, in arch shape, which are to serve as moulds for the concrete. The abutments on either side are almost as high as the specifications call for. The contractor feels confident that the bridge if not entirely completed will be so far along on Armistice day that it can be crossed. That is the date of its dedication and for which an elaborate program has been arranged.

There is a great deal of local interest in the hearing to be held at the Municipal building Wednesday morning by the State utilities commission on the applications for permits for five bus lines, some of which are over routes where buses are now running.

In a Cleveland, Ohio, paper there is a full page advertisement announcing the opening of a new restaurant by Bohanon and Haines, for the past eighteen years in the restaurant business in that city. Mr. Bohanon, the senior partner, is E. C. Bohanon, formerly of Putnam. Mr. Bohanon was for a number of years an overseer in the Hammond and Knowlton Silk mill, but later bought the shoe store of A. M. Parker which he conducted until he sold out to B. D Bugbee and went to the middle west.

GEN. ISRAEL PUTNAM STARS IN NEW BOOK BY DON C. SEITZ

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 28—The people of Putnam, Pomfret, Ashford and Phoenixville are naturally interested in the biography of General Israel Putnam written by Don C. Seitz and just published under the title of Uncommon Americans. It is a brief life story of twenty-two Americans who became famous, according to the author, because they were so different from their neighbors, and capitalized that difference along with their ability.

He lists the sayings and doings of Gen. Israel Putnam in his belief that next to Washington, he enjoys the greatest fame as an American soldier. That eliminates Nathaniel Green, Robert E. Lee, Grant, Stonewall Jackson, and many others. His reference to him as the Warrior of Pomfret is hardly correct as the Wolf Den, the location of one of his exploits, which is situated there, is his only important connection with that town.

The author says that he was "a corking fighter and still better as a man. He never strained to be unusual. He was himself, bluff and hearty and beloved of the men in the ranks because in no sense a soldier-politician. Putnam was the youngest of a dozen children; ran the farm at 18, tamed a vicious bull by donning spurs and riding the beast until the animal bellowed "enough"; gained repute as the single-handed slayer of a shewolf which had haunted the neighborhood like the "Hound of the Baskervilles."; married Hannah Pope at 21; served all through the Seven Years War; distinguished himself in several battles and came within an ace of being burned at the stake by the Conawaughas Indians. At the beginning of the American Revolution, although 57 and a temporary widower with seven children he galloped 100 miles in eighteen hours after news had reached him of the "shot heard around the world" at Lexington. He was at Bunker Hill with William Prescott. The famous command, "Don't shoot till you see the whites of their eyes" is sometimes attributed to him. But the most unusual remark, one that could have been composed only in the white heat of hurry, was the grimly humorous reply to Sir Henry Clinton. While in command at Stony Point, Putnam caught one Edmund Palmer, an English agent, within his lines. He was held as a spy. Sir Henry Clinton sent Captain Montague in the Mercury to claim Palmer as a Lieutenant in his majesty's service. The answer was a military gem:

Headquarters, 7 August, 1777.

Edmund Palmer, an officer in the enemy's service, was taken as a spy lurking within our lines; he has been tried as a spy, condemned as a spy and shall be executed as a spy, and the flag is ordered to depart immediately.

ISRAEL PUTNAM

P. S.—He has been accordingly executed.

Pomfret also comes into the book again as the residence at one time of James A. McNeill Whistler, who lived there for a few years in his early youth, and is one of the 22 Americans dealt with by Mr. Seitz.

As if that were not enough for one town, a volume has just been issued from the press dedicated to the memory of Bertram Grosvenordale Goodhue, distinguished architect, who was the builder of St. Bartholomew's and who replaced the burned St. Thomas, on its old site; both are New York churches. The text is by five architects and a sculptor, all of whom knew him well.

Goodhue was a descendant of settlers in Windham County, had forebears of note in the Revolution and was born in 1869, at Pomfret. To prepare for Yale, the college of all true blue Connecticuters, he was sent as a boy to a military school at New Haven for a couple of years, but nature interested him more than books. Such education as he had he absorbed from the Rev. Mr. Burgess, now Bishop of Rhode Island. At 15 an office boy, then a draftsman for four years in New York with the Architects Renwick, Aspinwall and Russell, he went to Boston to become head draftsman with Cram and Wentworth. Then he formed one of the firm of Cram, Goodhue and Ferguson.

Steve Hnatuk was before the borough court Monday morning charged with non-support of his wife and children, also with assault upon his wife. Judge Heald ordered him to pay $10 per week toward the support of his family. The defendant transferred his interest in a farm which he owned near Moose Meadow to his wife On the charge of assaulting his wife he paid a fine of $10 and costs, a total of $26.76. Hnatuk has been living in New York for several months and made periodical visits to his family but did little toward their support. July 11th he came here and after an argument with his wife he struck her. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

TWO BULLETS FIRED AT CAR NELSON MARROTTE DROVE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 23.—Bullet holes in a car owned by Nelson Marrottee, of Maple street, were inspected with interest Monday morning by numbers of persons who were quick to appreciate what a narrow escape from injury and possibly death Mr. Marrotte experienced, about 10:30 Sunday night when two shots were fired at the machine by some person unknown and unseen.

The incident occurred on the state highway leading from Brooklyn to Wauregan, near where a country highway leads off to the farm on which Mr. Marrotte's parents reside. There is every reason to believe that the attack on Mr. Marrotte was premeditated and malicious.

Mr. Marrotte was returning to his home in Danielson after a visit at the home of his parents. Out of the darkness at his left came the bark of a revolver—two shots fired in rapid succession. One of the bullets pierced the door of the car, passed between Mr. Marrotte and the steering post of the car and out through the other door. The other bullet crashed through the side of the car near the top.

The crash of bullets against the side of the machine sent Mr. Marrotte away at high speed. Mr. Marrotte saw no one and is at a loss to account for what likely was intended as a deadly attack. It came very near being that, for the bullet that passed through the doors of the car could have missed him only by inches.

Examination of the bullet holes indicate they were made by a missile from a 32-calibre revolver.

The section where the attack occurred is lonely at night. There is much wooded territory close to the state road, so that it would be easy for a person making such an attack as was made on Marrotte to have an excellent chance of getting away without being detected.

There is a possibility that there was an intention to get possession of the car, but this theory is discarded by many who point out that this could have been more surely accomplished by a straight hold-up. An investigation of the matter was being made by the police Monday.

ARTIFICIAL LEG FOR ENGLISH DOG BEING PREPARED

Paddy, a fox terrier, belonging to Robert Gravell, of the Old Crown inn, Lincoln, has only three legs, but she can hold her own with any other dog at ratting, and soon she is to be fitted with an artificial leg now being made for her in London, says The London News.

Paddy lost her leg four months ago. She was out with Mr. Gavell's little daughter, Marjorie, and was run over by a van. She was taken to a veterinarian to be destroyed, but owing to the child's tearful entreaties the surgeon was urged to do everything he could to save the dog. The surgeon put the dog under an anaesthetic and amputated one of her front legs. She is now waiting for an artificial leg of aluminum and has completely recovered.

Paddy is quite happy on three legs and is once more a terror to rats. Of her feats, one is to climb a runged ladder into a loft where the enemy abound. And it is all done on three legs.

The majority may rule if the minority isn't made up of women.

Letters Like This Prove the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Turtle Lake, Wisconsin. — "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness, backache and nervousness. I had these troubles for years and had taken other medicines for them, but I have found no medicine so good as the Vegetable Compound and I recommend it to my friends who have troubles similar to mine. I saw it advertised and thought I would try it and it has helped me in all my troubles. I have had six children and I have taken the Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound before each one was born, for weakness, vomiting, poor appetite and backache, and again after childbirth because of dizzy headaches. It is a good medicine for it always helps me. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for the last eight years for constipation." — Mrs. MABEL LA POINT, R. F. D. Mother!
Look daily for film on child's teeth

That's often a danger sign of tooth and gum troubles. If the dentifrice you now use doesn't combat it successfully, it's inadequate. How to combat it the new way in child's tooth care specialists recommend.

FOREMOST dental authorities now advise a new way in caring for a child's teeth and gums. A way different in formula, action and effect from any other method.

As a nation-wide hygienic movement, a 10-day test is offered mothers free.

You are urged to make it. To see what modern science is doing for the better protection of children's teeth and gums. Simply use the coupon.

What film indicates. Why it must be fought several times daily

Look at your child's teeth. If cloudy, dull, discolored, there's a film. And that film is often a danger sign. The child can feel it by running his tongue across his teeth.

Ordinary tooth pastes won't combat it successfully. Try the one you now use. See if the film does not still remain.

• • • • •

Film is a viscous coat that clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It makes pearly teeth ugly, discolored—dingy. Many a child is handicapped in this way.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Pretty Teeth and Firm Gums

Now modern science has found a safe way to combat film.

This new method, embodied in the tooth paste called Pepsodent, provides the scientifically proved combatant that is being adopted by the people of some 50 nations. Its action is to curdle the film, then harmlessly to remove it; then to firm the gums.

Test Tube Free

Don't you think it worth while, in justice to your children, and in fairness to yourself, to try it for ten days? The test will cost you nothing. Use the coupon for a 10-day tube, free.

THE TOWN REPORT

A report that will be read with keen interest is that which is made by the board of selectmen relative to the accomplishments of the past year, and the outlook for the year to come.

Even though Norwich, like other towns, now fixes the rate of taxation after it has been established what the new grand list is the board of selectmen headed by William S. Murray has not only been able to carry out the directions of the annual town meeting with excellent results but has been able to defray certain sizeable and unexpected expenditures. This indicates an efficient administration of town affairs which cannot fail to make its impression upon the townspeople. It represents good government, that careful administration of public affairs with the same careful consideration for results as would be given to private business.

This is not the first time in recent years that the selectmen have been able to meet the expense of unexpected bridge replacements out of the funds on hand, but the careful manner in which the entire business has been conducted is not only reflected therein but in the meeting of the expense involved in the changes at the almshouse without resorting to borrowing.

This means that the interests of the taxpayers have been carefully served and safeguarded and this excellent business policy leaves the town affairs in such shape at the close of the year that the necessary expenses for the coming year can be met by an eight mill tax, including the new expense involved each year in connection with the serial bonds floated during the year, a reduction of a half mill over last year.

The stewardship of the board of selectmen, headed by W. S. Murray, is thus one which cannot fail to make a strong and favorable appeal to every resident of the town. It displays such a handling of town affairs as the townspeople desire and which they should be more than anxious to have continued.

DESERTING THE S-51

In connection with the ramming and sinking of the submarine S-51 off Block Island criticism of Captain Dichi of the City of Rome has been offered because he failed to keep his vessel at the spot for such service as he might render until some other help arrives.

As if to forestall such criticism Captain Diehl, in giving an account of the affair, explained that he remained at the scene as long as he could do anything and after fixing the locality considered it unnecessary to remain longer.

From developments it appears that there was no harm done because of the departure of the City of Rome. There were no chances for rescue following its leaving, though there could have been no attack made upon the captain's conduct had he kept his ship there ready for an emergency, instead of saying that he would gladly have done so had there been any call for it.

There have been instances where submarines have gone down that men have been shot out of the torpedo tubes. So far as known there was no chance for any such action at this time, but it is to be realized that had it been done two or three hours after the submarine sank there would have been no means of rescue for the crew who was sent to the surface. It was because of the possibility of such a development that criticism of Captain Diehl's action was made, though it seems probable now that no such attempt was made and nothing could have been done by the City of Rome had it remained.

There are circumstances connected with the sinking of the submarine on which light can be shed only through an official inquiry. Even then the probable loss of the officers and all but three of the crew will make it difficult to establish the facts from the standpoint of the submarine and learn just why it was impossible for the two vessels to pass in the great expanse of water instead of coming together.

GEORGIA MOVES

Commencing the first of next year there will go into effect in the state of Georgia a new law which prohibits the employment under the age of 14 years in manufacturing industry, forbids the employment between the ages of 14 and 16 between the hours of 7 p. m. and 6 a. m., prohibits the employment of children under 16 in hazardous occupations, requires certificates showing the age of 14 has been attained, that ability to read and write the English language has been acquired and that physical condition for employment is satisfactory.

That change is all the more interesting because it is being made in Georgia, one of the state where much had been said in regard to the employment of small children in the mills and one of the commonwealths which was held up as a reason for passing a federal child labor law.

Georgia is following in the footsteps of other southern states where reforms have been underway for some time. Whether Georgia has been misrepresented as it seems to feel, regarding its child labor, it has apparently been driven to action in dealing with its own child labor problem through the efforts that have been put forth in behalf of a federal law. Thus though the nation has repudiated such an amendment to the constitution of the United States as was proposed the wisdom of taking up and remedy is own ills instead of encouraging efforts to such an end through federal channels seems to have been recognized.

Regardless of the number of children being employed in Georgia under the age of 14 it will stand out to its credit that it has adopted laws calculated to deal with this situation even though it has been spurred on through attempts at federal legislation. It has taken action that has long been delayed and it sets an example to the remaining southern states where child labor is tolerated. The quicker they set about the house cleaning that it so much needed the quicker they will get away from threatened molestion through the medium of federal laws.

Having seen a light in regard to providing its own child labor legislation Georgia should be equally concerned about enforcing it.

TRAFFIC IMPROVEMENTS

No sooner is one traffic problem met than another develops. Meeting the situation calls for frequent changes and restriction of the established rules.

Perhaps there has been none made of recent date that will serve to overcome awkward situations and relieve congestion more than those which have to do with Franklin square.

Just why the traffic going east in Main street and intending to go into Franklin street should ever have been required to circle a beacon set up nearly opposite Ferry street is something which no one has ever been able to satisfactorily explain. It has been the cause of serious complications and been a hindrance rather than a help to traffic. Large trucks have been obliged to back twice in order to negotiate the turn while traffic in both directions had to wait. The mistake of that arrangement has at last been recognized and greatly modified. Whether it is enough remains to be seen.

The second betterment that will serve to relieve frequent congestion is the establishment of a no parking area along the north side of Main street from Franklin square west. Here the narrow strip between the cartack and the sidewalk made it impossible for westbound traffic to move when the Laurel Hill car was coming into the square. Traffic might have proceeded but for the parked cars, but at that point it requires but a few minutes delay to have the entire square tied up when much traffic is moving. With no cars permitted to park at that point relief that has long been needed will be furnished. The changes provide for a better use of the street and less congestion. They have been dictated as the result of the test that has been made of the previous arrangement—and are probably only the forerunners of others which must be expected in the future as traffic increases and the problems multiply.

EDITORIAL NOTES

One report says, "Virginia apples moving rapidly." How about the Connecticut apples?

The man on the corner says: The cynic gets his happiness out of declaring there is no such thing.

George Washington it is said never burned any anthracite. It isn't recalled that he burned up any highways either.

It hasn't been so announced but it is possible the coal miners are banking on that claim that there's to be no summer in 1926.

When the Mexican congressmen abandon the practice of carrying pistols at their session will they be inclined to follow the Chinese and carry hatchets?

New England is prepared to go just as far in the use of substitutes for hard coal as it is driven. The harder the pressure the easier it will be to make the change.

Even though it may be claimed that General Butler has not succeeded in cleaning up Philadelphia, it cannot be said that he did not make a conscientious try against big odds.

While one may have no way of checking up the statement that there is five billion dollars in cash in circulation in this country he is positive about the difficulties in stopping it.

The fellow who nearly ran down President Coolidge claimed to have missed him by nearly 20 feet. Most anyone would be satisfied to be missed by that distance, if it was real and not imaginary.

DELIGHTFUL DREAMS

"A woman," began the girl who likes to talk, "a woman may be desperately interested in a lot of things, six children who are the smartest on earth, new window curtains and a freshly discovered brand of wrinkleless face cream, but the green earth doesn't hold anything that absorbs her attention as much as the family of the man she might have married and didn't.

"I remember once meeting a woman at a party who was then wearing a dress I had tried on the week before and liked, but hadn't bought. I suppose my sharp thrill of excitement that was almost pain and indignation is akin to the feeling a woman has when she meets Mrs. John X. Rocks, wife of the Jack Rocks who was so crazy about her that summer after graduation! Why, when she stops to recall how Jack acted during those glorious summer days and evenings there isn't a bit of doubt in the world that he really was intensely, madly in love with her.

"She has a distinctly complacent feeling of pity for the unsuspecting woman who is now his wife, who does not realize the pinnacle of her husbands' affectations which she never may reach. And then it dawns on the first woman, narrowly watching Mrs. Rocks over the shoulder of her bridge partner that this slighted wife is really horribly happy and cheerful looking. Dear Jack! So keenly honorable and conscientious that he has made it his life job to prevent his bride ever suspecting the tragic truth—that she is merely the second choice.

"Yet—here the first woman trumps her partner's ace—yet this being so, why on earth did he marry her at all? Why did he not remain true to his real self? No doubt the girl showed so plainly that she was crazy about him that he hadn't the heart to hurt her—that must be it!

"Here the busy thinker throws away four good tricks by leading from the wrong side. What was that really remarkable poem Jack had written for her birthday, about the glittering gold of her hair and the light in her violet eyes—and here his wife is a deep brunette! Why, times without number Jack had told her vehemently that brunettes were nothing in his life and he couldn't see why any one thought them beautiful! Marveling over this mystery, she has to be told three times that it is time to change partners, and, please, how many honors did she hold?

"Probably, she meditates, he picked out a brunette because after his disastrous affection for herself the poor man could not bear to see another blond around the premises.

"The fact that Mrs. Rocks is beautifully and skillfully dressed and evidently knows how to make the most of her hair and complexion is no balm. Almost a direct insult—well, let the poor thing fancy she is making a hit anyhow! Children? Good grief, did she hear her mention her little girl and small son? Jack with children of his own? Anyhow, they can't be as nice as her own children—poor Jack!

"Why did he have to fall so violently in love with her when it was hopeless? And why on earth was it, all things being equal, that she had not been able to make up her mind to take him? Not that she is not utterly happy with Tom and wouldn't change him for the world—but she just wonders. What if they were addressing herself as Mrs. Rocks instead of that woman? In that case Tom wouldn't be miserable, because he never would have met her until after she was married to Jack. The dickens, but that mixes things up frightfully—Tom meeting her and never noticing her or asking her to marry him or anything! She leans over suddenly, trying to see whether Mrs. Rocks' engagement diamond is bigger than her own.

"What a funny feeling to think that square-cut emerald set in diamonds might at this minute be adorning her own hand! Not, of course, that it is in the same class as her own pear-shape solitaire stone! She watches the way Mrs. Rocks smiles, talks, eats, walks and breathes and is so abstracted when she gets home that she salts her strawberries and puts catchup in her after-dinner coffee! There's only one thing will put an end to her absorption!"

"What?" asked the patient listener.

"Meeting Jack himself and having to explain to the stupid thing who she is and when it was she used to know him." said the girl who likes to talk.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

50-50.

Mr. Editor: Would it not be fine if 50-50 could be applied to our clocks? We just changed them 60 minutes. Why not change them 30 minutes in the spring and let them stay there the year around? It would save a lot of trouble and mistakes. Cannot we all afford to give in a little and shake hands and say we will meet you half way and agree to the 30 minute change, as we all feel that dependable time is very necessary?

H. F. D.

Norwich, Sept. 28, 1925.

Golden Rule Sunday.

Mr. Editor: May I call the attention of your readers to the new emphasis placed on the Golden Rule as a guiding principle in international relations, by the action of the recent congress of nations in Stockholm, which appointed December 6th for international observance as Golden Rule Sunday on behalf of the orphans of the near east?

The Golden Rule is now recognized as the most universal proposition for human conduct ever offered for the attention of mankind.

In the whole circumference of life, there is no point that it fails to touch. From every angle of experience it confronts conscience with a commanding law. For every question of duty it has an imperative answer, for every human relation a flawless solution. If men and women would all observe it, every clash and friction that sets up ill will would disappear.

The Golden Rule teaches all citizens to observe and preserve the supremacy of laws, government and justice, sincerely dedicated to common and equal rights for every class of people.

It teaches all statesmen to uphold fair dealings, irreproachable honor and the sympathies of unfailing human good will, alike in national and in international politics.

It teaches all nations to seek and find the way by which every people's aspirations for life, liberty and worthy development may be satisfied, without trenching on the rights of neighbors or sowing seeds of enmity in the field of the world's peace.

It teaches the prosperous and happy everywhere to open hands of bounty to the poor, the miserable, deprived and hopeless throughout the globe.

Surely no observance can have a wider appeal or a greater potential usefulness than Golden Rule Sunday on December 6th.

Yours truly,
C. V. VICKREY,
General Secretary,
Near East Relief.

From Small Beginnings

Nathan B. Forrest, the Blacksmith Leader of the Ku-Klux Klan

Today much is said concerning the Ku-Kluz Klan. Everybody knows that an organization by that name was called into being shortly after the close of the Civil war. In the days of reconstruction there came a time when it was necessary for the men of the south to unite to defend themselves from unscrupulous people who were only too ready to take advantage of arter-war conditions. The method of self-defence that was chosen was the secret society.

In the novel Red Rock, Thomas Nelson Page, a southern writer, shows that the original founders of the Ku-Klux Klan were moved by lofty purposes, but that evil men, cloaking themselves under the name, brought about disgraceful conditions. However that may be, it is said that one of the founders of the Ku-Klux Klan was Gen. Nathan B. Forrest, the great Confederate cavalry leader. Indeed, he is reputed to have been the brains of the organization.

Nathan B. Forrest, at the beginning of the Civil War, was 40 years of age. At that time he was a rich cotton grower in Mississippi. His father had been a humble blacksmith who could do little for his son. Nathan Forrest, the boy, played in the blacksmith shop, and when he grew old enough he helped his father. Aside from a period of a few months, he stayed away from school altogether. Thus he was handicapped in the very beginning, both by poverty and by lack of education. Having associated with his father, and become familiar with horses, he became a buyer and seller of horses and of cattle. In this work he did well, for he knew the good qualities of horses especially, and so he moved on to something that would be more profitable.

In his day slavery was a recognized institution, and a slave trader a recognized man of business. For a time, therefore, Nathan B. Forrest bought and sold slaves. He accumulated sufficient money to establish himself as a planter just before the war began. Nevertheless, he enlisted at the first moment, entering the war as an humble private, and quickly gaining promotion because of his knowledge of men and his personal power. He moved rapidly from brigadier general to major general and lieutenant general, and became one of the most efficient of all Confederate commanders. After the war it was natural for such a man to lead in upholding the prerogatives of his people. He continued to live as a planter, and at one time endeavored to develop a railroad in the south, but it is said that he worked as the active head and brains of the original Ku-Klux Klan. He died in 1877 at the age of 56. He was a man who was wholly loyal to the Confederate cause and to the interests of the South.

Stories That Recall Others

Cause and Effect.

Without previous warning two fire wagons dashed down the street in the center of the city with sirens blowing. "Some store must be on fire," said one pedestrian to another.

The second raised his eyelashes. "Is it possible," he said, "that business is that bad?"

Dignity Disillusioned.

The sun was warm as a large and carefully tailored man sauntered along the street, swinging an ebony stick. As he walked a frown transfixed his face. He did not turn his head, but stiffened his neck and his eyebrows bushed together. He had had bicycle riders to crowd him off the sidewalk and the harsh ringing of a bicycle bell simply stiffened his determination not to budge.

The bell pealed out again. He didn't deign to turn his head or to move to one side. Then he became aware of a small streak that passed around his left knee in a narrow semi circle and went on along the walk. The streak was a girl about three years of age. She rode a tiny velocipede at which her small feet treadledlike the blades of a whirligig.

Affixed to one of the handles was a bicyclebell, the largest thing, proportionately, about the rider or her mount. Her taffy hair rode level on the wind as she cleared the obstruction and sailed on.

The scowl on the man's face came off. He took a few swift steps and hailed the rider. The man pressed into her small fist a coin. It was not a penny.

Boys outnumber the girls in the Malin, Oreg., public school, and the last graduating class was composed entirely of boys. Every boy in the school but one has taken the agricultural course offered by the school.

HOBART

Hobart, capital of Tasmania, which ships of the United States navy visited after leaving Sydney and Melbourne, "is in what climatically might be termed Australia's 'New England,' "says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Sydney roughly corresponds in latitude with Charleston, South Carolina, and Melbourne with Richmond, Virginia," continues the bulletin. "Hobart is 606 miles farther south than Sydney and 300 miles farther south than Melbourne; but in the topsy-turvy antipodes the usual condition of affairs is reversed, so the ships left the 'balmy northland' and sailed far into the 'bracing South.' Hobart, near the southernmost part of the island, is in a latitude corresponding to Portsmouth, N. H.

"Climate does not slavishly follow latitude changes, however; Tasmania has a much more temperate climate than our New England because of the moist 'westerlies' that blow over it from the Indian Ocean. Old England gives the best idea of Tasmania, for its temperature and atmosphere is remarkably like that of the southern portion of the British Isles. It is climatically more pleasant, however, for while having an ample rainfall it lacks the clammy mistiness of England at certain seasons. Just at present it is mid-winter in Tasmania and the American 'Gobe' are on doubt finding snow on the uplands and light ice on the small streams.

"Hobart, like its sister capitals, Sydney and Melbourne, has an excellent harbor. The city lies on the estuary of the Derwent River a few miles from the sea. Ships of ordinary tonnage can utilize the city quays, and just outside the estuary is huge, protected Storm Bay in which the largest battleships may find ample water.

"The city, which is the capital of Tasmania, has a population of 52,000. In recent years the water power of Tasmania's Great Lake, 60 miles from Hobart, has been harnessed and the electrical energy brought to the city which now has one of the cheapest supplies of electricity among the cities of the world. Use of the current for operating factories is beginning and it is thought that Hobart has a bright industrial future.

"The Hobart electric street railway furnishes a novel sight to Americans. The cars are huge double-deckers awkward looking conveyances. Instead of using interior car-cards, the advertisers of Hobart plaster their adds on the outside of the cars.

"Hobart's docks tell the story of Tasmania's great variety of products. Cases of jam and canned fruits for the breakfast tables of Old England testify why the nickname 'Jamland' is sometimes applied. Bales of wool show how the poorer soils of the uplands are utilized. Barrels and boxes of apples are being loaded in season for shipment to South Africa and the British ports; and some of the island's many valuable ores also find their way out to the world through the Derwent. The valley north of Hobart is a fine hops country, and during the harvest season thousands of residents of Hobart go into the fields to help gather the crop.

"Near Hobart in 1876 the last of the Tasmanian aborigines died. These people were among the lowest types of humans ever found, much more backward even than the Australian aborigines. The skeleton of the last Tasmanian is preserved in the Hobart Museum."

CHILD TRAINING

PUTTING THE SUN INTO SUNDAY

Lois E. Brandom

There are not many mothers who do not know from experience what it means to try to keep lively youngsters busily employed and contented on a stormy Sunday afternoon and still maintain in the household that tranquility, so restful to a tired business man's nerves.

The experiences of one mother often prove of great benefit to other mothers who are wrestling with the same problem, so possibly the expedients I have found helpful will be of aid to others.

For the first hour after the hearty dinner period, it is wise to plan some quiet game or occupation in which the children use their fingers more than their minds.

If possible, provide a room in which the children may play that is not just above nor too close to the library or room in which the grown people are. A distant bedroom, or the attic, will do very well. In fact, a well lighted and heated attic makes the finest playroom any child could wish, especially when the rain comes pit-a-pat upon the roof.

In planning occupations for your children bear in mind that there are three kinds. The first requires the presence and help of an older person: for the second only a little assistance is necessary; in the third children can engage by themselves without an older person.

With very young children, or those who have not become accustomed to playing alone, the assistance of an adult is generally necessary. The little minds must be stored with play material before they can carry out play plans of their own. They must have a store of ideas from which to draw material for new games. One aim of the mother should be so to train the children that they can readily amuse themselves in a quiet, orderly way without her assistance.

For the early part of the afternoon the younger children may string brightcolored wooden beads while the older ones make necklaces. These latter may be made of many different materials, seeds, flowers, tiny shells, paper beads, acorn cups and so forth. The boys seem to take as much pleasure in stringing beads as do the girls.

To make the paper beads, take inch wide strips of fancy paper—wall paper will do—and cut them so that they taper to a point. Take the wide end of the strip and roll it very tightly and evenly around a steel knitting needle with the colored side out, and fasten down the point neatly with paste. The beads may be covered with a clear varnish after they are perfectly dry.

Any occupation with needle and thread, paints and brush or paste and scissors will be found good for the early afternoon.

Following this kind of play, guessing games are nice. If the mother has prepared beforehand small bottles containing different kinds of strong smelling ingredients, such as vinegar, cloves, perfume, peppermint and cinnamon, the children's sense of smell may be cultivated by blind-folding them and allowing them to guess the contents of the bottles. In the same way materials may be collected for guessing by taste and touch.

A little time should be given to more active play, and for this some of the many bean bag games will be enjoyed.

Mothers will generally find it best to keep the stormy Sunday playthings entirely out of sight in pleasant weather. In this way the children do not tire of them and are always eager to get them out again.

The Mysterious Disappearance

The curious will stop at naught
To gain a thing they long have sought.
—Ol' Mrs. Buzzard.

Peter searched far and wide on the ground for the nest of Ol' Mrs. Buzzard. He peered behind brush heaps. He poked his head under every overhanging branch which he thought might hide Mrs. Buzzard's nest. He even went over to the ledge of rock where was the cave in which Buster Bear had spent more than one winter. But it was in vain. Whenever he met Unc' Billy Possum Unc' Billy would grin and say, "Wisht luck today, Brer Rabbit What luck today? When does Ol' Mrs. Buzzard expect those eggs to hatch?" Peter would make a face at him and hurry, lipperty-lipper ty-lip.

Finally Peter had to confess that he was beaten. He could think of no other place to look. So for lack of anything better to do, he began watching the tree, the tall dead tree, on which Ol' Mistah and Ol' Mrs. Buzzard delighted to sit. Of course Mrs. Buzzard wasn't there much. But she was there once or twice every day, and Peter watched her to see where she went when she left. Sometimes she flew high in the blue, blue sky and he wouldn't see her again. But two or three times he was sure she flew only a very short distance and then disappeared as if she had dropped through the treetops.

"Her nest must be right over there," thought Peter and away he went to look for it. But he didn't find it. No, sir, he didn't find it. Almost every time he would end his hunt over by a great big stump. There he would sit down. You see, down between the roots of that stump was a hole—a hole big enough for Peter to dodge down into in case of danger and in which to feel quite safe. Almost always he was joined by Jumper the Hare, and of course the one thing they talked about was that nest which couldn't be found. You see, Jumper had become almost as curious as Peter.

"It is a mystery where that nest is," declared Peter. "But it is almost as much of a mystery what becomes of Mrs. Buzzard when she disappears in the treetops over here. She always disappears at the same place and though I get over here as fast as my legs can bring me, there is never any sign of her when I get here. And I am certain she comes down through the trees around here somewhere."

Jumper looked thoughtful. He stroked his whiskers. "I tell you what, Cousin Peter," said he, "we'll have to work this thing together. Two heads are always better than one, and two pairs of eyes are certainly bound to be better than one pair. What do you say"

"Why don't you watch over by the tree and let me stay here?" said Peter

"I'll tell you when I know better what you mean," replied Peter.

"I mean just this," said Jumper. "You go over by the big tree and watch, and I'll hide over here by this big stump. When Mrs. Buzzard disappears in the treetops you thump with all your might. You know I can hear that thump a long distance. Then I'll know that she is coming and I'll watch out and see what becomes of her."

"Why don't you watch over by the tree and let me stay here?" said Peter. "You can thump louder than I can, anyway."

"All right," said Jumper good naturedly. "that suits me. What time is Ol' Mrs. Buzzard usually over on that tree?"

"Usually she's there shortly after sunup," replied Peter.

"All right," said Jumper. "I'll be hiding over there by sunup tomorrow and you be hiding here at the same time. When you hear me thump you'll know that Ol' Mrs. Buzzard is coming. Now don't go to dozing."

"I won't," replied Peter. "I'll be looking with both eyes. I guess this time we'll find where that nest is."

Peter and Jumper hopped off together. Almost as soon as their backs were turned a bald, red head was poked over the edge of that stump and Ol' Mrs. Buzzard grinned as she watched them out of sight. "There's nothing like being forewarned," said she. "I think I'll change my breakfast hour."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Today being Michaelmas day, the liverymen, or members of the ancient city guilds and companies will come together to choose from among the 26 aldermen the one who is to serve during the ensuing year as Lord Mayor of London. If events take their ordinary course, the new Lord Mayor will be Sir William Pryke, who meets the requirements of eligibility in that he has been an alderman for many years, has filled the office of sheriff and meets with the approval of the King. The election of the Lord Mayor takes place in the historic Guildhall, which is also the scene of his formal installation in office following the gorgeous Lord Mayor's "show" on November 9. Sir William Pryke is 78 years old and has been associated with city life for more than half a century. He started his business career in his early teens, rising by gradual stages to be head of a prominent firm of iron and hardware merchants.

TOAD CAKES AND SNAKES IN CHINESE MEDICINES

If medicine is the horror of childhood in western countries it might be considered a veritable Dante's Inferno done up in pharmaceutical form in China, judging from the fearful compounds which invalids have to swallow. Shanghai is a clearing house for Chinese medicines—hundreds of different kinds of grasses, seeds, fruits, leaves, insects, roots and a miscellaneous class which the customs designate "sundries." Many Chinese medicines are the good, old family herbs which grandmother used to pick and use with an efficacy greater than that of dispensary preparations, but the majority are not as palatable.

Among the things imported as Chinese medicines into Shanghai are toad cakes, pea pods, dried pomegranite skin, fowls' gizzards, dried snakes scorpions, tigers' bones, centipedes and worms. Recently the customs had to pass one of the strangest medicines ever human man had to take.

None of the ingredients of the brew compounded by the witches for Macbeth were so fearful. It was a kind of fungus called "tui kou chun" meaning "opposite the mouth" plant. It gets its name because it grows near the mouth of corpses in coffins. This medicine the Chinese say, is prized for its curative properties in consumption and brings about $8,000 a pound. This fungus was sent up from Canton especially packed in a glass case. If there is one reflection to be made on these medicines it is: How on earth do the Chinese keep in that fit, robust and healthy condition which makes them the most hardy farmers and laborers in the world.

Irish Stand by Shamrock

The talk of a new flower to better represent the new Ireland is meeting with little favor. Whatever the shamrock may appear from an artistic standpoint, it is deeply rooted in the hearts of the Irish and only amusement has met the movement to change the flower to a special bloom to be grown by Luther Burbank. The shamrock has been the flower of Ireland since the time of Patrick, speaking to the Druids, used the trefoi or shamrock to demonstrate to them the incomprehensible mystery of the Trinity by pointing to the three leaves on one stalk.

PROPOSING BUS LINE WILLIMANTIC TO MIDDLETOWN

Richard T. Higgins and C. C. Sidwell of the public utilities commission held a hearing in the municipal building, Middletown, at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon on the petition of the New England Transportation company to run a bus line from New Haven to Willimantic by way of Middletown. The New England Transportation company is a subsidiary of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company and the petitioners were represented by Attorney Benjamin I. Spock of New Haven.

The plan is for the bus service to run through Northford, Durham, Middletown, Portland, East Hampton, Marlborough and thence to Willimantic. While the proposed service would in some places parallel the service offered by the airline division of the New Haven road it would also cover other territory and give the public additional facilities.

The railroad officials stated that it would not be the plan to do away with all rail service on the air line, but that it would probably be cut down if the new line were instituted. The Black Diamond express would probably be one of the trains taken off. It was pointed out, however, that the combined service would give the public a much better service in some places, notably between Middletown and East Hampton. The commissioners pointed out that the roads between Marlborough and Willimantic are not good at present and the railroad officials admitted this and intimated that it ought now to be feasible to put through that section of the proposed route at once.

The Connecticut company at present has a bus line from Middletown to Durham, but it would not object to the new line and but little opposition was made to it.

The commissioners reserved their decision.

WOMEN CARRY CHEER TO STATE HOSPITAL PATIENTS

The hospital visiting committee of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women made their monthly visit to the Norwich state hospital Monday afternoon. They took with them ice cream, cake and fruit for about 70 of the patients. The women were accompanied on the visit by Rt. Rev. Msgr Michael H. May, pastor of St. Patrick's church.

The council is planning during the coming year to visit all the departments of the hospital, taking, at each visit, a certain section of the institution, and on holidays, special treats will be given all patients. This is only one of the many activities of this charitable group of women who are doing as they would be done by. Miss Ella Shannon kindly placed her machine at the disposal of the committee for the afternoon's visit.

NEW LONDON COUNCILMEN EXPRESS THEIR SYMPATHY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28—At the meeting of the city council this evening Councilor Fox reminded the members of the catastrophe that had overtaken the submarine S-51, and offered a resolution which was unanimously adopted which expressed the feelings of the people of this city. Councilor Fox said he had hurriedly drawn the resolution, but it expressed the sympathy of the citizens and the hope that an all-wise Providence might yet preserve the lives of those who were in the submarine that they might be spared to their families and to the service of their country.

WEDDINGS

Kozlowski—Marchielewski

Joseph Kozlowski, son of Anton and Anna Kozlowski, of 4 Central avenue, and Miss Rose Marchielewski, daughter of Stanley and Frances Marchielewski of 5 White street, were united in marriage Monday morning at St. Joseph's church, by Rev. S. A. Icick, who also celebrated the nuptial mass.

The attendants were Miss Anna Jacobs, maid of honor, and Andrew Marchielewski, brother of the bride, as best man, also Miss Josephine Dempski and John Marchielewski, another brother of the bride, and Miss Bertha Domrad and Joseph Porduglel, a nephew of the bride.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white georgette crepe, her tulle veil being trimmed with orange blossoms. The maid of honor and other attendants were gowned in rainbow colors and wore black hats, also carrying bouquets of carnations. Miss Genevieve Koreb of Bayonne, N. J., a niece of the groom, was flower girl, and the ring bearer was Anthony Ortowski, a nephew of the groom.

The music during the ceremony was in charge of the organist, Mrs. Thomas J. Healey and at the offertory Ave Maria was sung by Mr. Kiecolt and senior choir of the church sang.

Following the wedding a reception was held at Pulaski hall, relatives and friends being present from Bayonne, N. J., New York, Bozrahville, Versailles, Taftville and other places.

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Kozlowski left on their honeymoon to New York and New Jersey and upon their return are to reside with the bride's parents on White street. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts including a large sum of money, china, silver, gold and a clock from the senior choir of St. Joseph's church, of which she is a member.

The bride has been employed at the United States finishing plant and the groom is a plumber, being employed by the City of Norwich gas and electric department.

Danilowicz—Warakomski

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends Joseph J. Danilowicz, Jr., son of Joseph J. and Rosalie R. Danilowicz of 55 Roosevelt avenue, and Miss Anna Teresa Warakomski, daughter of Constanti and Anna C. Warakomski, of 91 Summit street, were united in marriage Monday morning at St. Joseph's church by Rev. S. A. Icick, pastor of the church.

The attendants were Miss Helen Warakomski, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, Miss Stella Danilowicz, sister of the groom, and Miss Hedwig Warakomski, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids. William Danilowicz, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Henry Warakomski, of New London, cousin of the bride, and Walter Danilowicz, of Worcester, Mass., cousin of the groom.

The bride was prettily gowned in white satin face crepe with court train, her veil of rose point lace being caught up with orange blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was of roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was gowned in corn colored georgette over satin and she carried butterfly roses. The bridesmaids were gowned in orchid over satin, and also carried butterfly roses.

Mrs. Thomas J. Healey was in charge of the music during the ceremony and the altar was beautifully decorated with lilies and asters.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and wedding breakfast served at the home of the bride's parents covers being laid for 50 guests.

The couple left on their honeymoon trip during the afternoon and upon their return are to reside in this city.

The gift of the bride to the groom was a pair of white gold cuff links and to the maid of honor a solid silver vanity case. The gift of the groom to the bride was a string of pearls and to the best man a white gold watch chain. The bride also received many beautiful gifts from relatives and friends.

The bride has been employed as a bookkeeper and the groom is an employe of the J. B. Martin company.

William McGinn

The death of William McGinn, 39, of Old Saybrook occurred Sunday in this city after a long illness. He was born in Hartford, March 9, 1886, the son of James McGinn and Teresa Griffiths, and had been employed as a fireman. He is survived by his wife. Burial is to be in Essex cemetery, Saybrook.

SAYS SHE SHOUTED WARNING TO CROOKS NOT TO CROSS STREET

Because Coroner J. J. Desmond was busy Monday in New London upon another investigation, he was not able to make an investigation of the accident to former Alderman Edward Crooks of this city, who was fatally injured Sunday afternoon when he was struck on North Main street by an automobile driven by Peter Duffille of 330 Central avenue.

The local police, however, took steps to learn what they could from witnesses, and during the afternoon City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins, with Sergeant John H. Casey, Officers O'Neil and Smith, visited the scene of the accident. It was learned, it is understood, from Mrs. Patrick McDermott of 247 Central avenue, that she saw Mr. Crooks as he was about to start to cross the street. He looked in the direction of the approaching Duffille machine and stepped out into the street. She saw the machine coming also and she called out a warning to him not to cross, but he did not stop. She repeated her warning, according to what the police learned, but he paid no heed and kept on walking across the street until the machine struck him.

SETS $5,000 BONDS ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Charged with manslaughter in causing the death of former Alderman Edward Crooks of No. 215 Central avenue, Peter Duffille of No. 330 Central avenue, driver of the Ford coupe that knocked down and ran over Mr. Crooks, is held by the authorities under bonds of $5,000 to await the report of Coroner J. J. Desmond. Duffille was presented in the city court Monday morning and at the suggestion of City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins the case against him was continued until October 13, by Judge Arthur F. Libby.

Duffille who was taken to the police station shortly after the fatal accident by Sergt. John T. Casey, was held over night without bonds. Monday morning Judge Libby set bonds at $5,000 which Duffille was unable to secure and he was taken to jail. If he does not secure bonds he will have to be held in custody until the outcome of his case on October 13th at which time it is expected Coroner Desmond will be ready to make his report on the fatality.

NEARLY 200,000 EGGS LAID IN STORRS CONTEST

The total lay for all pens in the forty-seventh week of the Storrs laying contest was 3,594 eggs or a yield of nearly thirty-seven per cent. This brings the total to date almost up to the 200,000 mark. Tom Barron's pen of White Wyandottes from Catforth, England, made an easy first place with a total of 50 eggs for the week. Merritt M. Clark's pen of Barred Rocks from Brookfield Center, Conn., and Hanson's pen of White Leghorns from Corvallis, Ore., tied for second place with 46 eggs each. R. W. Davis & Sons' pen of Barred Rocks from Rockland, Maine, followed closely in fourth place with a total of 45 eggs.

This is the time of year when fall colds make their appearance in the poultry flock. The inclement weather, typical of the fall season, is ideal for their development. Considerable loss may result if the birds are not promptly and immediately taken care of. The first step should be to remove any possible cause, such as drafts or moisture. Then the birds must be treated for the ailment. A watery discharge from the nostrils, watery eyes, heavy breathing or a rattling in the throat at night are typical indications of fall colds. Some form of disinfectant should be used to prevent the disease from spreading. Permanganate of potash is very good when first mixed but it oxidizes rapidly in open vessels and loses its value. If it is to be used the water should be withheld until about eleven o'clock. The birds will be exceedingly thirsty by that time and will flock to the water dish. In their efforts to get the water the birds will thoroughly disinfect each other. A few days of kerosene on water is also a good disinfectant and will not lose its value in standing. The difficulty which presents itself in the use of kerosene is the lessened palatibility of the water. In individual treatment a ten per cent. solution of argyrol is as effective a cure as is known. A medicine dropper can be used to place a few drops in the eyes, mouth or nose wherever the cold may appear.

TRYING TO LOCATE JOHN H. ROGERS' FATHER

Chief George Linton of the police department received Monday a letter from Billy Northrop, No. 237 West 13th street, New York city, asking him to make an effort to locate the parents or relatives of John H. Rogers, formerly of this city, who is seriously ill at St. Vincent's hospital, New York city. Mr. Northrop in his letter states that Rogers, father of the young man, to ing in this city and that he is or was employed as a boss tanner. Rogers has been unconscious for five days.

Northrop, who is a boxing promoter, claims to have sent telegrams and a registered letter addressed to John Rogers, ather of the youn gman, to this city, but that he has been unable to locate him. The police were unable to locate any one in Norwich related to the sick man although a thorough canvass of the various Rogers families in town was made Monday night. Anyone who knows the sick man or any of his relatives should get in touch with the police immediately.

There is $60,000 available for an infirmary for women, the same amount for an administration building, $25,000 for an employe's building.

ARCHITECTS SUBMIT PLANS FOR SANATORIUM ADDITIONS

The tuberculosis commission held a prolonged hearing in the state capitol at Hartford Monday on plans submitted by architects for the erection of 3 additions to Uncas-on-Thames, the sanatorium at Norwich, for which the general assembly at the last session appropriated $125,000. Architect's plans were received from the following architects: The Golden-Storrs company of Hartford, Thomas De Gange of New London, S. B. Palmer of Norwich, Harrison Earl Baldwin of New Haven, Isadore Rosenfeld of New York, Cudworth and Thompson of Norwich, and Pkine and Keefe of New London. When the plans are selected contractors will be invited to submit bids for the construction of the building.

TRAINING SCHOOL STARTS AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

The training school of religious education under the auspices of the Norwich council of religious education, the Connecticut Baptist convention and the American Baptist publication society which held the first session Monday evening in the Central Baptist church was most encouraging, eighty-four being in attendance. A delicious supper was served at 6:15. The central supper committee consists of Mrs. Tefft, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Amburn, Mrs. Cross, Mrs Deane, Mrs. Buckley, Mrs. Newberry Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Howard and Mrs Lund.

Four classes are conducted in the main building, these being Miss Congdon's on primary methods, Miss Johnson's on the intermediate pupil, Mr Dunbar's on teaching values of the New Testament, and Mr. Campbell's on young people's work. The class on the coming school of the church by Rev. Mr. Abbott and that on the Sunday school pupil by Mr. Roberts meet in the new parish house. The dean of the school, Dr. D. A. Pitt, presided at the twenty-minute devotional period. Registration was in the hands of Harold S. Burt and Robert A. Gray and the text books were on sale by Henry Sebastian. N. E. Smith is chairman of the finance committee and Rev. J. Harlow Graham of publicity. Those desiring to be present at the supper who have not already so stated are expected to telephone the Central Baptist church Tuesday morning.

STOLEN AUTOMOBILE IS FOUND IN THIS CITY

A Chandler sedan that was stolen last week in Fall River was located in this city Monday afternoon when Chief George Linton received a telephone message from Capt. O'Brien of the Fall River police who told the Norwich police chief that they had arrested a man named Paquette in Fall river who said the car was in a Norwich garage.

The car had Massachusetts registration 188-240, the Fall River captain said, and Paquette claimed he had left it Friday in the Hudson-Essex garage on Willow street, this city. There it was found in a badly damaged condition, when Chief Linton sent an officer to make inquiries. The machine had been towed in having broken down on the road.

The garage men will hold the car to await the arrival of the owner to identify it.

STONINGTON SCHOOL EXPENSES MADE $1,372.23 DEFICIT

In spite of rigid economy the school committee of the town of Stonington reports that books were closed at the end of the last fiscal year with a deficit of $1,372.23, and the committee, comprising Karl G. Stillman, Lorenzo D. Fairbrother and Thomas W. Hickson, reports that a larger appropriation is necessary for the carrying out of the school work for the ensuing year.

The report to the citizens and taxpayers of the town of Stonington, made by the school committee in its fifteenth annual report, is as follows for the school year of 1924-1925:

We are pleased to present herewith for your consideration the fifteenth annual report of the town school committee.

We are of the opinion that the school year just closed has been one of definite progress. High scholastic standards have been maintained in all schools, all buildings and equipment have been kept in excellent condition, and extra-curricular activities have been on a par with other schools of similar size and standing.

Our town is very fortunate in having such an able and efficient corps of teachers. Through their efforts our schools have been raised to a very high plane with respect to educational attainments. Knowledge of the high standing of our schools has reached other localities resulting in numerous visitations from teachers who have made special studies of our methods of teaching and maintaining good discipline. It may be of interest to note that at one of our schools we had twenty-four such visitors in one day.

With the retention of Supt. W. R. Snyder and with the fewest changes in teaching personnel for a number of years, we are looking forward to another year with confidence.

Wherever it has been possible to improve the surroundings of our students in the classroom, either from the standpoint of comfort or of safety, we have made any necessary changes. During the past year, without expense to the town, inspectors from one of Connecticut's large fire insurance companies have inspected our three main buildings. Helpful recommendations were made by them to lessen the fire hazard, many of which suggestions have been adopted by your committee. Additional extinguishers and efficient internal fire alarm systems have been installed and are ready for instant use in any emergency.

After a number of years without a lunch counter in the high school building, your committee deemed it advisable to reinstitute such a service. Good, wholesome food is now served at a reasonable cost and in pleasant surroundings on the school premises.

Your committee has found it necessary to provide for a mid-year graduating class from Pawcatuck in order to take care of the increased number of students completing their preparatory work in this school. This policy, though new to our schools, is in universal use at other places under the same conditions. At the present time, we expect that this mid-year class will gradually merge into the class which enters high school each previous September so that at the time of their graduation from high school a full year will be gained. However, modifications of this plan will be made in accordance with our experience under it.

Our athletic and non-athletic activities have been well organized and supervised and, in competitive events our school teams have placed well up in the front rank in the final standings. From a financial standpoint, all activities have been kept self-supporting.

It will be recalled that last year our expenditures exceeded our receipts for school purposes by $860.22. This year, in spite of a rigid policy of economy, we close our books with a total deficit of $1,372.23. It is very evident that your committee will be obliged to ask for a larger appropriation in order to make up this deficit and maintain our present standards. From an analysis of the detailed financial report which follows, it will be noted that our transportation expense is our greatest problem at this time and largely responsible for our deficits of the past two years.

Other reports on various phases of the town's educational activities are appended hereto and to them your attention is respectfully directed.

Financial Statement.

The financial statement of the school committee showed the receipts for the school year to have been $109,736.66, this including the town appropriation of $98,100, the remainder being miscellaneous income, the largest item being the state enumeration grant of $5,409.

Items of expenditures totalled $109,736.66, the largest item being the teachers' salaries totalling $66,632.49, with transportation of pupils coming next at $12,118.19. Free books cost $2,285.44 and instruction supplies cost $2,274.25.

The general statement shows a total of $109,736.66 expended, less receipts from state and other sources totaling $10,264.43, leaving the net cost of schools to the town at $99,472.23, which is $1,372.23 more than the town appropriation.

Principal items of increase, as shown in the report, were $949.43 for transportation, $1,909.27 for teachers' salaries, $218.45 for insurance, $486.35 for instruction supplies, $744.82 for water and $314.73 for new equipment.

Actual running expenses of the schools showed a total amount of $109,736.66, less receipts from state and other sources at $10,264.43 and new equipment and replacement costing $2,615.17, a total of $12,879.60, making the net running expenses of the schools $96,857.06.

In the report of W. R. Snyder, superintendent of schools, one interesting feature is mentioned, this being the savings account of the children in the schools. His statement is that 798 pupils in all schools saved and deposited in a New London bank, the sum of $8,448.46 during the year with Mason Island, Taugwank and Lower Pawcatuck schools having a 100 per cent. depositing record among the pupils.

YOUNG COULON'S OPPONENT FAILS TO APPEAR FOR BOUT AT BRADFORD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

BRADFORD, R. I., Sept. 28—Young Coulon of Norwich who won the Connecticut state flyweight title last Friday night at Norwich did not appear on the card at Douglas Park here tonight owing to the non-appearance of his opponent, Kid Fly of New Bedford. Coulon was here and ready to go on but no opponent could be found for him in place of the New Bedford boy. No word was received as to the reason Kid Fly did not appear.

In the main bout between Martin Flaherty of Lowell, and K. O. Jimmy Ryan of Providence, these boys fought 10 rounds to a draw. The first three rounds went to Flaherty by a slight margin while the next three were even and the last of the rounds were Ryan's by a slight edge. Ryan was cautioned several times by Referee Devron for holding on. The bout was good although in the opinion of some Flaherty should have received the verdict.

Frankie O'Bay of Woonsocket fought a fast eight round draw with Johnny Curcio of Providence in the semi-final bout. Curcio substituted for Young Reita who is in the south.

In the second round of the six-round preliminary bout Young Ross of Westerly sent over a right to the jaw of Jimmy O'Dowd of Danielson and O'Dowd was through for the evening.

Kid Bruno of Westerly won a four-round verdict from Young Pancho of Bradford in four rounds. The bout was slow.

In the curtain raiser Kid DeBartelo outfought Young Tramp in four rounds and was awarded the decision.

SIXTH WORLD'S SERIES FOR SCOTT AND MCINNIS

NEW WYORK, Sept. 28—(A.P.)—Time has been kind to two baseball veterans who will participate in the coming world's series clash between Washington and Pittsburgh—Everett Scott and John Phelan McInnis. And for the latter a great record will have made complete, for he will join his mates of the marvellous Philadelphia Athletics of more than a decade ago in the matter of having been a part of six clashes for the world's series.

Frank Baker, Jack Barry and Eddie Collins are linked in the record for participation in the annual classic along with Babe Ruth and Wally Schang, another of Mack's great team of the past. Baker, after serving through four victorious years with Philadelphia, journey to the New York Yankees where two additional world's series welcomed him. Barry gained his mark through the Red Sox conquests of 1915 and 1916, after playing alongside Baker at Philadelphia. Schang saw prosperous seasons with the Athletics, Red Sox and Yankees, while Ruth also drew extra checks while a member of the Red Sox and Yankees.

The Boston and New York American league clubs also have provided the field for Scott's efforts and his appearance with Washington this season will make his sixth in the world's event.

Pittsburgh has few players of world's series experience entered for the coming fray. Four have been through the fire—Babe Adams, McInnis, Earl Smith and Johnny Rawlings—but Rawlings, hero of the Giants' victory over the Yankees in 1921, is not expected to play, having suffered a broken leg while sliding into a base early in September.

Washington has an entire team of world's series veterans, having beaten the Giants for the title a year ago, but only two others than Scott have appeared in more than one series. One is Roger Peckinpaugh, whose error in the first inning of the final of the 1921 games between the Giants and Yankees allowed McGraw's team to score the only run of the deciding contest.

The other is Harry (Nemo) Leibold, utility outfielder who played with the victorious White Sox of 1917 and 1919 and was with Washington last year.

FT. BLISS TEAM CAPTURES THE 12-GOAL POLO TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28—(A. P.)—Displaying the same brilliant form that gave them the inter-circuit championship a week ago, the Fort Bliss polo quartet, of El Paso, Texas, today captured the 12-goal championship of the United States by defeating the Midwick four of Pasadena, Calif., in the final round. The score was 14 to 5.

The lineup and summary:

Fort Bliss	Position	Midwick
Captain D. Wood	No. 1	J. M. Spalding
Major H. D. Chamberlain	No. 2	H. Roach
Captain L. K. Truscott	No. 3	A. Perkins

Midwick .....0 1 0 1 1 1 1 0—5
Goals scored: Fort Bliss, Wood 7; Chamberlain 2; Truscott 3; Huthstiner 2. Midwick, Perkins 4; Roach 1.
Eight 7 1-2 minute chukkers.
Referee, Captain O. I. Holman.

YALE PRACTICE HELD TO LIGHT DUMMY DRILL

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Because of the warm weather today, the Yale varsity football practice consisted only of a dummy scrimmage. The varsity was lined up against the second varsity for half an hour's work, running through plays but without trying to score. Butterworth was not on the field today, Vande Grift being given a tryout in his place. Captain Joss was at the field but watched in his street clothes.

A second varsity was lined up for a regular scrimmage against the scrubs but only a few plays were used and there was no score.

Harvey, a substitute center on the scrubs, was moved over to the varsity squad today and will be given a tryout as a substitute on the varsity.

Theodore Lilley, a tackle in 1909, was a spectator at the field.

ORIOLES BEAT WHITE SOX IN EXHIBITION GAME

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, International league champions, defeated the Chicago White Sox in an exhibition game here today, 5 to 3.

The flock entrained most immediately afterwards for Louisville, Ky., where on Wednesday they will open the little world series with the Colonels, champions of the American association.

Cleveland Wins Amateurs

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28—(A. P.)—The Collinwood Shale Bricks, Cleveland, today won the amateur championship of the National Baseball Federation by taking the second game of a double-header from Scranton, Pa., Peterburg, A. C., 9 to 5, after losing the first four to two.

LOCAL BOYS OUT FOR AGGIE FRESHMAN TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 28—Fifty-four men reported for the Connecticut Aggies freshman football team, which under the direction of Coach L. A. Alexander got down to real work here this afternoon.

Numbered among this group are former high school stars from Hartford, Norwich, Waterbury, New London, Naugatuck, New Haven and other cities and towns of this and other states.

The frosh reported for uniforms Saturday, when they went through a light workout under the direction of Coach Alexander, assisted by Williams and Logan of last year's frosh team.

The freshman squad got down to real work this afternoon, and Coach Alexander will drive his men at top speed in order to have them ready for the opening game with Kent School, Oct. 10.

Alexander's most difficult task will be to obtain a clear idea of the individual ability of his men in the few days remaining before the Kent game, and this will be difficult because of the large number of men on the squad.

Today's practice consisted entirely of work on fundamentals, and not until the squad is well versed in these will formation and plays be given. The frosh will probably have a chance to stop the varsity attack in scrimmage this week, however, as Coach Dole wants his men to have at least one more strenuous session before the New York university game at New York Saturday.

Hartford boys trying out for the frosh team at Storrs are: Achanbach, end; Daly, guard; Sayers, tackle; Klien, end; Fasset, back; Mullane, back; Stone, tackle; Watson, end.

Other promising prospects include Allard, halfback from Plainfield; Sheldon, tackle from Naugatuck; Lindyll, back from Naugatuck; Anderson, quarterback from Middletown; Bushnell, New Haven halfback; Brown, Amherst, Mass., halfback; Usher, Windham High halfback; Wilson, Springfield Tech end; Sahagian, halfback from Worcester, Mass.; Cox, quarterback from New Haven; Carlson, South Manchester halfback; Callahan, Revere, Mass. halfback; Hewitt, New London tackle; White, quarterback from Bristol.

Others on the squad include Reeve, Squires, Dixon, Chromby, Powers, Carlson, McCall, Cahout, McNamara, of Norwich, R. Williams, D. Williams, Raven, Rottner, Brewer, Rose, Clark, Peck, Crane, Dahl, Wheeler, Ritchell, Farling, Gilman, of Norwich, Mett, Guberman, Sturtevant and Moses.

The freshman schedule: Oct. 10, Kent school at Kent; Oct. 16, Tufts freshmen at Storrs; Oct. 24, Milford Prep at Storrs; Oct. 31, Springfield freshmen at Storrs; Nov. 7, Rhode Island state freshmen at Storrs; Nov. 13, Massachusetts Aggies Two-Year school at Storrs.

GIANTS FINISH STRONG AGAINST BROOKLYN CLUB

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 28—(A. P.)—The Giants made a strong finish and won today's game against the Robins, 9 to 7. The Robins had a five run lead when they started the seventh but the New York team scored three in the seventh and five in the eighth to win the game and the season's series 12 to 10. The Giants made 20 hits off four Brooklyn pitchers. Fournier received a great hand from the fans whenever he stepped to the plate.

FOURNIER MAY CHANGE MIND ABOUT QUITTING DODGERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(A. P.)—Jacques Fournier admitted today he may change his mind about retiring from the Brooklyn National league club after having received from the fans of his home city what described as "the greatest ovation I ever heard a player get."

Claiming that he could no longer stand the abuse hurled at him by patrons at Ebbets Field, the heavy hitting first baseman two weeks ago in Pittsburgh announced that he would not play another season in Brooklyn, in spite of the fact that his contract has another year to run. But in the last two days the Brooklyn fans have given him reason to alter his decision.

Autographed Ball Arrives

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 28—The ball autographed by the Pittsburgh Nationals which was scheduled to appear at Ashland Park Sunday did not arrive until Monday morning.

Sarazen Wins Feature

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's Sarazen, with Earl Sande up, won the Averne handicap at aqueduct today. Extra dry was second and Anna Marrone third. The time for the six furlongs was 1:113-5.

Lucky play and Silver Fox, the only other starters, also ran. The race was valued at $3,375 to the winner.

Ft. Worth Club Wins

FORT WORTH, Sept. 28—(A. P.)—After only one day's rest, Paul Wachtel, spitballer, defeated the crack Atlanta pennant winners of the Southern association today, Fort Worth, taking the fifth game of the Dixie series 9 to 0, only four hits were made off Wachtel.

Football

The Jail Hill Colonials defeated the Emeralds in their first game of the season Sunday. Although the game was close and strongly played all through, the Colonials walked away with a 24 to 0 score. For the Colonials the lineup was as follows: l. e. P. Riley, l. t. McCarthy, l. g. Morrell, c. Mathews, r. g. Dreany, r. t. Caparelli, r. e. Sanders, q. b. Brock, l. hb. McCarthy, r. hb. Gillis, fullback, Krohn. Starring for Jail Hill were Sanderski who never missed a tackle either on top or bottom. Brock, Krohn, Gillis and McCarthy. Davy Tiger was their fiercest aggressor playing fiercely and causing the Colonials no little trouble. Tubby Brucker also played.

George Cook, the Australian heavyweight, will be given the acid test on the night of September 29, when he is to face Harry Wills in a 12-round bout at Newark, N. J.

DEMPSEY AND WILLS WILL SIGN AGREEMENT TODAY FOR TITLE BOUT

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Final articles for a Jack Dempsey-Harry Wills match will be signed tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at Niles, Michigan, according to an announcement tonight by Andrew M. Weisberg, head of the local syndicating financing the match.

Weisberg withheld further details, other than that the fight will take place after August 8, 1926.

Skeptical Paddy Mullins, the challenger's manager, who was dubiuos earlier in the day of the success of the negotiations tonight is wearing a broad grin.

"The men back of the show are above reproach" he said "and at last the fight has the looks of being the real thing." This statement was somewhat in contrast with one earlier in the day, whose tenor was "before I can believe everything's in earnest, they must show me Wills' guarantee."

Dempsey emerged from the five hour conference irritable and nervous but he regained his good natufre when Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons took him to Cartier field where Knute Rockne staged a special scrimmage between picked Notre Dame football teams for the champion's benefit.

Dempsey tonight went to Benton Harbor, Michigan, where he said he had a little business to attend to, but said he would be back here later tonight. His business manager, Rob Roy Benton, filled a radio broadcasting engagement which Dempsey was unable to keep due to his departure for Benton Harbor.

The conferees were decidedly reticent about disclosing what transpired during more than four hours behind closed doors and had nothing to say about the size of financial guarantees necessary to induce the champion and his most persistent challenger to affix their names to articles of agreement.

Weisberg said that the major factors incident to an agreement had been decided upon and that neither he nor the other conferees could see any obstacles which might block consummation of the arrangements.

Neither Fitzsimmons nor Weisberg had anything to say regarding the definite place or date of the proposed match.

MRS. FRASER HAS LOW SCORE AT ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28—(A. P.)—Setting a record not only for the St. Louis Country club course, but also for qualifying scores in the event, Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, of Ottawa, Canada, today won the gold medal in the women's national golf championships with a score of 7-46—77. The previous best score in the championship qualifying rounds was a 79 last year by Glenna Collett over her home club at Providence, and that was the first time the women had ever broken through 80 in medal competition.

These were the only two players to score under 80 on the 6,408 yard links, which has a par for women of 40-41—81. Two other players, however broke par, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, defending champion, tying at 80 with Edith Cummings of Chicago, a former title holder, who equalled Miss Collett's 37 on the second nine.

Scores in the qualifying round:
Glenna Collett, Providence, 4-37—78.
Edith Cummings, Chicago, 43-37—80.
Mrs. Dorothy Hurd, Philadelphia 38-42—80.
Mary Browne, Los Angeles 44-38—82.
Mrs. F. C. Letts, Chicago 45-42—87.
Dorothy Klotz, Chicago 41-47—88.
Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago 48-46—94.
Mrs. H. E. Foreman, Chicago 49-48—97.
Mrs. E. E Harwood, Chicago 51-48—99.
Mrs. R. S. Raymond, Baton Rouge, 49-51—100.
Aubrey Faust Wallace, St. Louis 40-42—82.
Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, Ohio 42-41—84.
Mrs. Curtis Fohl, Columbus, O., 44-42—87.
Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, Chicago 42-44—87.
Helen Tillotson, Toledo, 43-44—87.
Mrs. Dave Gaut, Memphis 46-41—87.
Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, Hutchinson, Kansas 45-44—89.
Helen Payson, Portland, Me., 44-46—90.
Mrs John Armstrong, Jackson, Miss., 48-47—95.
Marion Turpie, New Orleans, 49-46—95.
Rosamond Sherwood, New York, 50-49—99.

Mrs. Stewart Stanley, Detroit 46-46—92
Mrs. Sidney Small, Detroit 46-48—94.

ASSAWAGA SWAMPS DANIELSON TOWN TEAM

DAYVILLE, Sept. 28. The Assawaga boys buried the Danielson Town team so deep Sunday in Danielson that they wont be able to dig themselves out until next spring. It was a loosely played game and did not furnish any thrills for those who watched it. The score 23-4 does not begin to tell about the game. Lagace and Perreault were hit hard and when Bernier was put in to pitch in the seventh the Assawaga boys were so tired from running bases they just walked up and struck out. In the third and fifth inning the Assawaga boys all batted around. In the sixth fourteen men came to bat. The boys gave Labelle fine support throughout the game. The Danielson boys luck seemed to desert them Sunday as they got all bad breaks.

YANKS BREAK EVEN WITH TIGERS IN DOUBLE HEADER

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(A. P.)—New York and Detroit broke even in a double header here today, the Tigers winning the first game 6 to 2 and the Yanks taking the final, 7 to 6. Ruth hit a home run in each game, making his total for the season 24. Holloway held the Yanks to seven scattered hits in the opener, a single and a home run by Ruth accounting for the two Yankee scores. Hoyt weakened in the seventh and eighth innings when the Tigers collected all of their six runs.

Jesse Doyle, the young pitcher from Toronto, relieved George Dauss in the sixth inning of the second game and featured with two home runs but this performance was offset by his wildness on the mound. The Yanks won the game in the ninth owing to Doyle's inability to find the plate. Five free passes proved his downfall in the final inning, the last one forcing over the winning run. Score:

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The first tour of an organized baseball club was made through New York state, in 1860, by the Excelsiors of Brooklyn.

Bernard Barde, amateur welterweight boxing champion of the United States, is out to make the Dartmouth football team this season.

A tennis record that probably will stand for all time is that of William T. Tilden, who has competed in 12 Davis cup singles matches and won every one of them.

The new $2,000,000 stadium of the University of Pittsburgh will be opened September 26 with the football game between the Pitt Panthers and Washington and Lee. The new stadium will seat 70,000.

In the world's series of 1903, in which the Boston Red Sox defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, the losers fared better than the winners, as President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club gave his share of the receipts to his players.

The "Big Three" gridiron series will begin this year November 7 when Harvard will play at Princeton. The Yale-Princeton contest will take place at New Haven November 14 and one week later will come the Yale-Harvard clash at the Cambridge stadium

If more big stadiums and larger seating capacity mean anything, more people will watch the gridiron sport this fall than did last year, which was a record-breaker. At least half a dozen new arenas have been completed in various parts of the country, and a number of others have been enlarged.

The closing of the New York-Pennsylvania league season with the York and Williamsport teams tied for first place is believed to be the first time that such a thing has occurred in organized baseball since 1896, when the Virginia State League ended its season with Norfolk and Portsmouth evened up for the championship.

When, back in 1903, the officials of the Pittsburgh and Boston baseball clubs conceived the idea of engaging in a post-season series to decide the championship of the National and American leagues they probably never dreamed that the event was destined to become the great spectacle it has—the magnet that yearly attracts thousands of fans to the scene and thousands of dollars into the pockets of players and club owners.

George Gibson, the new manager of the Chicago Cubs tells this story. There was a mule and an ox that worked side by side in the field. One day the ox shammed sickness and was permitted to remain in its stall. The mule went to work manfully and when he returned was laughed at by the ox. The next day 'twas the same. The ox again resigned, but the mule went to work. This time when the mule returned the ox asked whether the master and said anything. "Said nothing to me," declared the mule, "but I heard him call up the butcher on the telephone."

For nearly all of the colleges in the country September 26 will be not only a red letter day, but a college letter day, for it will witness the formal opening of the football season in 1925. It will not be split wide open in a hurry, for the gridiron squads of almost all the big colleges are still rather inanimate masses, with the coaches just beginning to deduce therefrom some kind of promising lineups. Nevertheless, the players of many institutions of the first or second rank will for the first time face actual conflict other than that against the inanimate tackling dummies or the often audacious scrub elevens.

DENIES STUDENT OFFICERS COMMANDED SUBMARINE

Denial that student officers were in charge of the submarine S-51 which was sunk Saturday morning off Block Island when it was rammed by the steamship City of Rome, was made by Lieut. Comdr. H. A. Flanigan, of the submarine base in a statement he gave out Monday.

Lieut. Comdr. Flanigan's statement was in reply to a report that owners of the City of Rome had an affidavit from one of the three rescued men that two "student rookies" were in the conning tower of the submarine when she was sunk.

Lieut. Comdr. Flanigan's statement was as follows, explaining the work at the submarine school and the qualifications of the officers on the S-51 at the time of the collision:

"The submarine training school for officers is established for the purpose of giving all officers detailed instructions in submarines before they are permanently transferred to submarine duty.

"The students of the present class range from Lieut. Comdr. E. W. Strother with 21 years naval service, to the ensigns of the class of 1925 with six months naval service, including four years at the Naval Academy.

Must Have See Service

"No officer may enter the submarine school who has had less than two years sea service since his graduation from the Naval Academy and all officers, no matter what their rank or experience must go through the submarine school before being ordered to permanent duty on submarines. In the last two years captains, commanders and lieutenant commanders have been students at the school as well as lieutenants, lieutenants (jg) and ensigns.

"That the term student officer is used in describing the officers of the school may have been misleading but it should be understood thoroughly that they are simply students of marine duties and not of their general duties. All the officers who were on the U. S. S-51 at the time she was sunk were fully qualified in surface ship duties and to stand watch as officers of the deck. In addition three of the six officers had considerable submarine experience and the other three had already had two months training in submarines.

"At the time that the S-51 was sunk she was operated as a surface vessel and there is no doubt in our minds that responsibility for the collision rests solely on the shoulders of the City of Rome. From the reports of her officers, our present knowledge of the collision, and the statements of passengers, as reported to us, it is clear that the City of Rome either:

"1. Assumed that she was meeting a small commercial vessel which could be robbed of her right of way by the larger passenger vessel, or

"2. That the officers on watch on the City fo Rome incompetently failed to recognize that the two vessels were drawing dangerously close until it was took late for the City of Rome to take the proper moves to yield to the S-51 her right of way due to the relative positions of the two vessels or

"3. That the officers on watch on the City of Rome took the wrong measures when it was seen that collision was imminent.

"There is no evidence to show or reason to believe that the officers of the S-51 did not handle their vessel properly as was expected of officers of their training and experience. It is undoubtedly true that the lubberly

WESTERLY

Frank A. Beswick, 19, of Alton, R. I., party of the first part in the Sunday night Rodeo staged on West Broad and Broad streets, Westerly, at about 7:15 o'clock with Connecticut State Trooper Giles Watson, Officer No. 79 at the Groton barracks, motoring a close second, was released late Sunday night by the Westerly police, with a summons to appear in the regular session of Third District court in Westerly, on Friday, Oct. 2nd to answer to a charge of reckless operation of an automobile. The Alton man attempted to escape after he was requested to stop at the junction of the Angell's road with the Westerly-Stonington highway. Patrolman George H. Champlin took Beswick, whom he had overtaken in a commandered auto, to the police station, on a charge of reckless driving.

Sunday next Westerly patriotic societies will make a visitation to the Soldiers' Home, Bristol, R. I., making the trip by Mooney bus. At the home where Maurice Sullivan, a Westerly soldier of days gone by is in charge of the colors, a chicken dinner will be provided. Budlong post, G. A. R., and Women's Relief corps, Amos P. Chapman post, No. 2, Sons of Veterans, Women's Auxiliary, No. 11, all of Westerly, have arrangement details in charge of Charles Witter, Mrs. Albert Lewton, Miss Ida May Clarke and Mrs. Mary Thorp.

The Women's Auxiliary of Harley P. Chase post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of Pawcatuck, conducted a successful whist and dance last week end, the proceeds to help swell the relief fund for the Mackinack steamer disaster victims.

Miss Pauline G Stahle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Stahle of Pawcatuck, a graduate of the Westerly High school, class of 1924, left Westerly Monday morning for Boston, to take up her studies at Simmons college.

Commander A. H. Davis left Westerly Monday to take up his winter residence at Hilyer Place, Washington, D. C., having closed his summer home, "Bayberry Ridge," on the Westerly road to Watch Hill, near Avondale

Police Commissioned Farquhar Smith was able to be about his business Monday, after being confined to his home by illness.

Trainmaster William Smith of the New Haven railroad was a business visitor at the Westerly station on Saturday and Monday.

Departure of the family of John Moorehead from their summer cottage "Snuggery," Watch Hill, for their winter home, Pittsburgh, for which reservations were made for Sunday night, had to be cancelled, due to the illness of Mr. Moorehead's son, which detained them at Watch Hill.

Miss Marion Rita Algier of 6 Pearl street and Alonzo Archer Smith of 16 Lincoln avenue, were united in marriage Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at Christ Episcopal church by Rev. G. Edgar Tobin.

The bride was gowned in white georgette with val lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Nancy Algier, sister of the bride, wore yellow georgette with val lace trimmings and hat to match. She carried pink tea roses The best man was Clifton E. Smith, brother of the groom.

After the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents on Pearl street. Many beautiful gifts were received by the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on a brief wedding trip to New York city.

Mrs. Lydia E. Lamphear, 82, widow of Stephen A. Lamphear, died Monday morning at the home of her son, Eugene E. Lamphear, 31 Granite street. She had been in failing health for several weeks.

Mrs. Lamphear, the daughter of John H. Corey and Melissa Wright Corey, was born in Salem, Conn., June 16, 1843, but nearly her whole life was spent in Westerly. Besides her son, Eugene E. Lamphear, she leaves two daughters, Mrs. William W. Bromley of Jewett City, Conn., and Mrs. Ellery Crumb of Westerly.

A large delegation from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, including representatives from the missions at Bradford, Hope Valley and Carolina, took part in the sixth triennial parade of the Union of Holy Name Societies of the diocese of Providence. The demonstration was also in connection with the dedication exercises of the new La Salle academy.

The Westerly delegation left here on the 12:21 train, although many made the trip by automobile.

There were 20 divisions in the parade and the local society was assigned to the 10th division.

The parade was under the leadership of Michael H. Corrigan, chief marshal, and his chief of staff, Luke H. Callan.

Members of the honorary staff from Westerly or who are well known here included: Governor Aram J. Pothier, former Governors William S. Flynn, James H. Higgins and Emery J. San Souci, Judges John W. Sweeney, A. A. Capotosto and Charles A. Walsh; Judge James O. Watts, Judge Michael J. Turano, M. Walter Flynn, Jr. Dr. Joseph M. Bennett, Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, Dr. P. J. Manning, Col. Cyril L. D. Pothier of Rhode Island, Rear Admiral Herbert O. Dunn of Westerly and the 243rd Regimental Commander Col. H. D. Wells of Providence and Major John J. Collins of the First Battalion of the regiment. The chairman of the observance committee is Sergeant Paul DeFanti Other committees are dance committee, Pvt. Walter Killam, chairman; Sgt. Paul Merrill and Sgt. Charles Card. The banquet committe comprises Alfred Rose, chairman, Richard Mitchell and Elmer Cushman.

DIVERS ENDEAVOR TO PENETRATE

hear sounds made by the men inside, if any of them are alive, was a matter of conjecture, but officers said it would be possible.

These divers were ordered into the battery room of the vessels, said a wireless message from Rear Admiral Christie, and from there they were instructed to work as far forward and aft as possible preliminry to further lifting operations.

How long it might be before they could be heard from was problematical. It was said they might have some trouble in getting through the hole in the vessel's side and that they might find other obstacles to prevent a quicq survey of the inside of the ship.

This work of the divers may prove extremely hazardous, since they will be forced to crawl about ship dragging their air hose after them and making sure that their source of supply is not cut off.

CHIEF BOATSWAIN'S MATE SUFFERS A BROKEN BACK

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 28—Rescue workers seeking to raise the sunken submarine S-51 sustained their first casualty when Harrison Knighton of Baltimore, chief Boatswain's mate on board the coast guard destroyer Cassin, suffered a broken back. The Cassin was one of the ships sent last night to aid in efforts to raise the submarine, sunk with 33 of the crew off Block Island in a collision with the steamer City of Rome. Today, Knighton was brought back to this port with a fractured spine which he suffered in a fall last night. His condition is serious, but not immediately dangerous. It was said at Newport hospital. He is paralyzed from the hips down.

The sea was very rough last night and it was raining when Knighton started up a ladder. Part way up he slipped, lost his footing and fell 12 feet to the deck.

Newspapermen who attempted to cover rescue efforts terminated today by rough seas, described conditions under which the rescue ships were forced to work as "frightful." One small boatload of newspaper men was able to reach the scene and return. Another small boat was able to go only half way and then was forced to turn back.

AIRCRAFT ORDERED TO SEARCH FOR BODIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—Upon recommendation of Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, in charge of the rescue work at the scene of the sinking of the submarine S-51, the navy department late today ordered whatever aircraft may be available at Newport, R. I., out to search for floating bodies of victims of the accident.

Admiral Christy stated he had already ordered the destroyers Mahan and Mauls out on this search. This phase of the operations it was said, was entered upon because of rough weather.

STEAMBOAT INSPECTORS POSTPONE THEIR HEARINGS

BOSTON, Sept. 28—United States steamboat inspectors investigating the collision between the steamer City of Rome and the submarine S-51 will resume their hearings here at the end of the week. Pending the return of the steamer from Savannah, the inspectors, it is expected, will hear testimony of the three members of the submarine crew saved when their vessel sank with 33 comrades.

Examination of the officers and members of the crew of the City of Rome was begun yesterday, before the ship sailed for the south.

Michael S. Lisa, and Alfred Geier, two of the survivors, who are at naval hospital at Chelsea, were not permitted to see newspapermen today. Capt. L. F. Freeman, executive officer at the hospital, said that both of them had denied having told a member of the City of Rome that two "student rookies" were in charge of the S-51. The third survivor, Dewey G. Kile, is now in New London.

AFFIDAVITS BY MEMBERS BY CREW OF CITY OF ROME

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Two affidavits made by members of the crew of the City of Rome after her collision with the submarine S-51 were given out by the ocean steamship company here tonight. The affidavits were made by William Adamson, who was on look out duty when the collision occurred, and Cornelius S. End. Adamson's statement follows:

"After these men (the three submarine survivors) were taken aboard the S. S. City of Rome while in stateroom that was assigned to them by the master of the S. S. City of Rome, two of these men by the name of Geier and Lira, told me that there were two young student officers in the conning tower of the submarine S-51 and in charge of the watch."

End's statement follows:

"While I was stationed on the cap log of the wharf at the side of the S. S. City of Rome assisting in docking the ship, one of the men, who was rescued from the submarine S-51 was spoken to in my presence by a young man in naval uniform, who asked him who was on watch on the submarine S-51 and the answer given by the one rescued from the submarine was three rookies were on watch. The young man in uniform turned away in disgust."

The ocean steamship company would not give out these affidavits until after the publication today of a statement from Lieutenant Commander H. A. Flanagan, executive officer of the submarine base at New London, denying that inexperienced officers manned the S-51 or formed part of her crew.

DESTROYERS WORKING WITH SEARCHLIGHTS

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 28—(By the A. P.)—Destroyers equipped with search lights arrived at the scene of the sinking of the S-51 tonight, said a message from newspaper men on board the U. S. S. Camden, flagship of the rescue fleet. The destroyers were ordered there to search for the bodies of any men who may have been drowned when the submarine was sunk last Friday night.

SWELL AND SWIFT TIDE FORCED DIVERS TO QUIT

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 28—The divers working on the sunken submarine S-51 were forced by a strong swell and swift tide to abandon their efforts at 11 o'clock tonight, according to a message received here by naval communications. The dispatch said that diving operations would be resumed at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning if the weather moderated.

FOSTER IN CHARGE OF THE N. Y. PROHIBITION OFFICE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. (AP)—John A. Foster, who was appointed prohibition administrator for New York today, was placed in temporary charge of the New York office the first of this month, after enforcement work in Massachusetts, Ohio, Philadelphia and this city.

Mr. Foster, who is 35, was born in Boston.

As a prohibition investigator in Massachusetts and Ohio, Mr. Foster was credited by Washington officials with breaking up liquor rings in those states.

Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, on a visit here last week said Mr. Foster's appointment was temporary and that a "big business man" was being sought for the post. Mr. Andrews said that if such a man were found, Mr. Foster would be retained as assistant administrator and would probably be named administrator at the end of a year.

GOV'T APPEAL FILED IN THE TEAPOT DOME OIL LEASE CASE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28—Containing sixty four assignments of errors, the appeal of the government in the Teapot Dome oil lease case was filed in the United States circuit court of appeals here today by C. M. Watts, assistant United States attorney of Cheyonne, Wyo., representing Atlee Pomerene and O. J. Roberts, special government counsel.

The appeal, citing exceptions to the decision of Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy of Cheyenne, handed down last June 19, which upheld the lease of the oil land to the Sinclair interests after the government charged it was fraudulently transacted, was filed too late to be heard at the December term of court, it probably will not be decided for a year.

Unless a special order is made by the court for planning the case on the May docket, which is heard at St. Paul, the case will be reviewed by the higher court in St. Louis in December 1926.

The case was brought here because this city is headquarters for the eighth circuit, United States circuit court of appeals, in which Wyoming is located.

The action of Former Secretary of the Navy Denby in leasing Teapot Dome, former naval oil reserve to the Sinclair oil interests was upheld by Judge Kennedy, who ruled that former secretary of the interior Albert B. Fall was justified in keeping the lease a secret and that the late President Harding was in his power when he transferred the reserve from the navy to interior department.

Before the Cheyenne decision was rendered, United States District Judge McCormack of Los Angeles invalidated leases of the E. L. Doheny interests on the Elk Hill, Calif., oil reserves and held that a satchel containing $100,000, given to Secretary Fall by Doheny, was evidence of the fraud.

The chief instance of error cited in the appear, which is in the name of the United States of American versus the Mammoth Oil Company, Sinclair Crude Purchasing company and the Sinclair Pipe Line company, is that the trial court went beyond its discretion by refusing to grant the government a continuance, which was deemed necessary in order to obtain the testimony of a number of material witnesses, some of whom were in Canada.

Exception is taken to that part of the trial court's finding that there was no fraud in the lease and, the lower court is alleged to have erred in ruling the lease valid. Exception is also taken to the court's ruling that Fall and Sinclair did not conspire to defraud the government in making the lease.

STATE-WIDE SEARCH BEING MADE FOR BURGLARS

RIDGEFIELD, Conn., Sept. 28, (AP)—A state-wide search was being made tonight for burglars who entered the home of Miss Emeline Roach, wealthy New York woman, here early today and stole jewelry valued at between $20,000 and $25,000. The robbery was discovered by a nurse who was awakened by the noise made by the men and who was knocked down by them when she attempted to intercept them.

The stolen jewelry consisted mostly of diamonds and pearls. An attempt was made to steal the family silver but this was dropped when the robbers were discovered at their work.

The state police, called to investigate the robbery a few minutes after the men were surprised at their work, are convinced that the job was a professional one. There were two telephone lines running into the house, one to the lower floor and the other to the floor above. The lines leading from the lower floor had been cut by the burglars but the alarm was given by a servant who used the phone line from the upper floor.

Residents of Ridgefield today told of seeing two strangers walking around the village yesterday. They had disappeared today and whether they were the robbers is not known. The state police are convinced that the burglars had a good description of the lay-out of the Roach home for after entering the house they apparently went directly to the room where Miss Roach was sleeping and where the jewels were kept.

The jewelry had been insured and investigators for insurance companies arrived here today to aid in the investigation being made by the police. They found that the burglars had been successful in making a clean getaway. Neighbors had heard no automobiles in the neighborhood at the time of the robbery and no one was found who had seen the men leave the house.

INJURED WHILE DRIVING TO ASSISTANCE OF ASSOCIATE

MERIDEN, Sept. 28—Driving out to the assistance of his business associate, Harry Israel, who, together with a companion, was injured in an auto crash on North Colony road early last night, D. J. Matarese, widely known hotel and insurance man, was severely injured when both he and Motorcycle Officer Tighe were knocked down as they stood on the spot of the first accident, by a motorist who apparently lost control of his car.

Mr. Israel, who is a prominent clothier and Mr. Matarese's partner in ownership of the Matis hotel, and Maurice Libow, who lives at the Matis were both injured; but apparently not seriously in a collision between Mr. Israel's car and a truck.

The two men had been taken away in a friend's car and Mr. Matarese was obtaining a version of the crash from the motorcycle officer when a small sedan operated by Leo Staszewski, 13, of North Colony road, who was later arrested for reckless driving, struck Matarese with terrific force, knocking him to the ground. In falling, Mr. Matarese hit against the policeman, who also was knocked down, but suffered only minor bruises. Matarese was picked up unconscious and rushed to the Meriden hospital by State Policeman Raymond Boyle. Physicians said he had a bad cut on the back of the head and other injuries but would recover.

ATTEMPT TO SHOOT STAR WITNESS IN CHAPMAN TRIAL

MERIDEN, Sept. 28. (AP)—Louis A Kubeck, star witness in the recent Chapman trial, narrowly escaped being killed early tonight when a bullet believed to have been fired at him struck a tin pan in the hands of a companion, Jack Quinn, local bowling alley proprietor, the spent missile striking Quinn about six inches above the right hip and inflicting a slight flesh wound.

Kubeck, a man named Beecher, and Quinn were talking in the open doorway of Kubeck's barn on North Colony road, when the report of a shot was heard.

Kubeck immediately asked for police protection, declaring his belief that the bullet was intended for him. Kubeck is the proprietor of the Old Colony Inn, where Chapman and Walter Shean stopped the night before the New Britain policeman was murdered. Kubeck testified against Chapman at the trial, and he has since been in fear of his life.

Sleeps Like a Child

Thanks to New Harmless Treatment.

We all remember how soundly we slept as children and how we bounced out of bed in the morning, bright, refreshed and ready for the day's play.

And you can do the same thing now if you will follow the example of thousands everywhere—take just a short treatment with the wonderful new preparation called Neura.

Neura is an easy-to-take pink pellet that does not contain any opiates or harmful habit-forming drugs of any kind. Yet the very first treatment usually gives wonderful results.

So remarkable have been the results from Neura that it is now being dispensed by Lee & Osgood Co., and all good druggists with an absolute guarantee to return your full purchase price if the very first package does not give you deep, restful sleep. Don't toss and turn for hours. Get a good night's sleep by taking Neura today.

DOUBT WHETHER BODY FOUND WAS BEALE'S

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 28. (AP)—Police today discovered the looting of a grave near the scene of an accident Friday night in which Fred G. Beale, local insurance man, was thought to have lost his life, and stopped the agent's funeral.

Suspicion that a charred body, found in Beale's automobile after an automobile accident near Hancock, N. Y., may not be that of Beale, was aroused after the open grave, robbed of its corpse, was found by Delaware county authorities.

Last Friday Beale telegraphed Mrs. Beale that he would return late that night but he failed to reach home. The next day his car was found on a little frequented road near Hancock. A body, found in the car, was burned beyond recognition. Beale's hat was found hanging on a tree with a business card in a pocket of his coat but a sum of money, said to be nearly $2,000, could not be found and no trace of rings, watch and jewelry was discovered. A verdict of accidental death was rendered by the Delaware county coroner.

Examination revealed, it was disclosed, that the body at first believed to be that of Beale, might be that of a man who had been dead for several weeks.

HEAVY REGISTRATION OF FRESHMEN AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 28, (AP)—The freshmen registration at Harvard college and the engineering school has crossed the 1,000 mark for the first time in college history, it was announced today, and the rule of limitation to that number adopted in 1923, made its bow as an active regulation.

Of the permitted one thousand, 854 men have registered for the college, and 58 for the engineering school. Late registrations allowed for special reasons will complete the total.

The enrollment in the university was announced as 6,955 at the closing of registrations, compared with 6,382 last year. The college with 3,173 registered, is larger than ever before, the registration by classes being 1,028 freshmen (including dropped freshmen), 807 sophomores, 725 juniors, 321 seniors and 92 out of course students.

EIGHT MORE ECLECTIC PHYSICIANS DEBARRED

HARTFORD, Sept. 28, (AP)—Eight names were added today to the growing list of debarred eclectics who have appealed to the superior courts of the state from the action of the state department of health in revoking their licenses to practice here. Notices of intention to appeal were received at the office of Attorney General Frank E. Healy from James Kelso, Edward M. Hull, Frank Webb, A. C. S. Von Sussenhofen, Samuel Lerner, Guy W. Van Holteren, Roland O. Bagby and Hedley V. Carter.

The licenses were revoked following investigation by the Hartford county grand jury. An extension was granted by the 1925 general assembly in the time in which the debarred eclectics might appeal to the courts for reinstatement.

TO ERECT AN ARMORY AT BRAINARD FIELD

HARTFORD, Sept. 28—(AP)—An administration building and armory will be erected at Brainard field for the 118th Observation squadron, C. N. G. and the government hangars will be moved from their present location at the north end of the field to a line running east of where the city hangar now stands, it was announced today. The present site of the government hangars has been acquired by the Koppers company of Pittsburgh, Pa., manufacturers of coke and coke bi-products. Construction, under an appropriation of $115,000 granted by the 1925 legislature, will be started October 26, two days after the aviation meet to be conducted here by the squadron.

TO ENTER THE EMPLOY OF FLORIDA REAL ESTATE CO.

HARTFORD, Sept. 28.—(AP) — H. Roger Jones, of New Hartford, legal adviser for the department of state agencies and institutions since 1919, has resigned to enter the employ of a Florida real estate company. His resignation takes the form of a leave of absence granted by the state agent Raymond F. Gates, and his return will be contingent upon whether he will permanently remain in the real estate business. Mr. Jones is to go to Florida this week and will act in a legal capacity for the concern.

Good Looks as Well as Good Service

The improved Ford Runabout, with its all-steel stream-line body, is an unusually good-looking car.

It hangs low to the ground, and the body has been lengthened and re-designed for greater comfort and convenience. The gas tank under the cowl is filled from the outside, and the weatherproof storm curtains open with both doors.

Under the sweeping rear deck is an unusually large compartment designed for convenience in carrying luggage.

Standard equipment includes four cord tires, nickeled head-lamp rims and windshield wiper.

The price remains the same $260, and you can buy on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

TROUBLES OF CONN. VALLEY TOBACCO ASSOCIATION

HARTFORD, Sept. 28.—(A. P.)—A resolution endorsing the action of the directors of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco association, who last week called for the resignation of General Manager Fred B. Griffin, was unanimously passed at a meeting of sixty members of District No. 2 in the parlors of the South Congregational church, Hockanum, tonight.

Charges of "extravagance" and "mismanagement" were made by several members owhen the meeting developed into an open discussion of the association management and selling departments. Suming up the criticism, Secretary Fred Shafer declared that while conditions might have been responsible for the reduction on prices paid to growers on different grades of tobacco, a reduction in the association overhead expenses and salaries should have been made at the same time.

The sentiment expressed was strongly in favor of continuing the association, but that there should be "an overhauling of the management and selling departments." Practically all of the speakers declared loyalty to the organization, saying that the theory of co-operation and mutual assistance for which they had formed the association is sound.

NOVEL SOLUTION FOR FRENH DEBT PAYMENT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 28.—(A. P.)—David Sherman Beach, president and actuary of the World's Liquidating and Refunding company of the world, self styled people's candidate for president in 1928, has sent a letter to Joseph Caillaux, French minister of finance, offering a solution for settlement of the French debt to the United States.

A service charge of one per cent. on all payments will be charged by Beach if his plan is adopted.

Mr. Beach is not certain whether France owes the United States $2,340,000,000 or $4,500,000,000. If the former figure is correct, he proposes to bond 6,680000 people of France for $1,000 each. Each of the 6,680,000 is to save ten cents per day for twenty years, making a yearly payment of $237,140,000 and for twenty years the gross total of $4,742,800,000, covering the interest and principal. If the debt is $4,500,000,000 Beach proposes to bond 9,000,000 people.

STAMPS AS LESSONS IN .. .. LOYALTY AND PATRIOTISM

"Postage stamps are an effective means of stimulating loyalty and patriotism. Everybody who posts or receives a communication through the United States mails receives, nolens volens, a transitory lesson in the history of the nation," says Harry S. New, postmaster general, in an article in School Life, a publican of the interior department, bureau of education.

"In general the designs upon the regular issues have included the representation of the head of one of the presidents, in the past 50 years the custom has grown of commemorating important historical events by special issues." states the postmaster general. "The novel appearance of the new stamps immediately arrests the attention of the user, and inquiry into its meaning naturally follows. The result is a valuable lesson in history which few escape, even those of limited education.

Thirteen special series of adhesive stamps have been employed to impress historical occasions upon the popular mind." Postmaster General New continues. "They have carried to thousands their first knowledge of some of the events which were thus celebrated and they have led millions of our people to a wider and more intelligent understanding of the circumstances that have contributed to our national existence."

RECORDS BROKEN AT MILITARY TRAINING CAMP

Citizen military training by the government, now in its ... year, broke all records this summer both for attendance and for the number of camps conducted throughout the country, according to the first official war department report on the 1925 citizens' military training camps, just made public.

Thirty-four thousand youths, the largest number since the C. M. T. camps were started, ranging from 17 to 24 years and drawn from all walks of life, spent 30 days under outdoor training at 40 different camps throughout the country during the summer, the report further states.

The great popularity of the camps is further shown by the fact that applications were received from 97,000 youngsters who sought enrollment. This huge over-subscription resulted in such high standards in entrance requirements that of those tentatively accepted only two percent failed to pass the final examinations.

With an enrollment of 4,720, the seventh corps area, with headquarters at Omaha, led all other corps in the number of men trained. Next, with 4,659, was the second corps, comprising New York, New Jersey and Delaware. The third corps trained 3,936 the fifth, 3,801; the fourth 3,697; the sixth, 3,567; the eighth, 3,326; the first, 3,025; and the ninth, 2,940.

More than one third of the students at this years's camps were advanced candidates and graduates of previous camps.

Farm "Hands" Now Use Autos

Many of the itinerant autumn workmen who make their living traveling from one harvest field to another and working by the day, especially in the southwest, now use automobiles which they themselves own. Many of the cars of an old model, but they work well, and the "hands" carry their families with them, camping out when traveling between jobs. Some of them go from Texas to British Columbia every year.

Millions of Coins Used

In the United States mints coins to the value of about $1,000,000 are being turned out daily, that are destined never to go into circulation. They are coined to balance the output of gold certificates, as there is a law that at least one-third of all gold certificates issued must be represented by actual gold coins in the treasury. Nearly $300,000,000 in gold coins is needed for the background for the $876,564,000 outstanding gold certificates.

Freak Coins Actually Exist.

There are some freak coins in the world that are highly prized. One is a United States bill minted for $5 on one side and $10 on the other. Sweden at one time had a coin which weighed 50 pounds. Coins on wood, cloth and grain are actually possessed by numismatic devotees.

$1,400,000 Paid for Horses

When the racing and blooded stable owned by Sir Edward Hulton, wealthy English publisher, was recently sold at New Market, 74 horses, including blood animals as well as racers, brought $1,400,000. One animal alone brought $85,000, this being Straitlace, one time winner of the Units Derby. Sir Edward's stock constituted one of the show stables of England and the sale attracted many sportsmen.

Brass Wire as Jewelry Fad

In East Africa the native woman, especially those of the "dapper age," have adopted a novel method of adornment. They are using miles of brass wire which they are winding in fantastic fashion around their arms, necks and the calves of their legs. Eighty-seven tons of this brass wire was used by the natives last year for personal adornment alone. Many firms have taken to importing it t his year for that express purpose.

Sleep Walker Shot as Burglar

George Beckman a young bricklayer of Covington, Ky., walked in his sleep. Recently he was shot and killed by Ralph Lohre, an electrician, who mistook him for a burglar. Beckman failed to heed the usual warning apparently because it not sufficient to wake him, and Lohre shot.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the month of September the number of building permits issued at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton showed a 50 per cent decrease as compared to the month of August. During September there were 19 permits granted for buildings, the value of which is placed at $54,850. The permits issued during the past quarter totaled 94, the owners' valuation being placed at $278,000. There are several applications on file at the fire marshal's office which will be granted this week.

During the past week eight permits were granted for new building, including three houses and the remainder for alterations, additions and garages. The building permits granted were as follows:

To Michael J. Ahearn to erect a seven-room cottage on Summit street for himself. The house will be 22x28 feet, of frame construction with stone and concrete foundation. The exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles and the interior in hard wood and hard finish plaster.

To Bert McCabe to erect a frame garage, 18x20 feet at 195 Summit street. The foundation and floor will be concrete.

To S. W. Loshin to build a frame garage for Anna Goldberg at 89 Mechanic street. The garage will be 18x20 feet with concrete foundation.

To S. W. Loshin to erect an addition to the present house at 92 Mechanic street for Morris Krieger. The addition will be 6x6 feet and of frame construction.

To Angelo Del Grosso to alter and add to the present building, 106 Thames street, for Alberto Violando. The alterations include making a brick store front of one story with bay window and porch over it.

To B. M. Bogedenski to build an addition to the present house of John Kubut on Yantic street. The addition will be 6x12 feet and used as a store.

To Charles J. Mathews to erect a 3-room house on North street. The house will be 18x22 feet and of frame construction with stone and concrete foundation. Mr. Mathews is also to erect another two room building on North street. The building will be 12x20 feet and of frame construction and concrete foundation.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

The sales of real estate in Norwich during the past week numbered seven which is a decrease of five sales as compared to the record for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the week totaled $36,300 as compared to $35,900 for the same week a year ago.

In New London there were 11 sales of real estate exactly the same number as during the corresponding week in 1924. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $208,900 and $53,500.

August Building Review

Substantial building gains for August are reported in 376 cities and towns by S. W. Straus and Co., establishing a new record for that month. The record for the month showed a gain of 38 per cent over August, 1924. The total was $391,458,707, a gain of $107,547,538 over August last year. Every region of the country, nearly all states, most large cities and hundreds of smaller places, showed gains. In the east 111 cities had a total of $188,237,946, compared to $118,114,395 in August. In fact, August was the first month since February that the market has exhibited consistent strength over almost its entire field. The few downward movements which occurred were of minor importance. The greater part of the market was either unchanged from July or worked to higher levels.

Building Permits in State

Building permits granted during the week in the cities of the state reported in these columns, numbered 362, as against 392 in the like week of 1924 and 388 in 1923. New construction to cost $1,0[illegible]1,809 was started this week, while a amounted to $1,428,181, and in the like year ago the cost of new building week of 1923, $803,431.

New London

The J. D. Harrison Construction Co., Inc., 105 West 40th street, New York City, representing the 325 State Street Corporation, comprised of interests who are planning for the erection of the proposed theater and business building between State and Church streets, are getting figures for the following work; Mason work, plain concrete, reinforced concrete, rubble stone work, brick work, fireproofing, finished floors and block partition work.

The H. Wales Lines Co. Mercer building, have been awarded the contract for the excavating for two proposed additions to the Mercer building on State street for Frederick W. Mercer. From private plans, the main addition, which will face State street, will be 35-120 feet, two stories high, conforming with the present building in construction. It will contain three stores with offices on the upper floors. A second addition will be in the rear, and will be one story high, 25x40 feet. The plans will be ready for bids for the general contract in about three weeks.

Bids are being received by Max Abrams, 9 Westerly place, for a garage showroom and store buildings at 414 to 126 Bank street. It is planned to demolish the present building to make way for the proposed structure. The plans call for a brick and steel building, one story high. The front section will be 42x48 feet, containing two stores and an automobile showroom. The garage in the rear will be 50x100 feet. The entire building will have steam heat a built-up roof and modern conveniences.

Plans are being prepared for a garage on Jefferson avenue at the corner of Wall street for Anthony Piscatello. The building will be 50x109 feet, of concrete and cement blocks or hollow tile construction with steel trusses, one story high. There will be steam heat and other improvements.

Silas Maxson, Jr., 232 Bank street, is starting work on three houses, one at 711 Montauk avenue, one on Pequot avenue, and the third on Henry street. The Montauk avenue house will be 36x40 feet, costing about $5,000. A two-story garage will be erected on Pequot avenue. It will be 22x26 feet, with an ell 12x[illegible] feet. All three houses will be arranged for single residences, and will have the usual improvements.

Bids have been received for the proposed addition to the dwelling of Mr. Shinman on Washington street, a report of which was previously published in these columns. Although no contracts have yet been awarded, it is understood that work will be started shortly. The addition will be on the third floor of the present house, and will provide three new rooms.

Plans are being completed for a house on Sharaf street for L. Sharaf, 72 Fairview Harbour place. The dwelling will be of the twin-house type, 32x48 feet, containing two six-room tenements. There will be hot air heat and other improvements. The owner will receive bids for the proposed construction.

Building Permits

Frank Gawicki, frame garage, 28 Cape Ann court, $300.

Stephen Tunucci, concrete block garage, 66 Smith street, $400.

Ambrome Cassara, addition, Board Walk, Ocean Beach, $2,500.

J. N. Lapointe, addition, Pequot avenue, $300.

Lenna Zwieber, garage, Willetts avenue, $200.

Silas Maxson, Jr., three houses, Montauk and Pequot avenues, and Henry street, $12,000.

Fred Belasky, frame garage, 44 Cape Ann court, $200.

Day Publishing Co., addition, North Bank street, $10,000.

Westerly

Architects and engineers, are preparing plans for complete alterations to the residence of Dr. M. H. Scanlon, 88 High street, Westerly. The plans will call for thoroughly overhauling the present house and an addition 15x70 feet. The addition will provide an office room and a sun porch. After alterations the house will contain ten rooms. There will be a new steam heating system, new plumbing and electric wiring and tile baths.

Groton

A house has been started on Monument street, Groton, by Raymond C. Bugbee, Church street, Groton. The site was purchased from the Spicer-Morgan estate.

SCHOLASTIC INTERCHANGE ACTIVE IN BRITISH EMPIRE

Arrangements for interchange of teachers at home and overseas for the coming year have been announced by the president of the board of education of Great Britain. The government of the Dominion of New Zealand; the Provinces of Ontario, Nova Scotia, Alberta, and Saskatchewan; the states of New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia; and the province of the Transvaal participate in the scheme, which was recommended by the Imperial Education conference.—School Life.

Without Sleep

In an effort to determine the effects of protracted wakefulness on the human body, Dr. E. F. Fisher and Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman of the University of Chicago remained awake continuously for five days and nights, says Popular Science Monthly. They took turns at the experiment, one acting as observer while the other stayed awake. Two assistants were necessary to keep the experimenters from falling asleep during the latter stages of the test.

"The first day was, of course, easy," says Dr. Fisher. "Any one can stay awake for a single night, and most persons probably have done so.

"The fourth night found me terribly depressed. I did not want to work at all. All I wanted to do was sleep. To make the task of staying awake a little easier for me, my attendants took me to a cabaret in hope that the excitement and change of scene might stir me up. Riding there, constant prodding by my escorts was required to keep the motion of our cab from putting me to sleep.

"I was extremely sluggish on the fifth and last day. I had lost all interest in everything—except sleep. I had to force myself to perform even the slightest movement, and I had to keep moving all the time or fall asleep on my feet. The experiment was becoming a nightmare.

"At 10 p. m. I was permitted to sit on my bed, unattended, and immediately I dropped over to the mattress, sound asleep. So I remained, almost as lifeless as a stone, for 10 hours. Then I awoke, arose, dressed myself and went about my work as usual. I was not so active as I should have been, still I was able to work and to accomplish something. Within two days I was quite normal again, seemingly none the worse for my experience."

Molasses to Aid

Molasses, once despised and rejected as a too plentiful by-product by sugar manufacturers, has recently come into a new dispensation under the tutelage of chemists, who have shown that it can drive motors. From the humble adjunct to the buckwheat cake they have derived an alcohol-ether fuel, and its production has already been developed to the stage of an infant industry.

"Present growth of the alcohol motor fuel industry indicates that it will expand greatly in the near future," says E. C. Freeland, chemical engineer.

"In almost every country the question of fuel supplies for internal combustion engines is receiving thorough consideration, and it seems very likely that the use of alcohol will increase rapidly, especially if there is any diminution of the petroleum supply.

"In the United States, where there are greater supplies of refined petroleum than in any other part of the world, and where the sale of fuel mixtures containing alcohol, benzine and other substances is comparatively light, large quantities of these mixtures will be used if the price of gasoline goes very much higher than the present level."

Ether manufacture is assuming new importance," declares Mr. Freeland. "To obviate difficulties in the use of denatured alcohol as a motor fuel and to produce a fuel with greater commercial possibilities," he points out, "substances have been added to increase the volatility, vapor pressure and explosive range of the mixture, thereby enabling existing engines to be used with only slight modifications."

TODAY'S EVENTS

Today is Michaelmas day, when according to ancient custom goose is served for dinner in English homes.

Two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Robert Clive, famous in history as the founder of the British empire in India.

One hundred years ago today died Daniel Shays, who headed the so-called "Shays' rebellion" in Massachusetts in 1787.

Ten years ago today the first telephone message across the continent was sent from New York to Mare Island, California.

The consecration of Rev. John Durham Wing as coadutor bishop of the Episcopal diocese of South Florida takes place today in Chattanooga.

The price for haircuts, shaves, and accessories will be discused today when master and journeymen barbers from all over the country get together in Cleveland.

Under the auspices of the National Civic Federation prominent men in business, industry and labor will confer in New York today on important industrial problems, especially the present anthracite coal strike.

Two elections of nation-wide interest are to be held today. In Wisconsin a United States senator is to be chosen to succeed the late Robert M. LaFollette, and in the second congressional district of Massachusetts the voters will decide upon the successor of Representative George B. Churchill, deceased.

Palace Theatre

In "The Man Who Found Himself," his latest starring production for Paramount, a prison story by Booth Tarkington, Tom Meighan has the role of a happy-go-lucky son of a small town banker. His family is looked up to and respected in their community.

As things sometimes happen in a small town, the bank goes to the wall as a result of a "run" brought on when a rival banker, played by Frank Morgan, of stage fame, informs the bank examiners that there is some funny business going on in the Macauley bank.

It develops that Tom's younger brother, because of the insistence of his pin-headed, luxury-loving wife, has lost heavily in Wall street, borrowed bank funds to "cover up" and then had gone to the rival banker for aid which was promised him. The other, however, takes advantage of the situation to get rid of a big business rival by informing bank officials of the irregularity.

To shield his brother, Tom goes "up the river" for a two year stretch. His term is barely half served when word comes that Lon Morris, the crooked banker, has talked Tom's fiancé, played by Virginia Valli, into marrying him. Tom, now a trusty, skips jail to prevent the wedding but arrives on the scene just too late. He returns to finish out his term, dead set against everything and everybody.

When, finally, he is freed, his family, not knowing the sacrifice he has made for them, are horrified lest his criminal past disgrace them. They urged him to leave town, virtually turning him out. He thinks even the girl has deserted him.

Tom then realizes the truth of a brother convict that it isn't the prison itself that's so bad, it's the stigma of jail, the sinister whispers that follow him everywhere. Embittered, he joins in with a couple of crooks, determined to get revenge on the man who had "put him away." But the girl, who has always been true to him, seeks him out and turns his face again toward the light.

It's a situation of great drama and heart-interest.

Remember "The Bachelor Daddy," "Back Home and Broke" and "Pied Piper Malone," Alfred E. Green, who directed this picture, made them.

Broadway Theatre

You discriminate theatregoers who have been clamoring for a show that is out of the ordinary; to you we give this advice: drop into the Broadway Theatre today and enjoy the happiest moments of your life. The B. F. Keith vaudeville is exceptional and far out of the ordinary.

The photoplay is as fine a one as you would want to see. It's a Paramount picture with Adolphe Menjou and Gretta Nissen in "Lost—a Wife."

Miss Val Jean opened the vaudeville program in a versatile novelty, glorifying the vaudeville girl. She merited the applause given.

Gertrude Barnes "A Ray of Sunshine" is ably assisted by Jack Ford at the piano. You just can't help but liking her.

Overholt & Young followed with a comedy satire, "Special Delivery." It bubbles over with animation and enthusiasm; it's pure fun all through.

Jack McCowan is called "A Man of Very Few Words." His kind of fun caused roars of laughter unabated. He's great.

The closing numberk proved to be the best revue ever seen in Norwich. It features Dolly Arthur & Co., in a musical farce, "Help Wanted." Chic, pretty girlies, who sing and dance with vigor, real fun and music tops off this exceptional offering.

Breed Theater

Norma Shearer is wearing some unusual and striking creations in Hobart Henley's production of A Slave of Fashion, the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer picture playing at the Breed theater.

Ethel Painter Chaffin, head of the costume department at the studio, designed the gowns which were especially modelled for Miss Shearer.

By an odd trick of fate the heroine, Katherine, played by Miss Shearer, is transplanted from a small town in Iowa to the dazzling city of New York where clothes of every type and description are bestowed upon her. In some of them she looks sophisticated, in others dainty, but in all of them, very beautiful.

She wears one tightly fitted gown with a long train. It is made of cloth of gold and is cut decolette. With it she wears long black jea carrings and her hair drawn tightly back and twisted in a French roll.

As a contrast there is another dinner costume of silver net, heavily embroidered with silver braid. The dress is simply made and an accompanying coat of the same material is luxuriously trimmed with white fox.

There is also a negligee of bright yellow, splashed with brilliant purple, which looks very striking on her.

A Slave of Fashion was adapted to the screen by Bess Meredyth from Samuel Shipman's original story. Miss Shearer is starred, with Lew Cody featured and a great cast in support.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Sousa Discovers Perpetual motion.

Every concert by Sousa's band is conducted from beginning to end by "March King."

With the addition of thirty minutes of jazz to his programme, the slogan for the annual tour of Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa and his band has officially been made "Try to Keep Your Feet Still," but the unofficial slogan for this particular tour—his thirty-second, by the way—or for any other is "Sousa, Himself, in Person (Not a Motion Picture)."

There is only one Sousa, there is only one Soust's band, and Soust conducts every concert, and every number of every concert in which the Sousa organization appears. There is no post of assistant conductor with Sousa's band, and if the Olympic games included an event for conductors of bands and orchestras, Sousa without much doubt would be returned the winner.

When Sousa first organized his band, he made it a rule never to turn over his band to the direction of another person, and while he was told by older and presumably wiser conductors, that the strain of conducting constantly would wear him out in a few years, Sousa apparently is as able to undergo the physical strain of a concert as at the outset of his career.

A Sousa concert lasts about two hours and thirty minutes, but into that space of time Sousa puts considerably more than three hours of music. This Einsteinian statement is explained by the fact that Sousa does not leave his platform at the end of each number, make his exit, return to the platform two or three times for bows and then play an encore. Within fifteen seconds of the end of a number, Sousa has decided from the volume of applause whether an encore is justified and is directing the number.

Sousa not only conducts during the ensemble numbers of his programme, but also during the solos. The great majority of conductors find it necessary because of physical exertion to relinquish the conductor's stand to an assistant during these numbers, and most conductors find a few minutes' rest between parts of a suite or a symphony by dropping into a chair placed near the conductor's stand. Sousa never sits down on the stage, and he never leaves it, except at the intermission, from the beginning to end of the concert. There is a story among the Sousa bandsmen that the "governor" as they lovingly term him, rests himself during the ten-minute intermission by taking a brisk walk!

Germans Trying to Get Thin

German women, in an effort to reduce, are creating a big market for pineapples, which are believed to be especially efficacious in reducing weight. German women pay extremely fancy prices for this fruit. They eat pineapples as Americans eat grapefruit before breakfast, and also after any fatty dish at dinner or luncheon.

Mice Blind Nineteen Days

The young of the red-tree mouse, which lives in California, does not open its eyes until the nineteenth day after it is born. The red-tree mouse is said to be more truly tree-living than any other mammal in the United States with the exception of the flying squirrel.

Love at first sight often causes the victims to wish they had consulted an oculist.

NEW LONDON MAN WITH EXTRA WIFE IS HELD FOR THE SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28.—Daniel Weyant is on the road to state prison. It is the opinion of all familiar with the case, which was first made known by The Bulletin, that he will get to his destination. He was in the police court this morning charged with bigamy—having had three wives, two of them acquired by his going through the ceremony provided by law, and one without taking that much trouble to live with a woman as her husband. Weyant has of late made his home on a boat with others in this harbor. His first wife he took unto himself in 1915 when he married Alice Helen Waldreau at Cromwell, Conn. When the latter learned that Weyant was living with Iola Richards as her husband, she started something. The information came through the state police to the New London authorities and they sought to be told how it was that Daniel Weyant could disport in that sort of way in defiance of the statutes. That started Sergeant Smith and he got the facts and laid them before the prosecuting attorney, with the result that Weyant was arrested in Waterford. He demurred to the complaint which told that Weyant had married twice. He had nothing else in sight to do that would give him any hope of leniency in any degree. He was held in the absence of a bail bond of $2,000, for trial in the superior court at the January term.

Leonard Sheffiott, Jr., and Miss Helen E Gilmore, of Hope street, daughter of George Gilmore and a clerk in the employ of City Treasurer Herbert G. Huntley, were married this morning at 7 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the nuptial mass being sung by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and acquaintances. George Sheffiott, brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Eleanor Cowley attended the bride.

Motorcycle Officer George McCaskey was given a hearing this forenoon at the office of City Manager William A. Holt on charges of violating the rules and regulations of the police department in refusing to obey the command of his superior officer. The witnesses, other than McCaskey, were Acting Captain James C. Sullivan, Acting Sergeant William Babcock and Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh. Upon the conclusion of testimony City Manager Holt found McCaskey guilty of the charges and ordered the officer suspended a week, the date of the suspension being from last Friday when the infraction of the police rules and regulations occurred.

McCaskey admitted having received the order of Acting Sergeant Babcock for the former to relieve Traffic Officer Frank Lapelsa, who had been on duty on the fixed station, corner of State and Main street, three hours, but claimed he did not refuse to carry out the order other than to await finishing the task of shining his putties. He also admitted having used threatening language to Acting Sergeant Babcock, but declared that was after he had been suspended by Acting Captain Sullivan and being relieved of duty he had the right as a private citizen to express such views as he entertained, particularly his feeling toward the acting sergeant.

Acting Captain Sullivan testified to having received the complaint of Acting Sergeant Babcock relative to McCaskey's acts and to having relieved the officer complained against of his badge, ordering McCaskey suspended.

Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith testified to having been present at the station house at the time that McCaskey threatened Babcock.

Acting Sergeant Babcock gave evidence as to his order to McCaskey and the latter's refusal to carry it out, together with McCaskey's threatening attitude; also to reporting the incident to Acting Captain Sullivan, which, according to Babcock, was more for the purpose of McCaskey being reprimanded than to cause his being suspended.

Dr. Elizabeth Lawrence, of 52 Huntington street; Miss Elizabeth Fraser, Old Lyme; Mrs. Nellie Edwards, Montville; Mrs. Joseph Tracey and infant daughter, 416 Williams street; Miss Mildred Stenhouse, Westerly; Mrs. Laurence Mancini and infant daughter, 22 Chappell street, and Mrs. Antone Jenzone, 16 Bayonet street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Funeral services for Katherine, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perley Moriarty, 24 Harrison street, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the child's parents, Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of the Montauk Avenue Baptist church, officiating. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Miss Julia A. Jennings was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Second Congregational church house, Broad street, and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the church. Deacons of the church acted as bearers. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Dorothy Lewis, colored, walked up to the clerk's desk in the police court today and deposited more than $60 she owed to the city, when she was complained against for keeping a disorderly house at 667 Main street. Mrs. Lewis was assisted in negotiating her financial deal by Edward Jones. Dorothy conducted a place that led neighbors to ask the police in writing how it was that she had immunity in this respect. When that query was made of Policeman Graham, he proceeded to get wise and in a few days after he was interrogated he had Dorothy in court. She said she was guilty when the complaint was read to her. She couldn't say otherwise and get away with it for the police had the evidence to convict. William West, a white man, found in the place and who said he paid $2 for a room there for the night, was charged with frequenting a place that was not what it should be; he was fined $5 and assessed $10 in costs. William had the money to settle, but the payment broke him. Dorothy was found on the sidewalk intoxicated when the police went there Saturday night. She has resided in New London ten years.

There were half a dozen drunks in court this morning after what is generally considered pay day—Saturday. One of them, Michael Shea, had been in court as recently as Sept. 12, when he was shown leniency that kept him out of jail. Today he was told that he could not expect to continue his sprees and keep from jail. He was sent up this morning for a stay of ten days. He had the Fishers Island story to tell and perhaps it would have served him had he not fallen overboard Sunday when he was taken from the river by a railroad policeman. Two other drunks got away with the payment of small fines and one was placed on probation.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Kennedy, widow of Dennis Kennedy, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by many relatives and acquaintances of Mrs. Kennedy. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wolschlaeger. The bearers were Edward Lezarde, Harold Holloway, John Henry, Richard Hayes, Frank Dunn and William Lezarde. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Angela Andrelli, aged 2, daughter of Mr and Mrs Nicholas Andrelli, 30 Montauk avenue, died Sunday night at Home Memorial hospital. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the child's parents. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

William P. McMahon, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon, died Sunday at the residence of his parents, 419 Williams street. Mr. McMahon had been in ill health a long time, having been a sufferer from lung trouble. He was employed several years as bookkeeper by Taft Brothers. Besides his parents, he is survived by several sisters.

George C. and Beatrice M. Carr have sold a house and lot at 49 Phillips street to William M. Darrow.

Mrs. Grace Dickiow, 124 Willetta avenue, reported to the police this afternoon that while she was in the Crystal barber shop, State street, she dropped a $10 bill, but that she did not discover the loss until a few minutes later. She returned to the barber shop and making inquiry as to whether the money had been found, was informed by a colored bootblack that he had found the bill but that he had turned it over to a sailor, who was in the place in civilian clothes, who claimed to have dropped the money.

Capt. Grady, of the Willimantic police, today requested the New London authorities to be on the lookout for two youths who ran away from Willimantic earlier in the day. The boys are Anthony Denin, 14, and Michael DeFillipo, also 14.

Robert Tetreault, residing at the Hotel Bishops, purchased a Stanley steamer in Boston Saturday and the following day he returned to New London with the automobile. Last night he left the car parked on the property of the Dixie Filling station, corner of Huntington and Church streets, where it was stolen. Tetreault discovered his loss this morning and reported it at the police. Late this afternoon Richard Kiely, night driver of the Allen hook and ladder company, informed the police that he had observed a Stanley steamer parked along the highway north of the Thames river bridge in Groton. The state police barracks were notified and an officer sent to where the car was abandoned found it to be the stolen machine. Tetreault later went to Groton and took charge of the car.

The feature of the first business meeting of the season of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women is to be an address by the Rev. Father J. J. Keane of St. Michael's parish, Westerly, on the topic, The Time We Are Living In. The meeting will be held Tuesday evening in the rooms of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service at 42 Jay street. Father Keane is particularly interested in boys and their activities and is the leader of the Boy Scout movement in Westerly.

Following the arrest of Patrolman Howard Sloan Saturday night, charged by the authorities of Waterford with operating a motor vehicle on the morning of the 15th inst. while intoxicated, a hearing on the charge to take place in the Waterford town court Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, City Manager William A. Holt late this afternoon, ordered Sloan suspended indefinitely. He also ordered him to appear before the city manager at the municipal building next Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to answer the charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, preferred against Sloan several days ago by Richard Storey, Jordan Village, Waterford, acting as guardian of his minor daughter, Ruth, whom Sloan is alleged to have assaulted in an automobile near Quaker Hill during the early hours of last Tuesday morning. Sergeant Nelson Smith notified Sloan of his suspension and relieved the officer of his badge, revolver and club.

This afternoon and early this evening, Sergeants Smith and John Cavanaugh continued their investigation as to Sloan's conduct and movements on the night of the alleged assault upon the Storey girl and at the request of the city manager the officers interrogated witnesses who observed Sloan at the union station and departing in the automobile in which he was riding with the Storey girl and a sailor, James Hubbell, stationed at the state pier. The sailor was discharged from the car at the pier and Sloan is alleged then to have driven the girl to the country where he is accused of assaulting the girl, finally leaving her in the highway cut and bleeding after the car had struck a boulder beside the highway and was wrecked. Sloan was also interviewed by the officers; it is understood he has practically admitted all the accusations made against him. It is also understood that the officer will be represented by counsel when the hearing takes place, Friday afternoon.

SITE FOR $750,000 THEATRE WAS ACQUIRED MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28.—Title in the property on State and Church streets, owned by Walter S. Garde, negotiated for several weeks as a site for a modern theatre, was transferred to The 325 State Street corporation this afternoon, when Attorney Frank L. McGuire, acting for Mr. Garde, filed the papers legalizing the transfer at the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran. The papers reveal that the Colonial Bond & Mortgage company is the holder of the second mortgage and for $360,000, while Mr. Garde takes a first mortgage for $130,000. The funds derived from the two mortgages will be used to partially defray the cost of erecting the playhouse, whose aggregate cost, it is stated, will be close to $750,000. It is understood that work on the erection of the theatre will be started early in the spring, so that the playhouse will be completed by the fall of 1926.

BRANDEGEE HOMESTEAD SOLD WITH OTHER PROPERTY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28.—The deed transferring the property bounded by Hempstead, Fremont, Walker and Bristol streets, from the National Bank of Commerce, administrators of the estate of Senator Frank Bosworth Brandegee, to Benjamin A. Armstrong was received for record at the office of the city clerk this afternoon. The price paid for the realty was $42,500.

The property consists of a large dwelling, fronting on Hempstead street, for many years the home of Senator Brandegee and his father, the late Augustus Brandegee; a large tract of land on Fremont street, two tracts of land on Hempstead street, a parcel of land on Bristol street, three dwellings on Walker street and a house and garage on Bristol street. It is understood that Mr. Armstrong will cause the several parcels of land to be cut up into building lots. At the time it became known that the Brandegee property was being negotiated for, it was stated that Mr Armstrong was the purchaser, but Earl W. Stumm, of the National Bank of Commerce, denied that Mr. Armstrong was in any way interested in the pending negotiation.

COUNCIL REDUCES WATER PRICES TO MANUFACTURERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 28.—The city council held its last meeting of the fiscal year this evening with all the members present. The council which will serve the city during the year to come will have the same membership as the expiring council has had, with the exception that Mayor Clark will no longer be associated with that body. He retires and James A. May succeeds him. The council received applications for permits to build or alter property from fifteen applicants, most of the permits being for the construction of garages, though there were petitions for permits for the erection of a few dwellings, mostly cottages. The permits were all granted. The sum of $21,000 was transferred from various accounts to others.

The council voted to purchase land on Catherine street to connect with Robinson street and to extend to Riverview avenue. There are eight lots to be purchased and thus extend Blydenburg avenue. Five of the lots belong to Leeds and Johnson and three to Ernest E. Rogers, who has built several cottages on the land he owns there. The lots are to be bought at prices of $1,750 for three of them and $600 for the remainder, the whole cost price to be $5,350. A report from the city manager advised the purchase of the land at the prices named, and that official was given authority to make the purchase. Blydenburg avenue extends across Montauk avenue to the land that is known as "the circus lot" and Catherine street extends south to north, from Willetta avenue and Riverview avenue.

The council also voted to construct a sewer on Pequot avenue from Gardner avenue north to School street, a distance of 4,200 feet, at a cost of $36,700, the expense to be assessed entirely against abutting property.

The ordinance concerning and fixing water and sewer rates was offered for its third reading and was amended by Councilor Whiton and then adopted. The amendment reduces the price charged to manufacturers for water service for fire purposes, to which there was a strenuous objection on the part of the New London Manufacturers' association at previous readings. Councilor Whiton explained that the change decided upon by the committee to which the matter was referred reduced the revenue of the water department. He declared that it was realized that the earnings of the water department should be maintained at figured that might provide for expenses that could not be foreseen, but which were necessary for the proper maintenance of the department. Rates for other service were increased with a view to meeting those expenses. He represented that the reduction in the changing of the fire service rate approximated $4,500 and the advanced rate on other service gave an increase of approximately $4,937. He said that some 100 users would be affected by the changes in one class of consumers and that $00 or $06 would feel the change by an increase from $1 to $1.20 and about 100 by an increase from 60 cents to 70 cents in another class. He said the manufacturers objected to paying for water for fire service when they were supplying the means and facilities for making use of that water. The amendment was adopted and the resolution changing the rates was passed. A resolution passed that money collected as of July 1st from the manufacturers should be refunded.

Ernest E. Rogers offered to convey to the city the title in 1,312 square feet of land on Pequot avenue, near his residence, that Chappell street at Pequot avenue might be widened. A map of the proposed change was exhibited to the council membership and was explained by the city manager. The council instructed the city manager to accept the offer on the terms of the proposition by Mr. Rogers, and then on motion of Councilor Scott the city manager was instructed to have prepared an estimate of the cost of macadamizing Chappell street its entire length.

The public utilities commission gave notice of a hearing at the municipal building in Putnam on the 30th inst. at 10:30 a. m. to hear and act on the application of W. G. Haggerty for permission to operate a bus line from Worcester to New London, via Putnam. Manager Holt informed the council that he had attended a hearing in which one Visconte sought permission to operate a bus route from New London to Jordan Village and to Waterford station and Ridgewood park and Ocean avenue. The manager stated that he at that hearing asked that the city of New London should have the privilege of approving the route over which the buses should travel, and that was agreed upon, but he had not received any report as to what had been decided upon.

The council received a communication from the directors of the Chamber of Commerce appealing for the employment of the zoning law which was passed by the state legislature at its last session. The communication represented that such a law would be for the perfection and growth of the city. Walter Garde was the signer of the communication for the directors. The communication was referred to the planning board.

Councilor Streeter wanted information as to what had become of the police report and the rules and regulations prepared by New York police officials. He said the council should take action upon them and dispose of them. Manager Holt said the report from the New York officers had been referred to the city manager and the committee on public safety, but that the captain of police had since been much affected by the report and that the committee had not yet had the opportunity to consider fully the report. He expected to do that soon, as the captain of police was recovering and would soon be back to his duties.

Some desultory remarks were made as to the extension of Converse lane, which matter was brought up by Councilor Streeter with the idea that city land was being encroached upon. It was decided that no such encroachment was being made. The matter was called to the attention of the planning board that the extension of Converse lane to Montauk avenue might be considered.

TO STIMULATE ENTHUSIASM FOR EDUCATION

American education week, under the joint auspices of the United States bureau of education, the National educational association, and the American Legion, will be observed this year November 16 to 22. Special features suggested for the various days are: Monday, The Constitution; Tuesday, Patriotism; Wednesday, School and Teacher; Thursday, Conservation and Thrift; Friday, Know Your School; Saturday, Community and Health; and Sunday, For God and Country. Since the custom was introduced in 1920 by the United States commissioner of education, its observance has widely increased.

Grass and Weeds

It is pleasant to remember that in our climate there are no weeds so persistent and lasting and universal as grass. Grass is the natural covering of the fields. We crop it and mow it year after year; and yet, if the season favors, it is sure to come again. Fields that have never known the plow, and never been seeded by man, are yet covered with grass. And in human nature, too, weeds are by no means in the ascendant, troublesome as they are. The good green grass of love and truthfulness and common sense is more universal and crowds the idle weeds to the wall. — John Burroughs.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

In Norwich three quarters of a century ago there were the rumblings of secession in the South. Reports came from South Carolina that a general plan was under way there in which Georgia would join to resist the laws of the United States. The slave question was becoming more bitter as the weeks went by and there were reports of massacres and outrages in the south. Several local people returned from California and the death of two Norwich men were reported during the week.

Extracts from the Norwich Courier of 1850 follow:

Tuesday Sept. 24 1850—Among the passengers from California by the Ohio, we perceive the name of William C. Potter of Norwich who went to California last spring. The Ohio carried $300,000 in gold dust on her return from the western coast and 300 returning passengers. Letters to local people contain accounts of the fighting over land grants around Sacramento in which several persons were killed.

Ezra H. Corning, a former resident of Norwich, who was injured on the Connecticut river railroad a year ago and recovered $10,000 died at Chicopee Falls yesterday.

A letter from Fitz Edward Hall, formerly of this city, who is conductor of the English College at Benacres, India, tells of the explosion of 181 tons of gunpowder being carried on boats up the Ganges. Mr. Hall states that the havor wrought by the explosion was appalling and that the city was almost totally destroyed and the death toll was beyond computation at the time of writing.

Thursday, Sept. 26, 1850—We saw two or three days ago a small basket of the largest, most luscious peaches we'ch have greeted our eyes in the season. They were raised in Lebanon from the stone by our friend, J. M. Woodworth; and, he informs us, are a new variety. He considers the peach as pre-eminent among peaches as Jenny Lind is among vocalists, and has therefore christened it the Jenny Lind peach.

In Boston where Jenny Lind is to sing tickets for the opening concert were auctioned off and the first ticket put up brought the amazing sum of $650 bid in by Ossian E. Dodge, noted vocalist and humorist. Other tickets brought $25 and $16 dollars each, none selling less than $10.

It will be of interest to local visitors in New York to know that the Hotel Astor has raised the price of board from $2 to $2.50 per day.

Among the names of those who died of cholera on board the Falcon on her last passage from Chagres to Havana is the name of William Maynard of Connecticut. This it is feared, is a son of J. W. Maynard of this city. He was on his way home to visit his parents.

Saturday, Sept. 28, 1850—It is our painful duty to record the death of another of our most highly respected citizens—the Hon. Charles P. Huntington. He died at 4 o'clock this morning after an illness of only two or three days duration. Mr. Huntington was one of the most marked men in the community; and the universal respect with which his views and opinions on all public questions were received, showed the high estimate in which he was held. His death leaves a gap in the community which will not soon be filled.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser states that reports have reached the seat of government from reliable sources that serious preparations are making in South Carolina under the sanction of the state authorities for a general plan of resistance to the laws of the United States, or in other words, secession. The plan is said to be to invite the direct and cordial co-operation of Georgia.

DEER HUNTING AUTHORIZED ON KAIBAB NATIONAL FOREST

Deer hunting on the Kaibab national forest and game preserve in southern Utah will be permitted from October 1 to November 30, according to an agreement made between the state of Arizona and the forest service, United States department of agriculture.

All hunting will be by Federal permit only as the number of deer to be killed is limited. Applications for these permits at Ogden, Utah, or to United States forest officers at Kanab, Utah.

Forestry officials of the department of agriculture for several years have realized the necessity of reducing the size of the deer herd now grazing on the Kaibab Forest and Game Preserve in order to protect the entire herd from starvation and disease. The range itself has been badly overgrazed and needs protection.

The number of deer in the preserve has been variously estimated from 20,000 to 50,000 with a fawn crop of between 5,000 and 8,000. The hunting will be directed from designated camps on the east and west sides of the national forest and game preserve where it will not interfere with the drifting of the deer on the top of the plateau. There will be no hunting within several miles of the main highway.

No one person will be permitted to kill in excess of three animals and a charge of $5 per animal will be made. The necessary authority can be secured at the camps, which may be reached through Fredonia or Kanab from the north or across Lees Ferry from the south. In order to avoid accidents, only a limited number of persons will be permitted on the area each day. Persons who desire to hunt the deer should make application for a specific date.

WYOMING IS PROVIDING FOR HANDICAPPED CHILDREN

To encourage the formation of special classes for mentally or physically handicapped children unable to do satisfactory work in regular schools, the Wyoming state board of education has been enabled by legislative appropriation to offer a bonus to local school boards which conduct approval special classes. The cost of educating a special pupil, it is found, ranges from $100 to $143, or an average of approximately $115 per year. The cost of a regular grade student ranges from $70 to $100 with an average of $84 per year. So great is the demand for trained special-class teachers that the school of education of the state university offers summer courses to meet the requirements of the board of education.

STUDENT BORROWERS PROVE SAFE RISK

Loans granted to students on a character basis and for purposes of study are reported by the Harmon Foundation to be good pay. More than 40 per cent of the $26,385 loaned to students during the year 1922-23 has been paid, though according to agreement only 29 per cent was due on February 1, 1925. The foundation reports that not a single account is likely to default.

STOCKS AND CONSUMPTION OF TURPENTINE AND ROSIN

On the first of April, 1925, the chief turpentine and rosin using industries in the United States had on hand 1,265,000 gallons of turpentine and 195,636 round barrels of rosin, according to a compilation made by the bureau of chemistry, United States department of agriculture, on the figures furnished by the various industries using these products. On April 1, 1924 they had on hand 834,850 gallons of turpentine and 264,558 round barrels of rosin.

The industries covered in the above compilation included makers of paint, varnish, soap, paper, rosin oil, pitch, printing ink, shoe polish, leather dressings, sealing wax, fly paper, insulating materials, oils, greases, linoleum, roofing, automobiles and wagons, malleable iron and steel pharmaceuticals, woodenware, and the operators of shipyards. Of these industries paint and varnish shoe polish, leather dressings, and the automobile industry used the greater part of the turpentine, while the paper and paper size, varnish, soap, rosin oil, pitch, and printing ink makers used by far the larger part of the rosin.

On April 1, 1925 there were held as stocks at primary markets, ports, and distributing points throughout the country, and en route to dealers and distributors, a total of 2,561,900 gallons of turpentine, equivalent to 51,236 casks, and a total of 254,949 round barrels of rosin. Stocks at the same points on April 1, 1924 amounted to 2,795,000 gallons of turpentine, equivalent to 55,900 casks, and 351,976 round barrels of rosin.

MARKET WAS ERRATIC

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Stock prices fluctuated erratically today, with the market losing ground in the face of spectacular rallies in the motor, baking and mercantile shares. Trading was unsettled by the growing uncertainty over the money situation which was intensified by the calling of $25,000,000 in bank loans and advances in the rate on call funds to 5 1-2 per cent, after renewals had been effected at 4 1-2 per cent.

Throughout the day the market was shot through with baffling cross currents. Speculators for the decline maintained control of the price movement. Although aggressive buying operations were carried out in several groups, attaining such proportions at the close that American Can and other leaders were able to overcome their early weakness.

Chrysler was the star performer of the day, soaring 16 points to a record high price of 190. A flood of buying orders poured in for the stock following announcement that production would be greatly enlarged this fall and this was swollen in the final hour by a hasty retreat of short interests, new top prices also were established by Hudson motors at 90; General Motors at 108 7-8, and Fisher body at 130. The net gains ranging from 2 3-4 to more than 8 points.

Another impressive demonstration of group strength was given by the baking company shares, which were buoyed up by reports that merger negotiations long pending among the leaders in this field would soon be brought to a head. General Baking broke into new high ground at 205 1-2 and closed 11 points higher at 204. Ward baking A mounted 12 points but the "B" stocks eased off slightly after selling as high as 73 7-8. Cushman was pushed up more than five points to a new top price.

American Can furnished one of the surprises of the day by its startling comeback in the final hour. After breaking from an early high mark of 243 to 233 1-2, it responded to the bidding of nervous shorts by a last minute rush to 240. Where it registered a gain of 3 1-2 points on the day U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Dupont also rallied smartly, but selling pressure persisted against U. S. Steel which closed fractionally lower at 120 1-8 after being driven down to 118 1-2.

Reports of improving retail trade stimulated buying of various mercantile and food company stocks. The demand embraced such issues as May department stores, Onyx hosiery preferred, Cudahy Packing and Great western sugar, which moved up 2 to almost 6 points. Detroit Edison showed independent strength among the public utilities, running up 7 1-8 points.

Traders found it impossible to create much interest in the railroad shares despite the appearance of additional favorable earning statements for August. Southern Railway and Reading fell back more than a point each and heavy selling of Missouri Pacific, Rock Island and other southwestern carriers followed rumors that fall traffic in this territory would be reduced by the recent drought.

Money rates stiffened again today as banks called loans freely to obtain funds for the month end settlements. Call money, after renewing at 4 1-2 per cent was marked up to five and finally to 5 1-2 per cent. Sixty to ninety day time loans again commanded 4 3-4 per cent although they were readily available at 4 1-2 at the close of last week.

Foreign exchanges developed a reactionary trend. Demand sterling was quoted below $4.82 for the first time since April 30, a decline bringing the rate below the generally accepted "gold point." French francs were slightly easier and Norwegian kroner fell below the twenty cent level for the first time in several weeks.

TAFTVILLE

The regular meeting of the Lafayette club was held Wednesday evening in the clubrooms at the Ponemah house with President Omer Teiller presiding. At this meeting the members decided to hold their annual banquet some time next month. A very able committee was appointed to attend to the details and from all indications this affair will prove one of the biggest social events ever held by this organization. The following members comprise the committee in charge: Conrad Ducharme, chairman; D. Bibeault, E. Bellerose, A. Bibeault, R. Faucher, S. Danis, H. Faucher, M Morin, Cyril McClure, H. Caya, Robert Turcotte and A. Therrien. A drive is now on to increase the membership. The Lafayette club ranks as one of the most up-to-date organizations in the village, as considerable new equipment has been added to their rooms recently, including a brand new billiard table.

Among those who visited the Eastern States exposition at Springfield last week were Mr. and Mrs. Nathan S. Bushnell of the Old Canterbury turnpike, who made the trip in their automobile.

At a special business meeting held after the morning service last Sunday, and presided over by Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, the pastor, the congregation of the Taftville Congregational church voted to hold their annual fair some time this fall. An open meeting will be called in the near future, to which all those interested in the fair will be invited. At this time a general fair committee will be elected and that committee will in turn appoint its sub-committees.

Miss Eva Bedard of Providence street has resigned her position with the Ponemah mills and has gone to New York where she is to be employed as a telephone operator.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene N. Monty and their daughter, Miss Bertha Monty, of Riverside Grove have returned from an automobile tour to various places in the Province or Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Hedler and son, Curtis Hedler, of Terrace avenue, have returned from a short stay with Mr. Hedler's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Hedler of Baltic.

Peter Lukoff of South B street spent the week end in Hallville with his cousin, Stephen Patrylo.

Mrs. Mary Sigrist of Merchants avenue who has been spending the summer in Easthampton, has returned and has taken up her residence in Baltic.

Superintendent Victor H. Davis will preside at a workers' conference to be held this (Tuesday) evening at the Taftville Congregational church. One of the main business items to be considered by the conference is the opening time of the church school on Sunday mornings. Before the school closed for the summer, the opening time was at 9 o'clock, and this was changed to 12 o'clock, when the school reopened for the autumn term. The matter will receive careful consideration at the conference, and it is hoped by the members of the conference that they will be able to make a decision which will be fair to all concerned.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wood of North B street, Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Wood and sister, Mahlon E. Wood of North Third avenue, spent Sunday in West Haven, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank X. Romer.

Walter Kopetz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Kopetz of Norwich avenue, has resigned his position with No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah company and has entered the state trade school at Putnam.

A number of local people motored to Providence, R. I., Sunday to view the parade of the Holy Name societies of Rhode Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelphi Dubreuil and family have given up their house on Norwich avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Antone Hirschlag and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wobecky of New Bedford, have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Goewey of Merchants avenue.

Henry Cote has resigned his position with the Ponemah company.

Coleman Bros. carnival which has been operating for the past week on the Providence street grounds under the auspices of the Taftville Athletic association, broke camp and left town Sunday. The carnival has enjoyed most liberal patronage from the people of Taftville, and no doubt took away a considerable sum of Taftville money in its coffers. The merry-go-round, swings and ferris wheel proved great attractions for young and old of the town, and the side shows including many freaks which were on exhibition pleased the crowds which visited them.

Speedy Eel-Skinning.

Captain William Harvey, of Old Mystic, holds the record for skinning eels, having taken the skins off 13 pounds in 21 minutes the other day.

SCHOOLS TO COST $25,470 MORE FOR RUNNING EXPENSES THIS YEAR

Estimated expenses of the schools of the town for the coming year will be $25,470.30 more than in the year just closing, according to the budget prepared by the town school board upon which they ask a school tax of 12 3-4 mills for the coming year. There is $24,695.30 more to be raised by tax this year than the amount to be raised a year ago.

Except for salaries and interest, the estimated operating expenses are all the same as a year ago, but the increase in salaries alone is more than enough to account for the larger total called for this year. In the estimates a year ago the salary account was made $203,825. This year it is $237,755, an increase of $27,931. Part of this is due to the salary additions coming to the teachers on their regular yearly scale of increase, part is due to the $100 extra for each teacher which was voted by the town meeting and there is also a salary increase for Superintendent E. J. Graham which was voted at the August meeting of the school board. He has been getting $4,500, but it was not stated at the time what the increase was.

The interest account in the public school budget for 1925-1926 is $14,500 where it was $12,870 a year ago.

On the estimated receipts, the sum to be secured from tuition of out-of-town pupils is increased from $750 to $1,500. The other estimated receipts remain as before.

The following is the budget prepared by the finance committee of the town school board, James C. Macpherson, chairman, W. P. McGarry, Walter F. Lester, and Thomas J. Kelly, secretary.

Estimated Receipts

State enumeration grant	$ 17,000.00
State evening school grant	250.00
State library grant	260.00
Town deposit fund	793.08
Dividends on stock	184.00
Tuition, out-of-town pupils	1,500.00
Town of Norwich, to be raised by tax (about 12 3-4 mills on present grand list)	281,263.92
Total	$301,256.00

Estimated Expenses

Salaries	$237,756.00
Repairs	15,000.00
Supplies, fuel, incidentals	29,500.00
Insurance	2,000.00
Interest	14,500.00
Evening schools	2,500.00
Total	$301,256.00

TELEPHONE BUSY SIGNAL NOT THORQUGHLY UNDERSTOOD

Opinions concerning busy telephone lines are many and varied, according to the Connecticut committee on public service information, which has recently called public attention to a few of the erroneous opinions which seem to have a surprising amount of credence placed in them.

One of these opinions is that the operator determines whether or not a line is busy by "listening in." This is far from the truth of the matter. As the operator is far too busy to stop to listen in on a conversation. She merely touches the plug to the switchboard jacket and if she receives a clicking sound, she immediately switches on the "busy signal," which informs the calling party that the line is busy. Another opinion which seems to predominate concerning busy wires is that the operator gives the busy report without testing the wires in order to save herself the work of making the connection. The fallacy in this belief lies in the fact that it requires more work for the operator to give the busy signal than it does to make a simple connection. Moreover, she knows that if she gives a busy report that the party will call continuously until the connection is made which obviously would increase instead of decrease her work.

Another strange idea is that the operator often signals the parties engaged in a telephone conversation when someone else is trying to call one or the other. No such signal is provided on the switchboard. It often happens, however, that when the operator is testing a busy wire that the click which warns her that the line is engaged is heard by the two parties in conversation. Another false interpretation of this click is that someone else has lifted a receiver on the line and is "listening in."

GAVE RECEPTION TO WEST STAFFORD PASTOR

At a reception last Friday night at the West Stafford Congregational church, Rev and Mrs. Frank A. Fuller were presented a purse of $50 in gold in recognition of their four years among the people of West Stafford, and in appreciation of their work in the church. The purse was made up of gifts from townspeople as well as the members of the church.

Mr. Fuller will complete four years as pastor of the chuch Thursday and will leave the village this week to reside at Putnam, where he and Mrs. Fuller recently purchased a home. Mr. Fuller has not made definite plans for the future, but will retire from the ministry at present.

Following the presentation a program of recitations, readings and singing by the school children was held, in charge of Mrs. Hazel Davis chairman of the committee. Refreshments were served to about 100 members of the church and others.

NATURALIZATION SESSION WITH 73 NAMES LISTED

A naturalization session will be held by the superior court at New London today (Tuesday) with 9 o'clock set as the time for opening the session. There are 45 now cases and 28 continued cases on the list.

Of the continued cases the applicants for naturalization are from the following countries: Italy 12; Poland, 5, Portugal 3, and Great Britain, Holland, Lithuania, Sweden, Denmark, Austria, Russia, Greece, one each.

In the new cases the applicants are from the following countries: Great Britain 14, Poland 8, Russia 10, Italy 6, Lithuania 3, Hungary, Albania, Sweden and Germany, one each.

The Feast of Tabernacles.

Only five days after the great and solemn Day of Atonement comes the joyous festival of Succoth or Tabernacles. The synagog will observe the festival commencing with Friday night, the 2nd of October, and lasting a week. During this week every Jew who observes the old tradition will take his meals in little tabernacles or booths that have been erected in the yard. "Ye shall dwell in booths seven days, that your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths when I brought them out of the land of Egypt." (Lev. 2-42).

It has also the significance of a harvest festival, for it was celebrated in ancient times in the season of the ingathering of the produce of the field.

ELECTED MEMBER OF BRIDGEPORT MUSICAL CLUB

Mrs. Raymond Rudd Hussey of Bridgeport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bogue of this city, has been honored by being made an active member of the Wednesday afternoon musical club of Bridgeport. Membership is limited to one hundred and twenty-five and candidates are selected at a competitive hearing. Mrs. Hussey is a pupil of Mrs. Susan Hawley Davis who is well known in musical circles both here and abroad. Before her marriage Mrs. Hussey was a pupil of Hugh Kinder of this city.

Entertained Old Friends

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Palmer of Lisbond had as their guests Sunday, friends of twenty-five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bishop of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sperry and son of Worcester. Mr. Sperry, Mr. Bishop and Mrs. Palmer are Storrs graduates.

HEALTH EXHIBITS PROVE POPULAR AT FAIRS

Thousands of people are flocking to the health tent which the State Department of Health is sending into all parts of the state where county fairs are being held. This exhibit is fairly representative of the activities of the whole department, so there is something of interest for all—for the young mother who would keep the child healthy—for the man on the farm who would provide safe drinking water, and safely dispose of the wastes—for the adult who is beginning to appreciate the need for disease prevention and the benefits to be secured from health promotion—for all who would learn the relation of right foods to health.

A casual visitor would note with interest the types of people who are served by this visual instruction. The moving pictures shown by daylight are a drawing card. Many are caught by the novelty of this form of health message, and remain longer to examine leaflets, which, at their request, may be a complete set or certain selected ones which will help them to meet some of their perplexing problems. Many people have asked for extra copies of the leaflets for those who "could not attend the fair." Several requests came for new copies as "previous ones had worn out with use."

That the health exhibit has a prominent part to play at such fairs is shown by the fact that fair officials are not only willing but anxious to give it a commanding place on the grounds. Local contacts are made that lead to special health service in later months. The growing interest and demand for illustrative material for display purposes in various parts of the state is attributed to this visual instruction at the fairs. Judging from the requests already received, its usefulness will be extended in new channels, for teachers and other local leaders have been put in touch with the sources of health material or been promised the use of films, slides, posters and leaflets from the State Department of Health.

Among the masses there is a noticeable willingness to be informed on health matters, which shows that public health instruction is advancing with rapid strides.

FOR BETTER LIGHTING IN CONNECTICUT FACTORIES

Connecticut electrical companies have opened a sustained campaign for the improvement of lighting conditions in the industries throughout the state, according to announcements made public by the Connecticut committee on public service information following a discussion of campaign plans at the recent convention of the New England division of the national electric light association at New London. A. V. S. Lindsley, sales manager of the Connecticut Light and Power company, who successfully conducted the better home lighting contest in this state last year, has been made campaign chairman for New England.

Through this drive, which will last throughout the fall and winter, the electrical companies hope to attain a three-fold objective: first, increased efficiency in manufacturing plants throughout the state; second, the preservation of the eyesight of Connecticut people; and third, the increasing of the industrial electrical load. Statistics collected from the inspection of thousands of factories throughout the country have proven that greater efficiency is attained in those industrial plants in which lighting conditions are best.

Examinations of many factories throughout New England during the past year has demonstrated the fact that while many of the shops have been fully equipped for electrical lighting, most of them are equipped with bulbs which do not shed the proper light. Proper location of the bulbs; the installation of bulbs of the proper shape, quality and intensity; the correct shading of the bulbs, and many other factors are all important in the developments of proper lighting and it is by the giving fullest attention to these factors that better lighting is attained.

POULTRYMEN OF COUNTY HOLDING FIELD MEETING

The poultry men of New London county will gather today (Tuesday) at W. W. Service's Preston City for a field meeting. The programme will open at 10:30 o'clock when R. E. Jones of Connecticut agricultural college, Storrs, will give a talk on Feeding Pullets for Winter Production. Arthur Fellows of Fellows' Bros., will give a resume of the field trip of the poultry tour through Massachusetts and New Hampshire held by the Connecticut poultry association.

A basket lunch will be served at noon after which Dr. John Clarke of Abington will give a talk on Sanitation Methods for Poultry Plants and S. McLean Buckingham, president of the Connecticut Farm Bureau Federation, will speak on Cooperation as the Farm Bureau Sees It. Those present will be given a chance to inspect Mr. Service's poultry plant and new incubator rooms.

Attended Aviation Meet

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Whiting attended the aviation meet at New Britain Saturday afternoon. There were 13 planes on the field competing for prizes in speed contests, landing at a mark, bombing, stunts, parachute drop etc. The pilots seemed to have perfect control of the machines and gave a fine exhibition.

WINDOW DISPLAY SHOWS MILL IN OPERATION

The Porteous & Mitchell Company has a very interesting window display this week in their large window west of the main entrance. It is called the "Windsor Washanredy Krinkle" exhibit and is a miniature reproduction of the main building with its great ells at either end, of the Windsor Print Works of North Adams, Mass.

Foothills of the Berkshire mountains around which the Mohawk Trail winds are the natural background of this great industry and the artist's faithful reproduction of picturesque scenes will delight all who see it, particularly the thousands who have followed this famous trail.

The wall of the first story is complete with windows but transparencies have been substituted for twelve windows in the second floor. Lights in the ells give the effect of a mill in full operation. Additional transparencies in the base of the model explain the various processes portrayed.

The first transparency in the base, when illuminated, describes the preliminary processes. In a second or two the transparency above shows workers busily sewing together great pieces of unbleached cloth. A section of the wall is then gradually lowered and reveals a kier-room scene and the method of handling cloth there. The wall closes and the transparency in the base comprehensively describes the processes covered by the second series, designing and printing. The first scene in this series shows an engraver at his work and immediately after, a diminutive printing machine through which an attractive "Windsor Washanredy Krinkle" pattern is being run.

There are four additional series which show in proper sequence a battery of printing machines, the steaming and ageing machine where colors are developed, a miniature soaping machine with cloth passing through the process of tentering cloth to obtain a uniform width, a large packing room where cloth is prepared for shipment and finally, a folder or hooker measuring finished "Washanredy Krinkle."

The complete review consumes about three minutes. At the end the mechanism reverses automatically to the first scene. The model measures seven feet five inches in length, two feet ten inches in width and is four feet eight inches in height. The exhibit will be in the display window of the Porteous & Mitchell Company's store all this week and is well worth seeing.

SAYS MACK BUSSES WILL NOT HOG ROAD

Since motor busses of more or less large proportions began to make use of the highways, in sufficient numbers to cause some congestion, private motorists have complained that passing a bus has become more and more difficult, said Peter E. Flynn, local factory representative of Mack Trucks, Inc., Monday. Some motorists have even gone so far as to indicate that bus drivers have adopted the attitude of the French soldiers at Verdun during the World war, with their famous slogan, "They shall not pass."

Private motorists, by the way, are by no means faultless in their interpretations of road courtesy, continued Mr. Flynn. Drivers of large bus fleets, who have had their instructions to give all cars wishing to pass an even break, will back this up. Many instances have come to the writer's attention in which there has been a deliberate hogging to prevent a bus from passing.

Busses run on schedules and must maintain their speed and they must also give way to faster cars when the desire to pass is evidenced by the tooting of an approaching horn. It is only fair that every gas driven vehicle observe the 50-50 idea of the unwritten courtesy laws.

A step in the right direction has been taken by Mack Trucks, Inc., according to Mr. Flynn. From now on, he declares, whenever a Mack motor car is in use on the highway there will be a standing invitation for approaching motorists to pass. An order has been sent out to the plant where the parlor car bodies are made to paint the following legend on the rear of all cars. "Sound your horn—this Mack bus will gladly move over."

Some day, perhaps, with more ideas like this in general use, a modern auto Utopia may be reached. It's worth trying, anyway, concluded Mr. Flynn.

TRANSPORTATION MEN FROM CONNECTICUT WILL SPEAK

Connecticut street railway transportation men and Connecticut manufacturers will play a large part in the forty-fourth annual convention of the American Electric Railway association, which will be held in Atlantic City October 5 to 9 inclusive. Among the long list of speakers who will address the various sessions which will be part of this national meeting are several experts employed by the Connecticut company. Occupying a large part of the 100,000 square feet of floor space which will be given over to exhibitions of various devices and materials used by electric lines will be several Connecticut manufacturers.

First and foremost among the men from this state who have chosen to deliver addresses will be Lucius S. Storrs, former president of the Connecticut company, and present managing director of the national association. R. A. Weston of New Haven will speak before the accounting section and H. R. Stamm, a former employe of the Connecticut company, will discuss engineering symbols. N. J. Scott, manager of the Hartford division of the Connecticut company, will speak on transportation and traffic.

The American Brass company of Waterbury will exhibit various types of cables and wires and copper electrical parts, and a similar exhibition will be placed on the floor by the American Steel and Wire company of New Haven. The Bridgeport Brass company will also have a demonstration of wire products. The Westinghouses Airspring company of New Haven will exhibit their product, one which has become of importance to electric railways since the introduction of the motor bus as an auxiliary to the trolley car.

CITY COURT HEARS THREE AUTOMOBILE CASES

In the city court Monday morning, Judge Arthur F. Libby on the bench, Henry Martell was presented on a charge of violation of the motor vehicle laws in driving to the left of a flashing beacon and with not having his motor vehicle registration with him. On recommendation of the city attorney the case was nolled on payment of $8.

One man charged with intoxication failed to appear and his bond of $25 was forfeited. Another man was fined $10 and costs on an intoxication charge and paid $21.18. Two automobile drivers paid $5 each on charges of violating local traffic rules.

Ladislas Amyot and Joseph Manville were presented on charges of breach of the peace in striking James Parquette at Occum. They were each fined $10 and costs.

Eastern Connecticut Health.

During the week ending Sept. 19th, there were no cases of communicable diseases reported from Norwich, according to the weekly morbidity report issued by the Connecticut state department of health. The report shows the following cases of communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut:

Diphtheria, Plainfield 1; scarlet fever, none; typhoid fever, Stafford Springs 1; measles, Plainfield 1; whooping cough, Griswold 1; Jewett City 4; New London 1.

Has Song Pubished

Frank Fulton Schofield, janitor at the Otis library has just been successful in having published a new song of his composition under the title of "Lila Malone." It is a love ballad in three verses with a catchy and melodious air that promises to make it a favorite number.

NORWICH TOWN

Under the auspices of Ever Ready Circle of the King's Daughters, of Norwich Town, with Mrs. Philip B. Whaley in charge, a musical service was given at Backus hospital Sunday afternoon.

Miss Bernice Underwood, soprano gave several solos, playing her own accompaniments; Miss Ruth Sterry played violin solos, with her sister, Miss Louise Sterry, at the piano. Miss Dorothy Waterman and Miss Esther Durr, sang duets, accompanied at the piano by Miss Louise P. Bailey and Miss Sterry, violin, and Miss Underwood and Mrs. Charles Schwenk sang duets, and there were several hymns. Miss Marion L. Bailey and Miss Louise Bailey assisted in the singing.

The handsome asters and marigolds which comprised the decorations at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church, were the generous gift of Mrs. William S. Wilcox of Scotland road.

The minister, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, preached in the morning at Joshen Congregational church in exchange with the pastor, Rev. (Miss) Lydia Hartig. At the Norwich Town Congregational church Rev. Miss Hartig preached a fine sermon from the eleventh chapter of Ecclesiastes, using for her scripture reference the first six verses. The lines of the first verse read: Cast thy bread upon the waters, for thou shalt find it after many days, etc.

During the Sunday school period which followed, ten minutes was given for a missionary program by the pupils of Miss Louise Bailey's class.

At the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening which had an attendance of thirty-six, the missionary committee was in charge with Miss Helen Schwenk as general leader. This was called a legacy meeting. Miss Schwenk introduced Miss Esther Durr, as secretary of the American Board of Foreign Missions, who explained about a will (fictious) calling on the executor Charles Marsh, to read it. The will left the American board $200,000, to be divided between China, India, Africa and Japan. The will was that of David Livingston Brown, in memory of his wife, Sarah Newell Brown. The witnesses were Miss Victoria Martin, Miss Dorothy Waterman and Woodard Wheeler. The trustees of this fund were Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, Miss Mabel Corrigeux and Ralph H. Marsh. Those who spoke for the different countries were: China, Mrs. Barton; Japan, Inda, Miss Elizabeth Avery; Africa, Miss Jessie E. Hyde.

When the trustees retired to discuss the will Miss Ida Beebe read a story entitled Who Should Go? Upon returning Rev. Bailey spoke impressively on how nice it was to have a legacy left to the American board, such a fine organization, emphasizing the fact how well the money was expended by competent people, every cent being accounted for by these capable heads on the other side.

Mr. Marsh also gave a brief talk along the same lines. Miss Corrigeux then explained how the money had been divided. To China, $60,000; India $75,000; Africa $60,000; and Japan $5,000. The smallest amount was given to Japan because this country was not represented. The interesting meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Every Ready Circle of the King's Daughters is to hold a meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Jessie E. Hyde, of Washington street.

Rev. James S. Aldrich preached Sunday morning at the First Methodist Episcopal church, from Luke 19:10. For the Son of Man is come to seek and save that which was lost. Mrs. George Manning was leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening, when the topic was, Christian friendliness to South America. Matthew 4:16, 17.

Mrs. Charles F. Geer of West Town street had as automobile guests on a trip to Willimantic Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robbins. In the evening, Mrs. Geer was a caller at the home of her brother, in New London.

FLY-TOX

Every Bottle GUARANTEED

FLY-TOX was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by the Rex Fellowship. In a simple, easy and thoroughly effective way, FLY-TOX kills flies, moths, mosquitoes, fleas, ants, roaches and other insects. It's as convenient to autumn the air with clouds of FLY-TOX. Flies, by merely winging through the mist, become affected with the strange action of FLY-TOX, and die. This mist lingers just long enough to do its work. It then evaporates and leaves only a pleasant, clean odor. Wall paper or drapes are not stained. FLY-TOX is harmless to humans. Those stray, elusive flies that invade the most carefully screened homes are quickly and easily exterminated with FLY-TOX.

TO ATTEMPT LIFT SUBMARINE S-51 TODAY; TWO BODIES TAKEN TO NEWPORT MORGUE

Wrecking Lighters Will Rejoin the Rescue Fleet at Daylight Today—Weather Has Moderated Sufficiently to Permit Effective Work—Cables Have Been Placed About the Stern of the S-51—Need Only to Be Attached to the Cranes of the Lighters—Hoisting Operations Could Begin in a Short Time, Should the Officers Deem It a Quicker Way to Gain Access to the Interior of the Submarine Than a Continuance of Diving.

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Sept. 29—Attempts to raise the submarine S-51 will be made soon after daybreak tomorrow, Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, in charge of rescue operations, reported to the submarine base in a wireless message tonight.

Admiral Christy's message confirmed reports from Newport that the wrecking lighters Monarch and Century would proceed at midnight to the scene of the disaster and indicated that for the time being deep sea diving operations would be suspended.

The message said divers had worked continuously all day today. On the last trip a special search for bodies was made but none located.

"Forward part of battery room is mass of wreckage," said the message. Upper part of conning tower hatch and induction valves have been secured by divers. Expect lift with two derricks in morning.

STORY OF HAZARDOUS WORK PERFORMED BY THE DIVERS

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Sept. 29—(By the A. P.)—The struggle with the great hulk of the submarine S-51 was still on tonight, four days after she was sent to the ocean's bed when she was rammed by the City of Rome.

Two bodies were brought up from the sea today, the first of the 33 men who went down with her that the under sea craft had given up. They were found by deep sea divers who crawled through the tangled mass of wreckage surrounding the vessel and entered one of the compartments.

The bodies recovered today were those of John L. Gibson, engineman first class of Portland, Ore., and William Charles Teschemacher, seaman first class of Bangor, Pa., the latter a youth of 19, was a twin brother. His brother was believed to have been at the helm of the S-51 and to have been washed overboard when she went down.

The divers worked in pairs, each couple working an hour at a time. But their time beneath the water was considerably more than that, as an hour and a half was required each time the men were brought to the surface. Dangling at the end of their lines, these men had to be drawn up slowly to accustom themselves to the varying degrees of pressure at the different depths.

Just what part of the submarine was entered by the divers was not made clear in the messages from Rear Admiral H. H. Christy in command of the rescue workers. The most generally accepted belief was that they went through the battery compartment hatch, just forward of the conning tower. The battery compartment was filled with wreckage, the message said, and the divers could see that a door leading to the control cabin was open. Whether the door aft leading to the torpedo compartment was closed or not could not be determined.

It was in the battery compartment that most of the crew was sleeping, when the crash came. Six of the men were on duty in the engine room aft. The divers have not yet been able to investigate that part of the submarine. It is there that naval officers have held until today that men stood more than an even chance ont being alive. They had not given up hope, even today notwithstanding that the generally accepted limit of 72 hours the available oxygen could last expired last night.

Tonight plans were being made to assist these men with six huge 1,000 watt electric lights, designed especially for work at the depth of 128 feet at which the S-51 lies.

They were brought to the submarine base by T. T. Anderson of the Westinghouse Electric company who offered his assistance in rigging them up at the scene of the work. Whether it would be possible to get them in use before the night was over was uncertain. Last night the divers were forced to stop their work because of strong tides that swept them near the tangled wires of the submarine's antenna and in the darkness they were unable to accomplish much. With the aid of the lights, however, it was believed they could carry on the work whatever the tides might bring.

The sea still defied the monster wrecking ships that were sent from New York to haul the S-51 to the surface. Both the Monarch and the Century had to be towed to Newport because the heavy swells threatened to cause the top-heavy cranes on their decks to scuttle the vessels. A calm as was their only hope and they stood by ready to be towed out at a moment's notice to be hooked onto the cables that already have been laid about the stern of the S-51 by divers.

Bodies Well Preserved

While the search went on in the chilly waters, the bodies of the two men found in the submarine were taken to the Newport naval hospital. The blanket wrapped forms were lifted aboard the Camden, flight ship of the rescue fleet, while a bugler sounded taps and all hands on the Camden and surrounding vessels stood at reverent attention. The fate of these two was known. The men wondered whether some miracle might happen and a part of the others might be added to the three survivors who were picked up by lifeboats from the City of Rome on the night of the collision.

The bodies were taken to Newport by the mine layer Mahan. Both were well preserved.

The search in the submarine was not the only one conducted today. Seaplanes from near-by naval stations hummed overhead and cruised for a radius of 40 miles about the scene of the disaster. They flew low, hoping to sight the bodies of the three men believed to have been on deck and washed overboard when the S-51 sank. They wanted to find the body of Frederick Teschemacher, the twin brother of William, whose body was in the submarine. But their search was futile.

Details as to how the bodies were brought to the surface or in what part of the submarine they were found were not contained in Rear Admiral Christy's messages. Officers, at the base were, in fact, without any considerable knowledge of details concerning any part of the rescue work. The messages from the rescue fleet commander were brief and terse, giving only the bare facts of important developments at the scene. Newspapermen stationed aboard the Camden were limited as to the number of words they could file by wireless and were forced to send joint messages in order to get any facts ashore.

News from the rescue fleet was eagerly awaited by the thousand or more men attached to the submarine base many of whom had buddies aboard. Press headquarters, established in one of the buildings near the commandant's headquarters, was besieged at times by bluejackets anxious for the latest word.

One of the men, almost choking with emotion, told how a chum of his had gone gaily off on what apparently was his last voyage. He had been anxious for sea duty and when word came that he had been ordered to make a few days trip on the S-51 he was one of the happiest men at the base.

Notwithstanding their inner feelings, however, the men went about their station duties as usual and there was not one among them but was ready for any assignment he might receive.

MAY HAVE TO PATCH SUB BEFORE SHE CAN BE LIFTED

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 29, (AP)—The opinion is growing in naval circles here that before the sunken S-51 is raised it will be necessary for divers to patch the hole in her hull made by the City of Rome and pump her out before she can be lifted from the bottom.

This opinion was strengthened this afternoon on the return of the government tug Triton to the naval torpedo station, bringing some of the men who had been at the scene all day and information as to the conditions inside of the sunken submarine as found by the divers.

The Triton also brought word from Admiral Christy on the Camden that he hardly expected that any more bodies would be found during the day though the search would be kept up.

Early this morning one of the civilian divers of the salvage wreckers was sent down with Chief Torpedoman T. J. Towne, a naval diver, the latter carrying with him a telephone connection.

They gained entrance into the submarine through what is known as the German hatch, the only hatch that can be opened from the outside. It is located near the conning tower and leads down into the forward battery compartment, the living quarters for most of the crew and the compartment that the City of Rome pierced.

Finding of the Bodies.

The room was filled with wreckage and the wrecking diver groping his way about found the door leading into the conning tower open but it was too narrow for him to get through. He carried with him a lamp but it did not give enough light for him to see very far and it was necessary for him to feel his way. He found the bunks and located the first body, that of Gibson. He dragged it out and passed it along to Towne, who attached the line and signalled for the body to be hauled to the surface.

The second body was found by Towne. It was that of Teschemacher. It was found in a lower bunk on the other side of the compartment toward the bow.

Towne was unable to get to the forward door of the battery room that leads to the torpedo compartment. It is not known whether this door is open or closed.

It is hoped now to get stronger lights down into the submarine that the divers can make a more detailed examination.

The position of Gibson's body at the time it was found made it appear as if he had made a struggle to get out of his bunk but was unable before the inrush of water covered him. Teschemacher had not apparently moved from the moment of the crash, he being in a lower bunk was enveloped with water almost immediately.

The wrecking lighters Monarch and Century, which came in with naval tugs this morning were still moored at the naval torpedo station tonight. They are waiting more favorable weather to go back to the scene of the wreck.

It required an hour to bring the divers to the surface this noon, due to the strong tide and the sea.

It is planned now to have the divers close the conning tower hatch from the outside and they will make a thorough examination of the battery room and the torpedo compartment at the forward end of the vessel, removing all bodies they find in these two rooms.

The divers cannot pass back of the battery room into the control compartment under the conning tower because of the obstructions and the small door. They have plugged the air pressure lines which were supplying air to the water-filled battery room. Air will be forced into the control room in an effort to clear it.

Lifting operations may be resumed early tomorrow morning if the weather permits. It is now planned to send the wrecking lighters and tugs which have been here all day out again at midnight for the weather which has

MURDER IN LATEST PAYROLL ROBBERY IN CAMBRIDGE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 29. — (AP)—Murder was injected into Cambridge's lengthening list of bank and payroll robberies today when desperadoes shot down the chauffeur of a bank delivery automobile, wounded the messenger and fled in an open automobile with a payroll of $10,266 Tonight, beyond a semi-identification of one of the men made by a witness of the escape, the police were pressing a search, hampered by a lack of clues and lack of definite knowledge of the direction in which the gunmen fled.

Edward C. Ross, 20-year-old student and son of a director of the Central Trust company, drove the bank's car. After a terse "Put 'em up" put 'em up!" the gunmen rushed the car as it drew up at the curb opened fire, killed Ross, and wounded Rufus Johnson, negro messenger. They snatched the bag containing the payroll of the Ward Baking company and retreated, firing as they went. Willian O'Toole, guard, was covered by the guns of the bandits. He opened fire as they retreated toward their own car, but without effect.

Two bullets passed through the bank car's windshield, fatally wounding Ross. A third struck Johnson a glancing blow on the head. Three bullets were imbedded in the body of the car.

Howard M. Smith, a witness of the flight, made a semi-identification of one of the gunmen from a picture in the rogues' gallery. While two of the bandits drew sweaters half over their faces during the holdup, this third man was unmasked. He was described as 30 years old or more, dark and unshaven, wearing horn rimmed spectacles. According to O'Toole it was his revolver that fired the shots fatal to Ross.

The holdup today was the sixth large robbery of Cambridge banks or messengers in twenty months and increased the aggregate of sums taken to $86,000 in cash and $3,900 in checks. It was the second in which Johnson has been a victim and came in the face of a recently devised system for protection of bank roll deliveries in Cambridge by an armored police car, carrying officers and riot guns. The police asserted they had promised such protection for certain days in the week and that instead of waiting for a regular delivery day the bank chose to send the money today without protection.

SHIPPING BOARD SENDS LETTER TO COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The position of the shipping board with reference to President Palmer of the fleet corporation, is set forth in a letter which it was voted today to transmit to President Coolidge, and is understood to be that the present condition should not be permitted to continue.

A resolution directing that this course be taken was adopted by a majority vote, those in favor being understood to be Commissioners Benson, Healey, Plummer and Thompson, with Commissioner Hill opposed and the position of Chairman O'Connor unrevealed.

While the letter was not made public, there were indications that it does not indicate any change in the position of a majority of the board that Mr. Palmer's resignation should be accepted. In general, however, it is understood the communication formally notifies the chief executive of the belief of the commissioners that the present relationship between the board and the fleet corporation is an unsatisfactory one and that the board, as an independent establishment created by law and not a part of the executive branch of the government, should exercise its authority to revise conditions.

BANKERS IN CONVENTION AT ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 29—The American Bankers' association celebrated its fiftieth anniversary today by the establishment of a $500,000 educational fund which will provide 100 scholarships in economics in colleges and universities in every state and territory in the union. The plan was announced by Lewis Pierson of New York, chairman of the anniversary committee, at the first general session of the annual convention this morning, and within an hour subscriptions had been received for nearly half the sum required, with indications tonight that the remainder would be forthcoming before adjournment Thursday.

The only other important business of the general session was the appointment of the committee on resolutions, which will report back to the convention tomorrow. W. Evans Wooden, Indianapolis was named as chairman.

YALE TO OPEN ITS DEPT OF DRAMA THIS YEAR

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29—Outstanding in the changes which will mark the opening of Yale university for its 225th year tomorrow will be the organization of the new department of drama under Professor George Pierce Baker, recently of Harvard. He will have a staff of four instructors. The department is made possible by gifts of Edward S. Harkness, '97, of New York city.

To house the department a residence at 52 Hillhouse avenue, has been remodelled. Already a new home is under construction standing in York across from the Harkness quadrangle. It will be the Harkness theatre but more commonly will be known as Yale theatre.

RIFFS PREPARE TO STEM SPANISH ADVANCE

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—Riffian operations along the entire front appear to be aimed to protect the headquarters of the rebels at Ajdir against a Spanish advance. The whole French front is calm, the Moors withdrawing their troops and proceeding northward, concentrating against the impending Spanish menace.

Col. Mitchell Before President's Air Board

Adheres to His Demand For a Sweeping Reorganization of the System of National Defense.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Another verbal bombardment was let loose on the heads of the war and navy departments today by Colonel William Mitchell, who already faces possible court martial proceedings for previous utterances on American air policies.

Appearing before the president's air board, the former assistant army air chief, apparently undisturbed by the almost certain disciplinary action to follow, emphatically reiterated his demand for a sweeping reorganization of the system of national defense which when first proposed nine months ago, brought upon him an outpouring of official condemnation.

His appearance brought him face to face with the very body created largely as a result of his San Antonio statements in which he charged that "almost criminal negligence" was displayed by those directing the army and navy air services.

After being on the stand for more than four hours, during which he read a majority of the eight "constructive" articles he had prepared, the board adjourned until tomorrow when the witness will conclude his testimony with an oral "destructive" argument which he was unable to give today because of fatigue and a shortage of time.

Doubting whether the board wanted to hear certain portions of his arguments, Col. Mitchell was assured that he could "put everything in the record" that he desired.

Briefly the officer, who recently was relieved of activie duty at his San Antonio post, advocated creation of a department of national defense in which equal status would be given subdivisions of land, sea and air. He predicted this recommendation upon what he said was the necessity for greater attention to aviation in the scheme of national defense and upon the need for improving the air services, the condition of which he described as "inadequate adn deplorable."

Entering the committee room while the first witness, Lieut. Col. Benjamin D. Foulois, commandant of Mitchell field, L. I., was directing a heated attack on the army general staff for alleged "ignorance" of air service needs and policies. Colonel Mitchell was greeted with a brief outburst of handclapping, which quickly died when Dwight W. Morrow, the chairman, rapped for order.

The colonel was dressed in the new roll collar air uniform and carried a slender yellow cane. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mitchell and two aides, both carrying several packages of documents and charts.

When called to the stand, the board suspended work for several minutes while a battery of photographers snapped the colonel as he spread a large chart on the table. Directed the placing of a three-foot globe at his right and otherwise arranged himself to testify.

In urging immediate establishment of a department of national defense, Colonel Mitchell differed slightly from the stand taken by Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, who advocated an independent air corps as the first step to such a department.

Aircraft development in America, Colonel Mitchell said, has been "low and inefficient" and "until we have definite laws on which to organize an air force, we will have no true air power."

Command of the air, he said, is of prime importance in warfare, and the statements that since the World war, anti-aircraft ground fire has been developed to a point to ward off attack from the air were unfounded.

"The only defense against aircraft," he continued, "is by hitting the enemy first, just as far away from home as possible. The idea of defending the country against air attack by machine guns or anti-aircraft cannon from the ground is absolutely incapable of being carried out."

For exterior enemies "we must look across the Atlantic and Pacific," he declared, adding that "although may be unthinkable that there may develop with England that nation "is the main reason that our defenses on the Atlantic are necessary."

He estimated that Great Britain's present organization of 1,000 planes could be transported across the sea, landed, set up and be ready for operation in from eight to ten days. Airways along the northern side of the St. Lawrence river were already laid out and in operation, he declared, adding that "this is why we carried out our maneuvers along the Atlantic coast in 1923."

COMPENSATION OF $3.34 FOR NINE DAYS' INCAPACITY

HARTFORD, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Compensation of $3.34 for nine days' incapacity, the smallest award that Commissioner Leo J. Noonan has made since he has been compensation commissioner, was awarded today to Philip Routhier, of 1599 Park street, who injured his hand during the course of his employment by the Hartford Rubber works. Although the finding granted that Routhier was incapacitated for nine days, a waiting period of seven days is deducted in cases in which the incapacity lasts for less than four months. The award, therefore was actually for but two days.

Routhier, who was employed as a tire builder at the factory, contended that he had injured his hand by striking it against the tire or tire frame when the hand roller which he operated struck a lump of rubber. The accident was not reported that night, and the two following nights Saturday and Sunday, the factory's night shift did not work.

NEGRO BANDIT KILLED IN BATTLE WITH POLICE

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29—An unidentified negro, after shooting John Damm, assistant treasurer of the Broadway Savings bank, 206 South Broadway this forenoon in an attempted holdup of the bank, was shot and killed within half an hour in a gun battle with policemen in the 2,000 block McCullough street.

Damm, seriously wounded in his right side, was taken to Johns Hopkins hospital, where an operation was performed.

Two negro companions of the slain man fled in an automobile.

Elected by More Than 100,000 Plurality to Succeed His Father in the United States Senate.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 29, (AP)—Robert M. La Follette, son of the late senator from Wisconsin, was elected to succeed his father in the United States senate by the voters of Wisconsin today. With only 518 precincts to be heard from out of the 2,622 of the state, La Follette was leading Edward F. Dithmar, independent Republican, by 120,101 votes, returns from 2,174 precints gave La Follette 197,779; Dithmar 77,678; Bruce, Democrat, 8,996; Work, Socialist, 10,706; Bauman, SocialIst-Labor, 630.

Latest Returns

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 29—Returns from 2,350 precincts out of 2,692 in the senatorial election today gave LaFollette 220,235; Dithmar 86,892; Bruce 9,311; Work 11,063; Bauman 694.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE OF INSURANCE UNDERWRITER

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 29—Delaware county today continued its investigation of the disappearance of Fred G. Beale, insurance underwriter of this city, and the removal of a body from the cemetery near where a wrecked car with a charred corpse within it was found. Following an automobile accident Friday night an inquest, was held before which fourteen witnesses were summoned to testify.

The inquest sought to determine the identity of persons who dug up a body described as that of James Davis of Hancock, who died of tuberculosis placed it at the steering wheel of the overturned automobile, which later burned, and left the unrecognizable body.

A registration card issued to Beale and a slip of paper found in a driveway of the cemetery were introduced as exhibits. The slip was a credit for service on an automobile issued by a local garage. The license number on the slip corresponded with the number issued to Beale.

George Halstead, sexton of the cemetery, told of finding a shovel near the Davis grave.

The sexton, after finding the Davis grave violated on Sunday, said he made a further examination on Monday with the discovery the body had been removed.

S. E. Busfield, undertaker of Hancock, who took charge of the body, removed from the burned car, testified at the inquest that the body showed decomposition.

Authorities today said they believed Beale is on his way to Miami, Fla. The district attorney said it had been established that Beale had collected $1,600 in Monticello and that he had taken out in August an insurance policy for $10,000 with double indemnity in case of accidental death.

INVESTIGATING ATTEMPT AT SHOOTING IN MERIDEN

MERIDEN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—With guarded secrecy which emphasized the importance of the case, the police today continued their investigation into all angles of the mysterious shooting at the Old Colony inn here last night.

While police officially scouted the theory that the bullet which slightly wounded Jack Quinn was intended for Louis A. Kubeck, star witness at the recent murder trial of Gerald Chapman Kubeck himself reiterated his belief that someone lay in ambush with the deliberate intention of killing him.

Firearm experts were called in by the police to determine whether or not the shot was from a revolver or rifle. The spent bullet could not be found, but a wooden fence gate across the path leading to the woods in the rear of the Kubeck farm was found chipped off at the top, apparently by the gunman in his haste to climb the gate and escape.

The investigation so far has served to satisfy principals in the case that someone deliberately fired the shot from ambush, the only controversial point being whether or not the attempt was on Kubeck's life for his part in the conviction of Chapman.

TO ELIMINATE OBECTIONAL CONDITIONS AT STATE ARMORY

HARTFORD, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—Governor Trumbull today told a group of about thirty residents of West Hartford that the state armory board will do everything possible to eliminate objectional conditions that may exist around the Top B armory on Farmington avenue. Relocation of the building, as suggested by members of the group at a hearing in the capitol before the armory board, presents a problem, he said. The building cost the state in the neighborhood of $150,000, and its removal, which is a matter for the general assembly to decide upon, would mean an expenditure of at least $200,000.

WOMAN USED ILLUMINATING GAS TO COMMIT SUICIDE

GREENWICH, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. John J. Masline, Mead street, committed suicide at her home here this afternoon by inhaling illuminating gas. The body was discovered in the kitchen early Tuesday evening by her son, Percy.

Mrs. Masline had placed a tube in her mouth and had secured it by attaching a string from it around her neck Medical Examiner John A. Clarke pronounced the death as suicide.

NO SERIOUS RUPTURES IN THE FRENCH DEBT NEGOTIATIONS

Joint Session of the Two Commissions Scheduled For Late Yesterday Was Called Off Because the French Had Not Completed Certain Statistical Data—Americans Are Holding Out For Total Average Payment of $157,000,000—French Declare They Could Not Go Beyond $100,000,000—Another Session of the Negotiators is Planned For Today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The negotiations for a settlement of the French war debt were carried on beneath the surface today and some progress was indicated.

No official authorized to speak would describe the extent of this progress or say whether the gap separating the contentions of the French and American missions had been appreciably narrowed.

A joint session of the two commissions scheduled for late today was called off suddenly with the explanation that the French had not completed certain statistical data. Another session was planned for tomorrow, and it was emphasized at the treasury that the change in plans in no wise could be construed as meaning the negotiations were near a break.

Spokesmen for the two delegations declined to indicate whether they had reduced the differences in the suggested first annual payment. This difference involved, it was understood, a declaration that the French could not go beyond $100,000,000 as a total average payment, while the Americans were said to be holding out for $157,000,000.

But there were any number of conferences going on between individual members of the two commissions and hints were given that results of these talks may be evident when the two groups meet tomorrow.

The French, meanwhile, are eager to carry out their plan to sail home Thursday night. Members of the commission were busy today in talking with whatever American commission members they could reach.

SCHOOL PICTURES NOT EXEMPT FROM STATE TAX

HARTFORD, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—Moving picture films shown in the Rockville public high school, the proceeds of which are intended to help defray the expenses of the trip to Washington, D. C., which members of the senior class take during the spring vacation each year, are not exempt from the new state film tax, according to a letter received by Superintendent of Schools Herbert O. Clough from John J. Splain, agent for State Tax Commissioner Blodgett in the administration of the law.

The letter serves to answer inquiries that have been pouring into the tax office from schools, churches and other institutions which have been giving motion picture exhibitions, whose basic object is educational, but in which films are used which in themselves are not all strictly educational. The department is informing all such inquirers that only such films as are "of a strictly scientific character, and intended for the use of the learned professions" and "for the promotion of educational, charitable and religious purposes and for the instruction of employes by employers of labor," will be permitted to come into the state tax-free, and that schools or other institutions which sandwich comedy films between educational such tax exempt ones for diversion, will be required to see that the tax on the comedy reels has been paid.

ROOSEVELT EXPEDITION HAS REACHED TURKESTAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who, with his brother Kermit, is heading an asiatic expedition under the auspices of the Field Museum of Chicago, has successfully negotiated the Himalayan passes and reached Turkestan, in a letter received today by Irwin Kurtz, republican candidate for justice of the city court, Colonel Roosevelt tells briefly of the progress of the expedition and adds that he is becoming proficient in Hindu. The letter, dated Yarkand, August 25, 1925, follows:

"This is a line to tell you I am safe and sound in Turkestan. We crossed the high passes of the Himalyas without mishap, though several of our ponies died.

"So far we have been traveling practically every day, but we have arranged to collect some Burkel and Tibetan antelope en route.

"It is a very impressive but desolate country. For twelve days we never saw a person other than those on our caravan. For ten days we had no grass for the ponies, but had to pack their food with us.

"I am getting quite proficent in Hindu, so when you next arrange my speeches be sure to have one before Hindustani voters."

HENRY L. BOWLES WAS ELECTED TO CONGRESS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 29,—(A. P.)—Henry L. Bowles of Springfield, republican, was elected to congress from President coolidge's home district over Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, democrat, in the special election today to choose a successor to the late George B. Churchill of Amherst.

The vote was: Boles 12,703; Sawyer 9,067. Bowles' majority was 6,625.

Bowles held a consistent lead through the district, losing only the city of Chicopee and the towns of Ware, Wilbraham and Hatfield, out of the thirty-three cities and towns voting.

The campaign had been marked by heated condemnation of the administration by the democratic candidate, and by the fact that Mr. Sawyer, who is a clergyman, had campaigned on a platform of light wines and beer, and Mr. Bowles upon a declaration that he favored revision of the Volstead law.

ALLEGED LIQUOR CAR WAS SPEEDING 65 MILES AN HOUR

DANBURY, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A speeding automobile travelling at the rate of 65 miles an hour led to the arrest here tonight of two Hartford men on a charge of transporting liquor illegally.

The men arrested gave their names as Charles Engleman, 153 Enfield street, Hartford, and John Festa, 124 Market street, Hartford. They passed Sergeant Willard Bushey, of the Ridgefield state police barracks and were going so fast that he followed them, trailing the automobile ten miles to this place. Here the men were questioned and an examination of their automobile showed that a false bottom was hiding 100 one-gallon cans of alcohol.

The men are being held at the Ridgefield barracks in bonds of $1,000 each.

COURT OF INQUIRY INTO SHENANDOAH DISASTER

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 29. — (AP)—Disregarding the advice of his weather expert Commander Zachary Landadowne held the airship Shenandoah on her prescribed course until she was drawn into the storm that wrecked her, Lieutenant Joseph B. Anderson, aerologist on board, testified today before the naval court of inquiry.

The suggestion that the ship be turned to the south was made at least half an hour, and probably an hour before she was wrecked, Anderson said, adding that Commander Lanadowne had declined to heed the advice because the aerologist had been until to point to any specific immediate danger signal in the skies to warrant a change of the course.

"If the ship had been turned to the south," the witness stated under cross-examination, "we certainly would not have been in the position we were. It is my belief that had we turned south we would have had a better chance of avoiding the disaster that overtook us."

After the Shenandoah was caught in the storm and had made her first rise and then levelled out, Anderson's advice that a southeasterly course be followed then in an effort to get out of the storm also went unheeded, he declared. Commander Landowne wanted to follow it, but the other officers in the control car advised against it because storm clouds were in that direction.

This discussion took place while the great hull was being buffeted in the storm and the officers were exhausting their resources in trying to save her. It was described as very brief, but the aerologist indicated that it was sharp. He said he had insisted strenuously that the change be made.

Cross-examined by the court on this point, Anderson said whether the ship could have escaped from the storm at that time was wholly problematical.

"I am not trying to argue that a southeasterly course would have saved the ship," he said.

Leutenant Anderson's testimony furnished not only the major development of the day in the inquiry, but was of as startling a character as any offered. Other developments of the day were:

Receipt of a telegram by the court from Mrs. Margaret Rose Landowne, widow of the Shenandoah's commander, saying she was "very desirous of appearing as a witness."

Announcement by the court that Captain Anton Heinen, former German Zeppelin pilot, who had criticized the new gas valve system installed in the Shenandoah, would be called as a witness at the single session of the court to be held tomorrow, beginning at 1 p. m.

ATTORNEY ALLING SCORES BROOKLYN POLITICIANS

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—Brooklyn politicians were scored by State's Attorney Arron A. Alling in the criminal side of superior court here today in connection with the cases of 16 year old William Ackerman and 16 year old John Murphy, both of Brooklyn. They were charged with breaking into a grocery store in North Haven. Ackerman had judgment suspended and was turned over to his father but Murphy, who was described by Mr. Alling as being a powerful figure politically in the Brooklyn precinct in which he lived, was sent to the Cheshire reformatory. The boys were on their way to the Connecticut tobacco fields in search of work when arrested.

The state's attorney said he had investigating reports that a serious charge was hanging over Murphy's head in the criminal courts in New York and had found that the youth was being protected by Brooklyn politicians. Mr. Alling mentioned Senator Carroll and one McCormick. McCormick, he said, had appeared as a character witness for Murphy in the lower courts but that neither McCormick nor Senator Carroll would dare to come back here and appear in the higher courts.

GIRL ALMOST INSTANTLY KILLED BY MOTOR TRUCK

HARTFORD, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—Norma Kallaugher, 15 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Kallaugher, of 91 Montrose street, was almost instantly killed today by a motor truck driven by William R. Tracey, of East Hartford. Tracey is held under $2,000 bonds charged with criminal negligence. The girl's family moved to this city several years ago from Holyoke, Mass. Her funeral will be held from the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Emma Dander of 294 Franklin street, Holyoke, Mass. Thursday afternoon.

WILLIMANTIC

Miss Rose Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Murphy, of this city and Harold F. McKenna, son of Mrs. Eleanor McKenna, of Montpelier, Vt., were united in marriage at St. Joseph's church Tuesday morning by the pastor, Rev. Henry E. Quinn who also sung the nuptial high mass. Miss Agnes Murphy, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Edward F. Murphy of this city was best man. The bride was attired in tan frost crepe with a vogue hat of lace and velvet. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. Her maid of honor wore blue brocaded chiffon, with a hat to correspond and carried pink rosebuds. The bride gave the bridesmaid a gold rosary; the groom's gift to his best man was gold cuff-links. The church ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. Guests attending came from Hartford, Southington, East Hampton, Boston, Mass., New York, Brattleboro and Montpelier, Vt., and Willimantic.

After a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. McKenna will reside in Montpelier, where the groom is employed by the Central Vermont Railway company.

The night crew of Engine Company No. 1 in charge of Acting Lieutenant Charles Reynolds was called out by a still alarm, about 10:30 Monday evening, for a fire in the new city dump on the Bacon lot, Natchaug street. Only waste paper and other discarded material was burned but there was danger that the blaze would spread to the Rock & Ion paint shop, nearby. Nine gallons of chemicals were used. Motorcycle Officer Arthur Hurley sent in the alarm.

The presentation of a reproduction of a map of the town of Ashford, showing the land possessions of early residents of the town, as made originally by Simeon Smith, county surveyor at that time, will be one of the features of the first anniversary celebration of the dedication of the Knowlton Memorial Town House and Community Building and Old Home Day, at Warrenville today (Wednesday). City Engineer Robert E. Mitchell of this city, reproduced the drawings which were framed by Russell W. Potter and which will be presented by Mr. Mitchell. The boundaries of the town of Ashford, the names of early landowners and the amount of land they possessed are included in the sketches. After passing through many generations the original map came into the possession of Engineer Mitchell, an Ashford native. The map has since been turned over to F. Clarence Bissell as an historical relic for the state library at Hartford. When the matter of the map was first brought to the attention of Allen B. Lincoln, representative of the town, it was thought to have the original map framed and placed in the new building but it is sadly worn by much handling through the years so Engineer Mitchell volunteered his services to make a duplicate.

In Class A of the golf tournaments at the Willimantic Country club, Albret B. French and William H. Nichols are preparing to play for the championship of this division, as the matches reach a climax. The finals in the other two classes are expected to take place before the week closes. Joseph St. Onge defeated Dr. J. A. Girouard 5 to 4 in a Class B match and will play Professor George C. White of Storrs in the semi-finals. The winner of this match will engage Willard H. Smith in the final joust. Ernest Bortomley copped the championship in the Class C when he defeated G. Everett Harrington 4 to 2. In Class A Albert French won the right to play for the championship by defeating Dr. M. D. Riordan 4 up in 19 holes.

Funeral services for Henry Chester Hatch were held at his home in Windham Center at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Walter F. Borchert read the service. The bearers were William Backus, James Johnson, Charles F. Hatch, Eugene Kinney, William F. Maine and Walter Kelley. Burial was in the family plot at the Windham Center cemetery. The J. C. Lincoln company had charge of the arrangements.

Local delegates of l'Union Saint Jean Baptiste d'Amerique who will attend the general convention, October 13, in Holyoke, Mass., marking the 25th anniversary of the society are: Pierre J. Laramee, J. Edmond Sylvestre, Alphonse Chagnon and Alexis Caisse. The organization has a large scope of activities, beneficial not only to members but to their wives and children, and is recognized in this city as one of the leading societies. The Union has a strong membership in Willimantic and its activities here meet with the approval of all.

BELIEVE BEEL MICHAEL BURNED IN MANSFIELD BARN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 29. — The startling conclusion was arrived at Tuesday, with the finding of pieces of human bones in the ruins of a large barn destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock Monday morning at the Browning Sledziewsky home, in Mansfield city, that Boleslaw Michalak, generally known as Beel Michael, had lost his life. The bones were picked up from the burning embers by State Policeman Walter Hardisty, who was conducting an investigation in seeking to determine the origin of the blaze. Besides the loss of a human life, the fire resulted in the total destruction of the large structure and its contents, 12 head of cattle, two horses, chickens, farming implements and an adjoining silo stocked with 60 tons of corn, an estimated loss of $5,000.

Michalak, a Russian and about 40, was a caller at the Sledziewsky home the evening before the fire and up to late Tuesday night all endeavors to locate him had failed. He had been employed by the Parkfield Coal company in Hartford, working for the concern a week and three days. He had not reported for work since leaving there Saturday to spend the week-end in this city and has not been seen at his boarding place, 23 Scheidon street, Hartford. Clothing which he had left in custody of A. K. Smith, of 41 Jackson street, this city, and which he had planned to take to Hartford Monday has not been called for.

Michalak had supper with the Sledziewsky family, Sunday evening, and about 9:30 o'clock started to walk to Willimantic. About that time rain began to fall and it is believed that he returned to the place and decided to spend the night in the barn. This action was not a surprise to his friends, who stated Tuesday that he was a sufferer from shell shock, sustained during the World war when he fought with the Polish army, and that he often acted queerly. He was an habitual pipe smoker and among those who stated that he had warned him against this practice of smoking while lying in bed was Alexander Mordas, of Mansfield city, with whom Michalak formerly roomed. It is thought that this dangerous habit was his undoing as he lay smoking in the hay loft of the barn. When Sledziewsky's two daughters arrived home late Sunday night, they saw no indication of a fire, but when the flames broke out, Sledziewsky was surprised to find that the barn door, which he had carefully latched, was wide open. He feared at that time that some wayfarer who had stopped for a night's sleep was trapped in the raging fernace.

Part of the under jaw bone, pieces of ribs and the hip bone and other bony parts of the human anatomy which were found in the section of the cellar over which the hay was kept were taken to Dr. S. B. Converse, of West Willington, who declared that in his opinion the bones were those of a male human being. Michalak was known to have carried a silver watch and Tuesday a second search led to the discovery of the burnt case of such a time-piece. The location of the bones would indicate that the man was asleep when the fire broke out and that when awakened he was entrapped and suffered untold agony as the fire grew more intense and gradually burned him into insensibility. That the flames spread with almost unbelievable rapidity is evident by the fact that the animals had no time to attempt to escape as the charred carcasses lie directly underneath the location of the stalls.

Michalak leaves two children, boys, who reside in the republic of Poland, his former home. His wife died during the war and after the armistice he came to this country, going first to Chicago and then coming to this city some three years ago. He was employed by the firm of Doyle & Murphy, contractors, for some time and later worked as a farm hand until he secured his last employment in Hartford.

GEORGE WHEELER'S BEER TOO GOOD FOR THE LAW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 29—George Wheeler of 1166 West Main street will be placed under arrest today (Wednesday) on a bench warrant issued by State Attorney Howard C. Bradford, charging him with violation of the liquor law. This follows an analysis made Tuesday by Professor Newton, of Connecticut Agricultural college of home-made beer found in Wheeler's possession Saturday. According to the report of Professor Newton the beer was the "best" that he had ever had occasion to analyze. Out of two bottles tested one showed a percentage of 6.5 per cent and the other tested 6.4 per cent. Half a dozen cases of the beer were taken as evidence Saturday afternoon in a raid at the Wheeler home by County Detective William E. Jackson, Federal Prohibition Officers William S. Congdon and Joseph Fitzpatrick and Captain of Police Thomas F. Grady. Wheeler's case will be heard at the next session of the criminal term of the Windham county superior court.

BANK COMMISSIONER PRAISES WORK OF STATE POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 29—Deputy Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippe issued public praise, Tuesday, for the work of the state police in tracing the source of the rumors which led to a run on the Willimantic Trust company last week. Within forty-eight hours after Commissioner Shippee had turned the case over to Superintendent Robert T. Hurley, State Policeman Howard O'Keefe and Paul Lavin had arrested Herbert O. Ladd, a carpenter and depositor of the bank, on a charge of having started the rumors. This necessitated clever work, according to the deputy commissioner.

ROTARY CLUB'S SUMMER ENDS WITH SPRING HILL MEET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 29—The Willimantic Rotary club held its last out-of-town meeting of the season Tuesday evening at the Spring Hill church, where other Rotary gatherings have taken place. A unique program for the evening had been arranged as a pleasant surprise by the committee, A. Linn Weatherhead, John R. Pickett and Charles B. Pomeroy and featured Frank Dooley, Jr., of New Haven. Guests of the club in addition to Mr. Dooley were Ruel Gray of the New London Rotary, Frank McGorty of New London, Ben Ellis of the C. A. C. extension department, George Holt and Robert Branch of this city, and Constables Alfred Abbe of South Windham. Following the excellent repast—for which the women were extended a rising vote of thanks—and the reading of the minutes and roll call by Secretary Loiselle, Harry W. Standish led in several songs, with John T. Quinlan at the piano and Ralph H. Gibson violin. Professor Dick Dodd paid tribute to the late Rev. Leonard Smith, who had attended a number of Rotary meetings at Spring Hill.

John Pickett was then given charge of the meeting by President John Ahern and he proceeded to announce his impromptu program de luxe. Those called upon were taken completely by surprise but managed to deport themselves most effectively, much to the amusement of the club. The program: Double quartet, President John Ahern, John Pickett, Jim Mustard, Tim Weatherhead, Parson Wheelock, Harry Standish, Al Smith and Frank Dooley; speech, My Stay in Canada, Jim Mustard; speech, Not a Marathon Story, Val Murphy; With the Fishermen, Harry Branch, pinch hitting for Ray Parker; Stories of the Highway, John Reilly assisted by Jerry Sullivan; Something of His Own Make, an alleged home brew tale, Im Fulleton; A Late Railway Story, Harry Blanchette, Political Moments, Pete Laramee, subbing for Mayor George W. Hickey; double quartet rendition of Allouette, famous French ditty with Amie J. Martineau leading and the other good singers: Harry Branch, Pete Laramee, Jim Mustard, Girard E. Loiselle, Ruel Gray, Harry Standish, Val Murphy and Harry Blanchette.

The talk of the evening by Frank Dooley, Jr., was on Service and brought out many new thoughts in that endeavor. By special request Mr. Dooley then pleased with many witticisms on his experiences during the World war. Mr. Dooley is connected with the commercial service of the New Haven Telephone exchange and was introduced by Tim Weatherhead, manager of the local office. The meeting adjourned at 9:30 o'clock.

U. S. TO GET $300,000,000 YEARLY IN DEBT PAYMENTS

During the next 62 years this country will receive $12,310,403,285 through war-debt settlements already made with England, Poland, Finland, Lithuania, Hungary and Belgium, says Capper's Weekly. The annual payments of principal and interest will increase until a permanent figure of $198,584,792 is reached.

When France and Italy came in $7,000,000,000 more will be added to the total, and Uncle Sam will receive an average payment of about $300,000,000 a year. At that, he will be out quite a bit of cash, for he is paying 4 1-2 per cent interest on Liberty bonds and will receive about 3 1-2 per cent interest in return.

A great many gold bricks are used in the construction of air castles.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

There were no developments during Tuesday that would tend to fix the identity of the person who fired two shots that penetrated the body of the car of Nelson Marrotte on the state highway between Wauregan and Brooklyn at about 10.30 Sunday night. The surprising affair has attracted the attention of the police. The shooting is an incident that has made some people fearful of being subjected to a similar attack out of the dark. It was indicated from discussions of the matter Tuesday.

Manager Frank Barber of the Casino arena said Tuesday afternoon that he is to confine his boxing promotions the present season to amateur bouts. Mr. Barber's plan is for seven or eight bouts at each show. The boxers will be representative of Danielson and surrounding towns. Such a program is certain to arouse a great deal of local interest.

It was noted with interest that automobile owners were more wary as to leaving their unattended cars here on Tuesday without locking them, as many do regularly. The additional caution Tuesday seemed to be inspired by the fact that a car was stolen here Monday. Not many cars are stolen in Danielson, so the impression is all the greater when one is taken away. Incidentally, a man of advanced years, driving a car with a Rhode Island registration, isn't going to have his car stolen in Danielson, if caution will prevent it. He was noticed Tuesday running a chain between the spokes of the left front wheel and around the front axle of the car and padlocking the device while he went to do a little shopping. He was using a short length stake chain.

Thousands of forms have been received here for distribution through theatre interests to patrons who are willing to petition for the repeal of the recently operative motion picture tax law, that has caused such a commotion in picture circles throughout the state. It is planned. It is understood to seek a special session of the legislature to repeal or modify the act. Forms such as are being put out here are to be distributed throughout the state to a total of several hundred thousand.

The question of jurisdiction on the part of the local court appears to enter into consideration of a case in which the driver of an interstate bus operating between Providence and Hartford was charged with running a vehicle not carrying such markers as the state of Connecticut requires. It all came about through the temporary use of a spare bus, replacing a regular one of the line through Danielson. As the vehicle was engaged in interstate traffic the question of jurisdiction has developed.

A recent motoring accident in which the car of a Danielson man was wrecked in a distant part of the state, by the reckless driving of another operator, who was fined for his carelessness, has again stirred agitation here for legislation under which every operator of a motor vehicle owned in Connecticut be required to carry liability and property damage insurance. In the case in question, the offending driver had no insurance, as is often the case. The innocent party may suffer property damage and even lose his life—and there is no redress. Financially, forcing insurance on all motor vehicle owners in Connecticut may be a hardship for some, and undoubtedly would be, but it is contended that the safety and security of the great majority against accidents in which there is little or no chance for recovery of damages is a far more important consideration.

George O. Thomas and grandson, Thomas Day, were at Springfield attending the Eastern States exposition.

Warden Walter Anderson said that there have been no developments relative to plans for establishing an airport here, but that the matter continues to receive consideration.

Benjamin Weisberg, engaged in business in New York, is visiting here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Weisberg.

October 8 has been set as the date of the annual Old Home supper at the Methodist church.

Captain A. P. Woodward of the fire department, inspected a motor pumper belonging to the Suffield fire department when the apparatus was here for a time on Tuesday.

In observance of St. Michael's day there was service at St. Alban's church Tuesday morning.

Dr. James B. Kent, here Tuesday to attend the Ashford Baptist convention, is planning to retire from practice and live in New York, where his son, Dr. James M. Kent, is a specialist. Dr. Kent has been practicing in Putnam and surrounding towns for many years.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church has a meeting scheduled to be held at the vestry this (Wednesday) afternoon.

Road workers were about ready to begin concrete work Tuesday on the new road north of here.

Killingly High school's football squad is getting into condition and there enthusiasm among the players.

There is a speeding upon the part of candidates in the canvass for voters at the annual town election next Monday.

George L. Peterson of Lowell was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

A fine harvest of corn is being cut at James A. Danielson's farm—12 acres and much of the corn 12 feet in height.

Up to Tuesday afternoon no definite trace had been found of the young man who stole the touring car of Rene Caron from Main street near the plant of the Paco Manufacturing company Monday, only to abandon it later near Willimantic.

Women members will provide the program at next Monday evening's meeting of Killingly grange.

Announcement that there is a short potato crop is holding the attention of housewives that buy a season's supply in the fall.

Danielson is represented this season by a group of new students at Connecticut college, New London.

Killingly's textile plants maintain their steady operation, this town being particularly fortunate in this respect.

Sanitary considerations, it would seem, demand the installation of certain facilities in the police station in the town hall building.

Miss Frances C. LaChappelle of Lawrence, Mass., was a visitor with Danielson friends Tuesday.

The most recent appropriation of about $1,000 for a section of sewer in Broad street, will complete sewer construction through that thoroughfare.

Miss Margaret Fitzsimmons of Elmville is visiting with relatives in New Haven.

Of course it is against the law to shoot deer, excepting under certain specified conditions, but there are hunters who are very interested when they hear that deer are numerous in this territory this fall.

PUTNAM

Wood, Worcester, Mass.; Alfred Wagstaff, New York.

Miss Anna Lea Bakewell, of New Haven, died a few days ago at her home in New Haven. Miss Bakewell spent the summer in Pomfret, as she has done for many years and left for New Haven, Sept. 1. She has many friends in Pomfret and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin S. Greene have returned from a trip of a week to New Hampshire. They made the trip by automobile with William Tefft, of Columbia, R. I.

Mrs. Genevieve Letters and daughter, Miss Genevieve, have returned from a visit with relatives in Seekonk, Mass.

Miss Claire Bonneville is home after a week's visit in Boston.

Mrs. Cora W. Bates, formerly of Putnam, has returned to her home in Tampa, Florida, after a trip through the west.

Miss Ruth Hatfield and Miss Pauline Lucier have returned from a visit to Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Trembly and family, of Adams, Mass., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Beausoleil and family, at their new home in the Sawyer district.

John Leader and his mother, Mrs. John Handall, and Miss Margaret Cassidy are on a motor trip to Maine and Nova Scotia.

Prof. Hilligrd, who has spent the greater part of the summer in Pomfret, has returned to Cambridge to resume his work at Harvard university.

Christ church rectory at Pomfret has been newly painted and the change from red to light gray gives the building an attractive appearance.

Henry O. Talmadge, of New York city, is an autumn visitor at Pomfret.

ASHFORD BAPTIST ASS'N MEETS WITH LOCAL CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 29.—About 200 people representing all the territory of Ashford Baptist association came to the Baptist church here Tuesday for the 101st annual meeting. There were sessions morning, afternoon and evening. The Ladies' Aid society of the Danielson church served both dinner and supper for the visitors. Rev. W. D. Hetherington of East Killingly, led the devotional service at the opening of the morning session at 10 o'clock and the address of welcome was by Frank T. Preston, of Danielson. W. H. Brackett was moderator.

At the business session Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church was elected president, Clyde Moran of East Killingly, vice president, and Rev. F. W. Tholen of Stafford Springs, secretary. With only a few changes the program of the day was carried out as printed. At the afternoon session, Miss Ina Paton, soloist, sang. Musical features at the evening session were numbers by the chorus choir and a violin solo by Miss Margaret Burton, of Danielson.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH REPORTS ON WATER SUPPLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 29.—The state board of health at the suggestion of the state board of education makes the following report of the water supply and the sanitary conditions at the outlying district schools:

To the members of the Putnam school committee.

The state board of health has completed an inspection of the water supplies and sanitary conditions at the schools in the town of Putnam, and they have reported as follows:

East Putnam School—The water supply is a well, located on the property of F. Chesley and is of the rope and bucket hand type. It should be provided with a pump and a tight concrete cover. The report of the analysis of the sample of water collected from this well was unsatisfactory, due probably to such contamination as a privy or cesspool.

Four seats in the privies are without covers and the earth vaults are open at the base. These seats should be provided with covers and the earth vaults made fly-proof.

Gary School—The water supply at this school is a spring located on the farm of William R. May. It should be provided with a tight cover. The condition of the water therefrom was fairly satisfactory at the time it was collected.

Five seats in the privies are without covers and the earth vaults are open at the base. One privy is seven feet from the school window. The seats should be provided with covers and the earth vaults made fly-proof. The privy which is so near the school should be moved further away.

Putnam Heights School—The water supply here is a well located on the property of A. L. Wilson, and it is of the chain and bucket windlass type. This should be replaced with a pump and a tight concrete cover. The water was found to be unsafe for drinking purposes at the time of collection. It was polluted to an extent to render the use of the same undesirable.

Two seats in the privies are without covers and the earth vault of the boys' privy is open at the base. It is recommended that seat covers be provided for the seats not so equipped; the open vault be made fly proof and the girls' vault be cleaned.

Sawyer District School—This water supply is a spring located on the property of the Windham County Temporary home and it appears to be in good condition. The condition of the water from the same was unsatisfactory. It is receiving contamination from some source and should be regarded as dangerous when conditions indicate that the privy or cesspool are probably responsible.

The privy has two seats without covers and the earth vault is open at the base. The privy is but twelve feet from the school. It is recommended that the seats be provided with covers; the earth vault be made fly-proof, and the privy be removed further from the school building.

Yours very truly,
STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION.
Bureau of Building Construction and Maintenance.

NORTH STERLING

A large number of local people attended the fair at Brooklyn, Wednesday of last week. William Williams and a young lady friend from Danielson called on friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Williams, of Pawtucket, R. I., spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. H. H Crowell.

Sportsmen are looking forward to the hunting season in October. The birds are flocking together for the trip to the south for the winter.

The bad places in the Margret Henry road are being filled with gravel, making a great improvement.

COLUMBIA

Rural Carrier Raymond Lyman is having his vacation; the route is being covered by Substitute Carrier Eugene Winter.

The town school board held its September meeting Thursday evening, all members being present with the exception of Secretary Lucius Robinson, who is recovering from an operation for appendicitis. Mrs. Clayton Hunt was appointed secretary pro tem. The new supervisor, Charles Larcomb, was present and spoke briefly on the school work here.

Mrs. Ink and Miss Katherine Ink, of New York, have returned home after spending the summer at "Overlook."

Some of the members of the Columbia band furnished music at the Brooklyn fair Thursday, under the leadership of Albert Lyman.

Thursday appeared to be Columbia day at Springfield fair, many of the local people attending on that day; among them were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lyman, Myrtle Collins, Erwin Collins, Clinton Lewis, Conrad Schriefer, Henry Schriefer, Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch and J. N. Clarke.

Edward Dubois, of the West street district, was taken ill with an acute attack of appendicitis Thursday afternoon and was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic and operated on by Dr. Louis Mason at 11 o'clock Thursday night. His condition is reported as favorable.

Lucius Robinson, who has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic following an operation for appendicitis, returned to his home on Post Hill Friday.

The bob cat which was shot by Rufus Rathbun, of Hebron, was brought here on Friday and exhibited on the Green to an interested audience. It was a beautiful specimen the largest one ever seen in these parts.

Miss Ida Holbrook, of South Manchester, a former resident of Columbia, was here Friday afternoon, calling on friends and relatives.

Mrs. McCorkell, who has been in Boston for three weeks, returned home Saturday afternoon. She reports that her daughter is improving, though she was seriously ill for some time following an operation and three relapses. Mrs McCorkell will return to Boston and bring her daughter home when the patient is able to travel.

Stanley Field spent Friday and Saturday in Springfield, attending the Eastern States exposition.

Thirty-five girls from Willimantic Normal school held a picnic at the lake Saturday. They had a dog roast, also a hike around the lake. They were told it was only a three-mile walk around the shore, but before they got back, discovered that eight miles was nearer the figure. It is reported that the person stating three miles as the distance is going to be held responsible for several new pairs of shoes, the soles of some of them being unequal to the strain. In spite of the fact, the girls had a glorious time and a perfect autumn day.

Miss Anna Schriefer, of Hartford spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schriefer.

Miss Viola Lewis returned Saturday, after a two months' trip to California.

Miss Lena Wolff, of Jewett City spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Kate Wolff.

Rev. Mr. Taylor of Bolton, preached at the Columbia church Sunday morning. He took as his text, "Holding forth the word of life." A brief business meeting of the church was held after the morning session, and Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Lyman were chosen to represent this church at the 225th anniversary of the Lebanon church, to be held Oct. 18.

The civil suit of W. C. Robinson against Joseph Popiawski for damage to Mr. Robinson's car, caused by collision with the defendant's horse which was loose on the highway, was to have been tried before Justice Collins on the 25th. The defendant not appearing, the case went by default to the plaintiff. Mr. Popiawski will in all probability file an appeal to the higher court.

Mrs. A. E. Richardson, of Springfield, spent the week-end with her cousin, Miss Eliza Hutchins, at her home on the Green.

Hubert Little, of Meriden, spent the week-end at the home of his brother, Alonzo Little.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter and Mrs Harriet Robinson were visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Robinson, of Post Hill.

The beautiful fall weather brought many to the lake to open their cottages for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carpenter, of Muncie, Ind., are at their Columbia home on the Green for a short time.

MYSTIC

The remodeling of the interior of the Baptist church is progressing. The plaster on all the walls has been removed and lathing of the new classrooms and other places has been done. All the plastering will be done soon. At the monthly covenant and business meeting the financial part of the remodeling is to be discussed. This evening is the regular prayer meeting.

George Ashcroft has moved, with his family, from Ledyard to a tenement on Orchard street. He is employed in Stonington.

Mrs. Edgar Whiting has returned from a visit with relatives in New London.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Paisley, of Manchester, Conn., spent the week-end at Dr. C. F. Congdon's.

Miss Jessie Hatfield, a teacher in New Haven, spent the week-end at her home at Cedar Crest.

Mrs. Mary Allyn, of Providence, was a visitor here recently.

The Garden club held a picnic at the Reynolds cottage, Lantern Hill, Tuesday. Those having automobiles provided transportation and a congenial company enjoyed the dinner. Broiled lamb chops, salads, rolls, cake, pie and coffee were liberally provided.

One of the first organizations to occupy the Main block is the Knights of Columbus, who plan to move in Oct. 1. All of the apartments have been rented but one and all the stores are rented, so it looks promising for the owner, W. L. Main, who has expended a large sum to rebuild the ruined block. The exterior presents an attractive appearance and improves the street on the Groton side.

A number of voters on the Stonington side were at the annual town meeting held in Borough hall Monday night.

Daniel Whipple, of Ledyard, was a business caller here Monday.

Mystic was well represented at the 200th anniversary of St. James' Episcopal church, New London, Sunday.

Dr. Congdon, Miss Johnson and Miss Schroder attended the meeting of the Old Mystic Social Circle, Monday evening.

B. L. Bloom has returned from Ramey, Pa., where he attended the funeral of his mother-in-law. Mrs. Bloom will return later.

The meeting of Mystic Grange is to be held Thursday evening.

A radio has been installed for Jack Smith, who is confined to the house.

The annual town meeting of Groton was held in the town hall, Pequonoc, Monday evening.

Miss Anna Feldhausen's aged aunt was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Willimantic Saturday in the ambulance, for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. David Walsh spent Sunday in West Hartford with their cousins Mrs. F. S. Shekletou and Mrs E. H. Bosworth. While there they had the opportunity to see Palmer Tucker of Los Angeles, California who arrived that afternoon at the Shekleton home. Mr. Tucker is on a business trip east, the second one in twenty-five years, the last one being nine years ago. Mr Tucker was a former Willimantic and Columbia boy and when he started west, twenty-five years ago, he rode his bicycle from Columbia, Ct., to Chicago, finishing his trip by train. Mr. Tucker is now a very successful business man, is at the head of a large musical concern, which he is representing on his business trip east.

William Swan of Rockville, Mr and Mrs. Ed Humiston of South Windham, John Watrous and son, Myron of Middlefield, Warren Watrous of Meriden and Russell Case of East Berlin spent Sunday at George B. Watrous's.

A Liver Strike is worse than a Coal Strike!

But it's not so difficult to bring your liver to terms!

SO LONG as you are well, you hardly realize that you have a liver! But when your head feels dull and your tongue is coated, with a bad taste in your mouth, do you blame your liver? Or do you make the mistake that so many people make and accuse your stomach?

Old fangled notions led to the use of strong drugs to "stimulate the liver and stir up the bile". But the sensible way is to use Beecham's Pills which act on the organs that are on strike. They unload the bowels and increase liver activity—they make you well and keep you well!

Beecham's Pills are so easy and pleasant to take, beats fussing with a bottle and a spoon. Beecham's Pills are a vegetable compound—contain no calomel, coal tar derivatives, or other dangerous ingredients. Act gently but thoroughly. No unpleasant after effects—are not habit forming. A few doses and you will get back your "pep", life seems worth living. Then, when you get fit—you can stay fit.

POETRY

THE STRANGER ON THE HILL.

Between the broad fields of wheat and corn
Is the lowly home where I was born
The peach tree leans against the wall,
And the woodbine wanders over all;
There is the shaded doorway still,
But a stranger's foot has crossed the sill.

There is the barn, and, as of yore,
I can smell the hay from the open door,
And see the busy swallows throng,
And hear the pewee's mournful song;
But the stranger comes—oh, painful proof!—
His sheaves are piled to the heated roof.

There is the orchard—the very trees
Where my childhood knew long hours of ease,
And watched the shadowy moments run
Till my life imbibed more shade than sun;
The swing from the bough still sweeps the air
But the stranger's children are swinging there.

There bubbles the shady spring clear,
With its bulrush brook, where the hazels grow;
'Twas there I found the calamus root,
And watched the minnows poise and shoot,
And heard the robin lave his wing—
But the stranger's bucket is at the spring.

O ye who daily cross the sill,
Step lightly, for I love it still;
And when you crowd the old barn eaves,
Then think what countless harvest sheaves
Have passed within that scented door
To gladden eyes that are no more.

Deal kindly with these orchard trees;
And when your children crowd your knees,
Their sweetest fruit they shall impart,
As if old memories stirred their heart;
To youthful sport still leave the swing,
And in sweet reverence hold the spring.
—Thomas Buchanan Read.

THE FLIGHT OF THE HEART.

The heart soars up like a bird;
From a nest of care;
Up, up to a larger sky,
To a better air.
No eye can measure its flight
And no hand can tame;
It mounts in beauty and light,
In music and flame,
Of all the changes of Time
There is none like this;
The heart soars up like a bird
At the stroke of bliss.

The heart soars up like a bird,
But its wings soon tire;
Laugh of rapture and song,
The cloud and the fire;
It took the look of a king—
Of a slave its birth.
The poor, tired, impotent thing
Sinks back to the earth.
And the mother spreads her lap,
And she lulls its pain;
"Ah, then who sighed for the sun.
Art thou more again?"

SUBMARINE LOSSES

That this country has suffered its worst submarine disaster in the loss of the S-51 is plainly indicated. Other submarines have gone ashore and gone to the bottom as the result of collisions but in no instance has the loss of life reached the number as in the case of the one rammed off Block Island.

That this sinking should come at the time it has tends to create the impression, if conclusions are jumped at, that the navy is suffering from some defect in various branches inasmuch as this follows so closely the loss of the Shenandoah and the experience of the PN-9 No. 1 off the Hawaiian Islands.

But trouble, whether it develops in the navy or happens to the individual, is apt to come in bunches. It isn't evenly distributed over a period of time just because it might be taken care of better in such a manner. That the navy has been experiencing what might be termed a period of hard luck will stand unquestioned.

In connection with submarine losses, it is well to remember that while this country has experienced losses other countries have suffered much more severely. It was only a few weeks ago that the Italian navy lost a submarine and crew during a test which was never recovered, and a British sub was sunk by one of the battleships. These are recent instances though both countries have previously lost others. Like wise it must be realized that Japan has stood out as a conspicuous instance where underwater boats have gone to the bottom without any of the crew being saved. Three of them with crew have been lost in such a manner within the past two years.

Just where the fault rests for the sinking of the S-51 will be determined by the official investigation, inasfar as that is possible with so many of the submarine's crew lost, but from the experience of the various countries it doesn't appear that the United States' record in the handling of its underwater vessels can be regarded as unfavorable in comparison with others. There remains to be explained, however, just why there should have been a collision of the City of Rome and the S-51 under the conditions which prevailed on the night of last Friday.

KEEP THE STREETS CLEAN

In connection with the problem with in New York of disposing of its garbage in a manner that will not be detrimental to the shores of that and adjoining states, attention is being called to the great amount of rubbish which is allowed to accumulate and blow about the street of the big city to which little or no attention is given.

That is a matter which may well get attention in many cities, for while it is possible to keep a fleet of street sweepers busy picking up this refuse which is cast into the streets there is no good reason why the streets should be made the dumping ground for it by the individual. This is an old story but it is one that should be corrected. It comes about through a development of a spirit of heedlessness through the harboring of the belief that there are those hired to keep the streets clean and they should be given something to do. There is too little thought given to the part which the individual can play in keeping the streets tidy through not cluttering them up with papers, bags, tins and refuse of various kinds which have no place there.

Because a street is a public highway does not mean that it should be made the depository for all that is not wanted. There are those who crumple up a paper bag, tear up several sheets of paper, empty a tobacco can or a cigarette box and immediately toss them into the street in the attitude of, "Well, that's off my mind. Let George look out for it now."

Such misuse of the streets not only creates a deplorable appearance and serves as a bad advertisement for a community but it needlessly creates an additional expense. A city is judged by the condition of its streets and if the gutters, or roadbeds are filled with a conspicuous array of old rubbish it is certain a sad picture to present to the visitor to say nothing of the eyesore to the resident. Such a slack appearance can be remedied to a large degree by the individual. It isn't necessary to throw such material into the streets and certainly if it isn't thrown there it cannot litter up the thoroughfares.

FIRE PREVENTION

In behalf of Fire Prevention week next week it may be said that it is an effort which should get the attention and participation of everyone. The purpose of it is to get public attention directed to the part which each one can play in reducing the great fire loss each year.

The coming and going of Fire Prevention week in itself will accomplish nothing. What is needed is to get the thought of the people riveted upon the meaning of the nation's ashpile caused by the burning of a half billion dollars' worth of property the past year and the loss of more than 17,000 lives from fires, the large proportion of which ought not to have happened. Likewise it is for the purpose of directing thought to the things that are necessary to prevent fires and to have those means employed whenever occasion requires.

In the way of slogans for the purpose of emphasizing the importance of fire prevention, one insurance company has provided the following:

Safety each day keeps the firemen away.

Perpetual precautions preserve the premises.

Stop! Look! Stamp! A spark is a flame; a flame a conflagration.

Before you retire, look at your fire. An inch of prevention may save miles of conflagration.

A child and a match make a dangerous pair. Two little heads make a care.

Fire is the red menace of America. Put your match in a safety zone.

Make a little use of your thinking apparatus and you have little use for your fire apparatus.

Smokers! A butt may be down but it is not always out. Make sure of it.

The truths contained in these lines can be fully appreciated for who is there who hasn't known many serious fires to have been caused by these very conditions! The need is for greater care, the giving of a bit of thought to prevention while there's time, and with general participation in such an effort as Prevention week is intended to stimulate great waste could be ended and desirable results obtained.

LYNCHING A LUNATIC

In connection with the unenviable record which Georgia has established in connection with lynchings it has been persistently maintained that such actions did not represent the better sentiment of the state. And yet the lynchings have continued and the latest instance is that of the lynching of a crazy man.

From the Columbus, Ga., Enquirer-Sun there is gleaned this comment concerning this latest demonstration of mob law: "Georgia has given her sister states a mark to shoot at—lynching a lunatic! What if Georgians in the past have tarred and feathered men and women—what if Georgia gangs in the past have assassinated women, among them the wife of a preacher—what if Georgia mobs have taken a Leo Frank from the penitentiary and hanged him, or burned negroes at the stake? But it was left to Georgia—the state of new masked gang spirit—the state whose chief executive and the majority of its state officials are members of the Ku Klux Klan—to the state of Georgia was left the undying infamy and sickening disgrace of lynching a lunatic!"

From such a declaration we can infer that there is a better sentiment in the state of Georgia than is indicated by the lynching bees, that there may be ground for the claim that the better sentiment is being outraged, but it also indicates that the better sentiment is small in volume and of slight effect in getting results in keeping with its belief.

Well may Georgia, however, come to a realization of the disgrace to itself and the blot it makes upon the nation when it adheres in any degree whatever to the practice of lynching, but all the more condemnatory is its conduct when it resorts to the punishment of an insane person by taking him out and lynching him. It is perhaps no more than might have been expected of the Georgia mob in view of what it has done in the past, but when it shows evidences of getting worse when it and other states are supposed to be getting better and trying to correct the evil of lynching it is certainly a deplorable spectacle. Well may the Columbus Enquirer-Sun shudder in its humiliation.

Actresses can get their much loved publicity with paste diamonds quite as well as with the real thing.

The man on the corner says: The fellow who knocks seems to think he has an eager audience awaiting him.

There seems no question but what the shipping board matter will go to congress. The only doubt is whether congress will do what is asked.

If there is to be no summer in 1926, those who are closing their summer cottages might as well board them up for two long winters instead of one.

While Florida is forced to establish embargoes California ought to be taking advantage of the chance to let it be known that it can handle an unlimited crowd.

A ROUNDABOUT WAY

"I see by the papers," began the young man rather nervously, "that a lot of college girls say they'd be perfectly willing to marry on $50 a week. They think a fellow ought to let a girl know just how he stands financially, because $50 now is about the same amount $20 used to be. In old days a girl knew all about a fellow, but now—well, you see now nobody would know, for instance, that I get more than that, you know."

"Oh, yes," said the girl with mock enthusiasm. "How interesting! Why don't you write and tell them? Let me know in time to save up for a wedding present for you and whichever one chooses you. Do you prefer blonds?"

"You know perfectly well what I prefer!" declared the young man, indignantly. "I don't know what you want to act like that for."

"I'm not acting like anything," said the girl calmly. "I'm taking a great deal of interest in your affairs, just as I always have done. How is Adele?"

"Adele who?" asked the young man, bewildered. "Oh, you mean that girl I met last summer. I've just dug down for a wedding gift for her, for she was married last week to a fellow she has known all her life, I believe."

"I'm sorry," said the girl softly. "And so with no other place to go you came around to see me?"

"No other place?" cried the young man. "As if there weren't a lot of them—that is, I mean—"

"I am, then, to feel honored that you have spared me an evening?" asked the girl demurely. "It does seem nice to see you again. I didn't know Adele was married, so I was quite surprised to hear your voice over the telephone. Come in often even if I'm not home. There are lots of books here."

"I told you over the phone that I've been away," said the young man. "I had flu while I was there, too, and they put me in an awful old hole of a hospital. I don't believe, though, that you'd cared if it had been smallpox."

"Why, yes, I would," said the girl. "I would have been quite original in you. You see, I know lots of people who have the flu—I've even had it myself this winter—but I never had smallpox among my friends. It used to be quite fashionable among kings and queens. I was reading a novel just as you came in that deals with an epidemic of it."

"I've read that!" cried the young man excitedly. "Do you like it? I think that heroine is one of the best I ever met in a book."

"You would like a blond, I know," said the girl, smoothing her dark bob with the tips of her fingers. "But I didn't like the lover. Why, he is a regular stick. If I couldn't propose better than that I'd give up."

"Say, just tell me," begged the young man. "How would you ask a girl to marry you? A fellow thinks up a lot of fancy things to say, things he means, all right, all right, but when he tries to get all that line of words out they just stick and he can't think of a single thing to say. In books it looks easy, but it isn't, not a bit of it!"

"Of course, a person of your experience would not need to be advised," said the girl cooly. "But simplicity is the fashion these days."

"Talk about experience!" sighed the young man. "You speak as if you had had a lot of it, and I guess you have, from what I hear. I had hardly landed in the office when Jimmy began telling me what a fine time you'd been having, what with weddings and parties and all like that. But now just suppose you had to tell a girl you cared a heap and then came and ask her what she thinks about it, what would you say? Try it."

"Well," said the girl after a moment's thought, "I'd say, 'Dear, I've always loved you, as I guess you know. How about it? Will you marry me?'"

"Will I?" cried the young man. "You can just believe I will; I haven't been crazy over you for nothing young woman. When will it be?"

"Why, mercy!" cried the girl, "what do you mean? I was only—"

"I'm answering you," chuckled the young man. "You have shown me how the question should be put and I give you the answer. Nothing simpler."

"I don't like to joke like that," said the girl solemnly. "My best friends have been getting married lately and they don't laugh about it."

"I'm not joking," said the young man eagerly. "I mean every word of it. I'd be the happiest man in all the world if you'd just say you cared for me. Don't you think you can, dear?"

"Well," murmured the girl, shyly, "I like your way best, but—but your answer was a good one, too."—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

John K. Tener, who has announced his intention to seek the republican nomination for governor in the next Pennsylvania primaries, was governor of the Keystone State from 1911 to 1915. Mr. Tener was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, came to the United States as a lad, and grew up in Pittsburgh, getting what education he could in the public schools. From the day when he obtained a clerkship in a large manufacturing establishment to this, he has had a dual loyalty—to business and to baseball; and he made both his skill as a trader and his art as a baseball player profitable to his purse. Important positions in financial and industrial circles have come to him as a reward for his ability and serviceability. As a sportsman he has been a leading factor in professional baseball, casting his influence against low standards of play and management. On becoming president of the National league, he was in a position to make his ideals real

Stories That Recall Others

Rest.

A woman who lives in a beautiful, restful spot conceived the idea of keeping boarders during the summer. Preparations were made for the comfort of the boarders, some "advertising" done, but not a "rest seeker" appeared. When asked how the project was coming on she said: "Not a boarder. It seems only dead people care to rest these days."

Buries Toy Cat.

A woman looked up from her musings the other day to see lying just outside her window on the grass a black cat perfectly lifeless. So her cat was dead, in a mood of melancholy she arose from her musings and going outside picked up the body on a shovel and carried it to the back yard where she dug a hole and sadly placed it in the cold, cold ground.

Late in the day she was again disturbed in her letter writing by a feline presence. However, this time it was her own black cat, thought dead a few hours previous, gently brushing against her legs.

She learned shortly after to her astonishment that the cat she had discovered "dead" in the midst of her morning's work was not her own dear pet, but the large stuffed toy of the children, next door.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fence Needs Attention

Mr. Editor: We hear so much in these days about safety first we are wondering why something is not done to the old tottering fence along the west side of Laurel Hill avenue. We wonder if the powers that be realize what a slight protection this would be if a car should back down the hill or skid on the way down. With the high drop to the roadway below it is easy to imagine what would happen should a car get out of control at this place. Why not make it safe?

Yours for SAFETY.

Daylight Saving (?)

Mr. Editor: A correspondent suggests that we join hands in a 50 to 50 agreement to juggle the clock 30 minutes instead of 60. Would it not be nicer for us all to resolve to attend to our own business and let the clock also attend to its business?

Are there not 12 hours in each day when a man can work or go idle, if he can live without work.

The clock is a nice mechanical contrivance, an invention for the purpose of measuring duration, not a wheel of fortune to be whirled on chances by hand like a gambling machine.

We are supposed to be an educated intellectual people, as well as ingenious and our government has been at expense to zone our continent and give us the meridians by which to standardize our national time correctly. Our own state penalizes the use of any other than the national standard. At a time when so much is being preached about "violation of law," could it not be a virtuous example for our citizens to obey this law and to so instruct their employes and their children? Beginning now even with a late and tardy repentance, from this time hence and forever more to be law observers and give the clocks and watches and their consciences likewise a needed rest.

CITIZEN OF CONN.

Norwich, Sept. 29, 1925.

From Small Beginnings

John Drinkwater, the Insurance Clerk, and Dramatist

Recently there was put on the American stage a remarkable play by an English dramatist, Abraham Lincoln, by John Drinkwater. That play presents Abraham Lincoln in so kindly a way, showing his intimate human qualities, his spirit of forbearance and toleration, his desire to help and to build, and it unfolds the tragedy of Lincoln's life so poignantly that it seems almost impossible that the play should be written by one who was not born in the United States. Perhaps one great reason why John Drinkwater sympathized so strongly with the nature of Abraham Lincoln lies in the fact that the dramatist, like the great President Emancipator, rose from humble life.

John Drinkwater, the dramatist, was born 40 years ago in England. He was not born to a great name nor a great wealth. There was nothing in his surroundings, so far as any one could see, that indicated that he would have the slightest opportunity to rise in life to any prominence whatever. Even education, that great essential for literary success, was cut off from him in his early youth. He had too little money to pay for college or university. When he had finished his high school studies at Oxford he had to plunge into the work of life.

The work that John Drinkwater took up were by no means of a literary nature. He secured a position in an insurance office, and occupied himself with record and statistics, the filing of papers and the general work of insurance. In this capacity he worked for so many years that one would have predicted for him a purely business career. Meanwhile, having natural love of books, and especially of poetry, he read widely and well, browsing particularly in the fields of poetry and the drama. At the same time he made efforts to write. The result was that at 26 he published a book of his own poems, and at 29 an original poetic play. He became manager of a small theatrical company, and gained practical knowledge of plays and play producing. He was 36 when he made his great success with Abraham Lincoln. Now he is recognized as a leading dramatist and present-day poet.

Rats a Curse of India

Rats are declared to be one of the greatest curses of India. There are hundreds of millions of them, and they cannot be exterminated because of religious beliefs. The Hindu will harry the rat, but will not kill him.

If wives were as nice to their husbands as female clerks are to their male customers but a few matrimonial failures would be recorded.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

HOW SUNSHINE AND CLOUDS MEAN DOLLARS AND CENTS

"The payment of an insurance claim for $1,500 because clouds kept a group of scientists from taking pictures of an eclipse of the sun, brings up questions of sunshine and cloudiness in various parts of the United States, which may run into dollars and cents at other times than during occasional eclipses," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Just as there is a 'population center,' a 'wealth center,' and a 'geographical center' of the United States, so there is a 'sunshine center' and a 'cloud center,'" continues the bulletin.

"Most of the familiar 'centers' lie east of the Mississippi river, but the country's 'sunshine center' breaks this precedent and is situated in the extreme southwest, near the mouth of the Colorado river. Yuma, Arizona, furnishes the dot on the map on which to place a compass and draw the circle into which the sunbeams pour almost ceaselessly during daylight. Only 18 days in the average year can be called cloudy in Yuma and in a roughly circular area about 100 miles from the city in every direction.

"Considering the length of the days as well as their number, the region around Yuma and embracing the southwestern third of Arizona gets 85 per cent of all the sunbeams aimed at it during the year, while 8 per cent of all the sunbeams that could be received hits the mark in the southeastern end of California, practically the whole of Arizona, southwestern New Mexica and the little sharp westernmost point of Texas around El Paso.

"Sunshine runs into dollars and cents in this region because the line of '80 per cent sunshine,' or perhaps the slightly larger 75 per cent line, may be said to enclose the section of the United States which sells its climate on a year-round basis to thousands of tourists, out-door enthusiasts and health-seekers.

"Nature has given compensation for a lack of sunshine. As the percentage of fair days grows less and less outward from the 'sunshine center,' the rainfall grows greater and greater, so that agriculture may flourish without irrigation. But after the mouth of the Mississippi has been passed, the sunshine lines double northward putting southern Florida practically into the 75-per cent sunshine area. Here again sunshine means dollars and cents for Miami and Palm Beach and their fellow resorts.

"The 'cloud center' of the United States is in a little region in western Washington near the southernmost indentation of Puget sound. Half the days there are cloudy and an additional 30 per cent are partly cloudy. About the little center is a large area of only slightly less marked cloudiness.

"In the region around the country's 'cloud center' there is another 85rt of dollars and cents compensation. The cloudiness in this case is accompanied by heavy rain and snowfall and these, with the high mountains of the region, furnish the ingredients which give the state of Washington a greater potential water power than that of any other state in the Union.

"There are two secondary 'cloud centers' in the east. On the southeastern shore of Lake Ontario and the upper peninsula of Michigan between Lakes superior and Michigan three quarters of the days in a year are either cloudy or partly cloudy."

Predicts Uses for Smoke

Fine dust from chimneys will, in the near future, find commercial use in the industries either as filler for paint, fertilizer, or other products or as a base for some building material, according to Prof. A. G. Christie of Johns Hopkins University. Much work now is being done to develop methods of catching the fine particles which fly up the chimney with the flue gases.—Popular Science Magazine.

Makes Books Transparent

By means of "invisible light," Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose, a distinguished scientist of India, in a recent demonstration before a group of scientists, proved that a heavy book can be made transparent. The light he has perfected and called "super-retina" consists of short electric waves having the same properties as a beam of light.—Popular Science Monthly.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Mrs. Buzzard Has a Late Breakfast.

To hide a secret well, you'll find
Requires skill and strength of mind.
—Ol' Mrs. Buzzard.

Over near the tree in the Green Forest where Mr. and Mrs. Buzzard were accustomed to sit, Jumper the Hare watched jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun begin his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky. Up above him sat Ol' Mistah Buzzard. After a while he spread his great wings and away he flew, sailing up higher and higher in the blue, blue sky. Jumper paid no attention to him. He wasn't interested in Ol' Mistah Buzzard. His interest was all in Ol' Mrs. Buzzard, and he patiently waited for her to arrive.

Over in the Green Forest only a little way from where Jumper was waiting, Peter Rabbit sat at the foot of a great stump. Peter was waiting. He was waiting for a signal from Jumper the Hare. Gradually the Black Shadows left the Green Forest. Higher and higher climbed jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun in the blue, blue sky. Peter waited. Over by the Buzzard's tree Jumper waited. Something was wrong. Peter didn't have a doubt about it.

"Probably Jumper didn't get there in time," grumbled Peter. "Mrs. Buzzard always breakfasts before this. By this time she is always back on her nest. Yes, sir, Jumper must have been late and missed her. Perhaps he wasn't there at all. I believe I'll run over and find out if Jumper has been there."

Peter waited a little longer. Then he made up his mind that waiting was merely wasting time there. So off he went, hippety—hippety—hip, as fast as his legs could take him, right over to the favorite, tall, dead tree of Ol' Mistah Buzzard, Ol' Mr. Buzzard was back on his favorite perch. He had had his breakfast. But nowhere was there any sign of Ol' Mrs. Buzzard. Peter found Jumper at once.

"Well," said Peter crossly, "why didn't you get here on time?"

"I did get here on time!" retorted Jumper sharply. "I was here before jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun even started up in the blue, blue sky. Ol' Mistah Buzzard was sitting up there fast asleep when I got here. I saw him go off to get his breakfast and come back again."

"Then why didn't you see Mrs. Buzzard?" demanded Peter.

"For the very good reason that Mrs. Buzzard hasn't been here," retorted Jumper.

"You've been asleep," accused Peter. "You've been asleep and she came and left while you were sleeping."

"It is no such thing," retorted Jumper, growing very indignant. "I haven't dozed even once. Mrs. Buzzard hasn't been here, and that's all there is to that."

"But she must have been," insisted Peter. "I watched her yesterday and the day before and the day before that and the day before that, and every morning she came over here and went back to her nest before this time of day."

"That may be," replied Jumper, "but I tell you she hasn't been here today. Now, if you don't like the way I keep watch you can keep watch yourself next time."

"I will," said Peter.

So the next morning Peter kept watch over by the tall, dead tree and Jumper kept watch over by the stump in the Green Forest. The same thing happened, only this time it was Jumper who came to find out why it was that Peter hadn't seen Mrs. Buzzard. Peter insisted that he had been there since before jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun had begun his daily climb up in the blue blue sky, and that he hadn't even so much as nodded once. Of course Jumper couldn't say much. Finally they decided that Mrs. Buzzard must have changed her habits. The fact is, she had slipped away for a late breakfast each morning while Peter and Jumper were talking things over by the tall, dead tree. She had known that they were keeping watch and so she had waited until she got a chance to slip away unobserved. It meant a late breakfast, but also it meant keeping her secret, and that was more important than an early breakfast. So Peter and Jumper were no wiser than before.

Defies Age by Using Ordinary Buttermilk to Beautify Complexion

Tell Lee & Osgood Co., Not to Take Anyone's Money Unless This Delightful New Vanishing Cream Shows a Decided Improvement

Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that while it turns the dullest, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crow's feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any one of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Mercolized Buttermilk Cream.

IMPROVING STREETS WITH COATS OF TARVIA

Street Commissioner John C. Donovan has been improving the condition of several streets this week by the application of tarvia. Streets that have been given this treatment are Broad, Cliff, Sherman and Newton streets.

Roath street has been scarified and he is giving attention to the upper part of Boswell avenue, which has been full of holes. These are being filled up so that the street will be put into better condition than it has been for a long time.

OBITUARY

John T. Young

The death of John T. Young, well known Norwich salesman, occurred some time during the night, Monday, at his home at No. 60 Washington street, where he resided while not traveling on the road.

Mr. Young had returned home Sunday evening after being in charge of an exhibit for his company at the Eastern States exposition at Springfield, Mass., and on Monday evening retired at the usual hour seemingly in his usual health. Tuesday morning he was found dead in bed and Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve was called and pronounced death due to heart failure.

Mr. Young was born in Oswego, N. Y., in 1870 and in 1886 he went to Geneva, N. Y., where he mastered the profession of stenographer. Later, for a number of years he served as court reporter in Buffalo after which he became connected with the Herendeen Manufacturing company of Geneva being in charge of fifteen stenographers of the company. The firm manufactured steam heaters and Mr. Young made a study of the business, familiarizing himself with the mechanism of heaters and methods of manufacture.

He resigned his position with the Herendeen Manufacturing company in 1894 and on August 1st of that year came to Norwich to become general manager of the William F. Page Boiler company, handling that business in a most successful manner.

Some years later he organized the John T. Young Boiler company, remaining in Norwich for a number of years. He then removed the plant to Portland, Conn., where it is now located, being owned by the Baird Machine company of Bridgeport, to whom Mr. Young sold out some years ago, although he continued to keep an interest in the business, also serving as head of the sales department of the company.

Mr. Young was prominent in Masonic circles and was also a member of Odd Fellows and the Norwich lodge of Elks. At one time he served as a member of the common council of the city, being a staunch republican and worker for his party.

In his business dealings Mr. Young made many fast friends and these, with the many friends of his social life extend their heartfelt sympathies to the members of his family in their sudden bereavement.

Mr. Young is survived by his wife, three sons, William, Harold and John Young of New York; a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Dulst of New York; two sisters, Mrs. G. Klip of Oswego, N. Y., and Mrs. Leon F. Hall of Yonkers, N. Y.

Aaron S. Aszkinasi

The death of Aaron S. Aszkinasi, 65, occurred Monday evening at his home 21 Thames street where he had been ill for about six months, having suffered three strokes. Mr. Aszkinasi and his family have been residents of this city for the past four years, having come here from Austria where he had been a merchant all his life and an honored and respected member of the communities where he lived.

He is survived by his widowed wife, Fanny Esther two daughters, Mrs. Louis Schreiber and Miss Anna Aszkinasi, both of this city, and a son Abraham of New York. Also leaves nephews and nieces, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Max Schwartz of this city.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock and burial was in the Norwich Hebrew benevolent association cemetery at Brewster's Neck. Rabbi Max Stamm was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

ACCUSED OF OPERATING AUTO UNDER INFLUENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 29.—An automobile owned by Peter Sablowski, 282 Central avenue, Norwich, and a machine owned by Ruools Hoehn, 139 Winthrop street, were in collision tonight and both cars were damaged. Sablowski was arrested by Patrolman Thomas Cavanaugh charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and will be arraigned in the police court tomorrow morning. He furnished a cash bond for his court appearance. Sablowski was on his way from New London to Norwich and on Main street near Richards street he attempted to pass the machine operated by Hoehn, and crashed against a telephone pole, extensively damaging the latter car. Sablowski's car was taken to a garage where it awaits the owner's claim.

If it's a sore it gets itself divided up into building lots.

LAID CORNERSTONE FOR NEW BUILDING FOR SHELTERING ARMS

Brief but impressive exercises marked the laying of the corner stone of the new Sheltering Arms building at the corner of Rockwell street and McKinley avenue Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. There was an attendances of over 100 people at the exercises. Officials of the city and town, and officers and committees of the United Workers occupied seats on a platform erected over one corner of the foundation for the building. An inclined passageway led from the ground to the platform and at either side of the entrance of the passageway were large American flags.

With Wallace S. Allis presiding as master of ceremonies the exercises opened promptly at 4:30 o'clock. Following a sacred selection by Swahn's orchestra, Eben Learned led the singing of one verse of America after which the invocation was given by Rev. Henry T. Arnold. Mayor Milo R. Waters spoke briefly on The United Workers and The City of Norwich. Mayor Waters said that in connection with the United Workers of the city of Norwich there is a story that need never be told. It is a story of years of unselfishness, love and comfort for the sick and dying. What more could we ask of an organization of that kind, he asked. One of the branches of the United Workers is the Sheltering Arms. We could never forget that this building is but an instrument in the hands of the United Workers for the good of the city and when we are called on for help we should readily respond.

Historical Sketch

Mrs. Charles T. Bard, president of the United Workers, then gave an interesting historical sketch of the Sheltering Arms, as follows:

"As we stand on this foundation, today, so substantial in its cement and brick, we involuntarily question the why and wherefore of it all, the unseen foundation of hopes and fears, joys and disappointments, work and worry which are always the lot of those interested in ventures into new fields and to which this society was no exception.

The United Workers association was the offspring of a temperance society which had been organized only a few years prior to 1877, when a desire to broaden and see more tangible results of their labors, made its members form themselves into an association for charitable work.

Mrs. E. B. Huntington was elected its first president and the society was launched with high hopes and consecrated zeal.

Someone suggested incorporating the association, during its very earliest infancy, in order that legacies might be received and property acquired. These seemed exigencies so remote that methinks I can see those women now, laughing a little over the suggestion and finally taking the step in the spirit of "it can do no harm."

They were building better than they knew, for in 1882 just four years after its inauguration the "United Workers" received its first legacy of $3,000 from Miss Harriet Koon.

The first building to be acquired although not owned, was a house at 61 Thames street. It was opened as a temporary refuge for the sick and those in need of shelter and rest and it was named "The Sheltering Arms."

That it immediately gained the favor and confidence of the people of Norwich is evidenced by the fact that in less than a year after it had opened its doors, two public spirited citizens made possible a better home by the purchase of the present building with the understanding that the association pay them 6 per cent. annually on the investment as rental. They made it ready for occupancy by the expenditure of $500 and in April 1878 the Sheltering Arms moved from its Thames street beginnings in the noise of the heart of the city, to its home of brightness and quiet and cheer in Norwich Town.

The original house consisted of ten rooms and was considered in those days all that could be desired for the purpose.

At that time we had no hospital in Norwich and while those who were able to pay were expected to do so no one, in need, was turned away for lack of funds.

In the first three years 71 persons were given shelter, 50 females, 21 males, and of that number 3 were infants, 8 were children and the remainder adults. 42 of the 71 were invalids, 2 had been burned out of house and home, some were housed while temporarily out of work and a few were relatives of the sick, willing to nurse them to save the institution expense. Of the forty-two sick, received, 21 were cured, 10 left after more or less improvement, 3 left showing no improvement and 3 died. In those early days surgical operations were not infrequent and one birth is a matter of record.

The house was constantly filled to capacity, at times the matron and nurses giving up their quarters that the most good might be done. As our institution was, in those days, the only one for the care of the homeless sick in eastern Connecticut one may imagine that appeals to it were urgent and pathetic and that many times its capacity already taxed to the limit, its very walls must seemingly become elastic to make possible the admitting of one more sufferer.

In the spring of 1882, John F. Slator and the estate of Lafayette S. Foster gave to the United Workers, without reserve or conditions, deeds of the house and land now being occupied as the home—a gift which, for forty-three years, has been a monument to their memories.

In 1883 and again in 1896 "extensive repairs" were made to the building for the sum of $1,000 and $885 ure. would be made at the present which to smile when we think of how "extensive" repairs, at that figrespectively. Surely a record over date. Our surprise is greater when we know that for that sum of $885 an entirely new kitchen and laundry were built and an ell added which gave eight more rooms to the building. Surely one may be forgiven for wishing for a return of those "good old days."

Even with this enlarged capacity, demands were so heavy for the first ten years that the greatest problem was who to receive, who to reject. In those first years, of the 326 persons assisted, most of them were invalids.

In 1893 at the opening of the William W. Backus hospital it was thought that the work would noticably decrease, but such was not the case. It is true that the character of the work was somewhat changed, acute and surgical cases going to the hospital, but there were many who for reasons, seeming good, could not be admitted to that institution and to those the Sheltering Arms opened its doors.

Always the hospital and the Sheltering Arms have worked in greatest harmony, through all the years representative physicians have given free of charge of their time and skill and clergymen and choirs have ministered to the spiritual needs of those within its walls.

In the course of its forty-eight years of existence this institution has cared for all ages, from infancy to old age—one dear soul called for her reward after several years' residence in our home, at the age of 106.

In 1920 one of the family, aged 92, cast her first vote—a proud moment for her and a happy one for her friends who gloried in he desire to do her duty.

The change in the character of the home has come so gradually that some of us, who have been in the work a comparatively short time, find it hard to believe that it once had so much of an atmosphere of the infirmary. We look upon it as an old ladies' home, loved by those fortunate enough to be sheltered within its walls and coveted by many for whom, up to this time, there has been no room.

Time forbids the mentioning of the names of those women, faithful and true, who have contributed so generously to the success of this home, by their keen executive ability, broad outlook and cheering personalities. The pioneers, with a single exception, have all heard their masters "well done, good and faithful servant," but all down through the years of its existence it has commanded the interest of the city's most intellectual and spiritual women who work in the spirit of him who said: "In as much as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

For the Future

The work of the Sheltering Arms in the future was the title of an interesting paper read by Mrs. Frederic W. Cary, chairman of the Sheltering Arms committee. Mrs. Cary's letter follows:

It seems as if the maker of dreams had used his influence with the queen fairy and she has wafted her magic wand and made the long cherished dream of the Sheltering Arms committee a reality, for we are here today to lay the corner stone of the new building, which we hope may prove the blessing and haven for those whose home it will be as the old home has been, for old as that building is, it has been a source of happiness and contentment for the family it has sheltered.

There must be a sense of comfort, if when the sunset of life has been reached, those days may be passed in the knowledge that someone is thinking and planning to make those days, days of pleasure and ease—and can there be in the minds of the ones who have labored to have this new building, anything more gratifying and lasting than the thought that this new home with its 28 rooms of fire-proof construction, its two large sun porches a living room which is flooded with sunlight and its dining room, which will be a joy to those who will use it, is the result of love and long planning, and will be a memorial to those "whom we have loved long since and lost awhile;" for their gifts have helped make it possible for us to have this new Sheltering Arms.

The work of this department is to be enlarged, as there are seven double rooms which will accommodate elderly couples and a wing with six rooms for single men.

On behalf of the Sheltering Arms committee, I beg to assure you of the great pleasure that is ours to know that the dear old ladies and mothers, whose care it is our privilege to have, are at last to have the new and safe home, for which we have so hoped, and our efforts in the future will be even greater than in the past in looking after their welfare, and may it be said of us: "Their works do follow them."

Representing the advisory board of the United Workers, Henry A. Tirrell, principal of the Norwich Free Academy, spoke briefly on What the Sheltering Arms Means to the Community. Mr. Tirrell said that the laying of the corner stone today marks the beginning of a new era of helpfulness in our community. The new Sheltering Arms will provide safety and peaceful comfort for more than twice as many old people as the former building held. There is nothing so expresses the noblest things of mankind than the spirit of service. It is the glory of mankind to respond to a nobler impulse We know that the thing most fit to survive is a sympathy for suffering and a willingness to aid those in distress.

But this impulse can accomplish very little, unless it be directed by intelligence.

Very few communities like ours have such an efficient organization as the United Workers.

We look to them to move onward in helping our community.

Miss Adelaide L. Butts, treasurer of the United Workers, exhibited a sealed copper box, which she afterwards placed under the corner stone. Miss Butts said that there had been placed in the box the first printed annual report of the United Workers, date 1880, 2 years and 3 months after the organization of the United Workers, the annual report of 1923 containing tributes to two late presidents of the United Workers, Mrs. George Coit and Mrs. Henry T. Arnold, the last annual report, year 1924, copy of the Norwich Evening Record, date of Sept. 28, copy of the Norwich Morning Bulletin, date of Sept. 29, clippings from local press pertaining to the new building, list of the federal, state, town and city officers, the name of the architect and his associates, the names of the building committee, a silver dollar 1925 issue, two Indian arrow heads presented for that purpose and a programme of the afternoon's exercises.

The architects are: Kendall, Taylor & Co., Boston; Chandler & Palmer, associates.

The building committee — Mrs. Charles T. Bard, ex-officio; Miss Adelaide L. Butts, Mrs. Frederic W. Cary, Miss Mary H. Paddock, secretary, Mrs. Charles H. Preston, Shepard E. Palmer, Wallace S. Allis, chairman.

The programme closed with the singing of the hymn Blest Be The Tie That Binds, benediction being pronounced by Rev. Mr. Arnold.

Description of Building

The new building is being constructed on the Rockwell St., lot owned by the Sheltering Arms, and being a part of the old roque grounds. The lot itself is at the corner of Rockwell street and the McKinley avenue extension. In locating the new building on the lot the question came up as to how it should be placed, whether to face Rockwell street or McKinley avenue extension. After considerable discussion, it was finally decided to front the building across the lot, setting it back about 100 feet and leaving a considerable triangular space in front of the building which will add to the attractiveness of the setting. The east and west corners at the front of the building will be about 30 feet from the line of the lot on each side.

The building will be two stories in height of brick and fire proof construction, terra cotta and gypsum block partitions and a slate roof. The main building, which has solaria at either end, has a length of 140 feet and a depth of 30 to 35 feet, with two wings about 30 feet square, protecting at the rear. Between the wings will be an open court, this arrangement providing for perfect light and ventilation on all sides, which is a characteristic that has been worked out in the entire building.

On the ground floor of the main building will be two maids' rooms, sitting room, trunk room, two storerooms, root cellar, two men's rooms, a two-bed room and receiving room. A maids' entrance is arranged on the McKinley avenue extension side of the building. Under the west wing is the laundry and under the east wing the boiler and coal room. The main entrance to the building is on the first floor through a vestibule and reception hall, the latter 26 feet 6 inches wide. There are alcoves at each side of the vestibule and a corridor extends east and west from the reception hall. To the west of the reception hall and on the front of the building is the matron's suite, with bedroom and sitting room, a maid's room with bath room, and a two-bed room. To the east of the reception hall is a private room, a two-bed room and the dining room, 19 feet by 40 feet. Northerly from the corridor are three private rooms, nurses' room, linen room and toilet room. The stair halls are at each end of the corridor, which is continued to give access to the two rear wings. The westerly wing is taken up on the main floor with a recreation hall, about 30x30, and the easterly wing contains the kitchen, 30x20 feet 8, with pantry and serving room.

There will be a corridor on the second floor and this floor will provide a large central sitting room, five two-bed rooms, seven private rooms, diet kitchen, toilet and bath room, nurses' room and toilet. On the second floor of the west wing are six private rooms with wardrobes and in the east wing five private rooms and a toilet. The rooms are arranged on either side of a central corridor, which gives access to an outside balcony for each wing. The two beautiful solaria, or sun rooms, enclosed in glass, are at either end of the building, and are about 35 feet deep by about 17 feet wide.

The building is designed to be perfectly adapted to furnish every comfort for those worthy women who will make up its family and it will be a splendid addition to the property of the United Workers that will make possible an important extension and enlargement of this department of the society.

W. S. Spencer of this city has the contract, his bid being $85,884. Harold C. Dahl, this city was awarded the contract for the plumbing and heating at a bid of $19,902.

The Sheltering Arms committee comprises: Chairman, Mrs. Frederic W. Cary; secretary, Mrs. W. Russell Baird; assistant secretary, Miss Alice L. Bennett; Mrs. Walter T. Camp; Mrs. George W. Carroll, Mrs. Allan Cleworth, Mrs. William H. Dawley, Mrs. William H. Fitch, Mrs. Charles A. Gager, Miss Elizabeth Hall, Mrs. Rollin C. Jones, Mrs. Eben Learned, Mrs. Charles B. Lee, Miss Isabel H. Mitchell, Mrs. Charles W. Prentice, Mrs. Charles H. Preston, Mrs. Howard L. Stanton, Mrs. Archibald Torrance. The publicity committee comprises Mrs. Francis Gilman, chairman and Mrs. Charles H. Preston.

NORTH STONINGTON EXPENSES $27,951.67 FOR PAST YEAR

According to the annual report of Charles C. Gray, treasurer of the town of North Stonington, the town had a balance in the treasury of $13,326.64, Aug. 31st, the close of the town's fiscal year. The town receipts for the year were $41,277.31 and the expenses were $27,951.67.

The report of the town school committee, Edna Hewitt Tryon, Edna M. Cook and Maud N. Partelo, is as follows:

It is our pleasure to submit to you the report of your school department for the past year. We believe that it has been a year of progress, of earnest effort on the part of the teachers and of interested co-operation on the part of pupils and parents.

One innovation made by your committee was the hiring of a part time school nurse, Miss Frances C. Kingsberger, R. N., whose work has been so helpful and satisfactory that her services have been again secured for the coming year. The school nurse is listed as a health teacher by the state board of education and therefore the town is reimbursed by the state for 70 per cent. of the amount of her salary of $600, or $420. The total amount received from the state under this grant, the support of schools grant, or 70 per cent. of our entire payroll, was $7,137.20.

The itemized amounts on the credit side of the ledger are as follows:

Support of schools grant, $7,137.20; enumeration grant, $600.75; income from town deposit fund, $477.93; tuition from Voluntown, $594.60; tuition from Stonington, $132.75; income from 6 mill tax, $3,905.55; total, $12,748.98.

The total expense of maintaining the schools was $12,413.97, leaving a balance of $335.01 of money lawfully set aside for this department.

For the coming year we have been fortunate to secure the return of nine of last year's teachers and the three new teachers have all had experience in their profession. This should mean increased efficiency and, of course, does mean some increase in the amount of salaries to be paid.

It has been the aim of this committee to raise the standard of the teaching force, to improve the town school property by needed and desirable repairs, to provide for the children clean, cheerful and comfortable school rooms, and adequate books and supplies.

For the co-operation of all who have aided us we are most grateful.

NORWICH TOWN BRIDGE IS AGAIN IN USE

The bridge at Norwich Town which has been closed since July 15, when it was found that the iron beams needed to be replaced, was opened again for traffic on Monday and on Tuesday Selectman W. S. Murray had a force of men are laying a new sidewalk across the bride.

The repairs that have been effected by putting in new iron beams of a heavy type have restored the bridge to a long period of usefulness, probably twenty years, before any further repairs to the iron work will be needed. While all of the bills are not yet in, it is estimated that the repair work will cost about $2,000.

ORGANIST WILL RESIGN AT ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH

It was with regret that the congregations at St. Joseph's church learned on Sunday that Mrs. Thomas J. Healy would resign as organist and chorister on October 1st. Mrs. Healy has held this position for the past 18 months and the four choirs which number 125 voices have made remarkable progress under her direction. Before coming to St. Joseph's church, Mrs. Healy had held positions in St. Mary's, Norwich, and St. Patrick's, Waterbury.

"Free" places in London schools increased from 47,000 in 1908-9 to 130,000 in 1924-25, and the number of pupils transferred to secondary schools at the age of 11 plus increased from 26 per cent in 1910-11 to 54 per cent in 1924. This has tended to lengthen the acerage time per pupil spent in the secondary schools, which was two years and seven months in 1908-9, to three years and five months in 1922-23.

PRESTON TOWN EXPENSES SHOW $52,913.08 TOTAL

During the past year the expenses of the town of Preston were $52,913.08, according to the annual report of the town treasurer, O. V. Sheed, just issued. The receipts for the year were $42,674.84. The report of the school supervising agent, S. Hussey Reed, says in part:

The town erected one new building this year in the Brown district, thus aiding very materially in the care of the children in that part of the town.

The other sections are well cared for with the exception of Preston City and Kimball districts. Something will have to be done soon to eliminate the congestion in these two districts.

In my judgment it would be unwise, financially as well as educationally, to attempt to enlarge the present buildings of these localities.

My suggestion is that you erect, instead, somewhere in the proximity of Preston City, a three-room structure which will care for the growing school population of this part of the town. This, it would seem to me, to be the most feasible solution of this problem.

There were nine teachers employed during the year, all of which held duly certified state teachers' certificate. The work was faithfully done and I commend the loyalty of these teachers. Preston united with the other towns of this district in the employment to a health teacher and school nurse this year.

Miss Frances Kingberger, R. N., was secured for this position and she has been most earnest in her endeavors for the inculcation of health among our school children. From her report the following data will show some of her work.

School visits, 176; home visits, 56; children inspected, 285; defects found, eyes 16, throat 22, teeth, per cent. 96.

Pupils found to be seven per cent. or more underweight, and reported, 84. The height and weight was taken regularly each month. Nearly 45 per cent. of the children with defective teeth have had dental correction. Health talks have been given regularly and everything done for the promotion of the better physical development of the pupils that they may be more able to work intellectually. Miss Kingberger has had the hearty co-operation of the teachers and homes in this work and I feel that much good has been accomplished this year.

The one stumbling block which seems to retard our work each year is that of insufficient, proper text books. Preston is one of the very few towns of our state which does not furnish free text books at present. I know of no more progressive move at this time, than that of free text books for pupils. I most earnestly urge upon this board and the taxpayers of Preston to make this progressive movement possible in this town beginning with this present school year. No more important move could be made for the educational advancement of the town along the lines of progressive education.

STATE MONEY TO TOWNS FOR SCHOOL SUPPORT

The time for towns to make returns to the state board of education for the "support of schools" grant expires today (Wednesday). All the towns of the state entitled to the grant except Voluntown, have complied with the requirements of the law, and an official of that town has informed the state board that its return would be mailed to Hartford Tuesday. Eighty-six towns in the state will receive grants under the "support of schools" law. This law takes the place of the old statute which provided a grant on the basis of average attendance. The amount of the grant under the present law is predicted on a percentage of teachers' salaries. The towns which come under it are divided into nine classes, according to amount of grand lists up to $3,500,000.

The grants range from 75 per cent. of the salaries of teachers in towns where the grand lists do not exceed $750,000 each to 10 per cent of salaries in towns which have grand lists amounting to $3,500,000. The total amount paid the towns under the "support of schools" law is, including an estimated sum of $2,940 for Voluntown, $357,466.60.

The "special aid" grant to twenty-seven towns paid to towns last week amounted to $55,150.

The total sum which the towns will receive from these two grants amounts to $412,616.60.

Towns in New London and Windham counties which will receive grants under the "support of schools" law are the following:

Colchester, $8,377.18; Preston, $4,025; Lyme, $4,095; Woodstock, $6,971.50; Salem, $3,825; Bozrah, $4,615; Lebanon, $11,685.12; Ledyard $5,492.50; North Stonington, $7,137.20; Pomfret, $3,808.02; Scotland, $1,897.50; Canterbury, $6,904.43; Lisbon, $4,832.80; Sterling, $5,083.96; Franklin, $2,855; Old Lyme, $1,120; Brooklyn, $1,700; Eastford, $3,918; Ashford, $4,540; Hampton, $2,615.01; Chaplin, $1,573.

DISCREDIT'S DUFILIE'S STORY OF FATAL ACCIDENT

Testimony tending to discredit the story told by Peter Dufilie in regard to the fatal accident when the automobile he was driving hit Edward Crooks Sunday afternoon on North Main street, has been given to the police by Mrs. Patrick McDermott of 247 Central avenue, who was an eyewitness to the tragedy.

Dufilie claimed that Mr. Crooks walked out from a trolley car into the path of his automobile and that he was unable to avoid hitting the man because of another machine which was approaching behind the trolley car.

Mrs. McDermott, who stood on the sidewalk and saw Mr. Crooks start to cross North Main street, has asserted positively, according to the police authorities, that there was no trolley car in sight nor any automobile but the Dufilie machine in sight when Mr. Crooks started to cross the street and when she was shouting to him to stay back because of the approaching machine driven by Dufilie. The trolley car, she claims, did not arrive until after Mr. Crooks had been struck and knocked down, the crew leaving the trolley car when it arrived at the point of the accident and working across the street to see what had happened.

WHAT PLAYER WILL SHINE FORTH AS HERO OF COMING WORLD'S SERIES?

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(By the Associated Press)—Somewhere in the ranks of the Pirates and Senators is the uncrowned hero of the 1925 world's series. It will take a fortnight or so to determine his identity but precedent set in every previous championship conflict bears out the conviction that some one athlete, aspiring or inspired, will have his name marked down on the list of baseball's Frank Merriwell's.

The king himself may have something to say about disposition of this season's crown for Bucky Harris, brilliant young manager of the Senators, goes into the series with the distinction of having been the outstanding figure of the 1924 victory of his club over the Giants.

Walter Johnson's pitching made him a heroic figure in the final game last fall; Earl McNeely drove in the deciding run and Peckinpaugh's gallant efforts at shortstop also figured largely in the battle but Harris was the all-around sensation, fielding brilliantly and wielding a potent bat.

Harris will have precedent against his chance of repeating a heroic role, however, for while players have starred in more than one series they have never lifted themselves to the "outstanding hero" niche more than once.

Both Washington and Pittsburgh have a plentiful array of candidates for stellar roles—two score or more, in fact. In the pre-series speculation, names most frequently heard are Coveleskie and Johnson, Washington's great right handed pitchers; Peckinpaugh and Goslin, prominent figures in the Senators' attack and defense; and among the Pirates such sensational youngsters as Cuyler, Yde, Moore, Wright and Traynor or veterans such as Carey, Meadows and Adams.

Babe Adams and Stanley Coveleskie, incidentally, have been awarded the main laurel wreath before so that they face the same handicap of precedent as Harris. Adams gained his honors by winning the series against Detroit in 1909; Coveleskie turned the same trick for Cleveland against Brooklyn in 1920.

Here is the complete list of world's series heroes, as popularly chosen, up to date:

1903—Bill Dinneen, pitcher, Red Sox.
1905—Christy Mathweson, pitcher, Giants.
1906—George Rohe, third baseman, White Sox.
1907—Harry Steinfeldt, third baseman, Cubs.
1908—Frank Chance, first baseman, Cubs.
1909—Babe Adams, pitcher, Pirates.
1910—Jack Coombs, pitcher, Athletics.
1911—Frank Baker, third baseman, Athletics.
1912—Hughe Bedient, pitcher, Red Sox.
1913—Eddie Collins, second baseman, Athletics.
1914—Hank Gowdy, catcher, Braves.
1915—Duffy Lewis, outfielder, Red Sox.
1916—Harry Hooper, outfielder, Red Sox.
1917—Urban Faber, pitcher, White Sox.
1918—George Whiteman, outfielder, Red Sox.
1919—Dick Kerr, pitcher, White Sox.
1920—Stanley Coveleskie, pitcher, Indians.
1921—Johnny Rawlings, infielder, Giants.
1922—Heinie Groh, third baseman, Giants.
1923—Casey Stengel, outfielder, Giants.
1924—Stanley Harris, second baseman, Washington.

MRS. HURD CONTINUES TO PLAY BRILLIANT GOLF

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—(AP) — Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, today showed no signs of relinquishing her title of woman golf champion of America. She shot the best golf of the day in the first match round of the title contest at the St. Louis Country club and who by the widest margin when she defeated Mrs. Jay Cassriel of Chicago, seven and six.

The champion went out in 37, — three better than par. She did not complete the round for a possible score of around 75. This left the best score for a completed round to Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., former champion, who not only had the second easiest match in defeating Mrs. Caleb Fox of Philadelphia, seven and five, but scored a pair of 39s for her second 78 in two days.

Third honors went to Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser of Ottawa, Canada, medalist, with a 77, who had to shoot par 40-41—81 to down Miss Dorothy Klots of Chicago by the slender margin of one up.

Another former champion, Edith Cummings of Chicago won 6 and 5 from Mrs. J. W. Douglas, of Chicago, president of the Women's Western Golf association.

Two matches went to extra holes, while two others reached the home green and four were decided on the 17th. In one extra hole match, Virginia Wilson of Chicago, although not yet 20 years old, held Mrs. Audrey Faust Wallace of St. Louis even all the way, and then, after halving the 19th in par won the 235 yard 20th with a birdie three.

The other overtime contest was not so good, especially on the second nine. Mrs. Dave Gaut of Memphis, formerly western and southern champion, proved to be the winner at the 19th hole at the expense of Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit.

Coming home, with Mrs. Gaut one down, both weakened, Mrs. Gaut taking 46 for an 88, while Mrs. Hanley required 47 for an 87 and they were even.

The Chicagoan played better on the homeward trip, but the Canadian champion would not yield more than one hole, up to the 18th where she became winner 2 and 1.

One surprise was the defeat of Mrs. Harley Higbie of Detroit by a young girl, from Portland, Maine, Helen Dayson. The New Englander, although she had been playing golf less than two years, plays a wonderful wood shot, and, finding Mrs. Highbie shooting an approximate 90, took the match 2 and 1.

Mrs. Payson will meet Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City tomorrow, the latter having had little difficulty in defeating Mrs. John Arends of Chicago, 6 and 5. Miss Cummings plays Miss Gaut, Miss Stifel measures mashies with Miss Wilson, the Canadian champion crosses cleeks with Miss Colett and the defending title-holder will play with Mrs. Letts, and Mrs. Fraser with Miss Wall.

Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, Ohio, handily overcame Edith Quier of Berkshire, Pa., 6 and 4, while Helen Tillotson of Toledo eliminated Mrs. H. A. Martelle, of Hartford, 2 and 1. The winners meet tomorrow.

Only three eastern players remain, one each from Maine, Pennsylvania, and Rhode Island, Canada has two.

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 29. — (AP)—Overcoming a handicap of six goals, Stephen Sanford's Hurricanes defeated Princemere in the first game of the Waterbury polo cup tournament at Meadow Brook today, 9 to 8.

AGGIES GROOMING FOR N. Y. U. GAME SATURDAY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 29. With the New York university game of next Saturday looming up as one of the stiffest assignments on their scedule, the Connecticut Aggies went through another long drill this afternoon in preparation for this game. Work was directed towards correcting the defects in play that cropped out in the Wesleyan game last Saturday, especially the kicking game and forward passing.

Though only fourteen men were used against Wesleyan in sixty minutes of rugged play, the team as a whole came through in fine condition and with no serious injuries. Nanfeldt and Schufield received bruises that have stiffened them somewhat, but Trainer Daly said today that they would be ready Saturday. Both were in uniform and took part in signal practice this afternoon.

Dole sent his team through a long signal drill this afternoon, using the following lineup: ends, Captain Brink and Flenneman; tackles, Nanfeldt and Zollin; guards, Bitgood and McAllister; center, Daly; quarterback Schofield; halfback, Eddy and Moreland; fullback, Makofski. This is the lineup that started against Wesleyan, and it seems likely that it will be Dole's choice in selecting his starters against Chich Meehan's N. Y. U. eleven.

A scrimmage with Coach Alexander's freshman team has been scheduled for tomorrow, when the varsity will be given the ball to try out their offensive formations. Dole was not altogether satisfied and tomorrow's scrimmage will give him an opportunity to correct some of the defects that cropped out.

DODGERS DROP BACK INTO SIXTH POSITION

YALE SQUADS HOLD LONG SCRIMMAGE DRILL

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—First and second varsity teams of the Yale football squad devoted the afternoon to long scrimmages against scrub teams and each varsity eleven made one touchdown. Kline was not in the lineup of the first varsity today, the coaches deciding to give him a rest. His place was taken by Nole.

The first varsity took the offensive but a short time during the scrimmage and Bunnell made a touchdown, the goal being kicked by Allen.

The touchdown for the second varsity in its scrimmage against the scrubs was made by Barclay. Falling tried to kick a goal but the ball went short.

In the second varsity lineup, some of the men who had just been moved up from the scrub team were given a tryout. Sanger played at end, Vander Grift at tackle, Viethe at guard, Harvey replaced Burt for a few minutes at center while Foote went in for Barclay as a halfback.

Jim Rodgers, captain of the 1897 team, and George Gosss, an old tackle, watched the practice.

ILLINOIS A. C. ATHLETES RETURN FROM ABROAD

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP) — Harold Osborn, high jump and decathlon champion, and three other members of the Illinois A. C. returned here today on the liner Majestic after an athletic tour in Europe which took them through nineteen countries. Paul Jones, a pole vaulter, Herbert Swarze, weight thrower, and Johnny Dehr, coach, accompanied Osborn.

The mid-western athletes who won a majority of the events in which they competed abroad were high in their praise of the Norwegian pole vault star, Charles Hoff. The latter being groomed for an attack on American indoor records, will come to the United States this winter, according to information received by Osborn and his team mates.

EASTERN STARS BEAT WASHINGTON SUBSTITUTES

HARTFORD, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—An all star team of Eastern leaguers defeated a squad of the Washington Senators here this afternoon by a 3 to 2 margin.

Bill Morrell, New Haven pitcher held the major leaguers to five hits, distributing them over three innings. Allan Russell, veteran spit baller pitched the first five innings for Washington and allowed one hit, striking out eight. A double with the bases loaded by Jiggs Donahue and an infield hit by Cosgrove gave the Stars their winning three run cluster in the sixth inning. The score:

Washington ..... 000 000 110—2 5 0
Eastern Stars .. 000 003 00x—3 6 2

DANIELSON BOY AFTER STATE FLYWEIGHT TITLE

Young DeForest of Danielson, who made such a fine record as a boxer during the past few years, is now in training again with his eyes on the state flyweight crown. DeForest will be remembered as the boy that held Young Coulon, the present state title holder to a draw in six rounds, at one of the Danielson shows. For the past three years he has been champion of the 192nd artillery and has met such boys as Kid Mooney, Willie O'Dowd, Tommy Woods, Young Falcone and Battling Dewey over whom he holds verdicts.

DeForest is now seeking bouts with flyweights anywhere in the state and will guarantee to furnish plenty of action for any promoter who desires to book him against any legitimate flyweight.

ACADEMY SQUAD HOLDS LIGHT FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Tuesday afternoon, Coach Whitney put his squad through a light practice. The boys started work by a long kicking drill, both punting and drop-kicking being performed. Following this the entire squad circled the track twice before settling down to regular work. The backs were divided into groups and were given some easy signal practice while the linemen held dummy scrimmage. Whitney closed the day's work by giving the team a long talk and their daily grass drill.

Coach Whitney stated after practice that although the team was green and inexperienced the chances of turning out a fairly good eleven were more than even. He said that everything depended on the players themselves.

In the game with Stonington High this coming Saturday at Stonington the Academy will meet a team that last week turned Bulkeley back with a 7 to 0 shutout. Stonington up to date this season looks very good; having defeated Bulkeley High at New London last Saturday and the Saturday before in their opening game of the season they held the much-reputed Windham High team to a scoreless tie. Under the expert coaching of O'Brien, last year on the Conn. Aggies team, they have turned out an eleven that is considerably above the standard set by the Stonington teams in the past few years. The Academy has the material and the ability to defeat Stonington but they must get together and play like a well oiled machine and not as they did against Westerly, when they resembled a crowd of grammar school kids playing in a back lot. In the game last Friday science and technique were thrown to the winds and the best man won. The finer points of football were utterly lacking in the playing of the team. With a little drilling and some real earnest team work, the Academy's chances to win a majority of their games on the year's schedule are mighty good. It is to be hoped that this year's football team will not resemble the teams of the past few years.

BARBER PILES UP BIG LEAD OVER FILLMORE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 29.—Tony Barber of Danielson piled up a 135 pin lead in the first block of ten strings of the 30-string match with Roy Fillmore, premier bowler of Norwich. Fillmore took the lead in the first string but was beaten in all of the other nine strings. Barber had high strings of 121. The second block of ten strings will be rolled at Norwich tomorrow evening. The scores:

Barber—97, 96, 116, 97, 99, 106, 105, 118, 121, 118—1073. Ave. 107.3.

The honors for the most bull's eyes also went to Bradford with eleven. The other winners and their points scored were:

Sargent 142, Grieshamer 141, Lawrence Krauss 140, Brand 139, Holmes 138, John Krauss 120 and Christopher Krauss 109.

CORNELL TO CURTAIL ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 29.—(AP) — Facing a deficit of $25,000 caused by losses in normal channels of revenue, the Cornell university athletic council today took drastic action to curtail athletic expenditures. It was voted to withdraw from all junior varsity crew races during the rowing season, except for the Poughkeepsie regatta, to eliminate some of the assistant coaches, to reduce materially the number of athletes taking trips, and to cut down several schedules.

Nutmegs Challenge

The Norwich Nutmegs challenge the Crescents A. C. to a game to be played on Sachem field, Falls, next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 P. M. The Crescents are requested to answer in the Bulletin before Friday morning. Any other teams wanting games write to the manager of the Nutmegs in care of the Bulletin.

DEMPSEY AND WILLS SIGN FOR BOUT AT MICHIGAN CITY NEXT SUMMER

NILES, Mich., Sept. 29.—(AP) — Harry Wills, a one time stevedore tonight ended his four year quest for a heavyweight championship match when he signed to meet Jack Dempsey in a ten round, no-decision contest, to be staged at Michigan City, Ind., in September 1926.

The match between Dempsey and the negro challenger, agreed upon after a 24 hour conference in South Bend ending at five o'clock tonight was definitely closed in this city. Boxing is recognized as a legalized sport in this state.

Dempsey, Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons, Wills, together with his manager, Paddy Mullins, and others, motored here from South Bend.

Promoter Fitzsimmons announced that neither Wills nor Dempsey had been guaranteed a cent and that both will box on a percentage, the respective shares of which he declined to reveal. He announced that he had posted $200,000 as a forfeit; that Dempsey had posted $100,000 and that Manager Mullins had put up $50,000 for Wills. Both Wills and Dempsey will receive $25,000 as preliminary expenses. This money was paid in South Bend.

The forfeits have been posted in the First National Bank in South Bend.

The trip to Niles was made because counsel representing Promoter Fitzsimmons and the syndicate of wealthy South Bend business men backing him wanted the articles signed in Michigan, where the sport is legalized instead of Indiana, for the purpose of avoiding any legal technicalities. This was done despite the assurance of Judge A. Farabaugh, attorney representing the syndicate, that the laws of Indiana would not be violated in staging the match at Michigan City. Judge Farabaugh asserted the articles of agreement conform strictly with the requirements of the state law governing boxing.

The actual signing occurred in the office of Dr. Fred N. Bonine, an oculist, located on the second floor above the corner drug store. This little city with its two block section of Main street business district was about deserted when the limousine which contained Dempsey and his party pulled up to the curb a few minutes after 5 o'clock. A few seconds later Wills and his party edged in between the line of flivvers parked in front of the drug store.

In less than five minutes it seemed as if the entire population of Niles was swarming toward the doctor's office.

The formalities of signing required less than five minutes. Fitzsimmons was the first to attach his signature. Then Dempsey took the pen in his good right fist while the red-faced Mullins waited for his chance to sign. Wills leaned his six feet two against the wall and watched Dempsey scrawl his name, never taking his eyes off him until it was boldly written in black ink.

RICKARD SURPRISED THAT HE DID NOT LAND FIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP) — Under the impression for several weeks that he would eventually step in and close the match, Promoter Tex Rickard tonight expressed surprise and disappointment over signing of articles by Jack Dempsey to defend his heavyweight title against Harry Wills under the promotion of Floyd Fitzsimmons next fall in Michigan City, Ind.

Contrary to earlier reports today, Rickard, like Jack Kearns, was unwilling to admit that he was prepared to go to the courts to prevent Dempsey from fighting the negro challenger in the middle west.

"My lawyers inform me that my contracts with Dempsey and Kearns, written and verbal, will stand any kind of a test and that I am entitled to this fight," Rickard said. "Whether I will press these claims or not, I cannot say tonight. I feel as if I'd like to wash my hands of the whole matter, and yet I can't believe that Dempsey has made such a fool of himself until I get more facts on the matter."

Tigers Beat Cubs

DETROIT, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Nationals in a twelve inning exhibition game here today, 4 to 3.

Traveling 12,000 miles to be married by the pastor of their choice, Robert Riddell and Miss Pearl Wilkinson, of Dunedin, New Zealand, were wedded in the Lyona church, fifteen miles south of Junction City, Kas., by The Rev. Rudolph Mallech. The Rev. and Mrs. Mallech were missionaries in New Zealand for many years and there met the bride and bridegroom.

CHRISTCHURCH AND DUNEDIN

Christchurch and Dunedin, cities of the South Island of New Zealand, where sailors from units of the American fleet have been visiting, are the subjects of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Christchurch lies in Canterbury Plains on the River Avon.

"These three names alone would give one a good inkling of what Christchurch is like and something of its history. It was founded just 75 years ago almost directly as a project of the Church of England, and the community was meant to be an 'England in miniature.' An archbishop of the church of England headed the settlers, most of whom were staunch churchmen, cultured and reasonably well to do. An imposing cathedral was built to be the 'hub' of the town both physically and spiritually, and it dominates the city in both realms today.

"In its 75 years Christchurch and its suburbs have acquired a population of about 95,000. The city spreads over a considerable area, almost wholly flat, and has wide, tree-shaded streets, uncrowded dwellings, ample parks.

"Canterbury Plains, on the edge of which Christchurch lies, have an area of about 4,000 square miles and constitute the largest unbroken tract of agricultural land, and the richest in the two islands. Here is the center of New Zealand's grain, sheep and dairy industries. Canterbury plainsmen are prosperous and the roads of their large level region invite motoring—facts which have contributed to make automobiles as numerous in Christchurch as in almost any American city of similar size.

"One of the most charming features of Christchurch is the Avon, a limpid little stream which winds its way through the heart of the city. Its gently sloping, grassy banks are overhung by weeping willows whose trailing branches make soft walls of green for every vista of the stream. At several places the Avon widens to enfold little islands on which landscape gardeners have massed graceful shrubs and flowers.

"Christchurch is the only one of four New Zealand cities visited by the American sailors which lies inland. Between it and the sea, seven miles away, lies a range of high, rugged hills. The hills have been pierced by a tunnel for a railway, and near the seaward end of the borough is Port Lyttelton, the city's sea gateway. This little port town with its 5,000 inhabitants is built along the side of hills. Most of its streets are steep. Over the hills to Christchurch lead a bridle path and a carriage road for those who spurn the more effete railway and its tunnel.

"While Christchurch is colored still by its Church of England origin, Dunedin's atmosphere is that of Scotch Presbyterianism. This fourth city of the dominion, lying near the southern end of South Island, has a population in the neighborhood of 75,000. It was founded in 1848 by settlers from Edinburgh, who, to avoid adding to geographic confusion, gave it the Gaelic name for the Scotch capital. Scotch names predominate in the telephone directory, on the business signs, and in the designations of the streets, while the massive kirk with its towering steeple stands in place of of Christchurch's cathedral. If the traveler hears inexplicably weird noises around the corner in Dunedin they probably emanate from one of the city's bag-pipe bands.

"The back country, a bit rugged and cooler than the rest of New Zealand, is also reminiscent of Scotland. The climate is milder, however, than that of the Caledonian hills, and the region is a great fruit country as well as a rival of Canterbury Plains in dairying and sheep production.

"Dunedin has a good, well protected harbor, though it is neither so large nor so deep as the harbors of Auckland and Wellington. From this port in 1881 sailed the first cargo of frozen mutton, an event that marked the beginning of a business that has developed into one of the chief economic landmarks of the dominion. Hundreds of thousands of frozen carcasses are shipped out annually now, not only from Dunedin, but from a number of other ports. The mutton carcasses from Dunedin are supplemented now by countless frozen rabbits.

"Dunedin nestles among its encircling hills and around its curved harbor like a small scale Wellington. They are greener, less gashed, hills, however, and not so steep.

"Dunedin gets its share of pleasure seekers from the warmer, more northern parts of New Zealand. It is the gateway to the southern lake country, a popular New Zealand playground, and to the great Fiordland National Park."

SEVERAL WORLD'S RECORDS LOWERED IN GRAND CIRCUIT RACING AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 29.—(AP) — World records were broken today when Aileen Guy, the speedy three-year-old daughter of Guy Axworthy, today won the American horse breeders' futurity, the feature of today's grand circuit card.

To win she easily stepped the two miles in 2:03 1-2. These two miles constitute a record for the horse breeders futurity; they also set a new record for two heats for a three year old trotting filly and they are the two fastest heats trotted this year in any futurity by any three year old.

Sensational time also was made in the first two heats of the Buckeye, $1,800 stake for 2:12 trotters by Crawford, the winner of the event, in the first heat he stepped the 5-8 mile in 1:14 1-2, better than a two minute clip. In the second heat of 3-4 mile he trotted the distance in 1:30 3-4. The third heat at a longer distance was won by Thompson Dillon.

The Arch city pacing stake also had two heat winners. The favored Frank Worthy won the first and third heats, while the second one went to Star Ruth, whose chances in the final heat were spoiled by a bad break.

The 2:17 pace a class event, went to Norman Grattan in straight heats the fight being for second place.

The most exciting race of the day was the 2:17 trot with the largest field of the meeting. It required four heats before Wanita Ward was returned the winner. A $10 result ticket on her paid $856. By finishing second in the second heat, Davenport also furnished a surprise. A two dollar ticket on him to place repaid to the extent of $193.

Arch City stake, 2:17 pace, 3 heats of 5-8, 3-4 and 1 1-4 miles, purse $1,800.

With The Ants

A learned professor in Munich has been making observations upon a colony of ants that inhabit an artificial ant hill in his laboratory. He was interested in their methods of communication, especially as these related to food supply, a field where communication was necessary.

One day an ant found a particle of food and tried to carry it away herself, but as it was too big for her she took the shortest cut back, to the ant hill to get help.

In the upper part of the ant hill was a sort of guardroom, whether there were ants always ready for such hurry calls. The scout who had found the food entered and crossed antennae with each ant and thus communicated the glad tidings. The ants swarmed out and ran aimlessly around until the scout who had found the booty reappeared.

The scout led the way with a trail of ants close on her heels. When the booty was found, it was attacked and broken to pieces.

The scientist, writing in Science describes how he sprinkled crumbs of food where a scout could find them. The little creature made 23 trips trips to and from the ant hill until the last crumb had been delivered.

Stone Cast From Heaven

The sacred shrine of Mohammedans is in Mecca. In the center of Mecca is the Great Mosque, which was built as a place of pagan worship many centuries before the birth of Mohammed. It is known as the Mosque of Kaaba. Within the courtyard is a small building, the famous Kabba. It is covered with a gorgeous holy carpet of black silk with a border of gold lettering, texts form the Koran. Imbedded in one of the walls is the most sacred object in the world to Mohammedans. It is the black stone of meteoric origin which Mohammedans believe was tossed from heaven by the Angel Gabriel to Father Abraham. It is said that it was once whiter than milk but that it has been turned black by the sins of the people who have kissed it.

The followers of the prophet believe that this building rests directly underneath the throne of God. They say that it was lowered down from heaven at the request of Adam, and that it is an exact duplicate of one that he had seen in Paradise before his expulsion and is frequented by angels.

When Auron Petruch, who is erecting a large opera house at Bethlehem, Pa., reached a certain point in construction he discovered that he had no room for a fire escape, so he was compelled to buy the hotel next door for $20,000 and will tear it down to provide for the safety steps.

WESTERLY

Records on file at the office of the Westerly town clerk show:

Sept. 26.—Frederick S. Opie to Frederick M. Robertson, power of attorney to act in connection with the Brown building and other buildings owned by him as well as acting in other official capacities for him. James O. Lynch to John Rosso, a certain lot of land on the north side of Cross street. Heirs of Robert A. Mason to Gertrude H. L. Mason, a parcel of land on the east side of Margin street. Serafino Celestino et ux to Joseph Cozzolino et al a certain tract of land with buildings and improvements on the west side of Pleasant street. Jeannie Parker of Stonington to Beverly M. Bliven and Donna B. Bliven of Norwich, Conn., a certain parcel or tract of land, lot No. 37, Pleasant View Beach tract. Serafino Celestino to Antonio Vitarti et ux, with buildings and improvements on the west side of Pierce street.

Sept. 28.—Joanna D. M. Keener, formerly Joanna D. M. Bruce of Ringoes, N. J., to James E. O'Brien and wife a lot or tract of land at Pleasant View, east of Crandall avenue and north of Second street.

Now that the big steam shovel of Samuel Nardone has begun work on High street, near the Junction of Canal street, together with the fact that no business block has yet been erected on the corner lot at High and Canal streets, it would appear that an excellent opportunity is afforded for the widening of High street, between Grove avenue and Canal street. Some time ago the Westerly Highway commission held a hearing in the Westerly Council chamber upon the subject when property owners there who are active in arranging layouts in other sections of the town came into the hearing and uniformly objected to having sections of their front yards taken into the highway. Among some of the objections raised at the time were the loss of shade trees of some of the property owners or those otherwise interested in the lands involved, also owners or occupants of seashore property where they are accustomed to pass the summer months when closing their town houses.

After having been employed for three days on a contract to excavate between railroad freight yard switches in preparation for the cement driveway to be laid at the Westerly freight yard, the big steam shovel was moved to High street Tuesday, to begin the excavation of a ditch up the center of the highway for the installation of sewer mains. An interested throng gathered to watch the steam shovel make short work of ripping up a trench and depositing the excavated material at the sidewalk edge on either side, the section of highway being closed to travel. One of the older residents paused to view the work, and wondered how long it would be before the layer of oyster shells would be reached which he had been informed, was used for filling here when the roadway was in the early stages of its existence. The laying of sewer mains was completed from the High street railroad bridge to Dixon street before the shovel was moved to the Westerly freight yard.

The Westerly Historical society, organized in 1913, begins the current season with the following program for its activities, with speakers and subjects:

Oct. 15, Rev. Edward W. Babcock, Anecdotes of Old-time Westerly; Nov. 5, Judge Walter B. Vincent, notes on Florida; Dec. 3, Miss Grace D. Wheeler, Oft-Told Tales; Jan. 7, Miss Sallie Andrews, Collector's Luck; Feb. 4, Dr. John Champlin, Interesting Characters of Former Days; March 4, S. W. Macomber, Rhode Island's famous Art school; April 1, Mrs. Paul F. Estey, Early New England music; May 6, annual meeting.

The following are the historical society's officers: President, Everett E. Whipple; vice president, N. Henry Lanphear; recording secretary, Mrs. Elisha C. Burdick; corresponding secretary, Miss Lillian Thomas; treasurer, Miss Gertrude Foster.

It is expected that the September term of superior court for Washington county, now in session for the second week at the county court house at West Kingston will come to Westerly Thursday of this week when the Westerly trial calendar will be taken up with Associate Justice Antonio A. Capotosto on the bench. Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell will be in charge of the court officers and several weeks court sitting is anticipated.

Representatives of the Granite Cutters' union, Caledonian society and Improved Order of Red Men were among those in attendance at the funeral service for James Tough, held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at his home, 73 Mechanic street. Rev. Marvin S. Stocking conducted the service. The bearers were Samuel Fyfe, William Dower, Albert Bennett, William Smith, George Smith and Robert Rowe. Burial was in River Bend cemetery.

A change has been made in the date for the installation of the Knights of Columbus. The regular meeting night of Narragansett council, No. 21, K. of C., has been changed from next Tuesday night to Friday night, Oct. 9.

On that date Supreme Agent John F. Daily will pay his annual visit to the council and the officers will be installed by District Deputy James McCormick.

Mr. and Mrs. Elery D. Crumb have returned to their homes in Westerly from a vacation trip to Niagara Falls and into Canada.

Miss Huldah Browning and niece of Stonington were visitors in Westerly Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Seidner left Tuesday for a business visit in New York.

Thomas McKenzie of Westerly, past grand master of the grand lodge of Masons of Connecticut, and Arthur N. Nash of Pawcatuck, an active officer of the grand lodge, attended the 100th anniversary of the Widow's Son lodge of Branford, Conn., Monday afternoon and evening.

JEWETT CITY

The running expenses for the town of Griswold for the fiscal year ending August 31 have been $30,515.99, as follows:

Highways, $8,230.47; bridges, $187.31; town officers, $1,665; assessing and collecting taxes, $3,162.52; town farm, $1,607.51; outside poor, $1,875.53; medical attendance, $45.48; care of insane and imbeciles, $1,544.38; damage done by dogs, $67; town hall, Jewett City, $1,750.41; town hall, Pachaug, $102.52; vital statistics, $249.50; election expenses, $569.35; interest, $7,524.02; miscellaneous, $2,492.66.

In 1924 the damage done by dogs cost the town $122. For the year just closed the damage by dogs is $67, paid as follows: Otto Anderson, $30; A. F. Burton, $10; Alvin Douglas, $15; F. Pepin, $12.

This year it was necessary to pay the state of Connecticut $1,544.38 for the care of insane and imbeciles, as against $1,108.38 last year.

The bridges in Griswold, not coming under the provisions of state repair, cost, for plank and general upkeep, $187.34.

The taxable property of the town today is $3,140,891. At the rate of assessment, 25 mills, this abstract will produce $78,522.28. On the last levy Lionel E. Boucher, the collector, made the fine showing of getting it all but $4.389 54.

The gross cost for this year of the schools of Griswold, according to the reports of E. E. Gilbert, ames H. Shea, and Arthur LeClaire, the school committee, is $54,839.48. From these figures the following deductions are made: $7,-339.23 from the state for tuition, transportation, enumeration, supervision, library grant, and from the town of Preston $85, leaving the actual cost to Griswold, $46,924.10.

September 1st, this year, the debt of the town of Griswold is $99,248.

The balance on hand in the Daniel S. Anthony fund is $206.08. The trustees of this fund are James H. Shea, Arba Browning and George H. Jennings.

TO MAKE NEW YORK AN ENGLISH-SPEAKING CITY

Improving the spoken language of New York's population through the public schools of the city is the purpose of the oral English plan proposed by Associate Superintendent Gustave Straubenmuller and adopted by the board of superintendents. Every school will participate in the plan, from the elementary grades through the high schools and training schools. Every lesson is to be a lesson in English, and the objective is that precision in speech, exactness of statement, and elegance of form may be made common among the children of the city. The use of correct English will be required not only in English classes, but habits of precision in the use of words and accuracy of statement of thought must be stressed in every classroom and upon every occasion.

MARRIAGE IN ITSELF NOT A BAR TO TEACHING

"Women teachers must not be dismissed merely because they are married." This is the gist of a decision recently rendered in a test case brought in an English court. The decision is of far-reaching importance. The plaintiff, Mrs. Ethel Short, has been an assistant mistress in a council school in Dorsetshire since 1914. She married in 1921, and in July, 1924, she and other married women employed as teachers by the same local education authority received notice terminating their engagements. The chancery court decided that the notice was invalid and ordered the corporation to pay the costs.

Capable, active

Hands

They can easily be the most attractive hands of all

Hands soft and white—admired for their firm smooth loveliness.

Can these be the hands that work in dishpan and washtub—homekeeping hands—busy all day long with innumerable household tasks? Yes!

For hands were never reddened and chapped by housework alone—it is "strong" soap that does the damage. The skin of your hands is just as delicate as the skin of your face, yet you wouldn't think of using a harsh laundry soap on your face.

A Fine Pure Soap for Every Soap-and-Water Task

Ivory is as pure and gentle as a face soap can possibly be. Millions of women use nothing else to protect their beautiful complexions. Yet Ivory is so inexpensive that it can be used economically for the protection of your hands in every soap-and-water task.

If you have used Ivory for fine laundry, you have discovered the safe, yet effective, cleansing of Ivory's rich suds. Now we suggest that you use it for dishes, general laundry and household cleaning, because Ivory cleanses thoroughly, yet saves your hands—preserves their smooth texture and soft loveliness.

Ivory is economical!

Furthermore, Ivory will save you the expense of skin lotions and creams, which cannot fully repair the harm done by strong soaps. And, of course, Ivory saves your clothes—makes them wear longer and look better.

So, we suggest that you use Ivory in one or the other of its four convenient forms for all your household cleaning. Your skin will show a wonderful improvement. Your hands will be grateful.

REDUCED DEMAND FOR FOREIGN SILKS

Silk manufactures imported into the United States show a big falling off in recent years. The value of silk manufactures imported in the fiscal year ending with June 1925 only aggregated 37 million dollars against 41 millions in 1924, 55 millions in 1921 and 83 millions in 1920, the 1925 figures being less than the annual average during the last ten years.

This fall-off in the value of silk manufactures imported says the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York, is more remarkable when we consider that the silks imported in 1925 were made from a raw material which has doubled in price in recent years; yet, it is a fact that the total value of the silk manufactures imported in 1925 was less than one-half that of 1920. How did it happen that the United States has reduced its demand upon the foreign world for silk manufactures just at a time when the demand for the luxuries of life shows such a remarkable increase.

The explanation apparently lies in the increasing quantities of silk manufactures turned out by our own factories, and at the same time, the increased use of the new fibre "rayon" from which manufactures similar to those of silk are now produced. The increase in the outturn of our own silk factories is evidenced by the recent census of manufactures which show the value of the output of the silk factories of the United States in 1923 at 761 million dollars against 254 millions in 1914, a decade earlier, while the increase in the use of the new substitute for silk is evidenced by the fact that our output of artificial silk or "rayon" has grown from 2 1-2 million poupnds in 1913 to 35 million pounds in 1923, and the consumption by our factories has advanced from 4 million pounds in 1913 to 35 million 1923.

This fall in the importation of silk manufactures is in marked contrast with the importation of raw silks, for which we are entirely dependent on other countries. The value of raw silk imported in the fiscal year 1925 was 352 million dollars against 100 millions in 1914, and it was used in our own factories chiefly for the manufacture of silk goods for our own people. Incidentally, however, we have increased our exportation of silk manufactures from 2 1-2 million dollars in 1914 to 17 millions in 1924, of which "broad silks" amount to about 8 million dollars value, and silk hosiery, 9 millions, and these big exports of silk manufactures go in considerable quantities to the great silk producing countries of the world. Our 1924 exports to China, one of the great silk producing countries, included silk laces, hosiery, ribbons, velvets, plushes, broad silks and chenilles; to Japan another great producing and manufacturing country, considerable quantities of velvets, plushes and chenilles; also other silk manufactures, especially hosiery and underwear one-half of the world's output of raw and artificial silk. The United States consumes practically one half of the world's output of raw and artificial silk and produces more silk manufactures than any other country. Our exports of silk manufactures in 1925 is 7 times as much in value as in 1913.

PREACHER HAS MARRIED 1,695 COUPLES IN LAST 15 YEARS

Society admits today that the afternoon call is a thing of the past, but the Rev. J. H. Kinney, who is attending the Ohio M. E. church conference here, has not accepted society's edict, because in the last 15 years he has made 18,615 afternoon calls upon the people of his pastorate at Trinity M. E. church, Zanesville, says The Columbus Dispatch. That's an average of some 34 visits a week aside from all other duties.

However, the Rev. Mr. Kinney is not known in Zanesville as the "calling parson;" rather he is referred to as the "marrying parson." In the last 15 years he has read the marriage ceremony for 1,695 couples.

Holding the record of being the longest termed minister in the Ohio conference with 15 years' service at one place, the Rev. Mr. Kinney also has the distinction of being the third longest termed minister of the Methodist church in the state of Ohio. The M. E. church Cincinnati, with 31 years' service is the longest termed minister in the state and the Rev. Rush, of the Grace M. E. church, Deleware, with 17 years' service, has the second longest term.

HOME COOPERATION SHOULD DEDUCE EXCXESSIVE ABSENCE

Al total absence from school of 58,429 days during one term of 37 days was accumulated by 9,000 children in 17 small schools in Ohio, as shown by a survey recently conducted to discover the causes of absence from school and reported in Educational Research Bulletin, Ohio state university. This is an average of six and one-half days' absence for each pupil. Causes assigned for absence were unnamed illness, 36 per cent; specified illness, 35 per cent; work, 8 per cent; trivial excuses, 5 per cent; and out of town, 5 per cent. From a third to a half of this absence, it is estimated, could have been avoided by proper cooperation between the home and the schools.

STUDENTS ARE YACHT BUILDERS AND STONE WORKERS

Dominant local industries inevitably affect the studies in the schools of any community. San Diego, Calif., for example, is on a bay which is large enough to give safe anchorage to 300 battleships, and it is rare that the harbor is without a considerable number of them. Many of the people of the city look to the ocean for their livelihood or for their principal diversion. The courses of the school shops reflect that condition. Nothing else in those shops arouses so much interest as the building of boats and of models of racing craft. Yachting enthusiasts and expert boat builders encourage this study and cordially cooperate with the shop teachers.

Similarly, in Bedford, Ind., the center of a great quarrying district, stone drafting and stone working are strongly emphasized. The senior high school has a complete equipment for planing stone and for shaping and dressing it, and the vocational courses offered are of the most practical character. Numbers of the boys elect those courses, for they are not only of great interest in themselves but they lead to remumerative work after graduation.—School Life.

All applicants for teachers' certificates in Wyoming must pass an examination on the Constitution of the United States and of the state of Wyoming.

Courses in rural education were given in 77 colleges and universities, 52 teachers colleges, and 70 normal schools during the school year 1923-24. The courses given most often, as described in rural school leaflet No. 37 of the interior department, bureau of education, rural school administration, rural school management and observation, and practice teaching.

Shoe repairing is a part of the curriculum of the Memorial junior high school, of San Diego, Calif. The course is thoroughly practical, and the 10 lessons comprise a study of foot anatomy, as well as grades of leather, classification of shoes, and the actual work of repairing. One unit of university credit is allowed for the completion of the course and a state credential to teach the subject.

TO ATTEMPT TO LIFT SUBMARINE S-51 TODAY

been threatening has begun to give signs of improving.

A message received here this evening from the U. S. S. Camden stated that the divers after they had come up had rehearsed their movements aboard the submarine.

The identification of Teschemacher was made by his teeth. This was the only way possible to tell him from his inseparable twin brother who was a member of the crew also and this was made doubly necessary because the body found had on some underclothing marked with the name of the twin brother.

It was learned today aboard the Camden that two members of her crew escaped death on the S-51 by a delay in their transfer orders. They are Second Class Seaman T. T. Lewis and Second Class Radioman W. E Tanner. They had asked for transfer to the S-51 three weeks ago and the request had been approved but the actual transfer orders had not come through and they are therefore today still alive and naturally most grateful for the delay that did for them such a good turn.

LITTLE HOPE THAT THERE IS ANYONE ALIVE ON THE S-51

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Orders received from the Navy department by Captain C. E. Rigg, commanding officer of the naval hospital here leads to the belief that the department holds little hope now that there is anyone alive on the S-51. The orders are to the effect that "all bodies" shall be held at the hospital for expert identification by a representative of the bureau of navigation. They further state that Expert Taylor would leave Washington tonight for this city. The bodies of the two men recovered today are therefore being held pending his arrival before any arrangements can be made for shipment to their homes.

CRANE SHIPS HAVE REJOINED RESCUE FLEET

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 29—(By the A. P.)—The wrecking lighters Moerarch and Century, which were forced to abandon their attempt to raise the sunken submarine S-51 yesterday because of rough weather, seeking shelter here, will rejoin the rescue fleet 15 miles off shore at daylight tomorrow. The weather had moderated sufficiently tonight to make it safe, in the opinion of naval officers, for the big cranes to be once more towed out into the open sea and orders were issued for the four tugs which brought them in to be ready to start at midnight.

During their brief stay here the lighters were re-provisioned and some minor repairs made to the Century.

Cables already have been placed about stern of the S-51 and need only to be attached to the cranes on the two lighters. Hoisting operations could begin in a short time if officers decided that this method would give quicker access to the interior of the submarine than continuance of deep sea diving.

The bodies of two men recovered by divers today were in the morgue at the naval hospital tonight and orders have been issued to bring here any others that might be found.

The bodies will be kept here until they have been officially identified by an expert from the bureau of navigation expected here tomorrow.

SCORE OF NEWSPAPERMEN AT SUBMARINE BASE

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, New London, Conn., Sept. 29.—(By The A. P.)—Press headquarters, established in a building adjacent to the officer of Lieutenant Commander H. A. Flanigan, commanding officer of the submarine base, was one of the busiest spots here today. A score of newspapermen waited eagerly for the scraps of news which came in by radio from the rescue ships at the scene of the S-51 disaster ready to flash the latest word over half a dozen telegraph wires established by press associations and individual newspapers.

Word of the receipt of a radio despatch was a signal for a rush to headquarters where the messages were made public simultaneously to all reporters. Then would follow another rush to the newspaper room and in a moment a battery of typewriters was pounding out the information which went over the wires as fast as it was written.

Many reporters and telegraps operators had been on duty continuously for 24 hours or longer, oftentimes foregoing meals to be ready when an unexpected message might come in. The infrequency of these messages made it all the more imperative that they be on hand continuously for every word from those at the scene of the disaster was news.

LIGHTS ESPECIALLY FOR UNDERSEA WORK

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, New London, Sept. 29.—(A. P.)—Six 6,000 watt lights especially designed for undersea work at the depth the submarine S-51 lies at the bottom of the ocean were received at the naval base tonight for transfer to the rescue fleet of Block Island.

The lights were brought by T. T. Anderson, a representative of the Westinghouse Electric company who planned to help the officers install them so that divers conuld continue their operations after dark.

Anderson said the lights had been used successfully about two weeks ago by divers who were working on the steamship Lakeland sunk in Lake Michigan. They have been designed especially for submarine work and are equipped with reflectors to throw a great volume of light beneath the water.

TREASURER OF SHERMAN IS SUMMONED TO COURT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 29.—(A. P.)—Irwin Atchison, treasurer of the town of Sherman and former state senator, has been summoned to appear in superior court on October 6 to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not be issued requiring him to pay to the estate of the late William H. Hawley, former town treasurer, the sum of $2,432.23.

Treasurer Atchison is declared to be over-riding the wishes of the voters of Sherman who passed a resolution at a special town meeting instructing the selectmen of the town to draft an order for the treasurer to reimburse the Hawley estate for money paid the town by the former treasurer because of a tangle in his financial accounts.

Hawley was town treasurer for forty years. He resigned because of the infirmities of advanced age in 1922. From 1882 to 1922, papers filed in superior court this afternoon say, Treasurer Hawley was custodian of the town deposit fund. During the greater part of that time, he neglected to keep the deposit fund separate from the general town funds, as required by law, and during the last few years of his incumbency, it is set forth, there was no record in the town books from which the status of the town could be ascertained, the town deposit fund and the general town funds, mingled for years, were as an entirety used for general purposes.

CONTROVERSY OVER THE BARRING OF SAKLATVALA

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(A. P.)—The controversy over Shapurji Saklatvala, communist member of the British commons whom the state department barred from this country, today interrupted proceedings of the interparliamentary union's council and threatens to present itself again when the Washington sessions open Thursday, although the council tonight did everything within its power to end the incident over the Anglo-Indian radical.

Acting on a protest from Saklatava against what he called the "extraordinary step" by the United States government in revoking his passport visa, the council adopted resolutions declaring "it recognizes that the American government has a right to enforce its own laws and therefore cannot discuss the merits or demerits of the case." A copy of the resolution was sent to Saklatvala.

FISHING SCHOONER BRINGS EAGLE TO PORT

BOSTON, Sept. 29—The fishing schooner Killarney returned to port today with an unexpected catch, an eagle caged in a barrel. The bird alighted on one of the mainmast crosstree at dusk when the ship was fifteen miles east of Chatham on Cape Cod last night. Protected by heavy mittens and using a lasso and a burlap bag a member of the crew sallied into the rigging and captured the bird. It has a five foot wing spread.

E. W. HAZEN PHILANTHROPIC ORGANIZATION ESTABLISHED

HARTFORD, Sept. 29.—(A. P.)—The Edward W. Hazen Foundation, Inc., a charitable and philanthropic organization, has been established by Edward W. Hazen, wealthy retired publisher and philanthropist of Haddam. The work of the foundation will have a wide scope and among its first activities will be the consideration of the purchase of a parsonage for the Haddam Congregational church.

Associated with Mr. Hazen in the project are relatives residing in or near Haddam. A certificate of incorporation filed today at the office of the secretary of state shows the incorporators to be Helen P. Hazen, Mary Hazen Arnold, Lucy A Hazen and Charles A. Russell. The latter is to be associated in a legal advisory capacity.

GAMBLERS HELD UNDER BAIL IN NORTH PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 29—Thomas F. Moran, alleged proprietor of a gambling resort in North Providence, and six other men named in indictments returned by the grand jury saturday as the result of a recent raid on the Mariesville "Club" pleaded nolo in superior court today and were held for trial.

Moran and William J. Meegan were each held in $4,000 on two nuisance and one common glambler charges. Patrick Durkin, Richard Hobin and John P. Deigman were held in $2,000 each as common gamblers and Philip Shea and George Davis, indicted for conspiracy, were held in $1,000 each. The date for the trial was not set.

MOTION PICTURE PARTY HAS PTOMAINE POISONING

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 29—Thirty members of the party engaged at Clodin in filming a motion picture in which Richard Dix is the leading man, are recovering from ptomaine poisoning incurred yesterday on location. The poisoning became apparent shortly after a lunch of potato salad, beef sandwiches and milk.

The stricken ones after treatment at hospitals here were able to go to their quarters.

Dix and Esther Ralston, leading lady, were not affected, as they had eaten at another place.

TO DISCUSS PAYMENT OF MEXICO'S EXTERNAL DEBT

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Plans for a resumption of payment of Mexico's $500,000,000 external debt will be discussed here this week at formal conferences between the Mexican finance minister, A. J. Pani, and the international committee of bankers on Mexico, of which Thomas W. Lamont is chairman. Senor Pani is expected to arrive in New York late today or tomorrow.

Spokesmen for the international committee said today they had been notified of the finance minister's coming visit and would welcome a chance to discuss the debt situation with him. No arrangements have been made for the calling of a formal conference.

PLEADED GUILTY TO MAYHEM IN SPRINGFIELD COURT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 29—Ralph Furcolo, 35, pleaded guilty to mayhem in superior court today and was sentenced to two and a half years in jail. He was indicted for slashing Miss Maud Harrington, with whom he had kept company for some time, last May, disfiguring her for life. It was brought out that Furcolo had served part of a ten to twenty year sentence in a New York prison for robbery but was paroled. An indictment against John T. Zanetti as an accessory was dropped.

MATTHEW WOLL DISPUTES JOHN HAYS HAMMOND

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor took sharp issue today with John Hays Hammond, chairman of the recent federal coal commission, over the question of arbitration of the strike in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania. Mr. Woll took a flat stand against compulsory arbitration, political bodies, he said, have no business to investigate and arbitrate labor disputes. These functions belong to men intimately acquainted with the industry, he said.

EXTRADITION REQUISITION FOR WILLIAM SULLIVAN

HARTFORD, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—Governor Trumbull issued requisitions for the extradition of two men held in New York city today for Connecticut authorities. The first was for William Sullivan, alias George Sullivan, who is wanted for breaking parole from the Connecticut reformatory at Cheshire. Parole Officer William Nolan has been appointed to receive and convey him to this state.

The other requisition is for Hirsh Berliner, wanted at Bridgeport on a charge of conspiracy in connection with an alleged crime of arson, when it was charged that Berliner acted as "outside" man for several others who robbed and burned a store. Policeman William Foster has been appointed to convey him back to this state.

FOLLOWING NEW CLUE IN SLAYING OF MRS. COOK

VINTON, Iowa, Sept. 29.—(AP)—With Clifford B. Cook, husband of Mrs. Myrtle Underwood Cook, temperance and Klan leader, who was shot and killed in her home the night of September 7, out on $2,000 bonds on charges of perjury, state agents working on the case will follow a different track in their effort to solve the mystery.

Preliminary hearing for Cook will be held Friday morning.

The county grand jury continued to consider Cook's connection with the murder today. Mrs. Hester Marie Sieling, Pretty Sioux city divorcee, who was admittedly a "good friend" of Cook, was before the jury a short time today. Her testimony has taken the better part of three days before the jury.

SHIP AND LIQUOR TO BE RETURNED TO OWNERS

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Blairmore I and her cargo of 1,152 cases of wine must be turned over to the owners the Portland Shipping company, Ltd., and be escorted beyond the 21 mile limit by a customs guard, according to a second decision by Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas, filed with the clerk of the district court today.

The latest decision of Judge Thomas denies a motion by the government that the boat and cargo be turned over to the owners at either New London, where the boat is now held, or off Fishers Island. In either instance the boat would be immediately subject to re-seizure.

FOOT GUARDSMEN GOING TO EUROPE NEXT MAY

HARTFORD, Sept. 29.—(A. P.)—By roll call every officer and member of the First Company, Governor's Foot Guards, voted for the company to go on the trip to Europe next May with the Richmond Light Infantry Blues battalion and the Second Company of New Haven, tonight.

Thetrip which includes the chartering of an 11,000 ton ocean liner, military functions and receptions in London, a stay of several days in Paris and visits to Brussels and points of interest on the continent, assumed concrete form for the Hartford unit after the enthusiasm shown by the unanimous vote of 107 members to attend.

WILD CHASE IN PHILADELPHIA FOR AUTOMOBILE THIEF

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29—Wild chase through Philadelphia streets tonight by Peter Long, chauffeur for Brigadier General Butler, director of public safety, in pursuit of an automobile thief, accompanied by clanging bells and a number of pistol shots led to reports that an attempt had been made to assassinate the general.

The chase continued until Long was held up by a traffic jam, during which the thief left the machine and disappeared.

TAKING TESTIMONY IN BOOTHE DIVORCE CASE

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29—Taking of testimony was resumed by Judge Isaac Wolfe in the superior court today in the divorce suit of Ruth N. Boothe against David S. Boothe, of Stratford. At the opening of the case last Thursday Mrs. Booth spent the entire day on the witness stand. She was recalled today and was on the stand for three hours, undergoing further cross examination by Attorney Benjamin Slade, counsel for the defendant husband.

At the conclusion of the day's session, the trial was continued until tomorrow morning.

POINT CASINO, NEW LONDON BOUGHT BY MR. AND MRS. E. CLARK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 29.—Waldo E. Clarke and wife (Daisy Klinck Clarke), have secured an option on the Pequot Casino property, Pequot avenue, from Robert Moore, and within a few days Mr. and Mrs. Clarke will come into possession of the valuable realty. The price agreed upon for the property is $37,000. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke intend to occupy the former fashionable club house as a residence for themselves and their children.

The casino was for a number of years occupied as a club house and for several years was a fashionable boarding house. The place continued, but not successfully from a financial standpoint, until the past summer when its doors were not opened. About a year ago the property was acquired by Robert Moore, of New Orleans, a summer resident, with mansion on Parkway and with grounds opposite the casino property. The casino property consists of the three-story wooden structure, with wide grounds and stands on the edge of the Thames river commanding a splendid view of the harbor and Long Island sound.

The casino was on fire twice within a comparatively few years, and both times the building was badly damaged.

Although it is a fortnight since the body of a child, believed to have been about seven years, was sighted south of the customs house wharf by employes of the Central Coal company when an unsuccessful attempt was made to recover the body, no trace of it has since been found. Employes along the river front and boatmen have maintained a watch in the hope that the body would again appear and be recovered.

Nine cases of juvenile delinquency were tried before the juvenile court Monday afternoon. In two of them, the boys are just hanging between commitment to the reform school and turning their habits into a different channel from that which they have been following of late. Seven of the cases were continued that they may be farther investigated and that the boys may be watched as to their conduct.

The city planning board, which is the zoning commission of New London will have a great deal of work mapped out for it, by the time it gets to public hearings as provided for in the statute creating it. Business is piling up for the commission. The province of the commission is to designate sections within which no industry shall be established, also to guard purely residential sections that there may be no encroachment upon them by stores, factories, etc.

The city has been free from fires in unusual degree of late, according to close observers of what is going on. This is a condition that is most desirable and its continuance will be cause for rejoicing.

Mrs. May Gammons of Faye street, reported to the police this morning that an automobile had struck her police dog on Bank street, near Squire street extension and that the driver of the car drove away with the dog. Later Frank Ferri, Waterford, informed the police that he operated the machine that hit the dog, but that instead of his having driven away with the dog, the animal ran away and could not be taken to determine the extent of its injuries.

On the 7th of last August John Brennan, an employe of the Crown theatre here was stepping from the curbing and from behind a line of automobiles at the edge of the sidewalk as the taxicab operated by Ernest Coe passed during the afternoon Brennan was struck and injured so that he was in the hospital several days. Coe was arrested and his case has dragged along in the police court since. Today Mr. Brennan appeared and Coe was charged with operating a motor vehicle contrary to the rules of the road. When the case was presented the prosecutor explained it and then moved for a nolle in the case on terms which are understood to be the payment of costs of trial and such expenses as he and Brennan have agreed upon. The motion was allowed by the court.

Albert Soltz a young man was charged with gambling. What the case will amount to is uncertain, for the sum at stake is said to have been a trivial amount and the offense was in playing the game of mumbletepeg.

The city of New London is contemplating the expenditure of a large sum of money in that section embraced in the fifth ward. A sewer is to be constructed on Pequot avenue, from Gardner avenue to School street that will cost something over $5,000. Land is to be acquired from Ernest E. Rogers and from Messrs Leeds and Johnston for the extension of Bigdenburg avenue to Catherine street that will cost some $6000 and the corner of Chappell street and Pequot avenue is to be widened and the entire length of Chappell street is to be macadamized. Mr. Rogers is to give a portion of land for the widening, but to make use of it as desired will cost the city a considerable sum. There seems to be a policy on the part of the city to improve that section for it is the most traveled portion of the city. The relaying of Montauk avenue cannot be deferred long, and when that is accomplished though it be done in sections during the coming years the city will be vastly improved. The extreme north and south sections of New London are the show places of the city and there is where money is naturally expended for improvement.

Harry Hanover, a stranger to the police, was taken into custody this afternoon by Patrolman William Riordan, charged with breach of the peace. He was locked up and will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. Hanover was loitering at the corner of State and Atlantic street with companions and refused to "move on" when ordered to do so by the officer, with the result that he became argumentative and his arrest followed.

W. J. Cullen of Harris court a contractor, complained to the police this afternoon that a garage, corner of of Montauk avenue and Sherman St., which he is having constructed, was visited by thieves recently and a quantity of tools stolen

The funeral service for William P. McMahon, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon 410 Williams street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large congregation. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger with Rev. William J. Fox of Groton, deacon and Rev Raymond O'Callahan sub-deacon. The bearers were Donald McMahon, David Dray, William McMahon, Mario Musante, Luke Phillips and William McMahon Jr. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Leno Bottinelli, 18, residing at 22 Reed street with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sabastino Bottinelli, is reported missing from home. Early this morning a sister of the missing youth reported to the police that her brother started for school Monday forenoon, but had failed to return home.

The New Haven police this evening requested the New London authorities to be on the lookout for a Ford touring car, stolen from one of the New Haven streets about 3 o'clock. The car bears Connecticut registration, E-2076.

Mrs. Walter Davis, 8 Williams street, reported to the police early this evening that her little son, aged 3, was missing from home.

John Enos, 272 Bayonet street, reported to the police late this afternoon that he parked his bicycle behind the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument, State street, Monday night and while absent about an hour the cycle was stolen.

Announcement is made of the approaching wedding of Robert H. Vincent, 355 Jefferson avenue and Miss Mary Muir, Lakeville, B. S. The wedding will take place in November. Mr. Vincent is a student at Tufts dental college, Boston.

Lieutenant Commander Flanagan, submarine base, stated this afternoon that all the bodies, including those of John L. Gibson, engineman, second class, and William C. Techamacher seaman first class, taken from submarine S1, sunk off Block Island Friday night, would undoubtedly be taken to the naval hospital at Newport, R. I., where they would be held pending the bodies being claimed by relatives of the men. This is being done because of the nearness of the Rhode Island port to the location where the S1 went to the bottom of Block Island sound. The bodies of Gibson and Teschamacher have already been taken to Newport hospital. Gibson resided with his wife, a bride of but a few weeks, at 35 Spencer avenue, Groton, and it is not known whether the body will be forwarded to Groton, or to Gibson's former home at Bangor, Me.

Mrs. Carl Green, and infant son, of 287 Huntington street; Mrs. Arthur Powell and infant daughter, 499 Williams street; Lester Lewis, 34 Bristol street; ames Barnes, United States Coast Guard academy, and Mrs. Enrique Monge and infant daughter, 17 Fremont street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

JOY PARTY WITH ACTRESSES— MONEY MISSING NEXT DAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 29—A man, a stranger, was in New London Saturday night, but he left a sadder and wiser person; for during his brief stay he was relieved of his bank roll of $90 and undoubtedly the result of his engaging in a party where a group of actresses were the attraction. The stranger with some chance acquaintances at the hotel obtained as their guests the show girls and a party was staged in one of the rooms where drinks were provided and before the affair was concluded the stranger was left lying across the bed. When he awoke in the morning he discovered that his pocketbook containing the money was missing. None of his acquaintances of the night before confessed knowledge as to the disappearance of the money. Being unsuccessful in recovering his bank roll, the man visited the police station where he related his experience of the night before.

CAPT. PINNEY TO REMAIN AS HEAD OF POLICE FORCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 29—It is apparent from a statement made today by City Manager William A. Holt that the recent investigation by a special committee, composed of members of the city council, to determine the efficiency of the police department and which investigation occupied several months, will bear fruit no greater than the probable acceptance of a portion of the tentative set of rules and regulations. These were submitted by Lieutenants Putts and Sweeney, of the New York police department, whose services were obtained by the city manager on authority of the city council. It was also intimated, through the statements of the city manager that Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney will remain at the head of the department, in spite of the fact that several members of the city council are known to be opposed to the retention of Captain Pinney as head.

City Manager Holt when queried as to when he intended to appoint a successor to Former Lieutenant Benjamin Beebe, who was retired a year ago stated that he would refrain from taking any action in the matter until such time as Captain Pinney, who underwent a serious operation at Lawrence hospital several weeks ago, is able to resume his police duties. The city manager stated that he desired to confer with Captain Pinney before making the appointment and it would probably not be long before Captain Pinney would return to duty and permit the matter of an appointment of an officer to succeed Former Lieutenant Beebe being made. City Manager Holt also declared that in all probability the appointment would be made from the ranks of the sergeants. Since the retirement of Former Lieutenant Beebe, Desk Sergeant James D. Gaffney has been acting as head of the night force and Desk Sergeant James C. Sullivan has been performing the duties of acting captain. The temporary transfer of the two desk sergeants to the executive heads of the department made it necessary for two patrolmen to be made acting sergeants and these duties devolved upon Patrolmen William Babcock and Timothy C. Sullivan. All four officers, however, have been filling the places assigned them at no increase of salary such as would be the case had these officers been regularly appointed.

City Manager Holt also made it known that he considered several of the tentative rules and regulations as submitted by the New York officers to be of a nature to become applicable to the improved working of the New London department, but for the most part the rules and regulations were for a department of a metropolitan city.

The investigation of the workings of the local department, together with the fees given Lieutenants Putts and Sweeney, brought about an expenditure of close to $1,500 by the city.

House of Muskrat.

Because muskrats are great builders and live in the water, they have been called "little cousins of the beaver," says Nature Magazine Their houses are for winter use. A good-sized house often stands five feet high and about as broad at the base, or at the water level. Sometimes they rise out of the water four or five feet deep, but more often rest on the bank of a stream or a bit of floating marsh. They are generally built of grass, reeds, sedges, cattail stems sods, roots and mud, interlaced and

City of Salt Found

The hundreds of tales written about the Sahara desert tell only of its edges. The interior of that great waste, with its roving robber tribes, strange villages and queer beasts, are as little known as desolate polar regions, says Popular Science Monthly.

For this reason Captain Angus Buchanan, British explorer, who has recently arrived in America, brings stories of absorbing interest. He and a cameraman were the first white men ever to cross the Sahara on camels. Starting frim Nigeria with sixteen natives and thirty-two camels, they trekked northward 3,500 miles to Nigeria. The arduous journey took sixteen months.

Only two of the natives who set out remained at the end of the journey. The rest dropped from sickness or ran away in fear of bandit raids. The camels in the caravan died one after another until only one remained. This one, used by Captain Buchanan, died two hours from the point of final destination.

On the long journey the explorer visited the strangest town in the world—a Saharan city made entirely of salt. This is in the oasis of Fachi and is fortified, a veritable desert citadel. Isolated from the world, the natives have set up an industry of their own. Into pits made in sun-baked clay, they pour water which is naturally salty. The sun evaporates this during the day and at nightfall the natives scoop up the salt. Caravans carry it to the coast over a trail marked from time immemorial by carcasses of camels and men fallen by the way in the pitiless sun.

The Fachimen, for reasons no white man knows, wear black veils over their faces. These veils are never removed. Captain Buchanan believes that the principal occupation of this

SPIRITUAL ACADEMY RESUMES SUNDAY SERVICES OCT. 4

The official opening of the First Spiritual union, of Norwich, for the current season will take place this Sunday, Oct. 4, at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. Mary B. Daniels, of Boston, as the speaker and medium

The program of speakers for this year includes Mrs. Flora Petersen the famous Danish seeress, Mrs. Oneita Norgraves, one of the foremost lecturers and psychics in New England, followed at special services by Mrs. Isabelle Bradley and Mrs. Elizabeth Harlow Goetz, and all the regular favorites.

The church auditorium has been thoroughly renovated, some improvements installed and all is in readiness for the Sunday opening.

Opens Eleventh Season

The Norwich Music association will open its eleventh season on Monday evening, Oct. 5th, in Slater hall annex. The program for the season of 1925-1926 is one of the strongest that has been offered, presenting new but will tried artists in varied fields of musical effort. An attempt has been made to procure musical talent that has not been heard in Norwich and to bring before the association musicians of the younger schools who are making their impression on the audiences of the larger musical centers.

Season tickets are $3 for regular members, $1 for student members. These tickets may be obtained by application to William H. Collins, 63 McKinley avenue.

Real Estate Sales

Among some of the recent sales of Archa W. Colt are noted the following: Elizabeth A. Kamiewicz has purchased from Grace H. Manning a most desirable property situated in Yantic. The house is modern and well equipped with extensive grounds and garage. Through this same agency Carlton F. and Florence I. Morse have purchased the beautiful country home owned by D. P. Rainville, in Norwichtown. The house, charmingly located, has every modern convenience, combining the advantages of town and country.

Style Show at Tubridy-Weldon Co., Willimantic, Thursday Evening.

The Tubridy-Weldon company will fittingly observe the second anniversary of its first style show, which was also the first ever witnessed in Willimantic, with the fourth live model display to be held under its auspices, Thursday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

All of the latest styles in gowns, coats, furs and other apparel which will be worn this winter, will be demonstrated by beautiful live models from New York city. The most fashionable apparel to be seen on Fifth avenue the coming season will be on view in all the newest colorings. The smart designs will be the most beautiful to be seen. The doors will be opened at 6 o'clock in anticipation of an attendance such as crowded the store at previous style shows. Ladies attending may be escorted if they wish.

Broadway Theatre

There will be another big night at the Broadway theatre tomorrow. Its prize night again, but this time cash prizes, all in gold, will be given away free to the lucky person.

One of those perfect B. F. Keith vaudeville shows will again be on view in addition to a perfect picture.

Charlie Murray is one of the best known comedy character actors now appearing on the screen. Many people will remember him from his old days with Bessie Love. A good picture with some comedy part in it is not complete without him. Casting directors immediately think of him when they have such a part to fill. He is at present appearing in Cosmo Hamilton's "Who Cares" with William Haines, Dorothy Devore, Lloyd Whitlock, Wanda Hawley, Beverly Bayne, Ralph Lewis, Vera Lewis. Among these well known people he is like a member of the family.

Americans crave action, even in their music, according to Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, who this season will make his thirty-third annual tour of America. Perhaps the real reason for the success of "the march king" is that he has given the American people action, both in his programs and in his own musical compositions.

"The average American is so filled with nervous energy that it is almost impossible for him to listen for any length of time to a musical program which does not bristle with action," says Sousa. "The American is the only individual in the world who cannot rest merely by relaxing. He rests by playing, either actively at golf, hunting or fishing, or vicariously by watching a ball game or going to a movie. If he reads as a means of relaxation, he has to have action, and even such a thoroughly erudite man as the late President Wilson rested by reading detective stories—most of them thrillers.

"I sometimes believe that one of the reasons symphony orchestras in this country never have been self-supporting is that symphonic music is too lacking in action for the American temperament. And remember, always, that the 'tired business man' does not rest himself by attending a sedate drama, but by seeing a girl-and-music entertainment, preferably the one in which there is the most dancing. Perhaps the greatest reason for the success of the motion picture in America is that it is all action.

"My programs always have contained a fair proportion of numbers that I term music of action, such as marches, suites and novelties containing a variety of ideas. But I found that even action music could be made more enjoyable to the resting American, if the bandsmen themselves could be made to move about the stage a bit during the performance. That is the reason, for instance, that the trumpeters, the trombonists and the piccolo players all advance to the footlights during the presentation of 'Stars and Stripes Forever.'"

Half the students of Barnard college, Columbia university, last year consulted the college occupation bureau, maintained for the placement and guidance of alumnae and stu-

"The days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49" live once again in all their rollicking, romantic and rip-roaring glory in Paramount's stirring, adventurous melodrama, "The Golden Princess," which introduces Betty Bronson as an honest-to-goodness movie star. It will be the main feature of the Rialto theatre beginning Sunday.

History offers few parallels that rival in heroism and hardship, in daring and daredevilry the tremendous rush that followed the discovery of gold in California. Men suffered and sacrificed, fought and bled to wrest from Mother Earth the shining yellow metal. What a background around which to weave a story of flashing action, compelling drama and tense thrills!

And that's precisely what film fans may expect in this spectacular production! Frances Agnew adapted the plot from a Bret Harte story, and Clarence Badger has produced it with the characteristic craftsmanship that stamped such previous successes as "New Lives or Old" and "Paths to Paradise."

The supporting cast is grade A, and includes such notable players as Nell Hamilton, Rockliffe Fellowes, Phyllis Haver and Joseph Dowling.

Would Make New Apple

The search for a good commercial apple to take the place of the Baldwin, in which orchardists have been losing confidence, is one of the many activities to which State Horticulturist G. A. Yeaton devotes his time. Mr. Yeaton has some specimens of fruit borne by experiment No. 76, the latest of his new varieties of trees to come into fruit bearing. He is far from satisfied with it, however, and says that out of the 76 new kinds of apples which he has originated, only 5 have been sufficiently good to become commercial apples. Nevertheless, he is going to keep on and hopes some day to strike the right combination.

The McIntosh Red which is so highly valued among Maine apples, was a chance seedling he says; likewise Stark Delicious, and he believes he will eventually cross two varieties which will give proper size, color, texture and flavor to develop a good apple. The trouble with the Baldwin, it seems, is that once in a while the trees winter kill and orchardists are more and more afraid to set the trees. If a more hardy tree can be developed which will bear as good or even better fruit, a distinct achievement will have been realized.—Lewiston Journal.

Counterfeit Words.

Quite a controversy has arisen in a New York newspaper over a possible word that will precisely connote a citizen of the United States, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. The inadequacy of the language in this respect has given rise to no little discussion of the kind in the past, but all of it put together should not be responsible for the queer verbal coinage that is now forthcomig.

Among these exponents of precision "American" is forthwith condemned as taking in too much territory and showing an undue amount of national egotism, but the dictionary offers no relief from the dilemma. Therefore, they turn to their ingenuity as philologists and the title they would put upon the people would do credit to the names given to breakfast foods or to lubricating oil. It is hardly necessary to go into the origin of such synthetic titles as "Usanos," "Ustatans," "Us-Americans," and the other proposed hybrids.

Heaven protect the public from these well-wishing but insane label experts! Jefferson in the Declaration of Independence realized there was no single word to imply an "American" citizen, so he used a longer but more precise phrase. The makers of the Constitution also saw the philological problem, but despite this obstacle to brevity they wrote the greatest political document in a few thousand words.

Dahlia's Development

The dahlia, which every fall occupies the centre of the stage so far as flower lovers are concerned, is a far cry from the hard, tight blossoms "such as grandma gave her lovers when she walked the garden through." Prior, even, to grandma's time this flower held its own through many vissitudes. In 1637, Francisco Hernandez, a Spanish physician, wrote a book on plants in which he mentioned dahlia variabilis, a species from which nearly all our present varieties have originated, but we find nothing more for some 150 years, when, in 1787, Nicholas Thirerry de Menonville, a Frenchman, published an account of the dahlias he had seen growing in the gardens of Mexico. Two years later seeds were sent from the Botanic Gardens of Mexico to the Royal Gardens of Madrid, where the dahlia was given its present name, and while these seedlings were lost, their short stay aroused interest in the plant, and its cultivation was attempted in several of the European countries. Many years elapsed, however, before it was universally cultivated as a garden flower.

No flower, except possibly the gladiolus, is so beloved of all, being truly a garden democrat. It will bloom in all its glory for the humble cottage owner as for the millionaire. Late summer and early fall, when the garden is sad with anticipation of its coming eclipse, the dahlias dressed in their lovely colors, red, scarlet, yellow, purple, pink, white, lavender, in combination and alone, make the eyes glad. They love a rich, mellow soil and an open sunny situation, although they have a happy adaptability for almost any soil or situation except dense shade or sour soil.

It must be remembered, advises the New York Horticultural society, that dahlias do not thrive if their feet are constantly in wet soil and they should never be cut in the heat of the day as at that time they are in a partly wilted condition from which it is most difficult to revive them after being cut. This work should be done in the morning or evening preferably the latter, as then they have the cool night in which to harden.

The world doesn't spend much time in watching a man's good acts.

FONT-GAUTHIER—In Noank, Sept. 28, 1925, by Rev. Thomas P. Mooney, Manuel Font, of Stonington, and Miss Idella Gauthier, of Noank.

DIED

YOUNG—In Noraich, Sept. 28, 1925, suddenly, John T. Young, aged 55 years.
Notice of funeral hereafter.

TESTIMONIAL OF RESPECT.

At a special meeting of the board of management of The Norwich Building and Loan Association, held on September 29, 1925, the following minute and vote were unanimously adopted:

The members of The Norwich Building and Loan Association are deeply saddened and shocked by the sudden and tragic death of our fellow member and director, Mr. Edward Crooks.

Mr. Crooks was elected a director of the Association on October 16, 1923, and since then had been present at every regular meeting of the board. He was deeply interested in the Association, most active in promoting its welfare, influenced many others to become members and was always ready to assist members in every way possible. At the meetings of the board he was always active and offered many helpful suggestions. He was always cordial and sincere in his association with the members and was well informed on a wide range of subjects. It was always a pleasure to meet with him and we shall sadly miss his cordial greeting and friendly and cheerful assistance.

In their deep and sudden bereavement we extend to the family of Mr. Crooks our heartfelt sympathy.

Voted, that a copy of this minute be sent to the family of Mr. Crooks, that it be entered upon a page of the records of the Association, and published in the daily papers, and that the Association be represented by a delegation at the funeral service

Attest: E. O. RODIER,
President.
HENRY D. JOHNSON,
Secretary.

MARAKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(A. P.)—Stock prices resumed their advance with fresh vigor today, sweeping upward at a fast pace until the last few minutes of trading when a wave of heavy selling impeded the advance. Under the leadership of the motors more than a score issues mounted to the highest levels of the year on total sales which exceeded 2,000,000 shares for the first time since July 28.

Despite a continuance of stiff money rates, aggressive bullish demonstrations were successfully conducted in a wide variety of representative industrials, with buying spreading to the railroad group in the late dealings. Extreme gains ranged from 4 to 16 points but many of these were cancelled or substantially reduced before the close.

The last minute reaction was attributed partly to profit taking and partly to selling inspired by recurrent reports that the federal reserve bank of New York would soon advance its rediscount rates to 4 per cent. Because of the recent violent fluctuations, many commission houses were said to have increased their margin requirement on high priced stocks 15 to 25 per cent. Advances in many of the motor, baking and specialty issues were associated with favorable dividend, merger and recapitalization reports. Following predictions that many of the larger automobile companies would be in a position to distribute more generous dividends by the end of the year, a flood of buying orders poured in for these stocks. Heading the list of new whip hr ords were General Motors at 172 1-8, Hudson at 98 and Chrysler at 194 7-8, with Fisher Body, Mack Trucks, Studebaker preferred, and other issues following in their wake. With the exception of Chrysler, most of them retaine dgains of 1 to 4 point suntil the close.

With rumors afloat in Wall street that plans were nearing completion for a huge banking merger, involving the General Baking, Ward, Southern, Continental and other companies, active bidding for these stocks developed. General Baking was pushed up 16 points to a record high at 220 and closed within a half point of the top. Ward A and B issues, Cushman and Fleischmann scored net gains of one to six points.

Strong buying support was evident throughout most of the day for the representative industries, effectively blocking attempts of bear traders to cover strategic weak spots. American Can was temporarily forced down after declaration of only the usual quarterly dividend but quickly bounded back to 244 1-2 and closed fractionally higher at 240 1-4. U. S. Steel, after selling around 121 3-4 most of the day, weakened to 119 5-8 in the final dealings. Railway Steel Springs closed almost 12 points higher and gains of one to five points were registered by Pullman, Baldwin, National Lead, General Electric, Union Bag & Paper, International Telephone, U. S. Rubber, Sears-Roebuck an dDupont.

A sharp break of eight points in Detroit Edison followed the publication of a statement by the president of the company that there was nothing in its business or prospects to account for the recent spectacular rise in the stock. A similar decline in Laclede Gas helped to unsettle the public utility group.

Railroad shares made slower progress than the industrials, although trading was enlivened by an eleven point spurt in "big four." Atchison, New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line and Norfolk & Western also reflected increased buying interest.

Because of unusually heavy dividend and interest disbursements to be made on Oct. 1, money conditions remained tight. Call loans renewed at five per cent and subsequently were advanced to 5 1-2. Time money and commercial paper rates remained unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were firm in quiet trading. Sterling recovered to around $4.84 and French francs were a trifle higher above 4.73 cents. The Scandinavian currencies also resumed their advance.

STORRS CAN TAKE ONLY FIFTEEN MORE STUDENTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Sept. 29—With 460 students registered to date in the four year course, and twenty-five reservations held for the twenty-weeks term in agriculture beginning Oct. 21, further enrolment at Connecticut agricultural college is limited to fifteen students. More applications for admission are being received every day, and it has been necessary to hold strictly to high scholaship requirements in order to restrict enrolment to the 500 students allowed under the new State law.

Complete figures on registration could not be obtained from registrar George S. Torrey's office today, as other work attendent to the reopening of college has prevented their tabulation. Estimates, however, place the number of freshmen over 200, which is the largest entering class in the the history of the State College.

Approximately one quarter of the entering class are Connecticut young women, the majority of whom are taking courses in home economics or teacher-training. Including those in the upper classes, there are more women than ever enrolled at Storrs. This has made it necessary to assign two girls to a room in Holcomb hall, the women's dormitory, instead of one as has been the procedure in the past.

A similar situation exists in housing the men students, where it has been necessary to resort to the use of wooden barracks in the rear of Storrs hall, the freshman dormitory, to accomodate the overflow.

Many more applications for admission have been received than could be accepted under the provisions of the new state law limited enrpiment at Storrs to 500 students at any one time. The college authorities met this situation by giving preference in admission to those students who ranked in the upper two-thirds of their graduating class in high school, and raising the academic standards generally.

STONINGTON TREASURER HAS $67,599.39 BALANCE ON HAND

The annual report of Treasurer Elias B. Hinckley of the town of Stonington, for the past fiscal year shows total receipts to have been $450,278.74 and expenses at $382,679.35, leaving a balance on hand of $67,599.39, of which $2,000 is third district school bonds and $65,599.39 the balance in the bank.

His report showed the balance on hand as of September 1, 1924, to be $41,577.38. Receipts were $2,536.70 from taxes, collected by D. Everett Hoxie, with cash from the state totalling $44,-560.68 and miscellaneous payments to bring the total to $450,278.74.

Payments to town orders by selectmen on treasurer totalled $93,018.30; payments by town treasurer totalling $272,405.16 and an interest account on the town totalling $17,255.89, which with the interest account of schools and balance as of September 1, 1925, makes a total of $450,278.74, making an increase in balance for the year of approximately $25,000.

The indebtedness of the town is listed as $415,283.23 less assets of $107,-163.50, which makes the town debt at the close of the fiscal year 1925 total $308,119.72, a decrease of $31,859.09 from 1924 when the town debt figured at $339,979.37.

Estimated current expenses for the ensuing year total $194,117.50, the principal items being $98,610, for schools (about $4,000 less than estimate of school account in detailed report), $20,-000 for highways, $18,000, for interest on town and school note and bonds, $10,000 for state tax, $7,500 for bridge sinking fund, $6,000 for patrolmen and $3,300 for the insane.

Estimated school expenses for the year 1925-1926 are as follows:

Control and supervision, $5,000; teachers' salaries, $67,100; janitors' salaries, $4,700; free text books, $3,500; instruction supplies, $2,000; general supplies, $500; janitors' supplies, $300; fuel, $5,600; repairs, $4,000; insurance, $1,000; transportation, $13,300; new equipment and maintenance, $2,000; telephones, $275; water, $600; graduation expenses, $150; library, $200; school physicians and supplies, $1,000; light and power, $500; athletics and physical instruction, $600; total, $112,-525; less receipts (estimate) $10,000; appropriation asked for $102,525.

Home From Vacation Trip

Everett W. Houston of East Main street has returned after spending his vacation with Paul Karnitshka of Adams, Mass. They went over the Mohawk Trail. Both young men served four years in the army. Mr. Karnitshka spent his vacation in Norwich and enjoyed his stay here.

Illustrated Talk With Souvenirs

At the Monday evening meeting of the Young Peoples Christian Union of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, Mrs. A. M. Foster gave a most interesting account of her summer trip to England under the auspices of English Sunday school workers and showed many souvenirs of the visits with the English people.

VARIETY OF NEW SUITS FILED FOR TRIAL IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

A suit for $60,000 damages was among the several new suits filed here Tuesday with the clerk of the superior court, which are returnable in October.

For $60,000 Damages.

On the claim that three separate sets of heavy hydraulic press castings of high grade semi-steel hydraulic material did not live up to specifications and were useless to the Textile Finishing company of Providence, this company has brought suit against the New London Ship & Engine company for $60,000 damages. The complaint contains three counts, the first naming six sets of castings, Dec. 12, 1923; the second six sets on Feb. 27, 1924; and the third four sets on March 31, 1924. The price in each case was to be four cents per pound, with additional charges of $1,350, $1,350 and $900 respectively for the necessary machine work. It is alleged that after the castings had been delivered by the Ship & Engine company and had been installed in hydraulic presses by the plaintiff company, some of them burst and leaked and none of them could be used by the plaintiff for the purpose for which they were intended. The plaintiff company claims that it has suffered total loss of the money paid for the castings and in the expense of setting them up and dismantling them, and has also suffered great loss in its business through inability to use the presses from which it would have made large profits.

Hair Turned Gray.

A woman's suit for $5,000 damages because her hair turned gray after a doctor took an x-ray picture, a peddler's suit for damages he sustained when hit by an automobile, and several divorce and foreclosure suits are among the other new cases which are as follows:

On the claim that unskillful taking of x-ray pictures of her nose caused a serious burn and made her hair fall out and turn gray, Cora Kelley, of New London, has brought suit against Dr. Emanuel A. Henkle, of that city, for $5,000 damages. She claims that on March 20, 1925, she employed the physician to take the x-ray picture to ascertain the cause of certain nose troubles and by reason of his alleged failure to use proper care and skill the results mentioned ensued. She alleged that she was obliged to spend large sums of money in the effort to heal the burn and make the hair on her head grow again.

Paddler Hit by Automobile.

Damages of $5,000 are sought by Joseph Rutberg, of New London, a junk peddler, in a suit against William E. Kenyon, of Waterford, for injuries Rutberg received when hit by Kenyon's automobile. Rutberg alleges that on Aug. 30, 1925, he was standing in the road talking to J. Tarnapol, who was occupying an automobile, which was opposite the entrance to the Jewish cemetery on the Boston Post road in Waterford. He claims that Kenyon was operating an automobile with defective brakes and steering apparatus, running into the plaintiff, knocking him down, and breaking his right knee. By reason of this he will not be able to walk for at least three months and cannot follow his business at which he was earning $35 a week.

Three Ask Divorces.

Emma Coombs Plimpton, of Lyme, who married William Edwin Plimpton, now of New York city, on June 3, 1886, at Wakefield, Eastchester, N. Y., seeks divorce from him on the ground of desertion since April, 1912. The couple have two children, both over 21 years old.

On the ground of intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1921, Mary King Gately, of New London, seeks divorce from Edward A. Gately, of New London. They were married June 16, 1920.

Alleging unfaithfulness through acts committed at New London between Dec. 9, 1922, and Sept. 1, 1925, Ernest Saunders, of New London, asks divorce from Olive Brown Saunders, of that city. They were married Dec. 9, 1923. She asks the custody of a minor child.

Foreclosure Suits Brought.

Foreclosure of a mortgage for $3,900, dated Aug. 28, 1924, on two tracts of land in Lebanon is sought by Sam and Rachel Kaiytike, both of Lebanon, in a suit brought against Solomon, Benjamin and Morris W. Liebman, all of Lebanon, Rose Solant, of that town, and others. The mortgage was to be paid off in semi-annual payments of $200, with a final payment of $1,000 due Aug. 28, 1933.

P. Cutler, Inc., of Colchester, and the Merchants National bank of New Haven are named as party defendants, claiming attachment liens.

The J. R. Whipple corporation, of Boston, sues Edwin B. Rice, of Groton, on the common counts on a claim for $2,000, dated Sept. 1, 1925.

OPENING SEASON IN Y. M. C. A. PHYSICAL DEPT.

The fall season of the local Y. M. C. A. physical department is scheduled to begin Thursday when the regular gymnasium classes and other organized physical activities will get under way. According to Physical Director Fritz, indications are that this will be a big and busy season at the local institution and an attractive program of events is being scheduled, in which the various sports such as basketball, volleyball, swimming and athletic meets and the like will have a prominent place.

The gymnasium class schedule is as follows: Business men's, Monday and Thursday, 5:15-6 p. m.; business men's, Monday and Thursday, 8:15-9:15 p. m.; older boys', Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3-4 p. m.; intermediate boys', Monday and Wednesday 4-5, Saturday, 10:30-11:30 a. m.; junior boys', Tuesday and Thursday 4-5, Saturday, 9:30-10:30 a. m.; employed boys', Monday and Thursday 7:15-8:15; Saturday, 2:30-3:30 p. m.

The association is open to visitors at all times and persons interested in seeing a gymnasium group in action may visit at one of the class hours.

TELEPHONE GROUP HAD OUTING AT LONG POND

Several employes of the commercial department of the New London district of the Southern New England Telephone Co., had an all-day outing at the cottage of George Johnson, exchange manager of Mystic, at Long Pond Sunday. The group enjoyed the climb up Lantern Hill, hikes in the vicinity of Long Pond and boating. At noon a luncheon was served. Present were: E. C. Ford, superintendent of the New London exchange and Mrs. Ford, Misses Helen Baker, Ruth Newbury, Ruth Griswold, Minnie Gray, Jennie Gray, Herbert F. Dunn, Ruel H. Gray, Frieda Grout and Frank McGuirk, all of New London, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Weymouth of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley and children of Putnam, Henry Lyons, manager of the Putnam exchange and Mrs. Lyons and children, Miss Florence Allen of Norwich, and Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of Mystic and daughter.

LEO J. BRUETTE TO REMOVE TO MIAMI

Leo J. Bruette of 55 River avenue, with his wife and othe. relatives, is to leave Thursday morning for Miami, Fla., where they are all to locate. Miss Ida Baker and Fred Baker of this city and Everett Alley of Jewett City will be members of the party, who will make the trip by automobile, anticipating a very pleasant drive at this season of the year. Mr. Bruette made the trip in July, taking eight days on the way south as they did much sightseeing, but came back in four and a half days. He liked the looks of things in Florida so much then that he has decided to migrate there and expects to go into business of some kind after he gets located. He has found a purchaser for his house on River avenue and will consummate the transaction before he leaves.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS HOLD SPRING SOCIAL

Hourigan post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held its opening social of the fall season Tuesday evening at the post rooms on Main street. The post was honored by a visit from Deputy Chief Harry T. Powers of Westerly and a delegation from the Westerly post, V. F. W., was also present. Deputy Chief Powers addressed the gathering on organization and his talk was very interesting and greatly enjoyed by the veterans and guests.

There were vocal solos by several members and also humorous sketches were given. Refreshments of coffee, sandwiches and cake were served and cigars circulated. Following the program dancing was enjoyed until Lidnight. This is the first of a series of monthly socials planned for the fall and winter season. Louis Ball was chairman of the committee on arrangements and was assisted by Arthur Fitzgerald.

California has a larger membership than any other state in the National Congress of Parents and Teachers—139,212 out of a total membership of 875,000. One hundred and ninety-three new associations were organized in the state this year.

FLETCHER POST HAS OVER $600 TOWARDS FUND

Commander Samuel Jennes presided over the meeting of the executive committee of Fletcher post, American Legion, held Tuesday evening at the Wauregan hotel, nine members being present.

A discussion of the American Legion endowment drive in Norwich was brought up for discussion but it was voted that the matter be referred to the post as a whole before proceeding further in the matter. The drive was to have taken place last spring but was postponed because other drives were conflicting. Secretary Jonathan L. Johnson reported that pledges and payments from one-third of the members of the post had reached a total of $516 and with the pledge from the women's auxiliary of the post, the fund had reached over $600. The amount set for the Norwich drive was for $5,000 to be used in the $3,-000,000 endowment fund to provide care for orphans of the World war men.

A report was also read stating that General Peppino Garibaldi, famous Italian officer, was in this country and would come to Norwich to speak under the auspices of the American Legion. It was voted to secure more definite information about the offer and renort to the post.

Secretary Johnson also reported that the membership of the post continued to grow, being about double the membership of two years ago and nearly 50 per cent. above that of 1924.

Owing to the resignation of Joseph J. Broadhurst as a member of the executive committee Charles W. Olsen was elected to office on the committee to fill the unexpired term.

PRESTON HAD MORE SICKNESS THAN USUAL

Everett P. Barnes, Preston town health officer, makes his annual report as follows:

There has been no epidemic in the town during the past year, but there has been considerable more sickness in the town than usual, there being twenty-eight cases reported of the residents of the town and fifty-five cases from the Norwich state hospital, making a total of eighty-three cases that were reported to me for the past year.

There were forty-one cases of pulmonary tuberculosis, twelve cases of scarlet fever, five cases of lobar pneumonia, five cases of typhoid fever, one case of hookworm, three cases of erysipelas, one case of bronchial pneumonia, fourteen cases of chickenpox, and one case of chronic thyroid.

One nuisance was reported in the western part of the town which was soon disposed of after the person who caused it was notified.

Samples of water from two wells at Fort Point were sent to the state department of health to be analysed.

All cases reported to me were given my immediate attention and I took every precaution against the spread of any disease.

WEDDING.

Moore—Huling.

Miss Flora M. Huling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Greene Huling of Hampton, and Leon F. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Moore of Oxford, Mass., were married at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ, in New London, Saturday afternoon by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, in the presence of a few relatives. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Long of New London.

The bride wore pencil blue satin with hat to match. Her attendant wore grey crepe with grey hat. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Moore left for a wedding trip to New York, Albany, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Oxford, Mass., and Hampton. They will make their home temporarily at 27 Bristol street, New London. Mr. Moore is employed as a brakeman on the New Haven railroad.

Attended Fair.

Among those from Hope Valley who attended the recent Norwich fair were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Girard, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Nye, Mrs. Maude Parkelo, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. G. Clay Barber, Mrs. Antoine Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Burdick, Mr. and Mrs. Colonel Burdick and Mrs. Zella Hiddlen.

PUTNAM ENDORSES BUS PETITION BY NEW HAVEN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 29.—Edward E. Reagan, superintendent of the New London-Worcester division of the New Haven railroad, made an address at a meeting of representative citizens here this afternoon, asking that his company be supported in its policy of providing highway motor bus transportation and that the application of five private companies for permits to operate new lines be opposed. The hearing on these applications will be at the Municipal building at 10:30 tomorrow morning.

The meeting today was a hastily arranged one, a message being received here shortly before noon by Arthur S. Macdonald, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Ralph C. Jenkins, president of the Rotary club, asking that as many representatives as could be reached of these two organizations and other business men and women be called to hear Mr. Regan's statement. There was an assemblage of 35 in the Chamber of Commerce rooms when Mr. Regan reached here at 1:30.

After the meeting was called to order by T. H. deCoudres and the reason for it was stated, Mr. Regan outlined the policy of the New Haven road on the operation of bus lines. He said that the granting of permits to others to operate conflicting lines would impair the service that his company purposed and asked that the road be supported and the granting of permits be opposed at the hearing Wednesday morning.

After the conclusion of his talk the following resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote

"Resolved: That this meeting go on record in recognizing the N. Y., N. H. & H. Railroad company and the Connecticut company as the logical mediu mof transportation, both for passenger and freight traffic in this territory, and that we are opposed to the granting of permits to independent applicants for operating busses that would tend to interfere with the plans outlined by these companies for utilizing the highways for transportation; this action being taken on the assurance of representatives of these companies that the public needs will be served to the best of their ability."

Mr. Regan in his very candid and interesting talk said that the growth and prosperity of the towns in this section of the state and the New Haven railroad were linked together, it is to the interest of the company to give the very best service in its power and in his judgment, the towns would best conserve their own interests by giving the road their support.

"We recognize," he said, "that the overland motor bus has come to stay; the public demands it and it is one of the accepted phases in the changing era of transportation methods. The public may say that we are two or three years late in recognizing this fact, but there are many important problems in this radical change that need working out; also for a considerable period prior to two years ago we did not know whether we were to continue to operate as the New Haven railroad or whether it was to go into the hands of a receiver. That crisis has been reached and safely passed. The balances in the accounting records are now on the right side of the ledger, they show a healthy condition and the New Haven company is prepared to give New England efficient service as a common carrier, whether in transporting freight or passengers.

"Of course the bus proposition is more or less of an unsolved problem, but with the support of Norwich and Willimantic and Danielson and, we hope, Putnam, and other cities similarly situated, we hope to solve the question satisfactorily, both to the public and the railroad."

He said that many local lines like the New London-Worcester branch were operating at a loss, that the bus had cut tremendously into the revenues of the railroad and the trolleys; that the train service would have to be curtailed between these two cities, but that there would always be a morning and evening train each way.

Other interesting statements that he made were:

That the Connecticut company intended to operate bus lines over some of its routes, and that the running of trolley cars would be discontinued on some lines. It was inferred that one of the lines to be discontinued is between Central Village and West Thompson, running through Putnam.

The New Haven and Connecticut companies would co-operate in bus service and not run competing lines, he declared.

The popular and evidently much desired motor bus line between Providence and Springfield would continue to be operated regardless of the outcome of the hearing tomorrow, was Mr. Regan's assurance.

COMMON PLEAS COURT HEARS MOTION LIST

Five cases went off the list when the court of common pleas opened its fall session in New London at 10 o'clock Monday morning with Judge Charles B. Waller on the bench. The cases that went off the list were:

Hyman Cooper vs. Hattie Shallett; Raymond Mulaney vs. Clarence A. Fisher; John F. Murphy vs. Clarence A. Fisher; The U. S. Asbestos Co. vs. N. L. Auto Parts Co.; L. E. McLaughlin, Inc., vs. Ocean Beach Park development Co.

In the folowing cases disclosure of defense in two weeks was ordered:

Mary Donovan vs. Pawel Stecewicz; The J. B. Coit Co., vs Fred Gudeahn; The Norwich Plumbing Supply House, vs. Charles S. Jacobson; Albert C. Freeman vs. George L. Fuller; Connecticut Machinery and Sales, Co., vs. E. T. Watrous; Greene and Samuels vs. J. Oguinick.

In the case of Louis Brdosky vs. Eli Holowinski a hearing in damages was continued for thirty days. This is an action over an unpaid note for $200. The court granted a hearing on the motion to amend the complaint in the case of Modern Electric Co., vs. Fritz Vogt. In the case of Robert Clark vs. Harry B. Morton, a disclosure of defense or judgment was set for one week. Disclosure of defense was ordered within a week in the case of Alice B. Griffin vs. Ralph Harris. This is a controversy over rent due the plaintiffs.

Assignment of cases was made as follows by Judge Waller:

Oct. 12—Mt. View Creamery Corp. vs. James M. Young & Sons.

Oct. 19—Freidman and Henig vs. James C. Macpherson; V. P. A. Quinn vs. Philip Filnowski.

Oct. 26—Gustaf R. Hibbinette vs. Edward T. Proctor.

WM. A. SWAN HAS TRAVELED AROUND WORLD

William A. Swan formerly of Preston, has been on a six months' cruise going to Honolulu for a while, then to Sydney, Australia, near Perth, western Australia, and Auckland, New Zealand, just twelve thousand miles from Norwich. He has seen nearly every country in the world. He has been in the service fourteen years and just now is on the U. S. S. Tennessee. His home at present is in San Pedro, California.

SPRAGUE HAS NEW SCHOOL AT VERSAILLES

In submitting his first annual report as supervising agent of the schools in the town of Sprague, O. L. Fleetwood says:

In the conduct of teachers' meetings, an effort has been made to broaden the teacher's vision as to the phases of the work taken up for discussion to the end that she may realize the possibilities of the subject and standards of teaching or her ideals. This result is bound to follow the desire for professional growth. Reading, the social subjects, and handwork were the subjects selected for special emphasis at these meetings. The problems were attacked in three ways: talks by the supervisor, demonstrations by some teacher who had previously presented the work of her class in a praiseworthy manner; and by open discussion in the meeting.

This year we have introduced a complete set of basic readers in the primary grades. The older children have been encouraged to start home libraries by purchasing a few good books each year; books that will always be worth re-reading and which will unfold to them stories of travel, patriotism, courage and friendship, the things that make life worth while. In each school a few selections have been studied in an intensive way, for their art qualities and literary values.

In the teaching of the social studies it has been our aim to so teach that the child will come to see his responsibilities as an active factor in the community; that, from his study of the story of mankind, he may properly appreciate the lessons taught by the almost mythical past; that he may exercise judgment and discernment in solving the problems of the ever changing present; that he may be prepared to the part he is to play in the oncoming future. To do this adequately he must be taught facts. He must be taught motives. He must be taught to trace cause and effect.

Beginning in September the Pautipaug Hill sch ol will be closed and the pupils transported to the Baltic graded school. There were only thirteen pupils on roll at the close of the school in June. The new building at Versailles will be open in September. This is one of the best buildings in this part of the state. It is equipped throughout with moveable desks of the most improved type. The boys and girls should be very happy in their new home.

School bank, Baltic: Grades 1-2, $173.19; grades 3-4, $180.78; grades 5-6 $100.54; grades 7-8, 159.80.

Versailles: Grades 1-2, $58.67; grades 3-4-5, $64.99; grades 6-8 $1.20; branch, $3.65; Hanover primary, $5.41; Pautipaug Hill $21.97.

We have tried to show the boys and girls that an efficient education means the development of each citizen, first as an individual and second as a member of society. It means bodies kept fit for service by appropriate exercise. It means that each student shall be taught to use his hands deftly; to observe accurately, to reason justly, and to express himself clearly. It means that he shall learn to live cleanly, happily and helpfully with those around him. That he shall learn to co-operate with his fellows for far-reaching and far-distant ends. That he shall learn the everlasting truth of the words uttered nearly two thousand years ago, "No man liveth to himself alone" and "Bear ye one another's burdens."

MEREDITH HAS DECLINED OFFER FROM NEW JERSEY

State Commissioner of Education Albert B. Meredith has refused an offer of $10,000 a year from Governor Silzer of New Jersey to return to that state and head its educational department. The offer was made with the understanding that the New Jersey legislature would increase this salary to $15,000 at its next session. Dr. Meredith's salary here is $8,000.

When the board of control meets on Thursday, three members of the state board of education will appear before it with a request that Commissioner Meredith's salary be increased to $10,-000 at once and that it be made $11,000 next year. Whether this request is granted by the board of control or not, Commissioner Meredith will remain in his present position as he definitely refused the New Jersey offer several weeks ago. The action to be taken by the board of education Thursday comes as a result of the discovery by some members of the board of the New Jersey offer. The board was unaware of such an offer until some time after it had been refused by Commissioner Meredith.

Commissioner Meredith was formerly deputy commissioner of education in New Jersey and since he came to this state there have been repeated efforts by the New Jersey educational authorities to induce him to return.

TO DISCUSS PLACE OF RELIGION IN EDUCATION

The annual meeting of the Connecticut state federation of American association of University women and college clubs will be held at Waterbury on Saturday, October 3 at eleven o'clock in the library of Wilby high school.

It will be of interest to the public to know that at three o'clock the problem of the place of religion in education will be discussed.

Rev. Richard Clapp of the United church, Father T. L. Riggs and Rabbi Tedesche all of New Haven, will speak and the meeting is open to all.

SUPERIOR COURT ADMITS 34 TO CITIZENSHIP

Thirty-four were admitted to citizenship, nine applicants were denied and thirty applications were continued at the naturalization session held in New London Tuesday morning by the superior court with Judge Allyn L. Brown presiding. Examiner Allan T. Church, of Boston, questioned the applicants and Clerk George E. Parsons, with his assistants, kept the records of naturalization and issued the certificates to the successful applicants.

Connecticut College

(Special to The Bulletin.)

In formal word and phrase the sophomore class of Connecticut college has warned the freshmen to observe the Do's and Don't's of the august body of twenty-seven. Each freshman found herself mysteriously possessed of a large and formal poster lodged somewhere within her own sacred threshold, a document both awe-inspiring and forbidding in portent and content.

Catechism for the class of 1929 by the class of 1928, which is universally acknowledge to be finest, fairest, fittest and facile-princeps class in New England.

To members of the freshman class, Greeting:

By virtue of the power and authority in and by costumme and ancient usage set forth, we, the great and glorious sophomore class, reposing especial trust and confidence in your loyalty, devotion and good sportsmanship, and that of your fellow-classmates, after long and prayerful consideration and for the good of your own soul and the glory of the college, have in meeting assembled, voted the following rules and mandates governing your conduct. These you are hereby carefully and diligently bidden to obey:

1. Rise when the woman instructor enters the room.
2. Hold doors open for the members of the faculty and for upper classmen and sophomores.
3. Make room for the upper classmen to pass on the sidewalk.
4. Give your seat to the upper classmen.
5. Always pour the water at the table.
6. Rise up when an upper classman or sophomore comes to speak to you at the table.
7. Receive permission from the hostess to converse with someone at the table.

Thou shalt not:

1. Walk upon the grass.
2. Walk more than two abreast on the sidewalk.
3. Enter doors ahead of the upper classmen.
4. Enter the post office between the hours of 8:45 and 9:15 in the morning.
5. Stray off campus after 7:30 without a chaperon.
6. Sit in the first six rows of the Capitol theatre.
7. Precede the upper classmen into the car.
8. Start to eat before the hostess does.
9. Wear knickers or middies into dinner.
10. Sing the alma mater except when led by the college song leader.

Given under our hand and seal at arms, at New London the twenty-seventh day nineteen hundred twenty-five in the ninth year of the reign of his majesty President Marshall the First.

Anneque Domini—

M. C. M. xxv.

Miss Mary Morton, an ex-member of the class of 1927, is now attending the University of Grenoble in Grenoble, France. She was a popular member of her class and had been elected song leader for 1925-26. Mrs. James Morton, who accompanied her, will return to this country in October.

There will be a special student government meeting in the gymnasium on Tuesday for the election of a secretary to that organization.

The freshman class has been requested by the sophomores to attend a meeting Wednesday evening in the college gymnasium where the various points relative to their initiation will be outlined to them.

STONINGTON HEALTH REPORT SHOWED CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

The seventeenth annual report of Dr. F. C. Congdon, town and borough health officer, of Stonington, for the year ending August 31, 1925, is as follows:

Scarlet fever, whooping cough, diphtheria and chickenpox have been the leading contagious diseases.

Diphtheria got a foothold in August, 1924, before it was recognized and continued until December.

Scarlet fever was present every month from October, 1923, until April, 1925. In January there were fourteen cases. As it is five months since the last case, it may be hoped the contagion has subsided.

Chicken pox had its own way at the borough last summer the same time whooping cough was making life miserable for the children of the borough. There were 35 cases reported in September and October. No cases have been reported since the first of November.

In November four children were found at Pawcatuck sick with smallpox. One was a pupil of the parochial school. Nearly the entire school were immediately vaccinated, and the afflicted house strictly quarantined. The four children made a good recovery and there was no further spread of the disease. These children had never been vaccinated. Several others in the family had been vaccinated and not one of them took the disease; still people try to convince themselves that vaccination does not protect against smallpox. The hearty co-operation of the principal and teachers, as well as the children and their parents, made the task of vaccinating the school a very pleasant duty.

Infantile paralysis has not been in this town since August, 1923, until July of this year, when two cases were found at Pawcatuck. Both have made good recoveries. In August another case at Pawcatuck and one at Mystic were reported. Both of these children died after a very brief illness. The Mystic child had been to Watch Hill, and the one at Pawcatuck had recently attended a large church picnic. As six weeks have elapsed since the last child was stricken with the disease there are hopes there will be no further trouble from the malady.

ASHFORD'S BIG DAY AT KNOWLTON MEMORIAL

The town of Ashford is preparing for its big day today (Wednesday) when the first anniversary of the dedication of the Knowlton Memorial town house and community building will be celebrated at Warrenville.

Governor John H. Trumbull, a native of Ashford is to be a guest during the day and will make an address at the afternoon session, which opens at 1:30. There will be music and brief historic addresses. In the evening an orchestra will furnish music and Professor Charles A. Wheeler of Connecticut agricultural college will give a travelogue talk.

Will Celebrate Prudential's Birthday

Manager E. O. Rudier will entertain the entire organization of the Norwich office of the Prudential Insurance Co at dinner at the Wauregan hotel on Tuesday, Oct. 13, in observance of the 50th anniversary of the company. A similar observance will be held all over the country by Prudential agencies.

THE MOHICAN COMPANY

ORGANIZATION EFFECTED BY LOCAL ELECTRICIANS

Charles D. Keaveney, representing the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, installed a new charter in this city Tuesday night covering Norwich and vicinity. A charter list of twenty was obligated and officers were chosen to serve to Jan. 1, 1926. For several years the electricians of Norwich have had no union of their trade and the meeting of last night shows a very united interest.

The charter will be open up to and including October 27, after which a very substantial fee will be charged.

The new officers installed are, president, R. E. Graham; vice president, Thomas Shahan; recording secretary, H. Bernier; financial secretary, John W. Nichols; treasurer, Everett Woodward.

FINES ARE IMPOSED IN THE CITY COURT

It cost Joseph Berghinzo, leader of the Baltic band, $10 and costs for the assault which he made on Prof. Pasquale Puca, leader of the Italian band when Berghinzo's case came up in the city court Tuesday morning before Judge Arthur F. Libby. Berghinzo, who resides at 50 Thames street, paid his bill.

Rivalry between the two bands was the cause of the blows struck by Berghinzo when he accosted Puca Monday afternoon at Frank Russillo's barber shop, No. 11 Main street. Puca received a cut over the left eye and a cut on the forehead when Berghinzo hit him and knocked his glasses off.

Stanley Bosade, 38, of this city, was presented on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a license and evading responsibility. He was charged with running into another machine on Washington street on Sept. 28. His case was continued until October 3rd.

A fine of $25 and costs was imposed on Percy Robinson for operating a machine without a license. The $25 fine was remitted but the costs of $10.23 were assessed and Robinson paid his bill.

Enjoys Beauties of Venice.

Norwich friends have received cards this week from Henry J. La Fontaine, mailed Sept. 18, from Venice, which he writes is more beautiful than any of the color prints we know. Mr. La Fontaine, who is traveling with Charles J. Dyer writes that they have rooms in the old palace apartments on the Piazza di San Marco, commanding the whole view that includes San Marco, the doges's palace, the Campanile, the sea and San Giorgio in the distance. He has experienced very satisfying musical opportunities everywhere in the course of his trip.

Now the season is at hand when papa's pocket book should go into training for fall openings.

WAR DEBT COMMISSIONS IN DEADLOCK PRESIDENT COOLIDGE TO BE ARBITER FRENCH TO RECEIVE ANSWER AT 11 A. M.

French Mission Has Presented What It Considered Its Final Proposal For Settlement—The Offer is Said to Hold to $100,000,000 as the Maximum Annual Payment—Facing Disagreement Among Themselves, the American Commissioners Decided to Place the Whole Situation Before President Coolidge—The White House Conference is Scheduled For 9 O'Clock This Morning.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(A. P.)—President Coolidge must decide the fate of the French debt negotiations. The French have offered what they consider to be their final proposal, and the American commissioners, unable to agree among themselves, will lay the problem before the president tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Finance Minister Caillaux, with the air of a man who has finished an arduous task sat back calmly awaiting a decision which has been promised him at 11 o'clock tomorrow. Tonight he entertained at the French embassy the American commissioners with whom he has been engaged in the momentous battle of figures.

France's offer calls for a payment of $40,000,000 annually for five years, $61,000,000 annually during the next seven years, and an annual payment of $100,000,000 in the succeeding fifty years. This would aggregate a total payment of $5,620,000,000 in principal and interest on the recorded debt of $4,210,000,000. Calculations show therefore that the interest rate, although not specifically mentioned anywhere, would average about two and one-half per cent. over the life of the proposed agreement.

The offer, described as the best the French delegation felt their government could support, was worked out in a conference of sub-committees of the two commissions. The French gave it almost unanimous support. Members of the American sub-committee agreed only to report it back to their commission, which in turn was compelled to take it to the president.

There were indications of sharp disagreement within the American commission on several phases of the proposal when its members sat down to go over the last proposition from M. Caillaux after the French had departed.

Behind locked doors the American commissioners waged their discussion nearly two hours. The only conclusion reached was the determination to send a committee to lay the whole matter before Mr. Coolidge. Secretary Mellon, the chairman; Secretary Hoover, Senator Smoot of Utah, and Representative Crisp of Georgia, were picked to confer with the chief executive.

The White House conference is planned for 9 o'clock. The American commission will meet immediately afterward and the French mission will receive its answer at 11 o'clock in a joint session with the Americans.

It is known that at least two of the Americans have expressed their unqualified opposition to the arrangement of terms now before them. Another group is inclined now and has been consistently in favor of making concessions, while still a third section is ready to take the advice that will be sought from the president tomorrow.

To the president therefore will fall the task of either supporting one of the groups now standing now for and against the French proposal, respectively, or of finding a middle ground for a counter suggestion to the French. Some of the Americans feel that the settlement could not be defended in congress to which it must be sent for ratification. On the other hand, there was the belief among others of the commission that should Mr. Coolidge accept the proposition, the republican majority in congress would be strong enough to put it through.

Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, who has insisted to commission members that they demand terms approximating those granted Great Britain, renewed that insistence to the president during the day, declaring there should be no recession from the original proffer which was substantially the British arrangement. He likewise is opposed to inclusion of a safeguarding clause, a provision on which the French have stood pat since discussion of actual terms began.

The safeguarding, or security clause would make it possible for France to seek a re-opening of the agreement if it could be shown that she could not meet the demands set down under the payment provisions. M. Caillaux declared to the Americans that countless unforeseen circumstances were conceivable which would thoroughly wreck his government's finances, ruin the nation's prosperity or disturb the exchange or transfer situation so that compliance with the terms of the settlement would be a physical impossibility.

M. Caillaux has told associates of fears he has entertained relative to parliament approval of his proposition if accepted by the Americans.

The present government of France has been shown in cabled advices to have lost some little support in parliament in the last few weeks and M. Caillaux was not certain that he would force acceptance of the settlement, but he expressed a willingness to fight off opposition on the ground that the arrangement meant another step toward revitalizing French finances. He regarded a funding agreement here as necessary if his plans for leading France out of its admitted financial ruck are to carry.

There appeared no doubt, however, that if Mr. Coolidge sides with the American commissioners favoring acceptance of the proposal, speedy arranged, it was declared, without throught of what the face of the settlement may be when submitted to the legislators of the two countries.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Greece to Have New Elections

ATHENS, Sept. 30—(A. P.)—The government has issued a decree dissolving the constituent assembly and ordering new elections. General Pangalos, premier and minister of war, in a message to the Greek people, declared that the assembly has lost the confidence of the nation and has formed an obstacle to reconciliation and the renormalization of the political situation.

Hope to Turn Out Baldwin Gov't.

LIVERPOOL, England, Sept. 30—(A. P.)—The leaders of the labor party have hopes of turning out the Baldwin government a great deal sooner than the public believed possible a year ago when the conservatives came back into power. This was made clear today in the discussions of the parliamentary party conference.

COUNSEL KOLETSKY FILES ANSWER TO CHARGES

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 30.—(AP) — Charging State's Attorney Arnon A. Alling with malice and vindictiveness, Joseph Koletsky, counsel for Olympia Macri, now awaiting her second trial charged with the murder of Frank Bagnanoo, alleged father of her child, today filed his answer to charges presented to the superior court against him by the state's attorney. The jury in the first Macri trial disagreed.

Replying to the state's attorney's charges that he (Mr. Koletsky) had publicly censured Irving N. Andrew of Orange, the only juror in the first trial who stood out against the acquittal of Miss Macri, Attorney Koletsky says in his answer:

"The respondent repectfully alleges that the charge as set forth in the presentment was prompted by malice and vindictiveness on the part of said Arnon A. Alling; was publicly heralded and proclaimed by him to the public press almost four months ago before it was even formally brought; was thus pending out of court and over the head of said respondent during said long period of time; was withheld by said Arnon A. Alling deliberately over said long period of time, and was not presented until virtually on the eve of the second trial; . . . all for the purpose of bringing said Joseph Koletsky, a member of the bar and the attorney opposing him in said case and defending the accused, into disesteem and to injure the cause of Olympia Macri in her second trial now imminent.

Mr. Koletsky denies that he publicly censured any juror for his decision reached at the close of the first trial and declares that he acted courteously and respectfully toward each and every one of the 12 jurors.

MATTERS BEFORE THE BANKERS' ASSOCIATION

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 30—(A. P.)—The American Bankers' association today elected Oscar Wells of Birmingham, Ala., as its new president and adopted resolutions urging perpetuation of the federal reserve system through the renewal of its charters on an indeterminate or 99 year basis with the recommendation that proposed amendments to the federal reserve system act be considered separately. The association also went on record as favoring the elimination of the federal estate and gift taxes and of inheritance taxes by states on intangible personal property of non-residents.

"The rechartering of the reserve banks, now that it has become the subject of public discussions, should be taken up promptly and settled," the resolution said. "Continuing uncertainty about the future of the system is sure to prove a grave menace to the progress and prosperity of the country."

Limitation of the resolutions to two major subjects, federal reserve recharter and taxation, was a distinct departure from the association's previous policy in covering a wide range of financial and business subjects in its so-called "declaration of principles." The announced purpose of this was to emphasize their importance. The resolutions, which were presented by Evans Woollen, of Indianapolis, were adopted without a dissenting voice.

HEAVILY PENALIZED FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

RIDGEFIELD, Sept. 30—Charles Engelman, 155 Enfield avenue, Hartford, was fined a total of $400 and costs and sent to jail for fifty days here today when arraigned on the charges of transporting liquor driving while his license was suspended and reckless driving. His companion, John Festa, 124 Franklin street, Hartford, was fined $200 and costs and sent to jail for ten days on the charge of transporting. The men were arrested Tuesday after a sensational chase along the Danbury-Bridgeport road.

SHE DREAMED OF BURGLARS AS ONE STOOD BY HER BED

DANBURY, Sept. 30. (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Ford, of Pembroke district, in the outskirts of this city, informed the state and local police today that she dreamed early this morning that burglars were in her home and awakening discovered a negro standing in the room. She sprang from bed to arouse the other members of the household, and a second man struck her with a bottle. The police were unable to find trace of the burglars. Mrs. Ford reported that her pocketbook, containing $35, had been stolen.

SELECTING JURY FOR THE TRIAL OF JAMES GIZZI

WATERBURY, Sept. 30—Ten members of the jury which will try James Gizzi on a charge of first degree murder had been chosen when superior court was adjourned today. It is expected the jury will be completed tomorrow. Judge Arthur F. Ells ordered the jurors who have been chosen to report Tuesday morning when the trial is expected to commence.

REWARD OF $3,000 DIVIDED AMONG THREE CLAIMANTS

HARTFORD, Sept. 30—(A. P.)—Judge Newell Jennings of the superior court today allotted the reward of $3,000 for the arrest of Giovanni Vottarri of New Britain among the three claimants for it. He awarded Rocco Strange of South Porcupine, Ontario, $2,000. Policeman Herbert Wallace Flintoff, of Oshawa, Ontario, $400; and the police pension fund of New Britain $600.

Strange gave the information that Vottarri could be found at 138 Bluer street, Oshawa, Ontario. Flintoff of the Oshwa police force made the arrest of Vottarri in company with Patrolman Patrick J. O'Meara, of the New Britain force. The police pension fund, of which David L. Dunne is the head claimed the reward on behalf of the department for the work it did to bringing about Vottarri's final arrest no member of the department being allowed to take a reward.

Vottarri killed Joseph D'Angelo, of New Britain in a jealous rage over a woman about a year ago and then fled to Canada. The state of Connecticut offered a reward of $3,000 for his arrest last spring and shortly afterward he was captured and brought back to Hartford county to face trial on a charge of first degree murder. After an investigation by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, which led to the conclusion that Vottarri was not a fit subject for capital punishment, Mr. Alcorn accepted a plea of guilty to murder in the second degree. Vottarri was then sentenced to serve a life sentence in state prison.

IRISH IN PHILADELPHIA ATTACKED GEN. MULCAHY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30—(A. P.)—Irish republican sympathizers, some of them women, today attempted to attack General Richard Mulcahy, former minister of defense of the Irish Free State, as he stepped from Independence hall with a party of 375 delegates to the Interparliamentary Union, of which he is a member. Police intervention saved the general from blows aimed at him.

The delegates were welcomed at Independence hall by Mayor Kendrick and paid their respects to the Liberty Bell.

At Broad Street station soon after the delegates arrived, five persons were arrested while several were taken into custody at Independance squaree. All but two were discharged when arraigned before a magistrate. Michael McFadden was fined $13.50 because the police said they had found a blackjack on him and Daniel O'Rourke was sentenced to 30 days in jail after he had told Magistrate Fitzgerald he had been in America only five years, did not like it and intended to return to Ireland as soon as possible.

"That's fine," said the magistrate, "but before you go, you will have to spend 30 days in jail." Several times during the hearing Magistrate Fitzgerald threatened to punish some of the women, but he ultimately discharged them.

All the anti-Free Staters carried Irish republican flags in addition to American banners. Many of the women also carried banners on which were inscriptions directed against General Mulcahy one of these read: "Mr. Mayor, there is blood on Mulcahy's hands." Another read: "Down with Mulcahy, the murderer of 77 Irishmen."

Delegates left tonight for Washington, where the Interparliamentary Union opens its sessions tomorrows.

TROUBLES OF SHIPPING BOARD AND L. C. PALMER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—(A. P.)—The probability of the shipping board terminating the services of Leigh C. Palmer, as president of the fleet corporation generally was regarded as deferred for an indefinite period with the White House announcement today that President Coolidge had appointed H. G. Dalton of Cleveland, to study the entire shipping row and report to him.

The step was said in shipping circles to have put an entirely new aspect on a situation which had brought to the breaking point relations between the board and Mr. Palmer and a letter to Mr. Coolidge upon majority vote of the board that the board intended to reshape the official personnel and policies of the fleet corporation.

Mr. Dalton is a member of the firm of Pickand, Mather & Company of Cleveland, which is engaged in shipping on the Great Lakes and in iron ore and coal operations. During the war he was a member of the Iron & Steel committee of the war industries board.

ALIENISTS MAINTAIN THAT NOEL WAS INSANE

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 30. (AP)—Three alienists at a sanity hearing today supported the contention that Harrison W. Noel, confessed slayer of Raymond Pierce, negro chauffeur, and six-year-old Mary Daly, of Montclair, was insane and unable to aid his counsel in preparing his own defense.

Doctors John W. Thompson, deposed senior resident physician at Overbrook hospital for the insane, George W. Davies and William B. Pritchard, of New York, were the mental experts called by Merritt Lane, defense attorney. Dr. Pritchard, who was on the stand when court adjourned until tomorrow, insisted that Noel's acts were the product of a badly disordered brain.

Claims Shenandoah Gave Danger Signals

Testimony Before the Naval Court of Inquiry by Captain Heinen, Former German Zeppelin Pilot.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 30.—(A. P.)—An opinion that the primary cause of the wrecking of the airship Shenandoah was a failure of the officers in charge to heed danger signals that were "shrieking out loud" was expressed to the naval court of inquiry here today by Captain Anton Heinen, former German Zeppelin pilot, who instructed the crew of the American dirigible.

Declaring that the disaster was "entirely and very easily avoidable," Heinen, under direct questioning by the court, placed the blame squarely on the shoulders of Commander Zachary Lansdowne, who went down to death with his ship.

Asked on what grounds he did this, the witness said:

"In my opinion the ship ran deliberately into the center of the storm for at least half an hour after danger signals had been shrieking out loud. With the ship having sufficient power for steerage way she easily could have got out of danger. I stand ready to prove this from the evidence presented to this court."

"Are you prepared to say that had you been in charge of the Shenandoah you could have escaped the storm?" asked Rear Admiral Jones, president of the court.

"I am proud to say that I believe I could have," the witness responded.

Under further questioning, Captain Heinen explained it was his theory that the first danger signals were evident at the time Lieutenant Commander C. L. Rosendahl, senior surviving officer, and navigator of the Shenandoah relieved Lieutenant Commander Hancock in the control car before conditions had become such that it was decided to call Commander Lansdowne. At that time, he said, the ship was drifting to the right, a danger signal that should have been heeded immediately.

Then with a considerable wealth of technical detail, the witness, speaking so fast at times that even the official stenographer was unable to get down his words, presented his theory of how the ship should have been kept ahead to the wind so that she would have avoided the vortex of the disturbance.

"If I may be permitted to refer to it," Heinen added, "we had much the same experience when the Shenandoah broke away from the mooring mast here last January."

Captain Heinen was on the witness stand for three hours and his examination had not been concluded when court was adjourned until tomorrow. His criticisms regarding structural changes in the Shenandoah had aroused survivors and officers at the air station here and there was an atmosphere of some tenseness even when he first was called to face alike the court and the group of survivors ranged to the left of the room.

Speaking with a slight accent, the witness frequently appeared to become excited and he was mildly cautioned by Admiral Jones to refrain from speaking with too much show of vigor, especially when he was under cross examination by Commander Rosendahl on behalf of the survivors. This duel of words, conducted between former master and pupil, held the attention of the audience which for the first time during the ten days of the investigation had assumed considerable proportions.

Several times Captain Heinen objected to questions put by Commander Rosendahl on the ground that they were not pertinent to the inquiry and was sustained by the court.

CHARGES AGAINST THE ALUMINUM CO. OF AMERICA

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 30—Charges of conspiracy in restraint of trade and to maintain a monopoly were made in a suit for $15,000,000 entered in federal court here today against the Aluminum Company of America, of which Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is one of the principal owners, its officers and directors. The plaintiff, George D. Haskell of Springfield, president of the Bausch Machine Tool Company, alleges that certain of the individual defendants conspired to prevent him from entering into competition with the defendant company.

In his bill Haskell said that he uses large quantities of aluminum in his business and has always experienced difficulty in obtaining "by reason of the existence of a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of the metal." The defendant company, he asserted, has acquired and now owns and controls all of the deposits of the ore from which aluminum is made in America and owns or controls large foreign deposits.

POSTAL INSPECTORS PROBE SHOOTING IN MERIDEN

MERIDEN, Sept. 30—Two postal inspectors who are searching for "Dutch" Anderson, pal of Gerald Chapman, a convicted murderer, came to this city tonight and questioned Louis A. Kubeck, proprietor of the Old Colony inn here, and John H. Quinn, who was slightly wounded Monday night by a bullet fired from ambush, and believed to have been intended for Kubeck. The latter was an important witness against Chapman.

The inspectors conducted a minute examination of the vicinity of the Kubeck barn, where the mysterious shot was fired. They were particularly interested in reports that Kubeck's life had been threatened since he testified against Chapman at his trial, and in rumors that Anderson is supposed to have been in this vicinity recently.

BEER AND WINES WOULD POPULARIZE VOLSTEAD ACT

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (AP)—The Volstead law could be popularized with the American people by an amendment by congress legalizing the sale of light wines and beer, Federal Judge William B. Sheppard, of Pensacola, Fla., said today. A re-statement by congress of what constitutes an intoxicating beverage, he said, would go far toward improving enforcement conditions. Judge Sheppard is here to preside at the September term.

Any law will fail of enforcement if it has not the good will of the people, the judge said, and the Volstead law is a good example of this kind.

Charges Navy With "Amateur Bungling"

Col. Mitchell Charges Shenandoah Disaster Was Due to Incompetency and Mismanagement by the Navy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—Condensing all of his previous charges into one verbal bombshell, Colonel William Mitchell concluded his testimony before the president's airboard today by the navy sent the dirigible Shenandoah to its doom on a "propaganda mission," to the middle west, that tropical type planes were given navy fliers with the MacMillan arctic expedition and that the Hawaiian flight was attempted with a gas supply known to be inadequate.

His appearance preceded several other witnesses, who added vivid chapters to the running story of the activities of American air forces.

Lieutenant Colonel John A. Paegelow, commandant of the army balloon school at Scott field, Illinois, testified that a local thunderstorm and not a line squall brought disaster to the Shenandoah.

Major Clarke Brant, air officer, attached to the general board, admitted under questioning that the general board was preparing an answer to Colonel Mitchell's charges and that since his last outburst it had "given much attention" to aircraft problems. He also said the value of aircraft in the Hawaiian maneuvres had been minimized in the press.

Questioned by Rear Admiral Fletcher, retired, board member, regarding weather conditions in the region of the Aleutian Islands, by which route Colonel Mitchell said yesterday an air attack on the United States would come, Lieut. Leigh Wade, member of the army world flight squadron, said there was but "two seasons—this winter and the next."

In less than two hours of testimony, Colonel Mitchell took his parting shot at both the army and navy, although it was against the latter that his most vigorous charges were made.

He asserted the failure of the navy plane, PN-9 No. 1 to reach Honolulu was to have been expected as it was known from tests that more than one charge of gasoline was needed.

Commander John Rodgers, who was in charge of the seaplane on the trip, arrived in Washington today to await summons by the board.

Colonel Mitchell declared the Shenandoah disaster, the unsuccessful Hawaiian flight and the performance of the naval planes in the far north were justifiable grievances and pointed to them as making it impossible for those interested in aircraft development to refrain longer from urging creation of a department of national defense in which land, water and air activities would be administered by separate heads.

He testified that sending the Shenandoah to the mid west when unequipped with parachutes was like "sending a vessel to sea without lifeboats."

He also charged the mid-continental trip was in "direct violation" of law, declaring naval air activities were required to be confined to the sea. Under questioning, he denied he was putting a "far fetched" interpretation upon the law, asserting to send the dirigible over the "mountains" was a far different thing than to send it over the coat or the land to join a fleet.

"The law was evaded, not exactly disobeyed," he replied to one question. Although he had only the highest praise for the Shenandoah crew.

Colonel Mitchell declared that the army last winter was allotted $50,000 to conduct bombing experiments on naval vessels. The navy, he said, urged that the law specify "obsolete" vessels holding that otherwise the secretary of war could order the bombing of a battleship. This request was complied with, he continued, but a request for a target brought a reply from Assistant Secretary Robinson of the navy, that there were "no obsolete vessels."

Army bombing planes this summer, Colonel Mitchell said, "have done nothing but "tow targets" and the commander of them was now in Maine shooting moose and "trying to recover after such procedure."

Colonel Mitchell received previous charges that junior officers were "afraid to tell the truth" when he said the war department had a stenographer in the committee room checking up on testimony. This did not interfere with his testimony he said, but it tended to "retard the flow" of testimony of the junior officers.

Dwight W. Morrow, board chairman, interposed that the hearing was public and after several exchanges, the witness said that since Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service testified last week, the latter had received a letter requesting that he furnish a complete estimate of aircraft expenditures and a budget of its needs.

Discussing the relative air power of nations, the colonel asserted that "France is aspiring to control the air like England controls the sea," and that "every nation is coming forward with better planes than ours."

Major Brant testified air service officers detailed to the Hawaiian maneuvres returned to the United States to find "to their surprise" the people had been given an erroneous impression by the press of the part played by airplanes in the mimic warfare.

TRAIN PASSENERS ROBBED BY LONE BANDIT IN OMAHA

OMAHA, Nebr., Sept. 30—(A. P.)—A lone masked bandit boarded a Missouri Pacific passenger train in the railroad yards here early tonight and robbed twenty five passengers. He escaped with an undetermined amount of loot.

The man boarded the day coach of the train just as it was entering the yards and brandishing two revolvers, commanded the passengers to throw up their hands. He then lined them up in the aisle and forced the negro porter to search them for valuable.

RAIN CAUSED ANOTHER SEVERE FLOOD IN JAPAN

TOKYO, Oct. 1—(A. P.)—Another severe rainstorm swept Japan last evening flooding many thousands of houses in Tokyo and other cities. Several were killed and injured by landslides.

Water entered the Imperial hotel, Tokyo, shutting off all the lights and water supply temporarily.

Following the hot summer months, heavy rain storms are annual events in Japan causing considerable damage in the low lying districts.

NO POSSIBILITY OF LIFE ABOARD SUBMARINE S-51

Rear Admiral Christy Has Reluctantly Abandoned Hope—Sec'y Wilbur of the Navy Has Ordered Rescue Work to Be Continued Until It is Definitely Known That There is No One Alive on Board the Ill-Fated Sub—Stormy Weather Has Kept the Derrick Ships in Newport Harbor and Forced the 14 Divers in the Rescue Fleet to Suspend all Operations.

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 30—(By the A. P.)—Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, in charge of rescue work, has lost hope that any of the men in the wrecked submarine S-51 are alive in their tomb at the bottom of the Atlantic, but late today he sent divers down to the vessel to work on the lines that furnish air to the compartments where there is a possibility that men are living.

They found conditions unchanged, he reported in a wireless message from the Camden, mother ship of the rescue fleet.

"Rescue operations not suspended except as necessitated by weather," his message said. "Divers were able to go down late this afternoon to work on salvage air lines. Found conditions unchanged."

In an earlier message received at the submarine base Admiral Christy said: "Reluctantly and sorrowfully concede no probability of anyone being alive on S-51."

Prior to that he had recommended to Secretary Wilbur in Washington that rescue work be suspended and that salvage operations be begun. The navy department, however, ordered that the task of trying to save lives continue until it was definitely established that no one was alive.

While there are few, if any, officers at the submarine base who actually believe that any of their comrades have survived in five day horror at the bottom of the sea, all of them assert that it is possible if they were able to lock themselves in water tight compartments when the submarine was rammed by the steamer City of Rome last Friday night. Divers have been unable to penetrate the wreckage far enough to determine whether the doors leading to these compartments are open or closed. They have found only two bodies.

STILL HOPE THAT SOME MEN MAY BE ALIVE

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—(By the A. P.)—Pressure and approval greeted the announcement from Washington today that Secretary Wilbur of the navy department had ordered rescue workers to carry on their efforts to find living men in the wrecked submarine S-51.

Despite a report from Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, commander of the rescue forces, that virtually all hope for the lives of any of the 31 men who went down five days ago had been abandoned, officers here have steadfastly clung to the chance that some of the men might be alive. They still hope that the stern of the S-51 can be brought to the surface, a hole cut in her hull and live men be found in the engine room where they might have cut themselves off from the inrush of water by slamming shut a water tight door.

Rescue operations were suspended today because of rough weather. Two wrecking lighters started out from Newport, R. I. early today but were forced to turn back. No word had come here from Admiral Christy since receipt of the Washington announcement and it was not known what the next step would be.

Even while it seemed possible that attempts at rescue would be stopped and the routine work of salvaging begun, offers of help continued to come from the outside to Capt. E. J. King, commandant of the submarine base. One was from E. A. Hidenbrand of Marblehead, Mass., who until last June was a member of the disabled submarine's crew.

"Served two and half years on S-51 with 50 crew," his telegram said, "and sure I can reach inner part of ship. Request your permission to save shipmates."

Other former navy men have offered their aid, Capt. King said, but it was felt that all was being done that was possible and he could only thank them.

Lieut. Commander H. A. Flanigan executive officer, was visited today by relatives of both the men whose bodies were found yesterday.

Frederick Teschemacher, father of William Charles Teschemacher, said he hoped his son's body would be held at the Newport naval hospital for a time until a thorough search was made for the body of William's twin brother, Frederick. Mrs. John L. Gibson, widow of the first man found, hoped her husband could be buried with his shipmates.

A message received at the base from Admiral Christy confirmed his belief reported from Washington that none on board are alive.

"Reluctantly and sorrowfully concede no probability of anyone being alive on S-51," said the message.

It was not known definitely whether he had heard from Secretary Wilbur at the time he sent the message. The weather prediction for tomorrow off the coast is fresh, possibly strong northeast and east winds and overcast weather.

The Chewink, dispatch boat sent to the wreck each day from the submarine base will not return tonight. A boat will be sent out tomorrow however.

CHARGES SUB DISREGARDED THE RULES OF THE SEA

NANTUCKET, Mass., Sept. 30—Charges that a submarine cruising in waters adjacent to Block Island last Friday morning, more than 17 hours before the S-51 was sunk in collision with the City of Rome, disregarded the rules of the sea, were made today by Captain Dan Jackson, of Nantucket, master of the fishing schooner Phyllis J. The number of the submarine was not ascertained, Captain Jackson said.

"About 5 o'clock on the morning of Friday, September 25, when the schooner was three miles out of Watch Hill and heading east, a submarine appeared heading west," the statement said. "The submarine and schooner were approaching each other, the submarine to port of the schooner.

"When about 300 yards away, without warning the submarine turned and crossed our bows from port to starboard going at full speed about east southeast toward Block Island. There was clearance of only a foot or so. The submarine did not stop, it was unable to make out her number. The schooner had a riding sail and was proceeding under power with her lights properly set and burning."

S-51 Not at Sea at the Time

U. S. SUBMARINE BASE, NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—The submarine S-51 was not at sea at the time a Nantucket fishing schooner master reported seeing an underwater boat disregard the rules of the sea, but the S-51 from this base was on a practice run, officers said tonight.

The schooner captain said he saw the submarine more than 17 hours before the disaster which overtook the S-51. The S-1 had left the base on Thursday night and returned at noon on Friday. The S-51 left Friday and was struck about 10:30 that night.

FOUR OF FIVE COMPARTMENTS HAVE NOT BEEN SEARCHED YET

ABOARD THE U. S. S. CAMDEN, OFF BLOCK ISLAND, Sept. 30.—(AP)—All the navy's hopes of reaching the 33 men aboard the sunken submarine S-51 expired today when the rough weather held on.

The northeast squall kept the derrick ships Monarch and Century in their berths in Newport harbor and forced the 14 divers in the rescue fleet to suspend all operations.

Even Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, commander of the submarine control forces was forced to admit that his mission of mercy has been beaten by the combined forces of nature, the wind and sea.

Up until today he refused to concede that there was not a possibility that some of the S-51's crew were still alive, despite the fact that almost 120 hours have passed since the City of Rome rammed the submersible on Friday night.

Late this afternoon the divers, four civilians and 10 navy men, were instructed to stand by, ready to don their weighted rubber suits and descend down the 126 feet to where the S-51 lies on a 45 degree angle.

When Admiral Christy gives the word two of the divers will submit themselves to Lieut. P. P. Crosby, the Camden's physician, for a physical examination. If the physician passes them as fit for such dangerous service the divers will don their heavy woolen underwear and present themselves to their dressers.

They will be placed in their dress, which is of especially treated rubber and canvas composition with a heavy rubber collar. This is attached to the bronze studded breastplate. Heavy tight fitting cuffs are placed on the divers' arms and then their helmets are set on their heads.

The helmets, which contain four windows, have inside air passages, air intake connections and a telephone transmitter. Shoes, each one weighing 20 pounds, are placed on the divers' feet, and an 86 pound belt is strapped about their shoulders.

It is only after these operations that the divers are ready to descend beneath the surface. They are lifted over the side of the John W. Chittenden, the diving barge, onto a hoist, a flag bronze grate, and dropped 10 feet.

From here the divers slide 100 feet down the line which lands them on to the deck of the sunken submarine.

One of the divers remains outside as the other enters the submersible through the open battery compartment hatch. The outside diver carefully handles the other's air lines to prevent it from fouling and disposes of the wreckage which the inside man passes out to him.

At the present time only the S-51's battery compartment is clear of bodies and wreckage. It was here that two bodies were found yesterday. The inside diver, carrying a 500-candle power lamp, constructed especially for deep-sea diving, with a bulb capable to resist the tremendous water pressure, will explore the rest of the submarine.

Naval officers said that the diver, before he can be certain that he has recovered all the bodies of the ill-fated crew, must clear out every bit of wreckage. Four compartments are yet to be cleared and thoroughly searched.

When the divers return to the surface, they are first hoisted up 50 feet on the grate. Here they rest for 15 minutes to allow their systems to become accustomed to toe air pressure change. From this point on they ascend 10 feet and rest from 10 to 15 minute intervals.

Four of the submersible's five compartments have not been searched as yet. The wreckage inside has prevented this.

If the weather and sea calms down and the derrick ships are able to make the 20 mile run out from Newport, the sling which still remains about the submarine's stern will be attached to the derricks and an effort will be made to drag the S-51 to the surface. If this can be done, the submarine's hull can be cut open and a thorough search made very quick.

As the divers work from the diving barge and its attending tug, the Remolite, the S-50, sister submarine of the ill-fated craft, is anchored on the spot of the disaster, forcing compressed air into her rammed sister ship. Nearby the S-49 is anchored, ready to relieve the S-50 in supplying air.

Several hundreds of yards off the mine layers Mahan and Maury are standing, each one keeping a sharp look-out for bodies. None have been found as yet.

WILLIMANTIC

Local Exchangeites, at their noonday meeting Wednesday at the Y. M. C. A., voiced approval of a measure by which $100,000 would be appropriated for the erection of a new school to supplant the old Windham street Model school building destroyed by fire several years ago. The matter was brought to the attention of the meeting by Superintendent of Schools Egbert A. Cape, a member of the club. The president, Dr. Clarence E. Simonds, who was in charge of the session, appointed a committee of three to make a survey of the city and report back to the club, with any suggestions regarding play centers and park needs. The committee comprises Rev. Frederick C. Williams, Robert E. Mitchell and Russell A. Potter. Edwin J. Donnelly, assistant coach of the Windham high school football squad, gave an interesting talk on the local football situation. He urged the members to lend their support to the local team. A resolution was adopted by which absent members in the future shall reimburse the club treasury to a nominal amount, as a forfeit. Former President Dr. George S. Wilcox will have charge of the program for the meeting next week.

Registration for the town of Windham evening school was held last evening and will be continued this (Thursday) evening. Indications are that the registration will be large, according to Principal Laurence King.

Local members of the Y. M. C. A. will attend a meeting and banquet at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, on the evening of Oct. 13 when the Chinese minister, Hon. Alfred Sze, will deliver an address on the Chinese situation.

Edgar L. Champeau of 49 School street, Hartford, reported to the local police about 3:30 o'clock Tuesday morning that four men who were riding in a Ford sedan had attempted to hold him up as he was driving through South Coventry. He answered the command to stop by stepping on the gas. Officer Lanfiere and Laramie boarded his machine and made a quick return to the place and scoured the highways in that section but failed to locate the men.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

CIVILIZATION KILLING OFF ESKIMOS, DECLARES DOCTOR

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Dr. D. E. Scott, who recently returned here after one year at Aklavik, in the Delta of the Mackenzie river, predicted that not many years would elapse before the Eskimo would be exterminated by disease through adopting white men's ways of living.

Eskimos and Indians of the Delta are suffering from intestinal parasitic attacks due to eating raw fish, rabbits and other meats, said the doctor, but these are not so serious a problem as cancer and appendicitis, which are becoming prevalent.

Since the Eskimos have been living in cabins and shacks instead of snow houses, as in the olden days, tuberculosis has ravaged them. Ninety per cent of the Delta people had symptoms of tuberculosis, he declared.

URGES MORE CUBAN WOMEN ENTER NATION'S BUSINESS

HAVANA, Sept. 30—(AP)—A greater part in the nation's commerce should be given women, Rogerio Zayas Bazan, secretary of interior, informed the Cuban chamber of commerce.

"This should be done," he said "not only in obeying Cuban laws, but also in response to the current progress of civilized nations which have fomented universal expansion of women's activities in economic mediums, to maintain life without sinking into vice or criminality."

It is not only in the North American democracy that women are able by personal work to maintain the dignity and honor of their homes, but also in the Hispanic nations this facility has been extended to women, in some cases by employment as street car conductors and motorists.

Pharmacists clerks, department store clerks, telephone operators and stenographers are posts the secretary believes could be better served by women, in view of past experiences in such positions in this country, than by men who would then be released to do other work more compatible to their sex.

Russia May Drop Capital Letters

MOSCOW, Sept. 30.—(AP) — The commissariat of education has been considering a proposal to eliminate capital letters from the Russian script. In favor of the proposition it is argued that the oriental nations incorporated in the Soviet federation, are not accustomed to employ capital letters and that it would be easier for them to learn Russian if capital letters were excluded.

OLD FAITHFUL GEYSER IS STILL SHOOTING REGULARLY

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Sept 30—Old Faithful is still faithful, despite the report that the famous old geyser is blowing off steam and hot water every 67 minutes instead of every —.

Old Faithful has been shooting punctually every 60 minutes this season, the same as in previous years. The only variation is at the end of the summer, when, due to seasonal water changes, the geyser always spouts at slightly longer intervals. The superintendent said Old Faithful never spouted better nor more regularly than this year.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Flames and smoke from the blazing barn on the Bradley estate at Pomfret street at 1.30 Wednesday afternoon were plainly visible from various parts of the town of Killingly, especially from the territory near Elmville and East Killingly. The barn was one of the largest in this section of eastern Connecticut and at one time housed a very large herd of cattle owned by the Bradleys, wealthy residents of Pomfret. It was on this estate that the beautiful mansion was then used as an inn. Destruction of the great farm barn Wednesday afternoon leaves little in the way of buildings on what at one time was one of the magnificent estates for which Pomfret has been famous.

A hunt that had been fruitless up to Wednesday afternoon was involved in the loss by theft, Tuesday night, of a Ford car that Theodore Boulay of Dayville had left parked in School street while he was attending the picture show at the Orpheum theatre. Mr. Boulay did not discover his loss until well after 10 o'clock, when the matter was immediately reported to the police. Center street and a long section of School street and the area in front of the graded school building was parked with solid lines of cars Tuesday night, when the theatre held a capacity audience. The opportunity of stealing a car there with but small possibility of being caught in the act presented a temptation hat was not resisted by someone. All effort to trace the car Tuesday night failed and no better success was experienced Wednesday. The car was the second stolen here this week, although the one taken from Rene Caron Monday was promptly recovered.

Discussion as to just what Killingly had best do in passing on the matter that will be before it for action next Monday, as to approving plans and making an appropriation for an addition to the high school building is warming up. Likewise the proposal is being critically examined. Indulgence in prophecy being hazardous, it is not safe to attempt a prediction as to what the town will do about it. But this is certain—there is going to be more or less outspoken opposition in the meeting, as well as ardent words of support, and numbers who are keeping their thoughts much to themselves have hinted that they will vote in opposition. This being true, it behooves all electors who are interested in the proposal one way or the other to be on hand for the business meeting.

Killingly has not been called upon in years to decide such an important proposition as is involved in consideration of spending at least $150 000, for improved high school facilities. There are those who favor a new high school building at even greater expense, believing that in the long run their judgment will be justified. This idea is based on the fact that the state board of education has been very critical of the arrangement of the graded school building off School street and will probably in the very near future require very extensive and expensive changes there. The argument advanced is that if a new high school is built the present high school can be used for graded school purposes.

There are a score of variations and viewpoints to be heard by those who listen to the discussions. These talks seem to forecast an interesting town meeting.

Deacon A. C. Greene is still reveling in the delight attendant upon the recent observance of his 96th birthday and all of the remembrances he received. Deacon Greene is expressing his thanks to the more than 50 people generously remembered him on his birthday, as happy an occasion in large measure for his friends as it was for himself.

Today—October 1—marks the opening of the duck shooting season. It may be imagined that this will not be news to the duck hunters. They have been waiting for this date for weeks. This morning many of them were out before daylight and away for favorite shooting grounds, where ducks abound or are supposed to. That the hunters were making ready was evident Wednesday, when some who were without licenses to go abroad with a gun to hunt were here to remedy that deficiency.

A man said something of interest Wednesday when he remarked "There are more bus lines today than there will be a year from today, through this and nearby areas of Windham county". His idea is that the bus line business is being overdone—that only the most fit will survive. In this case fitness may be defined as applying to lines that are not only well financed but well established and profitable patronized. Others cannot go on indefinitely and there will be more regulation and restriction. In the meantime there are busses galore and the public is getting a wonderful lot of service—much more, in fact, than the traffic warrants.

King George Jacques of East Killingly has achieved an additional distinction. His personality has been preserved for all time in motion pictures. The King was given a surprise a few days since when he was invited to the King farm at Clayville and bidden to a motion picture show. The films were special ones taken on a Saturday afternoon last July when the King spoke at a flag raising at Clayville. He was unaware that he was being filmed at the time and knew nothing about it until he saw himself on the screen.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan D. Prince are at Atlantic City this week attending the annual convention of the American Bankers' association. Mr. Prince is president of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company and president of the Windham County National bank, Danielson.

Mrs. Angie Holly, H. O. Wood and Mrs. Mary Whitman were recent visitors in Springfield and at Newgate.

The first of the concrete has been put down at Elmville, starting southward on the easterly side of the highway at the bridge. The old macadam will be rapidly replaced now that actual construction is underway.

At the Orpheum theatre Wednesday a three days' run of the Ten Commandments was completed and in that period attracted unusually large audiences.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Chmiskey, who recently closed the summer resort they operate at Westboro, Mass., have gone to Hartford, after visiting for a few days with Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy.

Unpaid borough taxes are now overdue and subject to the extra assessment in the way of interest that the law provides in such cases.

This (Thursday) afternoon Mrs. L. E. Kennedy will entertain members of the Jolly Dozen at a whist at her home on Furnace street.

Jack Frost nipped again Wednesday morning at such growing things as had escaped final destruction from his onslaughts of the past week. The temperature was down to 35 degrees early in the morning. The frosts have painted the foliage with the glories of the first tints of fall, as October dawns.

John Grosvenor and his sister, Mrs. Charlotte Campbell were owners of the farm barn that burned on the former Bradley estate at Pomfret on Wednesday afternoon. The barn was said to be one of the largest in Connecticut.

Thomas J. Aylward is in New York on a business trip.

Miss Florence Gingras of St. Francis hospital Hartford and Miss Rhea Gingras of Lawrence-Memorial hospital, New London, are visiting at their home on Broad street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Livingstone of New York were visitors Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Woodworth of Broad street.

LABELLE BLOCK, DAYVILLE SOLD TO SELECTMAN RILEY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 30—Announcement was made Wednesday of the sale by the W. E. LaBelle estate of the LaBelle block, at Dayville, to Selectman Patrick Riley of that place. The building is a two-story brick structure and is occupied by business enterprises on the street floor. The structure is the largest of Dayville's business blocks and located on the Main street close to the tracks of the N. Y., N. H., and H. R. R. company. The building was erected many years ago by Sabin L. and Harry C. Sayles and was known as the Sayles building before passing into the hands of the late W. E. LaBelle.

PUTNAM

Henry M. Morse of Lowell, Mass., has been a Putnam visitor. Mr. Morse was formerly a well known actor and made his home in Putnam for a number of years.

Leo Verraneault, 3 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Verraneault of Goodyear is at the Day Kimball hospital suffering from injuries as the result of a kiddie car accident.

Harris Dodge, town treasurer of Charlton, Mass., for a score of years, who committed suicide last week after burning the account books, was known to many Putnam people, where two of his brothers were students at the Putnam High school many years ago.

His sister was Mrs. Warren Greene, wife of one of the partners in the firm of Sharpe and Greene, dry goods merchants located next to the Citizens National bank in the rooms now occupied by Shaw's Jewelry store and the Putnam Music Shop. The business was purchased by Sharpe and Williams and later passed into the possession of Major A. D. McIntyre.

Two of his brothers, Rufus Dodge and Charles Dodge, came here and made their home with Mrs. Greene, while they took the course at the high school. After their graduation they entered the law office of the late S. H. Seward, a brother of F. W. Seward, and read law under his direction. They passed their legal examinations, were admitted to the bar and then went to Worcester where they began practice and became successful lawyers. One of them, Rufus, was subsequently elected mayor of that city.

They are still remembered in Putnam by many of the olde reitizens. Harris Dodge became well acquainted here on his visits to his sister and brothers. It will be difficult to straighten out the financial affairs of the town of Charlton. It has been determined that the books were burned in the home of Mr. Dodge in the furnace.

Without any advance notice the prevailing building insurance rates at Webster were increased on an average of 100 per cent, the advance to become effective Sept. 21. The rate in Webster has been much lower than in Putnam but such a tremendous jump would indicate that the insurance companies are on the verge of a collapse.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan D. Prince are at Atlantic City this week attending the annual convention of the American Bankers' association. Mr. Prince is president of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company and president of the Windham County National bank, Danielson.

Mrs. Angie Holly, H. O. Wood and Mrs. Mary Whitman were recent visitors in Springfield and at Newgate.

when, from all indications, they are far from it.

The Webster Times has the following to say:

"With a suddenness that has stunned the property owners of the town, the new insurance rates for Webster has been announced by the fire underwriters showing a jump of 100 per cent in nearly all instances, and in some of 150. A few have escaped with an increase that is a little less than double, but all along Main street, owners of business blocks will pay 100 per cent more for their insurance that formerly.

"To quote one illustrating example of the jump, the building owned by William C. Klebert on Main street goes from a rate of $1 per $1.000 to $2.25. That isn't the biggest jump: it is a little higher than the general, although many others equal this 155 per cent raise.

"Tenants of the building are raised in proportion, and all find a 100 per cent increase in rates. Along the length of Main street, which is contained in the list furnished by the underwriters, the same increase is noted. A few fall under the 100 per cent jump, others go far above it.

PETITIONS OF 7 BUS LINES, NEW HAVEN R. R. OPPOSING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 30.—Seven applicants for permission to operate motorbus lines in the state were presented to the public utilities commission at their session here today. In addition to the five applications previously filed, the New Haven Railroad company asked permits for two lines, one from the Massachusetts state line to New London, paralleling the rail and trolley lines, the other from the Massachusetts state line near Quinebaug, through North Grosvenordale, West Thompson and Putnam to the Rhode Island state line. The other applications were:

H. J. Barnett from the Massachusetts state line, through Mechanicsville, Danielson, Brooklyn, Central Village and Moosup; the Interstate Bus corporation (the successor to the Farnum lines) from the Rhode Island state line through Putnam, Woodstock and Quinebaug to Southbridge, Mass.; George J. Gary for the following three separate permits: From Putnam through Pomfret, Phoenixville, Ashford and Willington Hill to West Willington; one from Putnam through Chaplin and Willimantic to Rockville; one from Woodstock through Putnam to the Rhode Island state line.

The hearing was at the Municipal building and continued from 10:30 this morning to late in the afternoon. The three members of the commission present were Richard T. Higgins, C. C. Elwell and Joseph W. Alsop.

Edward E. Regan, general manager of the New Haven road, other officials and attorneys of the road, officers and attorneys of the Connecticut company the individual applicants and their attorneys were present. There was a large number of Putnam people in attendance and Woodstock sent down a delegation of thirty, to favor granting a permit to the Interstate company, which operates from Providence to Springfield, through the Woodstocks. This service has proven of great convenience to Woodstock people, and they want permission from the state that will legalize the taking on and discharging of passengers, and that will permit the children to use the busses going to and from school. There is practically a unanimous sentiment in Putnam in favor of this. The bus line from Providence to Springfield has been popular and well patronized from the beginning and is a paying institution. The Interstate company was represented by Attorneys D. H. Kelly, of Hartford, and Irving H. Miron, of this city.

W. G. Haggerty, of Webster, spoke for the Acme line that runs busses from Worcester to New London. He said that he had given transportation service, especially from Webster to Southbridge for the past two years when the trolley company did not run any cars, and the New Haven had cut down its train service to a point that it was almost valueless. He had done this, he insisted, for 365 days a year, and could continue to do it in spite of the claims made by the big corporations that they were the only responsible applicants, the only ones who could be depended on in emergencies.

Officers and attorneys of the New Haven laid stress on the fact that they proposed giving as good bus service as was possible, that they had millions invested in property, and could give connecting transportation by train and trolley to other points. The independet companies, they said, contributed nothing to the expense or upkeep of the communities through which they passed.

Figures were presented showing the great decrease in revenues since the advent of the busss and the statement was made that it would be necessary to curtail and in some instances abandon operation of certain lines because they did not pay.

C. L. Ironson, representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association, spoke in favor of maintaining and supporting the railroad and the trolleys. Similar statements were made by James G. Hammond, secretary of the New London Chamber of Commerce, Louis M. Carpenter, secretary of the Jewett City Chamber of Commerce, John J. O'Rourke, secretary, representing the Norwich Chamber of Commerce W. G. Norris, secretary of the Willimantic Chamber of Commerce, and Arthur S. Macdonald, secretary of Putnam Chamber of Commerce. They also presented resolutions passed by the bodies which they represented, to the same effect.

Mr. Macdonald explained that the action taken yesterday was not by a Chamber of Commerce meeting but a meeting of citizens hastily called together to consider the matter.

The commission announced that they were not prepared to render any decision today, that what they might decide on would depend to some degree on the facts presented to them at the hearing at Norwich, on Friday of this week.

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING IS GREATLY OVERCROWDED

The following report was issued Wednesday:

Putnam, Conn., Sept. 30, 1925

To the Putnam School Committee:

I hereby submit my report for September.

Putnam High School

The membership of the high school this month is 260 as compared with a membership of 260 last September. The eighth grade room has 60 pupils, compared to 50 last September.

Divided by classes the members are: Post graduates, 2; seniors, 45; juniors, 58; sophomores, 65; freshmen, 34; by courses: classical, 70; commercial, 106; general, 71; co-operative, 10; post graduate, 3.

By fitting up the laboratory with tablet arm chairs, a tolerable classroo mfor twenty pupils has been made. But the high school building is very much overcrowded and another year relief of some kind will be necessary. The classes for the most part are the same as last year. With the additional English assistant, it has been possible to put all of the English work in the hands of teachers trained in English and to give the French teacher only work in French.

I regret that there seemed to be no way of offering both mathematics review and advanced mathematics this year. Classes in penmanship have been started for the first time in high school this year. The pupils who need particular practice in penmanship have been selected for these classes. By means of these classes, I hope that the general level of penmanship in our High school will be raised.

Graded Schools

The membership of Israel Putnam school this month is 393 as compared with a membership of 389 last September. The plan of departmentalising the work of the seventh grade is working out admirably. The discipline and organization of the school are excellent. Additional playground apparatus which was given the school three years ago by the Manhasset company has been set up and proves a welcome addition to a playground very much too small for the number of children who have to use it.

Miss Edick's prolonged illness has made it necessary to employ two substitutes at the Smith Street school. Mrs. Charles Thayer started the year but gave it up because of home duties. Mrs. Everett Packard will take the room until Miss Edick's return.

There has been a decided falling off in numbers at the Sawyer school. To counteract this more pupils are coming from the County Home and Sawyer district to the eighth grade in the High school than ever before.

Outside Schools

Several of the recommendations of the State Board of Education relative to sanitary conditions in our outlying schools have been complied with and the rest are receiving attention. A contractor has been employed to make the toilets fly proof in accordance with the recommendations of the state board. Two individuals have presented figures for fixing up the wells so that the water will be satisfactory.

Respectfully yours,
RALPH C. JENKINS,
Supt. of Schools.

WM. A. KING PRESIDENT OF COUNTY BAR ASS'N.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 30—At a meeting of the County Bar association, William A. King of Willimantic, ex-attorney general of the state and dean of the bar, was elected president to succeed the late Charles E. Searls, Attorney Arthur G. Bill of Danielson, who is county coronor, was elected vice president, J. F. Carpenter, A. G. Bill and Judge Foss of Willimantic were elected a committee on supplies. E. C. Mores, I. H. Miron and A. S. Macdonald were named a committe to renew the lease of the bar library room

A GOOD LAW

Perhaps few may have realized the excellence of the action taken by the last session of the general assembly in amending the law relative to the non-resident transfer tax but it is being brought to attention by a document issued by the tax commissioner with instructions to corporations and banks of the state concerning the new procedure under the reciprocal provisions of chapter No. 239 of the public acts of 1925.

Heretofore it has been the case that when property owned by a non resident of Connecticut at the time of his decease was passed by will or inheritance there was a transfer tax on its market value at the time of the death of the owner involved. That tax of two per cent. still holds good unless the state where the deceased lived imposes no succession, inheritance, transfer or similar tax upon property or stock in such state held by residents of this state.

In other words it means that Connecticut has joined hands with other states in a reciprocity move that is highly commendable and since the first of July this reciprocity agreement has been in effect in Alabama, Florida, Nebraska, Nevada, New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Rhode Island, and on the first of December Massachusetts will be added to this list. The regular procedure of the past will be followed in connection with estates from other states, involving red tape, much delay and no little expense.

Recognition of this situation has resulted in certain states taking action to meet the situation and it is a decided credit to Connecticut that it has thus early appreciated the desirability of adopting legislation that will extend this reciprocity. The example is one that should have a beneficial effect upon the law makers of other states. Such taxes have been the source of much annoyance and a heavy burden and their removal even in part will be widely appreciated.

The instructions of the tax commissioner to the corporations as to the method of procedure under the amended law deserve to receive careful attention.

ELECTION RESULTS

It cannot be said that the election results this week were any different than expected. In Wisconsin there was the contest for the seat in the United States senate made vacant by the death of Robert M. LaFollette whose grip upon that commonwealth was unquestioned. It was an occasion when the followers of that radical leader were expected to stand back of his son and they did so. He ran as a republican but it would have made no difference what political banner he stood under there would have been that same support. Wisconsin has repeatedly demonstrated how thoroughly it is under the guidance of the LaFollette leadership. They are not given to flocking from one to another and that proved to be the case in this instance, for even though the son stood in the position of a republican and yet committed to the policies of his father which were constantly in opposition to those of the republican party he could depend upon unvarying support.

Elected to the senate it remains to be seen what sort of an impression he makes, whether he gets any different rating than did his father and whether he has the ability to continue to control the state which he represents. If he sticks to his claim that "I shall continue the work started by Robert M. LaFollette," he has a big job ahead but he can certainly claim that he has the backing of the people of his state. At least that is to be gathered from the vote he received this week, although it must be admitted that the opposition that was placed against him was unfortunate in lacking unity.

In the second congressional district in Massachusetts the election of Henry L. Bowles was a foregone conclusion. He is a strong man in his district but it was also recognized that he has the endorsement of the national organization in what is known as the Coolidge district. So generally accepted was the outcome that there was a light vote, but it was decisive and Massachusetts gets another congressman of whom it will have occasion to feel proud. It would be highly gratifying if it could be felt that the addition to the senate from Wisconsin was going to be as satisfactory as the new member in the house from Massachusetts.

AUTO HEADLIGHTS

Inasmuch as good results invariably follow the sessions of the state officials in charge of the registration of motor vehicles interest will be centered in the outcome of the session opening today at Hartford for the eastern section of the country for the consideration of headlights.

Without question many suggestions will be advanced and as in the past no one doubts but what much better understanding will be reached of common problems and their treatment, and if we should hazard a guess a nearer approach will be made to the time when greater uniformity will prevail.

A. W. Devine, in charge of headlight inspection in Massachusetts, has pointed out in a statement which he has made that while the regulations as to lenses, candle power of bulbs and focusing have done much to reduce accidents he claims that "an analysis of several hundred fatal accidents in Massachusetts indicated that insufficient illumination was the cause of three times as many night accidents as glare."

This is in keeping with the position which Motor Vehicle Commissioner Stoeckel of this state has taken when he has declared that lights should not be dimmed, that it is not complying with the law when dimmers are used since it does not provide a clear view of the highway.

The glare of automobile headlights is a serious matter in many instances and it is for the purpose of overcoming this danger that dimmers are used. Many drive entirely with lights dimmed for that very reason. But it may well be borne in mind that the deadly glare is not necessary and can be overcome with a proper focusing of the lights after the other requirements to prevent dazzling lights are complied with. The failure to have lights properly focused makes a dangerous light of one that would otherwise be excellent. Glare is bad and has been the cause of many accidents, but if the fatal effect of the dimming of lights can be overcome by focusing there is a remedy easily to be obtained which ought to be provided without delay. And bad lights, whether from glare or ill focusing are as dangerous in one state as another.

DISSATISFACTION IN COAL FIELDS

Naturally any move that is made to bring about an adjustment of the coal strike is bound to arouse interest. Before the strike started there was an effort made on the part of business men in the coal region to have it prevented. It was a sincere move in behalf of harmony and a desire to avoid the undesirable features which are bound to accompany the stopping of industry and the blocking of production. The welfare of all involved, including the business men themselves, was being taken into consideration.

The effort failed. Whether anything more will come of the resolutions adopted by the Scranton Chamber of Commerce is a question but it nevertheless reflects once more the sentiment of those in the coal fields who are being made to feel the effects of the strike in a certain, if not the same, way as the consumers. The Scranton business men have urged the use of arbitration in the settlement of this strike and future labor troubles and they point to the belief that "the anthracite industry has been seriously injured by the failure in the past of miners and operators to agree promptly on matters at issue, and that the present suspension will inevitably result in some consumers of anthracite arranging to permanently use substitutes."

The Scranton business men are no doubt bearing down heavily upon an important point. They indicate the desire for an ending of the strike and also the belief that there ought not to be one. With that sentiment there is bound to be general sympathy, but whether they get any more consideration than the public which has been making a market for the hard coal mines of Pennsylvania and which every now and then experiences a shortage and rising prices is a question.

There's no getting away from the fact however that there is such a thing as wearing down the patience of the consumer and that should be as apparent to others as well as to the business men of Scranton.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: If we find something better and cheaper there may be cause for thanksgiving that the coal strike was called.

Even though Russia reports a large grain crop it will probably be begging for famine relief before the winter is over.

One rum ring in New York sold $240,000 worth of bootleg liquor in a day. And yet there are some who consider prohibition satisfactory.

The 500 who were rescued by the French in the besieged Sueida in Morocco must have had experiences equalling some of the old frontier days.

Anyone found intoxicated on the street in Tobasco, Mexico, must pay a tax. That tax is of course in addition to the one he paid in acquiring the "load."

The burning of tobacco in storage in Pennsylvania caused a million dollar loss. It went up in smoke as intended but it was a loss because it hadn't gotten into the hands of the consumers.

THEY DID THEIR BEST

"Well," began Bobby one night after doing his homework, "I ain't a going to try to please everybody any more. I am't. You can't do it."

"Others have made a similarly profound remark," said his father. "I am interested to know what member of the family you are no longer striving to satisfy."

"It ain't got a darn thing to do with the family," Bobby declared. "It's just that old roomer they got over to the house on Billy's street. I don't see what on earth folks gotter take roomers for, and that old guy's a lemon."

"What, may I ask," inquired his father, "what have you been doing to him that makes you feel like that?"

"Me?" asked Bobby, surprised. "Nothing! What makes you think that? You see how it was, this feller he couldn't sleep nights on account of a old cat what yowled right on the fence under his winder, that's why. He goes with that young aunt of Billy's, not the one what's got the baby, but the one what didn't ever get married or anything and so Billy he sees him a whole lot. Gee! I'll tell the world Billy gets sick of the sight of him and says he wishes his queer aunts couldn't know any fellers.

"First off he said he wished this here aunt didn't live with him, but then he up and got sorry on account she takes him to movies and buys candy and a lot of things like that. She's just come to live with them on account of going to some school. Not grade school, like us, but bigger.

"And this here feller he lives on the same street and he's going to be a lowyer. I think it's a lawyer, else its a alderman, but anyhow he lives there and he knew this here aunt before she come and he ain't going to let her forget he's living, no sir."

"Sensible youth," said his father. "He ought to make a good lawyer or even a passable alderman."

"Well, anyhow," continued Bobby "he listened in when Billy ast his dad if he couldn't have some more money, which his father said he couldn't, and he told Billy if he'd chase that cat away he'd give him 50 cents. Billy he come over after me and we met Sam and we laid for that cat. It was awful chilly and we all had to go in at 8 and that was mostly too early for any old cat, so we had a fierce time. Then Sam he said we could catch the cat in a bag like the way he read about and wouldn't have to sit up and grab it like we thought, so we tried till we fixed a old corn bag I got off from the old feed man over on Halsted streej.

"Then Sam and us we went home and in the morning we jlustled back and nothing doing; the old cat hadn't go herself fought not a little bit, he hadn't. So I up and told where I seen —saw—a dead mouse and we chased a mile and got it and we stung it inside and then we up and fixed the bag again all over. So that was that."

"A very good idea," said his father. "But what were you going to do with the cat, after you caught it?"

"I'm telling you," Bobby said patiently. "Now, Scrubby he knew a feller what had a store over on Broadway and this here feller had mice in it and he told Scrubby he'd give him 25 cents if he'd get him a cat, so that's what it was.

"Well, what do you think? We caught that cat and it was big and feller with funny eyes, only we had to close the bag up awful fast because it would most jump out it wiggled so. Gee! That cat sure was some little old scrapper.

"We stuck some meat in for it, only it was mad and wouldn't eat and we took it over to the man away up on Broadway. Gee, it was way up to the end of the line, bus line, but we got the quarter."

"Seems to me everything was working well," said his father. "What went wrong?"

"Everything," said Bobby gloomily. "Billy wants all the money, Sam says he's got to have some for the idea, Scrubby says he got the store man and he's got to have some and I did half and I got to get a share. And then there's the lady."

"Lady? What lady?"

"The next door lady," said Bobby sadly. "She says he stole her Parisian cat and it won't come back because Parisian cats ain't got much sense. And she's going to call you up. There's the phone now, maybe it's her."—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

David R. Francis, who today reaches the age of seventy-five years, is able to look back over a long and distinguished career in the public service. A native of Kentucky, he arrived in St. Louis when 16 years of age, worked his way through Washington university, and then embarked upon a mercantile career, in which he was eminently successful. In time he acquired a large fortune and came to be one of the leading figures in the commerce of the mid-west. Highest honors came to him in the city and the state, he having been mayor of one and governor of the other. For a time he was a member of the cabinet of President Cleveland, acting as secretary of the interior. He probably did more than any other man to make the St. Louis international exposition of 1904 a success. The last official position held by Mr. Francis was that of United States ambassador to Russia.

Stories That Recall Others

Lost Faith in Signs

They stood on the curb talking about the new traffic changes when Henry fired this question at John: "Say, do you believe in signs?"

"Why yes and no," hedged John, "but why do you ask?"

"Well, I was noticing the fellow mark the instructions in yellow along the curb the other day, 'No parking between the arrows,' and when I passed that point late in the afternoon there stood a car not only in the forbidden area, but the driver of it was standing right over the words, 'No parking.'"

What He Knew

Albert was scored on so neatly on a trip west this summer by a diminutive urchin he chanced to meet that he could not withhold the following story:

He and his wife had been traveling all day and as the sunset hour drew near they felt a bit uncertain about their location. As they drove along the road they came upon a small boy driving the cattle home.

"Say, son," sang out Albert, "where is Oswego?"

"I don't know," said the boy as he swung his whip.

"Well, are we on the main road to Oswego?" queried Albert.

"I don't know," replied the lad.

"Well, it's close around here isn't it?" Albert asked in desperation.

"Don't know," said the lad.

"Well, son, what do you know?" asked Albert, slightly irked.

"Well, I know I ain't lost," said the youth as he cracked his whip at the cattle.

Albert caught the point, and drove on.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE 48 STATES IN WASHINGTON

Finding your state in Washington, D. C., is a puzzle contest the capital offers free to visitors. Each state represented in the house is represented many more times in the highways and byways of the District of Columbia.

"Somewhere in the federal reservation a broad avenue honors every state except one," says a bulletin from the headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Only native sons of the state of Washington seek vainly for 'their' avenue. There is a Washington street, but that does not count, for in the capital avenues are the macadam patrician and never run on line with the streets. Famous Pennsylvania avenue runs 'west nor' west' from the Capitol toward the white house and all its 46 brother avenues named for states proclaim their special station by cutting angles among the staid streets which have to hew to north-south or east-west lines.

"What secret diplomacy gave Pennsylvania's name to 'The Avenue,' as the capital calls it? That is still secret. The map of L'Enfant, the French engineer and father of city planning in America, names the streets but not the avenues. Some say geography gave it to Pennsylvania. It is the middle avenue of three great parallel boulevards just as Pennsylvania was the middle state of the original thirteen. South of Pennsylvania avenue is Virginia avenue and north of it is Massachusetts avenue. While Pennsylvania avenue is more famous, Massachusetts is more beautiful, for the latter is bordered by handsome buildings and by far more lindens than Unter den Linden, Berlin's famous boulevard.

"Avenues named for southern states usually are southwest of the capitol, where the original planners expected the greatest development. However, like all American cities, Washington has moved with glacier slowness to a new axis. Now the business avenues are those northwest of the white house, carrying the names of the New England States; Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Rhode Island. States entering the Union more recently are honored by avenues on the fringe of the district. Florida avenue is an exception to all these highway rules; it was once Boundary avenue, postroad to Baltimore, and the limit of the original city.

"Mathematical sharks can have a feast on the enigma presented by state names on the Lincoln Memorial. Two files of the state names crown the classic temple; the lower lists the 36 states of the union at the time of the United States today. In both the states appear in the order of admittance to the union. The short list begins at the upper left hand corner of the east facade. At what corner of what side must the long list begin in order that no one name shall appear twice on the same face of the memorial?

"At the end of the Mirror Basin, opposite the Lincoln Memorial, the visitor may again find his state memorialized within the shaft of Washington Monument. Inscribed stone blocks bearing the names of 40 states, some of which were territories at the time the tablets were placed, can be seen as the elevator climbs to the top. To see them in detail one must undertake the Capital's supreme test of youthfulness, climb the monument's 898 steps."

At least once a year the big white lower court of the gray stone Post Office Department building, about halfway on Pennsylvania avenue between the Capitol and the White House, blazes with color contributed by state flags. Since 1908, Flag day, June 14, has been celebrated annually there by the display of a nearly complete collection of state flags. Governors and private citizens, organizations of postmasters and postal employees, a chapter of the D. A. R. and numerous other societies and individuals have added to the departments set. It has no flags of Kansas, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota and Wyoming.

"The Hawaiian flag's arrival at the post office department tied together some loose ends of history. On the field of the territorial emblem appears the Britain design Crosses of St. George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick, which was the flag Benjamin Franklin served under as colonial postmaster general. He later became the first postmaster general under the Stars and Stripes. Another English flag in the collections is Maryland's, the brilliant old banner of the Calvert's, which that state adopted.

"In the Capitol itself, the original House chamber, called the 'oven,' both for its temperature and shape, has been converted into a Hall of Fame for state heroes. Enough states have filled half or all of their quota of two, to give Statuary Hall a forest of marble figures.

If the Lincoln Memorial offers a mathematical puzzle, Statuary Hall affords an information test. One might spend a profitable hour with a group of friends checking how many can tell why the following men were honored by their states with places in the U. S. Capitol's gallery of fame:

Alabama: J. L. M. Curry and Gen. Joseph Wheeler; Arkansas: James P. Clarke and Uriah M. Rose; Connecticut: Roger Sherman and Jonathan Trumbull; Florida: John Gorrie and E. Kirby Smith; Idaho: George L. Shoup; Illinois: James Shields and Frances E. Willard; Indiana: Lew Wallace and Oliver P. Morton; Iowa: James Harlan and Samuel J. Kirkwood; Kansas: George W. Glick and John J. Ingalls; Maine: William King; Md.: Charles Carroll and John Hanson; Massachusetts: Samuel Adams and John Winthrop; Michigan: Lewis Cass and Zachariah Chandler; Minnesota: Henry M. Rice; Missouri: Thomas H. Benton and Francis P. Blair; New Hampshire: John Stark and Daniel Webster; New Jersey: Richard Stockton and Philip Kearny; New York: Robert R. Livingston and George Clinton; North Carolina: Zebulon B. Vance; Ohio: James A. Garfield and William Allen; Oklahoma: Sequiyah; Pennsylvania: John P. G. Muhlenberg and Robert Fulton; Rhode Island: Nathanael Greene and Roger Williams; South Carolina: John C. Calhoun; Texas: Stephen Collamer; Virginia: George Washington and Robert E. Lee; West Virginia: John E. Kenna and Francis H. Pierpont; Wisconsin: Father James Marquette.

JAPANESE ROYALTY REGARDS BIG SEA TURTLE LUCKY OMEN

TOKYO, Sept. 30,—(A. P.) — The turtle is an omen of good luck in Japan. Recently a giant sea specimen calmly waddled out of the ocean at the Imperial Villa at Hayama, where the Prince Regent and the Crown Princess were staying, and brought happiness to the royal household.

The big turtle, said to have weighed several hundred pounds, appeared on the beach in the early hours of the morning. The police guards immediately informed the Imperial couple of the visitor and both the Regent and his young wife came out to observe the stranger. The turtle was then treated to a bowl of sake, the Japanese national drink, which is always used to welcome a guest. After a somewhat hesitant sip or two, the cumbersome reptile shuffled slowly out to sea and disappeared. The Prince Regent obtained several photographs before his visitor departed.

As the Crown Princess is expected to become a mother some time this fall, the advent of the turtle was viewed as an exceedingly fortunate omen.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Joke on Peter and Jumper.

Who at himself can laugh is best
Equipped to meet life's every test.
—Old Mother Nature.

At the foot of a great stump in the Green Forest, Peter Rabbit and Jumper the Hare sat gossiping. They were talking about Ol' Mistah and Mrs. Buzzard. "I'm through looking for Mrs. Buzzard's nest," declared Jumper. "I don't believe she has a nest at all."

"Then where does she keep herself most of the time?" demanded Peter. "Anyway, if you cannot see Ol' Mistah Buzzard up in the blue, blue sky, you will find him on that favorite tall dead tree of his. But you don't find Mrs. Buzzard there except for a short time each day. Where is she the rest of the time? Ol' Mistah Buzzard said that she is sitting on two eggs. Of course if she is sitting on eggs they must be in a nest. But how anybody as big as she can hide and remain hidden is more than I can understand."

Jumper was forced to admit that all Peter had said was true. Mrs. Buzzard did mysteriously disappear each day and such a disappearance could be accounted for in only one way; it must be that Mrs. Buzzard had a home somewhere. When Jumper had declared that he didn't believe Mrs. Buzzard had a nest, he really didn't mean that. It was simply his way of showing that he had given up all hope of finding out the Buzzards' secret.

For a little while Peter and Jumper sat side by side with their backs to that big stump and said nothing at all. You see, they felt they had said all there was to say. They sat there so long that both were beginning to doze. Suddenly Peter sat up with his ears standing straight up. He had heard a queer noise. At least he thought he had. He looked at his big cousin Jumper to see if Jumper had noticed it. Jumper was still dozing. Peter kept perfectly quiet, but he still sat with his ears standing straight up. He had just about made up his mind that he must have been mistaken when he heard that noise again, this time louder than before. Jumper also heard it and promptly sat up with his long ears pointed straight up to the sky. "What was that?" said he.

Peter shook his head. "I don't know," he replied. "I heard it once before. It seemed to come from back of us."

"Good morning, neighbors," said she

They both turned and started at the old stump. It was a big stump and it was too tall for them to jump up on. As they sat there staring at it they heard the noise again, and this time they knew where it came from. It came from inside that stump. There was no doubt about it. You should have seen them jump and run. But they only went a short distance, then turned and stared at the stump.

"That stump must be hollow," whispered Peter. "That stump must be hollow and there is somebody inside it. Who do you suppose it can be?"

"I haven't the least idea," replied Jumper.

At that very instant something happened which gave Peter and Jumper such a fright that they couldn't move. Without any warning at all a great bird with a bald, red head appeared on the edge of that old stump. It was Ol' Mrs. Buzzard herself. She had jumped up there from inside the hollow. "Good mo'ning, neighbors," said she. "Aren't you going to congratulate me?"

"What for?" asked Peter when he could find his tongue.

"On two of the finest babies in all the Great World," replied Mrs. Buzzard proudly, as she turned and looked down inside that big stump.

Peter looked at Jumper and Jumper looked at Peter and such a funny look as there was on the face of each.

"Is—is your nest inside that stump?" Peter ventured.

"Mah home is. Ah don't know as you would call it a nest, but Ah done laid two eggs in there and now Ah done got two of the finest babies in all the Great World," said Mrs. Buzzard.

Peter began to laugh. It came over him that it was all a great joke on Jumper and himself. Day after day they had sat there close to Mrs. Buzzard's secret and never once had guessed it.

URGING NORWICH PEOPLE TO USE STATE OF MAINE EXPRESS

The meeting of the Norwich Rotary club held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel was devoted largely to business and reports of the various committees. President J. Nelson Weymouth presided and James L. Case was song leader. Johnny Egan, talented pianist of the Palace theatre orchestra, was at the piano.

One of the interesting features of the meeting was a talk by Willis Austin, recently returned from a tour of Europe. Mr. Austin told of his visit to London, Paris and the Alps, also of his trip through the devastated areas of France. In speaking of his travels Mr. Austin said that one thing that impressed him was the way motor traffic was handled in the foreign countries. He said that he really thought that it was handled better than in some of the American cities. He remarked especially about the high rate of speed at which the traffic moved but with a very small number of accidents which is due largely to the expert operators of the cars.

He told of the motor trip up through the Alps where only a scant few inches separated the machines from a plunge of a 1,000 feet or more down into some chasm. Speaking of the devastated area which he visited he remarked especially upon the stubborn courage with which the French are rebuilding these places. He spoke feelingly upon the pathetic scenes in Paris at the grave of the unknown soldier where hundreds come daily to place their tributes of flowers, thinking that the hero that rests there might be their son or kin. He also told of the heroic efforts of the crippled soldiers in both France and England to be self-supporting all of which makes one feel that there is no sacrifice too great for these boys who have given of their best for the cause of humanity.

At the business session Herbert C. Adams, chairman of a special committee in charge of a series of entertainments for the benefit of the Dr. John S. Blackmar Boys' Work fund, reported that the famous Vannini Symphony Ensemble of Boston had been secured for an entertainment at Slater hall some time during the month of October. Mr. Adams said that this organization included some of the most talented musicians in America and would be a rare treat for the music loving people of Norwich.

Alex McNicol, chairman of the programme committee, announced the song leader for October as William O. Park. At the Oct. 7th meeting District Governor John B. Alison of Holyoke will make his official visit. Adelard Morin will be the five-minute speaker. On Oct. 13th the Norwich club will stage a meeting at Willimantic for the club in that city. At this meeting State Attorney Arthur M. Brown will deliver an address on Fellowship. The business methods committee will be in charge of the meeting on Oct. 21 with F. Russell Smith as current topics speaker. The meeting of Oct. 28th will be devoted to business matters with Dr. Clarence A. Spear as current topics speaker.

There were reports from other committees regarding progress made. Charles A. Saxton, chairman of the educational committee, promised another interesting meeting in the near future.

William G. Park, reported that on next Monday the golf team of the Norwich club would play a match with the Hartford club at Hartford.

President Weymouth urged support of the business of the State of Maine express which now affords a late passenger service from New York direct to Norwich without a change. He said that this additional accommodation had been secured by the efforts of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce. This train leaves New York at 7.41 p. m., daily, arriving in Norwich at 10:45. If this train is patronized it will remain on the Norwich divison but if it is not it will be put back on the Hartford division from which it was taken.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

OBITUARY

Patrick Rinn.

Patrick Rinn, who died suddenly Sunday in New York, was father of Mrs. Mary M. Walker, of New London.

Heyman J. Hirsch

Following a sudden attack of heart failure, Heyman J. Hirsch, 86, one of New London's oldest business men, died Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock at his home, 35 Pacific street. Mr. Hirsch had not been in the best of health for many months, but his condition until Wednesday morning gave no indication for alarm.

For a number of years Mr. Hirsch lived in this city, residing on Boswell avenue and conducting a clothing store on Main street.

He was born in Posen, Germany, August 7, 1863, and was the son of the late Jonas and Fanny Kronig Hirsch. He came to this country in 1874 and located in New London. A year after his arrival he married Charlotte Salomon. Mrs. Hirsch died Dec. 12, 1912.

Shortly after coming to New London, Mr. Hirsch entered the clothing business, opening his first store in the Bucckie building, near the National Whaling bank in Bank street. Later the business was moved, to the Aborn smith building, opposite its original home, where it remained until 1897, from there moving to the Gavitt building in Bank street, where the store is now in operation under the name of Hirsch and Co. The business was operated by Mr. Hirsch and his son, Harry Hirsch of New London.

For 50 years Mr. Hirsch was actively associated with Odd Fellowship and during that time he was a member of Pequot lodge No. 88, I. O. O. F. He was one of the organizers of Osprey Rebekah lodge No. 20 in New London. He also gave valuable assistance to Charles B. Ware who in 1893 was grand master of the state lodge of Odd Fellows, in bringing the state Odd Fellows home to Fairview, Groton. Mr. Hirsch was at one time grand conductor of the state lodge.

Politically Mr. Hirsch was affiliated with the democratic party. He was a prominent figure in the activities of his party and contributed much towards its interests. During the administration of President Cleveland, 1892-1896, he served as internal revenue collector for this district.

He is survived by two sons, Fred Hirsch of New York and Harry Hirsch of New London; and four daughters Mrs. Frank Jacobs of New York, and the Misses Carrie, Madeline and Hildegarde Hirsch of New London. He also leaves two brothers-in-law, Henry Salomon of New York and Louis Salomon of Hartford and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Elias Labensky of New London.

Flock of Snowy Egrets.

At Milford a flock of snowy egrets spent August in Indian river, where it meets Long Island sound, much to the interest of passing motorists and to the joy of the state bird clubs which have been making pilgrimages to the spot to observe a bird the students have little chance to see in the north.

Game wardens kept watch over the birds in the event that desire to obtain an egret overcome some individual who recognized the creatures. Apparently the flock will go south in as full force as it came north.

Entertained For Boston Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. John Way, of 27 Myers avenue, entertained Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholus Biase of Boston, Mass. Piano selections were rendered by Miss Clista Way and Mrs. Biase. Violin solos were very pleasing by Master George Way and James Way was applauded for his several mimic songs. Dancing was enjoyed from a concert over the radio which completed the musical programme. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Way assisted by Miss Clista Way.

Light Month For Fire Department

There were nine calls for the fire department during the month of September. Two of the calls were bell alarms and the other seven were telephone alarms. The fire loss for the month was light.

GIFTS ANNOUNCED AT CELEBRATION AT ASHFORD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 30.—Governor John H. Trumbull addressed an enthusiastic audience of 700 residents and former residents of the town of Ashford at the celebration of the first anniversary of the dedication of the Knowlton Memorial community house in Warrenville Wednesday. Following a band concert by the Babcock cornet band with E. A. Lyman director the festivities were opened at 2:30 o'clock with the singing of America and Fair Ashford, a song composed by Miss Emily J. Chism for the dedication. The song was rendered by the school children of Ashford, under the direction of School Supervisor Levi T. Garrison, assisted by Miss Mettler of West Hartford.

Gilbert Mathewson, chairman of the entertainment committee, formally opened the meeting with a welcome to the visitors. He introduced Allan B. Lincoln and placed the latter in charge of the activities. Representative Lincoln expressed the appreciation of the Ashford townspeople for the presence of Governor Trumbull, after which he reviewed the life of Charles Clark Knowlton, who generously donated the memorial building in honor of his father, Jonathan W. Knowlton, and Col. Thomas Knowlton, who organized a company in Ashford in 1776 and marched to Bunker Hill. He was killed later at Harlem Heights when only 25 years of age. Mr. Lincoln then reminded the audience that the occasion was also designated as Old Home day in which the former residents and descendants of early Ashford families were welcomed. "And let us not fail to recognize the evidences here in Ashford, as indeed all over this broad land, the evidences of a new home day, the coming of foreigners as we are apt to call them when in fact they are not foreigners at all, but folks who have come here from across the sea exactly as our own forefathers came. Folks very like ourselves and in their qualities of energy and thrift very like early history of our own forebears. Look around you, friends and neighbors, and the increasing evidences of this progress among the new coming citizens. Who are among your most intelligent and successful farmers in Ashford? Think it over!"

The next speaker was Alvin H. Bill, aged 84, of Hartford, uncle of Judge Albert C. Bill and a native of Ashford, who drew a highly interesting word picture of the old customs of the town when stage coaches plied between Providence and Hartford, making an overnight stop at the General Palmer inn.

Dr. Walter Whiton of New York city and New Jersey, a member of the old Whiton family of New Jersey, was next called upon. He was followed by H. F. Cady of Stafford who gave reminiscences of early life and acquaintances in the town. Rev. E. P. Mathewson of North Stonington former pastor of the Warrenville Baptist church, pictured the conditions in the town as they were a quarter of a century ago.

The chairman then announced that City Engineer Robert E. Mitchell of Willimantic had presented the town with a duplicate of the original map of Ashford showing the early landholdings and giving the names of the first settlers. The map is to adorn one of the niches of the building. Announcement was also made that a picture and the war record of Lieut. Irving S. Eastman, civil war hero, had been presented to Ashford by Mrs. Clarence Barlow. Charles Chism, one of the two surviving Civil war veterans of Ashford, was requested to arise and was accorded three cheers by the gathering. Mr. Cushman is the other survivors. Mrs. Alice M. Higgins, wife of ex-Congressman Edwin W. Higgins of Norwich, paid tribute to the memory of the late Charles Clark Knowlton and mentioned his modest generousity, which was manifested in his gift of $200,000 to erect a Colonial house at Connecticut college. The source of the donation was not made public until after his death, complying with his request.

Representative Lincoln introduced Governor Trumbull at this point. The chief magistrate was greeted with much applause and the rendition of Hail to the Chief, played by the band. In his initial remarks the governor expressed surprise which he held in being a native of a historical town of Ashford. Although his parents removed from the town while he was at an early age he retains a tender feeling for his childhood days spent in Ashford. He dwelt on the activities of the state government and the economical aims of the present administration. "I was a plain business man before entering politics ten years ago and my purpose is to apply business ethics to governmental affairs." Reference was made to the condition of the roads in Ashford and he complimented the representatives on their unceasing effort to secure better roads adding that it was his conviction that every town in the state must have at least one passable road and he pledged his influence to assist Ashford.

The last speaker was Rev. Dr. Alexis D. Hendrick, acting pastor of the Baptist church. The program closed with expressions of regret on the inability of Rev. William H. Dunn of St. Phillips R. C. Parish, Warrenville, and Rev. B. C. Bugbee, former pastor of Warrenville, to attend the celebration. Previous to adjournment Miss Lura Sackett of Andover rendered a saxophone solo and Miss Eunice Rogers of Windsor rendered appropriate vocal selections. Dinner was served at 5 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haggart, which was formerly the General Palmer inn. The guests were Governor and Mrs. John H. Trumbull and the former's mother, Mrs. Hugh Trumbull, Representative and Mrs. Edwin A. Buck, Representative Allan B. Lincoln and daughter, Elsie Lincoln, Rev. E. P. Mathewson of Ashaway, R. I., Mrs. Hammond Knowlton and son, Storrs Knowlton, and their guest, Mrs. Plummer, Portland, Me., Professor and Mrs. Charles A. Wheeler of Storrs and Chairman Gilbert Mathewson.

At 8 o'clock in the evening the program was resumed with a concert by the Ashford grange orchestra followed by an interesting travelogue of his recent tour of Europe by Prof. C. A. Wheeler of the Connecticut Agricultural college. Round and square dances followed to a late hour.

LOCAL COMMERCE CHAMBER ISSUES SEPTEMBER LETTER

The September membership letter of the Chamber of Commerce contains a number of matters of civic interest as follows:

Better Passenger Service

The Chamber has gained a much needed improvement in the passenger service after several years effort. For many years the last train to Norwich from New London arrived here about 6:30 p. m. We are now assured of a daily service to Norwich through the addition of the State of Maine express to the local schedule. Some years ago this train was one nthe Norwich schedule, but was transferred to the Hartford division. This train will arrive daily in Norwich at 10:45 p. m. coming direct from New York, leaving that city at 7:00 p. m. It is now our turn to make use of this service. We urge every business man to bear this additional train service in mind. There are many business men who drive to New London when going to New York and who leave their cars in our neighboring city in order that they can reach home more quickly and conveniently. Naturally this practice will be discontinued as the Maine express will prove comfortable and dependable to the traveling public of Norwich. It will be a big relief to board a train in New York and arrive in Norwich without change of cars. The express will leave Norwich daily for New York at 8:45 a. m.

Express Deliveries

Another big improvement has been secured for our city through an earlier delivery of express packages to Norwich. For some years past the express package car arrived here at 8:40 a. m. Under a new arrangement this car will be attached to a freight train leaving New London at 6:25 a. m. arriving here at 7:00 a. m. The earlier delivery of express packages will prove most beneficial to the industrial and mercantile interests of Norwich. In fact to the community as a whole it is gratifying to the members, who have served on committees from time to time in conferences with railroad officials, and to the officers of the chamber, to see this improved service accomplished after persistent efforts.

State Park

New London county is to have its first state park. An historical site is to be preserved sacred to the memory of the friendly Indians of colonial days, and as a place of delightful recreation for the people. Agitation for the establishment of Fort Shantok park was commenced last year by the chamber. The committee made several trips to Hartford in the interest of the park. The members of the state park commission were invited to view the site and they were highly impressed with its location, its beautiful outlook, and its historical value. Improvements in the park will not begin at once but it is expected that the state park commission will, in the course of a few years, start the work of development. This delay is caused by the necessity of securing sufficient appropriations to do the work. The initial appropriation to purchase the site was made during the last session of the legislature. Arthur L. Peale, an authority on the early Indian history of this section was the father of this project.

Zoning

Those who attended this month's membership meeting and heard J. T. Woodruff of Springfield give his instructive address on solving local parking problems, were impressed with the wide scope of influence which zoning provides.

Some of the influences which zoning covers are:

The proper location of industrial sites for public utility services such as railroads, telephones and electricity, sewers, water and gas mains, and good streets to provide adequate traffic conditions.

Proper location of schools so that a maximum of school housing facilities may be provided with a minimum number of school houses.

Proper location of fire house sites with an eye to future growth of factories and dwellings.

Development of a well defined system of parks both for recreational and traffic purposes.

Development of street plans to care for the increasing number of motor vehicles.

Safeguarding residential locations of all classes from accretions of business which tend to depreciate property values in neighborhoods.

Planning for the future growth of the community.

Planning for the general health of the community through the restriction of building and the areas they cover which tend to congest families, shutting out sunlight and air.

Determining the land values in order that the cost of civic improvements can be ascertained, and as an assurance against depreciation.

It was noticeable in the pictures which Mr. Woodruff threw on the screen that the devastated European cities were adopting zoning provisions and rebuilding their communities along improved lines for the general welfare.

Mr. Woodruff made plain the fact that there is no general rule, applicable to all cities, for effective zoning. Every community has its peculiar problems which can only be solved by a serious study of local conditions.

Those who attended the meeting realized that zoning is a man-sized job.

Fire Prevention Week

The week of October fourth will be universally observed throughout the country as fire prevention week. A committee has been appointed to make plans for its observance. It has been well stated that every week and every day should be devoted to the prevention of fires. It is also true that the general observance of such a week has proven beneficial in arousing the public conscience to the necessity for curbing the tremendous fire losses throughout the country, caused for the most part by carelessness.

We quote a few vital statistics: Nearly 15,000 persons were burned to death in this country in 1924. Over 16,000 more were injured by fire during the same period.

The property losses were $548,910,630, the largest ever reported in a single year.

Millions of feet of valuable timber were lost through fire in various parts of the country.

Surely there is a great need for the awakening of the public conscience and the curbing of the nation's tremendous fire losses. Insurance money may rebuild our homes and factories but it cannot bring back the loved ones who perish by fire; nor restore the good health of the injured.

Our people should clean up their fire hazards—and keep their premises clean. Chief Stanton causes regular inspections of the business houses for fire hazards. Every householder should do the same in his own premises. We should teach our little ones to dread matches; and our grown folks to be careful with gas and electrical appliances. The city can do the rest by the adoption of a good building code, constantly enforced.

Election of Directors

October is the month of the annual election of six of the twelve directors of the chamber, and for receiving suggestions from the membership for a program of work for the coming year. The Norwich chamber of commerce is neither a manufacturers nor a merchants organization. Its membership embraces clergymen and professional men as well as women. Its service is for the general welfare of the entire town of Norwich. The directorate of the chamber has included representatives of all interests that make up our community life. The directors are nominated and elected by the members with the ballot system. The program of work is formulated by the suggestions from the membership to the directors. Every member should offer his suggestions of the things that in his opinion should be accomplished in order that Norwich can present strong competition to other wide-awake and progressive communities in their efforts for prosperity and growth.

HAWTHORNE-CRANDALL WEDDING IN NEW YORK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30.—Announcement is made of the wedding in New York last Monday of Harold E. Hawthorne, 24, of 19 Terrace avenue, and Miss Frances Crandall, the ceremony being performed by Deputy City Clerk J. J. McCormick at the New York municipal building. The bride gave her age as 21, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Crandall, Buddington road, Groton. The groom gave his age as 24 and was born in Norwich, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. SICK WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Can Be Carried Comfortably Over The Critical Period by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
—Note Mrs. Headden's Case

Macon, Georgia. — "During the Change of Life I suffered with my whole right side and could not lie on my left side. I was in bed about two months and could not get up only as my son would lift me. After doctoring without relief a man who was rooming with us told my son that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured his mother at the Change of Life, so I began taking your medicine. After taking it for two weeks I could get out of my bed by myself. I am now 53 years old and in better health and stronger than ever in my life. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to many suffering women, young and old, and you may use my name anywhere as long as you please. I will be glad to answer any letters sent to me." — Mrs. F. B. HEADDEN, 5 Holt Avenue, Macon, Georgia.

In a recent country-wide canvass of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 200,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 reported they had been benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

NINTH INNING RALLY GIVES LOUISVILLE FIRST GAME FOR MINOR LEAGUE TITLE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Driving Odgen from the mound with a cluster of hits in the ninth inning, the Louisville American association pennant winners scored four runs and won the first game of the junior world series from the Baltimore international champions, 8 to 7.

Ogden held Louisville to four hits until the ninth. Two hits in a row, a fielder's choice and three more hits put three runs across, and the winning run was scored by Tyson, who stole third and came home when Brainard failed to get Betsel's infield blow to the plate in time to catch the speedy outfielder.

The second game of the series will be played tomorrow.

SKETCHES OF SOME OF COMING WORLD'S SERIES STARS

The following brief pen sketches of world's series players give a brief history of the career of those who will occupy the spot-light of sportdom next week:

Earl Smith—Pirates.

Earl Smith, catcher, has been in the service of the Pittsburgh Pirates for a little more than one season, coming here from the Braves. He gained prominence as a member of the New York Giants from 1919 to 1922, where he alternated behind the bat with Frank Snyder, and has participated in two world's series, both against the New York Yankees.

He has hit about .300 for the Pirates and appears to be satisfied in his new berth after having had differences with the New York and Boston management in the past. Smith is of the rugged type, a constant talker on the field., He stands 5 feet, 10 1-2 inches, and weighs 180 pounds.

Earl has had two big batting years in the majors, .336 in 1921 and .335 last year, when he shifted from the Braves to his present position.

During the winter months he engages in the real estate business in the city of his birth, Hot Springs, Ark. He is 28 years old.

Gooch—Pirates.

Johnny Gooch, born in Smyrna, Tenn., in 1899 is playing his fifth season behind the bat for Pittsburgh, having been purchased from Birmingham of the Southern Association in September, 1921. Like Earl Smith, he is a rugged man, one who guards the plate in the old fashioned way. In the off season he is an automobile salesman.

Gooch started his diamond career at Newport News, Va., then went to Birmingham for two years until he was sold to Pittsburgh. In 1922 he caught 105 games and hit for .329. This season he has held his average at about .300 all the way.

Gooch stands 5 feet, 10 1-2 inches, and weighs about 180. He bats either right or left handed.

Meadows—Pirates.

H. Lee Meadows, Florida real estate operator, and the only bespectacled pitcher in the majors, is in his eleventh year of big league service, having played with three clubs in the National League. He was traded to Philadelphia by St. Louis, after four years there, in 1919 and the Pirates obtained him in 1923 along with Johnny Rawlings for Glazner and Tierney.

In ten years he won 129 games and lost 150 but this season he has been a strong member of the Pittsburgh staff, winning twice as many games as have gone against him. This has been his best year in the majors.

Meadows was born in Oxford, N. C., July 12, 1894. He is six feet all and weighs 170 pounds.

Kremer—Pirates.

Ray Kremer, one of the mainstays of the Pirate staff in the drive for the pennant, although he has been in professional baseball since 1914, is only in his second year of major league work. He was obtained from Oakland of the Pacific Coast League after the 1923 season. In 1915, however, he was with the Giants for a time but had no opportunity to show and the next season appeared with Vancouver. From 1916 to 1923 he was with Oakland, his home city.

In his first year Kremer demonstrated his value by winning 18 and losing 10 and this year his average is better than .600. He is 29 years old, stands 6 feet, 1 inch and weighs 190. When the baseball days end he drills oil out in California.

Yde—Pirates.

Emil Yde (pronounced Eedee) came into note inst season as one of the game's greatest left handers when he won 16 games against 8 defeats, his first season in the majors. This year his record is imposing with twice as many victories as defeats and he is expected to carry the portside burden for McKechnie in the world's series.

Yde, a 175-pound physical director, was born Jan. 28, 1901, at Great Lakes, Ill., and twenty years later played his first professional baseball with Cedar Rapids. The years 1922 and 1923 saw him with Oklahoma City, whence he came to the Pirates for a reported price of $15,000. In his second season with Oklahoma City he won 28 and lost 12.

Morrison—Pirates.

John Dewey (Jughandle) Morrison of Pikerville, Ky., is one of the veterans of the Pirate staff. He received his nickname locally from the numerous twists which he compels a baseball to make in reaching the batter.

Morrison, now 29 years old, advanced to the majors through Madisonville, Anniston and Birmingham, Ala., arriving in the Pittsburgh camp in 1920. His record, including the season in 1924, showed 63 victories and 47 losses. In 977 innings 950 hits were made from his service. He has been victorious in a majority of his games this season.

He is a righthander, who stands almost six feet and weighs about 170 pounds.

LOSS OF HORSE CAUSES OWNER TO END LIFE

LATONIA, Ky., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Brooding over the loss of one of his horses as a result of the claiming war at the Latonia race track, Christopher Reichbaum, 35, race horse owner and engineer, ended his life with a bullet today.

"I am tired of it all," he wrote in a letter addressed to his wife, Mrs. Kathryn Kirschbaum.

PALIN STABLES HAVE TWO WINNERS AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 30. (AP)—S. F. Palin, Indianapolis horseman, won major honors at today's Grand Circuit races. He copped the two stake events which featured the day's card. With Braden Ruler he was a straight heat winner in the Columbus Evening Dispatch $1,200 stake for 2:15 pacers and with Theodore Guy he was a straight heat winner in the Ohio State Journal stake for 2:05 pacers.

One class event, the 2:08 pace, completed the day's card. It was a split heat event, Hollyrood Volo, second choice to Jeanette Royal, won the first and third heats, while a break cost him the second, which went to Ell Direct. Jeanette Royal was never a serious contender.

FARM LABOR PROVED BENEFICIAL TO NILLES

PARIS, Sept. 30. (AP)—When Marcel Nilles, former heavyweight champion of France, suffered his fourteenth consecutive knockout last July, the verdict of the boxing fans and promoters was "back to the farm."

With the tag "has-been" on him, Nilles actually did retire to the farm and engaged in harvesting, milking cows, the simple life and hard work.

He returned to Paris tonight and knocked out Jack Taylor, of Omaha, Nebraska, negro light-heavyweight, in the second round of a bout which was to have gone fifteen. Nilles simply smothered Taylor, who was a 10 to 1 favorite, and even money that he would put the Frenchman to sleep inside of three rounds.

"No more bright lights for me," said Nilles when the bout was over. "Tomorrow I return to the farm until my next fight."

FABER TO PLAY AT JEWETT CITY SUNDAY

Joe Faber, pride of Jewett City, who has recently returned from the York, Pa., club, New York-Pennsylvania league champions, has signed to play with the Ashland A. A. for the remainder of the season and will be seen at shortstop against "Roy" Rock's Attleboro team at Ashland park Sunday.

Joe has had a wonderful season at York, hitting for an even .300 and will report to Reading, international league, next spring. He is one of the most popular ball players ever developed in eastern Connecticut and fans from near and far will no doubt be on hand to see him in action Sunday.

Roy Rock is a great favorite in Jewett City and always brings a good club with him. His lineup includes some of the best semi-pro players in the State of Massachusetts and Rhode Island featuring "Suds". Forsythe, formerly with Milwaukee American association, at short.

Parkhurst's Reply to Mgr. Boyd.

Sports Editor:

Undoubtedly the author of the literary masterpiece, which appeared in The Bulletin a short time ago, was a budding genius, possessing a splendid imagination, but it is impossible for me to conceive how any man in his right mind could expect the fans to believe such an utter falsehood. If Greeneville had a team last year they kept the fact well hidden. I read the sport page every morning and never once was there a statement therein that might imply Greeneville existed. The Speedboys are quite justified in their feeling of animosity towards Mgr. Boyd and rightly feel an apology is due but Jewett City plays football in the field and not in newspapers. Therefore Sunday, Oct. 11, the Speedboys will appear at Mohegan park and if the members of the Greeneville Tigers do not contract refrigeration of their pedal extremities before said date and withdraw their challenge, a good game may be expected, for do not the Greeneville Tigers look good (?)—on paper.

CHARLES J. PARKHURST,
Mgr. Jewett City Speedboys

Up to Mr. Cleveland Now.

Sports Ed.: Recently we saw a letter in the sporting section by Manager Cleveland of the Old Timers team of Danielson looking for a game with any fast team in eastern Connecticut. We have challenged Mr. Cleveland for a game, but without results. Last Sunday they were idle after looking all week for a game, still they would not accept the challenge of the Quinebaug A. A. What is the reason? Afraid of losing after having a long winning streak of two games. Once more we challenge Mr. Cleveland for a game next Sunday. We will play them winner take all or 60-40. We never challenge unless we mean business and would like to play this game before Christmas. Mr. Cleveland, it is up to you.

Yours in sport,
JAMES HARNEY,
Manager Quinebaug, A. A.

Broad Street Wins.

The Broad Street Tigers defeated the Broadway All-Stars by a score of 14 to 6, Wednesday afternoon. The Tigers showed up well for the first game and under the direction of Coach Murphy hope to have a successful season. With such men as J. Mingo, J. Marks and W. Antone things look bright for the backfield. On the line Maitokowski, Perrone and Salrowski are promising. The Tigers would like to challenge Hobart Ave., St. Patrick's, Mishop and Broadway, sixth grades. The team averages 98 pounds.

AGGIES HOLD LAST WORKOUT BEFORE N. Y. U. GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 30. — The Connecticut Aggies will face a strong team this week, when "Chick" Meehan's New York university eleven is met at New York. Though it is Meehan's first year at the New York institution, he has welded together a fighting machine that is capable of playing good football, and one that will furnish the Nutmeg Aggies with plenty of opposition Saturday.

New York university opened its season last week with a 14-0 victory over Niagara, while at the same time Connecticut downed Wesleyan at Middletown by a 7-3 count. Thus each team approaches the contest with a clean slate, and the Aggies also have last year's record to uphold, when they were undefeated.

A spirited scrimmage with the freshman team marked today's practice session for Coach Dole's men, and this will probably be the last scrimmage of the week before the New York game. Dole had his men confine their efforts to straight football working to improve the running attack of his team, which did not show to the Aggie mentor's satisfaction against the Red and Black. Though many substitutions were made in the frosh lineup, the varsity backs made substantial gains, especially through the center of the line.

SECOND GAME OF MOOSUP AND RIVERVIEW SERIES SUNDAY

Fans, who saw the ten-inning battle between Moosup and Riverview last Sunday, will welcome the news that the second game of this series is to be played at the Carpet Grounds on Sunday. Those who didn't see the game will be on hand this time so as not to miss any of the late season baseball thrills.

Manager Loughran of the Moosup club says that he is certain that Sunday's game will decide the baseball title of Eastern Connecticut for the season of 1925. By this means that his team is going to win its second straight victory. This statement of Mgr. Loughran's means nothing to Bill Donovan, pilot of the Riverview destinies, for Bill says that although Moosup won last Sunday's encounter it by no means shows that Moosup has the better team.

King Bader has been released by Moosup and Charlie Reynolds, Providence College hurler who pitched the memorable 21 inning game against Brown last year will be on the Moosup firing line. Why Bader was released is not known. Tony West will hurl for the Riverview team.

SENATORS MAKE-SHIFTS LOSE TO RED SOX

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Washington used a make-shift team against Boston in the first game of the final series of the year today, the Red Sox pulling out one run ahead, 5 to 4. At the close of the game only one Washington regular was in the lineup, Rice in centerfield.

Peckinpaugh took charge of the champions as Manager Harris stayed behind in Washington. Score:

BARBER WINS MATCH FROM ROY FILLMORE

The lead which Tony Barber piled up on Roy Fillmore Tuesday evening proved too much for the local boy to overcome in the second ten strings rolled at Norwich last night. Although Fillmore beat Barber by 10 pins in last evening's ten strings it left him 129 pins behind the Danielson boy. The scores:

Barber—125, 88, 109, 113, 106, 98, 111, 103, 120—1066. Ave. 106.6.

Crescent A. C. Accepts Challenge

The Crescent A. C. accepted the challenge of the Norwich Nutmegs for a game to be played on Sachem field, Falls, next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The lineups of both teams will be announced later in the week.

MRS. HURD IS ELIMINATED IN NATIONAL GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP BY MRS. LETTS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—(A. P.)—There will be a new women's golf champion of the United States this year, as Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, who won the title last year, was defeated 4 and 2 today in the third round of the championship meet at the St. Louis Country club by Mrs. F. C. Letts of Chicago.

The former champion weakened in a terrific wind and rain storm during the second half of the 18 hole match, while Mrs. Letts, formerly the western title holder, shot even par.

Three of the eight matches went to the home green, two sloshing to the 17th green and two to the 16th, while only one ended in mid-field.

This one sided match was won by Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, from Helen Tillotson of Toledo, six and five, bringing the former Ohio champion into contact tomorrow with the conqueror of Mrs. Hurd.

The most spectacular match to reach the home green was an international one between the Canadian champion, Ada MacKenzie, of Toronto, and Glenna Collett of Providence, a former American and present French champion. The American won the struggle by the narrow margin of one up only by scoring one under par for 18 holes. The Rhide Island girl was out in 37, only two above men's par, but gained a lead of only one up, as the Canadian girl totalled 39, including two birdies. Miss Collett got only one birdie on this nine but she captured an eagle 3 on the 340th yard 8th, one of the most difficult on the links.

Miss MacKenzie evened affairs by shooting an eagle 3 on the 400 yard 11th and won the next two holes in pars to be 2 up when the storm broke. Miss Collett snared a birdie on the 406 yard 14th and a par five on the 487 yard 15th to square the match, she also won the short 16th with a par and by halving the last two holes in five got the victory. Miss Collett had come home in 43, two above par for an 84, while her opponent took 44 for an 83.

Another international affair was that in which Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser of Ottawa, Canada, defeated Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, 2 and 1, by scoring five birdies, three of them during the storm. Mrs. Fraser, national title holder for five years in succession, will meet Mary Browne of Los Angeles, who by scoring only one above par on each nine today eliminated Mrs. Biriam Burns Horn of Chicago, one up.

The tennis expert, who was runner up to Mrs. Hurd last year, had to get one birdie and an eagle on the long ninth to hold Mrs. Horn, formerly western champion, on even terms.

Miss Collett, who owed her victory to her ability to jump a stymie on the short 16th will meet tomorrow Fritzie Stifel of Wheeling, who won by one up because her opponent, Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, did not negotiate a stymie on the 18th.

The other semi-final match tomorrow will be between Edith Cummings of Chicago, who defeated Mrs. Dave Gaut of Memphis, 3 and 1; and Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, who eliminated Helen Payson of Portland, Me., 3 and 2.

Mrs. Hill got the jump in her match by bagging an eagle 3 on the 395 yard first hole, dropping the advantage at the short third and could do no better than halve the next four holes with the Maine girl, who has been playing golf only 18 months. The Kansas City woman won the eighth with a par and the ninth with a birdie to total 39 and be two up to Miss Payson's 41.

The defeat of the champion was no great surprise to those who have followed Mrs. Letts' game for several years, for she has won many titles by shooting excellent golf.

The cards—

Par Out	543	554	356—40
Mrs. Hurd out	544	564	446—42
Mrs. Letts out	543	556	356—42
Par in	533	655	345 41—81
Mrs. Hurd in	544	666	5xx—xx—xx
Mrs. Letts in	444	656	3x— x—xx

PHILLIES MAKE IT TWO STRAIGHT FROM DODGERS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Phillies made it two straight over Brooklyn by winning today, 6 to 4. Sand's double in the seventh with the bases filled decided the game in the Phillies' favor. Bob McGraw twirled for the Robins, while Willoughby and Mitchell were on the mound for Philadelphia, the latter relieving Willoughby after the seventh. Score:

CARDINALS HAVE TOUGH TIME BEATING CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Sept. 30. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals engaged in their second consecutive extra inning exhibition game today, defeating a team of Cleveland Indian "rookies" 10 to 9 in eleven innings. Walter Mails pitching against his former teammates, was found for twelve hits good for seventeen bases, gave eight walks and hit one batsman.

Speedboys vs. Yankees.

Three o'clock Sunday afternoon at Slater's park, Jewett City, the Speedboys, eastern Conecticut football champs, will start their season against the Yankees, of Norwich. Nothing has been said regarding the Yankee line-up but undoubtedly a fast team will represent them. Captain Parkhurst will start his entire second team so as to save his first team for the big game Oct. 11 at Mohegan park, against the much talked about Greeneville Tigers.

PRINCETON OPENS SEASON WITH SIX VETERANS

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 30. —(AP)—Princeton will open its 1925 football season Saturday with Amherst as an opponent, six seasoned veterans from the 1924 team in its lineup, and the famous huddle system again in vogue for the transmission of signals.

While there is little concrete basis at this early stage to warrant such a feeling, Princeton coaches and students present an attitude of optimism when discussing their football team and its chances against its time-honored opponents, Yale and Harvard.

Bill Roper, who holds the coaching reins of the Tiger eleven, has had but two weeks of work with his team. An agreement between the members of the "big three," prohibits organized practice until two weeks before the opening of college. For this reason, Princeton, like Harvard and Yale, will start its season with its squad still in the formative stage.

But despite the brevity of the training season, Roper has selected the combination he will toss into the lists against Amherst. Three members of last year's "light" backfield will be started against the "little three" rival. These are Single, Dignan and Gilligan, who, with Caulkins, will hold the position behind the line of scrimmage with the latter serving as the chairman in the huddle conferences. The former three are all veterans of last season's eleven.

Captain McMillan will start at center, Baldwin and Crago will occupy the guard stations with Forrest and Gates in the tackle positions. Gates is the intercollegiate hammer throw champion and captain of the Princeton track team.

On the wings Roper will start Moeser and Jeffers, both new comers to Princeton's football team. But the Tiger mentor made it known emphatically that he will use several shifts in the ends to bring out a combination that will be commensurate with Tiger ends of the days of old.

The Tiger program for the season will be somewhat lighter than the schedule of the two seasons, owing mainly to the absence of Notre Dame. The Hoosiers could not agree with the Nassau officials on a date and for this reason Colgate was substituted as an opponent. Lehigh was dropped this year and Washington & Lee substituted. Outside of these two deviations the schedule is the same as last year with Harvard playing at Princeton and the Tigers facing Yale at New Haven.

Assisting Roper in developing the Tiger team are Al Wittmer, star lineman of the 1919, 1920 and 1921 teams; Stan Keck, All-American tackle in 1920 and captain of the 1921 team; and Jack Winn, 1916 end. Wittmer is coaching the ends. Keene Fitzpatrick, Princeton trainer and track coach, is aiding the coaching staff in conditioning the men.

The entire squad averages 175 pounds and numbers 50 men. The complete schedule follows: October 3—Amherst; October 10—Washington & Lee; October 17—Navy at Baltimore; October 24—Colgate; October 31—Swarthmore; November 7—Harvard; November 14—Yale at New Haven.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF ACADEMY SPIRIT?

The most unenviable job in Norwich at the present time is that of football coach at the Norwich Academy. Nobody envys Coach Whitney his task of making the 34 youths in his charge into what might pass for a football team, to say nothing of making them into a championship grid squad. There is no lack of heavy material, for, if the occasion demanded, Coach Whitney could put into the field a line that would average 170 pounds, which is considered a pretty husky line for a high school team.

It is not lack of material that makes Coach Whitney's task so difficult but it the apparent inability of the squad to learn and absorb the fundamentals of football. This is especially true of the line. The finer points of the game mean nothing at all to these youths. Coach Whitney has plead with them, has been harsh with them and in every way known to a football coach has tried to instill a little football knowledge in these boys. The results are been nil. They don't get it and what's more the greater part of them don't seem to care if they don't.

Some of the boys however, seem to be getting a little of the light. Strange to say these boys who are showing signs of life are te smallest lads on the squad and not the big huskies. In fact, one who is showing up good, is a boy who until three weeks ago didn't know a punt from a touchdown.

It was really pathetic to see some little 135 pound boy send some 195 or 210 opund husky sprawling in the dirt in scrimmage yesterday. Again and again this happened and some times one of these big boys would come up out of the dirt complaining that one of the smaller lads had roughed him. It showed plainly that the smaller boy had something that was lacking in the big boy, but yet made up for all the difference in weight. This something was spirit, spirit to do, to gain and to win a spirit that has carried many a team to victory over a team of overgrown sluggards. The Academy has the weight and material but the spirit lies dormant. When will it awaken? None but the boys themselves can answer this.

Davies Beats Black Bill

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Willie Davies, Chalerol, Pa., was awarded the judge's decision tonight over Black Bill, Havana, Cuba, at the end of their ten round bout. Davies weighed 111 1-2 pounds and Black Bill 110 1-2.

MOROCCAN REBELS ARE WITHDRAWING TOWARD NORTH

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 30. (AP)—Three French columns, assigned the mission of straightening out the front north of Kifans, on the eastern wing, and establishing bases for a future move against Ajdir, Abd-El-Krim's capital, maneuvering skillfully over a mountainous terrain, are reaching the objectives mapped out for them with clock-like regularity. Thus today's operations on this front are summarized at French headquarters here.

The Moroccan rebels, fighting rear guard actions with depleted forces, are withdrawing toward the north.

MADRID, Sept. 30. (AP)—The Spanish troops today resumed their advance toward Ajdir, in the Alhucemas district, and soon after noon had captured several of the heights blocking the road to the Riffian general headquarters. The Spanish casualties were relatively small, none killed, but 100 wounded, among them nine officers.

LAFOLLETTE WILL NOT BE RECOGNIZED AS REPUBLICAN

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 30—Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., elected United States senator from Wisconsin to succeed his father Tuesday, will not be recognized as a republican senator and will not be given membership on the interstate commerce committee, once held by his father, U. S. Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, told a republican rally here today.

"I am tired of seeing men going about the country under the banner of republicanism when they are not republicans," Senator Watson said. "Young LaFollette made his campaign on a platform of lambasting President Coolidge and the republican party and he cannot be recognized as a republican when he enters the United States senate."

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD ELECTS NEW PRESIDENT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30, (AP)—The board of directors of te Pennsylvania Railroad company today elected Vice-President William Wallace Atterbury president of the company as successor to Samuel Rea who retires under the pension regulations of the railroad. Mr. Atterbury will assume his new duties tomorrow as the tenth president of the company since its incorporation in 1846.

Mr. Rea will continue as a director, having been elected to a four-year term last spring.

WOMEN VOTERS FAVOR U. S. ENTRY INTO WORLD COURT

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 30—A resolution favoring the entry of this country into the world court was passed today by the league of women voters of New England states, at the close of a two day conference here. Mrs. James Cheesman, of Providence, presided and 100 delegates were present.

It was voted to send copies of the world court resolution to United States senators of the several New England states with an appeal for their support in the next session of congress.

RELIABILITY TOUR PLANE WAS BADLY DAMAGED

ST. JOSEPH., Mo., Sept. 30—Plane No. 8, of the Ford reliability tour, a Waco, piloted by Ed G. Knapp, crashed late today, near Dearborn, Mo., the pilot and passenger escaped with minor injuries. The plane was badly damaged.

Natural Advantage

Medical scientists say that red-haired women suffer less from serious diseases than darker women. This is put down to the fact that the skin of red-haired people is usually quicker to function than that of other folk. In other words, it sheds poison more rapidly than skin.

Are Helping to Sell Frigidaire!

MORE than 90,000 users are helping to sell Frigidaire because they have learned what Frigidaire convenience means in their own homes—because they have proved Frigidaire dependability through months and years of continuous operation and trouble-free performance—because they have proved that Frigidaire actually costs less than ice.

If you do not now enjoy the convenience of Frigidaire, talk to a friend who does. You'll learn that for no consideration would a Frigidaire user go back to ice and an ordinary ice-box. You'll learn how the most perishable foods are kept fresh by Frigidaire—how Frigidaire removes all the possible annoyance of outside ice supply—how it automatically maintains a low, uniform temperature—how it freezes ice cubes and makes frozen desserts.

Come into our display room and let us show you how easily you can have Frigidaire. Let us explain our convenient purchase plan. Let us show you the new models. Let us demonstrate Frigidaire operation. You'll be especially interested in the Model B-5-2 which can be installed for only $245, plus a small sum for freight and installation. Greatly increased production of this model assures prompt delivery.

$190 The mechanism for converting ice boxes into Frigidaire costs as little as $190. Complete cabinet models are priced as low as $245. Any model may be purchased on convenient terms.

WESTERLY

At the residence of the bride's father, Elmer Lanphear, on Bowling lane, Bradford Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, Sampson Spry of Pawcatuck and Mrs. Mary Emma Stafford of Bradford, were married by Rev. Orlo M. Brees, of Bradford. The ceremony was performed in a room decorated with autumn foliage, with a small party of near relatives attending. The bride was dressed in gray while her maid of honor, Miss Dorothy E. Lincoln of Westerly wore yellow. Fred C. Lanphear, a brother of the bride was best man. Following the wedding a reception was held and lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Spry left Westerly Wednesday for Boston on a wedding trip. On their return they will reside on Bowling lane in Bradford, where the groom is employed as a machinist at the plant of the Bradford Dyeing association.

Columbus day, Monday, Oct. 12th, will be observed in Westerly with a street parade in which the Westerly band and the Italian band of Providence will lead the societies interested in the day's observance. In the evening at 10 o'clock, on the Westerly Playground there will be a fireworks display. Arrangements are in the hands of a committee, Joseph Ruisi, chairman; E. Ruggiero, vice chairman; Joseph Grilli, secretary and J. Pazzolo, treasurer. Among many other members of the committee are Michael D. G. Papalia, Samuel Grilli, F. Tuscano, J. Pucci, Edward Liotta and A. Catalano. The time of the street parade will depend on whether the day is made a half holiday or not. The people of Westerly generally and the surrounding districts are being invited to cooperate with the committee which is planning for the day. At the High street grounds the Italian band will give a concert program.

KANSANS RESENT MEMORY ITS GRASSHOPPER PLAGUE

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Kansas folks are exercised over the fact that the old time grasshopper plagues remain in the memory to plague the state while more serious visitations in other states and other lands are forgotten.

In 1874 a horde of grasshoppers that darkened the skies invaded Kansas, leveling the fields and denuding trees and vegetation of all foliage, poisoning wells and rivers that were choked with their bodies, and literally blocking roads. The plague seriously checked the settling of Kansas, still an infant state.

Now, "to judge from recent reports from Argentina," remarked former Gov. Henry Allen recently, "the Kansas grasshopper visitation was as mild as a cloud of gnats in comparison."

"Tens of thousands of tons of locusts have been trapped. Barriers of steel sheets many miles in length are set up to stop the pests. The government has a special bureau to cope with them. They have come, not only one year, but a number of years in succession.

"But for some inexplainable reason the Kansas grasshopper when showed up in serious proportions only once, will always be more famous than the Argentine variety, just as the Kansas 'cyclone' is more notorious than the more numerous ones of Illinois."

SEATTLE CITY EMPLOYES HELD IN LOAN SHARKS' GRIP

SEATTLE, Sept. 30.—(A. P.)—Two thousand of approximately 5,000 municipal employes here are victoms of loan agencies commonly called "loan sharks," a recent check of payroll sheets in Comptroller Harry W. Carroll's office disclosed.

The majority of these debt-ridden workers never see their pay checks, which are assigned to the agency when a loan is contracted. After the agency deducts its interest charge the debtor receives what remains.

Though this state has a drastic usury law, making the maximum legal interest rate one percent a month, investigation shows as high as 36 percent is collected in some instances. To the high interest rates city officials attribute the fact that some borrowers cannot free themselves from debt.

The agencies operate under a pawnbrokers' license law, which permits a greater interest charge, though they are not actual pawnbrokers.

Chief of Police Severyns estimated amounts owed by his patrolmen ranged from $50 to $600, with $100 the average. He said 120 men owing approximately $12,000 pair $360 monthly interest.

SOME IRISH LABORERS IN 21 CENT A WEEK COTTAGES

DUBLIN, Sept. 30—Ireland owns more than 50,000 cottages erected at the expense of the local authorities, to provide housing for laborers. The policy of their erection dates from as far back as 1883 when T. P. O'Connor secured enactment of a bill for that purpose by the British parliament, and it has since been largely extended.

Rents of one of these cottages in the Cork rural district is only 21 cents a week. Complaint is made that the wrong people are now occupying the Cork cottages. They were built for poor agricultural laborers, but it was stated at a meeting of the Cork County Board of Health that their occupants now include milk vendors, railway workers, masons, carpenters, rate collectors and school teachers.

Repaid This Man A Dozen Times

"I have been repaid a dozen times over in improved health for every dollar I spent for Tanlac, and the medicine is still building me up every day," is the striking statement of Joseph DeSarne.

"Tanlac has driven pains from my body that had troubled me for ten years. Besides backache, which almost killed me at times, I had rheumatic pain and swelling in my hands and legs, my circulation was poor, feet always cold, nerves undone, my stomach didn't feel right. I had regular headaches and I was a discouraged man.

"I have never seen the equal of Tanlac in my life. It has more than doubled my appetite, my stomach feels great and my general health is so much improved that I can not praise Tanlac enough for what it has done and is still doing for me."

What Tanlac has done for others, it can do for you.

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 millions of bottles sold.

JAPANESE RADICAL RETURNS TO TOKYO TO FACE CHARGES

TOKYO, Sept. 30—(A. P.)—After fleeing from Japan to Russia two years ago, at the time the police of Tokyo were arresting large numbers of so-called radicals, Gaku Sano, former Waseda University professor and one of the leading socialists of the country, has returned and surrendered to the authorities for trial.

Mr. Sano made the long journey from Moscow to Tokyo by way of Peking and Shanghai, unrecognized by the police who had sought him since May, 1923. As soon as he entered Tokyo he went at once to the office of his lawyer and friend, Kesaya Yamasaki, at Shinsakuradacho, Shiba, and later to the Tokyo District Court where he met Procurator Kuroda, in charge of his case, to offer an apology for his escape.

He asked the procurator to include him among the Socialists whose trials are to come up soon. Upon examination at the office of the procurator Mr. Sano gave some of the details of his escape. He went from Tokyo to Peking, he said, and stayed there a week during which time he obtained permission and credentials for entering Russia. From Peking he proceeded directly to Moscow, without trouble, and there became a student at the Marx-Engels Institute.

Mr. Sano declared that he stayed at the institute until the end of 1924 helping Professor Lizarnoff, the celebrated Marcian student, publish a collection of Marx doctrines and economic theories. He was in Moscow, at the time of the death of Lenin, and was one of the few Japanese attendants at the impressive funeral services. Later he took the chair of Japanese in the language departments of several Russian colleges.

SAYS CHURCH FOUNDED FOR SINNER AS WELL AS SAINT

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—Believing that Christ founded the church to become a home for sinners as well as a school for saints, Rt. Rev. Irving P. Johnson, bishop of Colorado, said that "unless and until the congregations of the church reflect Christ's attitude toward the sinner, they will never produce saints acceptable to Him."

Bishop Johnson, who recently denounced the proposal to strike "obey" from the marriage service of the Episcopal church, has made public the conclusions of the Commission on Evangelism, of which he is chairman, that will be presented to the convention in New Orleans beginning Oct. 7.

"It is our judgment that any diocese or congregation which limits its activities to the culture of its own people and measures its responsibilities by the comfort of its own constituency is acting in opposition to the commands of Christ," said the report.

"Bishops, priests and laymen have an equal responsibility to place Evangelism first in the church's program; not merely by the giving of money, but also by personal service rendered to the least of these brethren."

FEEDS AND DOCTORS PIGEONS AS A HOBBY

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—(AP)—Feeding peanuts to pigeons in Grant park on busy Michigan boulevard costs him approximately $150 a year, but to Harry J. Lane, the benefactor, it is a small item in his recipe for kindness.

Four or five times daily Mr. Lane, who is treasurer of the Orchestra Hall association in a skyscraper overlooking the park, crosses the avenue with bulging pockets of peanuts to ration the birds, many of them of four years acquaintance. His appearance causes a winged offensive.

Mr. Lane carries a knife with a small sharp blade which, as the birds feed, he uses in removing strings entangled in their feet and to perform any small bit of surgery. Wherever he travels Mr. Lane feeds pigeons in the parks. He is never feared, whether friend or stranger.

The city allows feed for the pigeons, but frequently the caretaker is absent. Mr. Lane fills the breach as provider.

SAME LOCOMOTIVE NOW PULLS FAST TRAINS LONG DISTANCES

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30—Thirty-two fast passenger trains on the Pennsylvania railroad between New York and Pittsburgh are now being operated without a change of locomotives. The road experimented with this innovation first by trying the plan on two fast passenger trains between the Smoky City and the metropolis. For thirty days the lone locomotives, making the entire haul, pulled the flyers in on time.

The plan was extended to take in two trains between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, as well as two trains carrying mail and express between this city and Chicago. Again the big locomotives proved their endurance qualities, and the Pennsy engineers have decided to extend the no-change system to include the 32 fast trains between Pittsburgh and the East. Later, they said, it would take in the lines west of Pittsburgh.

To insure the non-change plan, the road replaced the lighter type passenger locomotives with heavier ones, thus increasing the speed on the level ground and making possible the long mountain hauls.

Russian Actors Build Home

MOSCOW, Sept. — (AP)—A group of Moscow actors, including K. Stanislavsky W. Danchenko, V. Kachalov and others belonging to the Moscow and others belonging to the Moscow Art Theater have formed a special building society for the erection in Moscow of a special home for actors and painters. Besides living quarters have promised to assist them in their the new house will contain a theater and a roof-garden. Local authorities venture.

EXHAUSTS LINEN SUPPLY TO AID INJURED MOTORISTS

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 30.—(A. P.)—Using her entire supply of bed sheets and pillow cases to dress the injuries of scores of motorists who met with accidents at the "death trap" on the Pittsburgh highway near Pecar, this summer, Mrs. Edward Holtzman, keeper of the village boarding house, was forced to appeal to the American Red Cross for aid, which was promptly given.

Mrs. Holtzman's house is located in the immediate vicinity of a section of the road known as the "death trap." During two days of September a score of motorists came to grief at that point, and the boarding house mistress, ready and willing to assist in the emergency, had the injured carried to her place, where she ripped up sheets and pillow cases for bandages.

Mine Deaths Increase

The fiscal year which ends September 30 will close one of the worst years in the history of mining in Indiana in the matter of deaths from accidents according to the records in the department of mines and mining. Albert Dally, chief state mine inspector, points out that the Sullivan mine disaster which cost the lives of 51 miners was largely responsible for the marked increase in mine fatalities. This number was more than the total of 48 deaths reported from mine accidents during the 12 months ending September 30, 1924.

The total for the fiscal year probably will not exceed the 99 deaths already reported, according to Dally, inasmuch as the most of the mines in the state are now shut down. Besides the Sullivan disaster fifteen miners were killed in minor explosions and 33 were killed in other accidents incident to their underground work.

"Good to the last drop"

How this rare blend from the old South has become America's largest selling high grade coffee

Years ago the Maxwell House of Nashville, Tennessee, was the most celebrated hotel in the old South. It was the headquarters of notable visitors from all parts of the country—the gathering place of the distinguished men and women of Dixie.

In that land of good living, the fame of its delicious food—and above all its coffee—was carried far and wide. Wherever the guests of the Maxwell House went, they took with them the memory of this coffee—a special blend, remarkably rich and mellow.

And so the demand for Maxwell House Coffee spread to all sections of the United States. Plant after plant—six in all—had to be built to supply it to those critical families who insist upon the finest of everything for their tables.

Today this same blend which first delighted the old South years ago, is the favorite in most of America's leading cities. It has pleased more people than any other coffee ever put on the market.

When you first enjoy its mellow smoothness, its rich fragrance, you will understand why it has become America's largest selling high grade coffee. Serve it for breakfast—tomorrow! Ask your grocer for one of the blue tins of Maxwell House Coffee. Cheek-Neal Coffee Company, Nashville, Houston, Jacksonville, Richmond, New York, Los Angeles.

A pageant of workers, portraying 42 different occupations, was presented by vocational guidance classes of Clifton Park High School, Baltimore. In the first seven scenes each student dressed to represent the occupation chosen and, carrying appropriate equipment, was introduced by another student with an appropriate verse, song, or statement. Other scenes showed educational and health work in schools, industrial life, art, home, and patriotism.

Twenty-six agencies, social, educational, medical, judicial, and others, cooperate in the Portland center school of social work of the University of Oregon. It is an outstanding example of cooperation in social work. Including this year's class, the school has graduated in the six years of its existence 54 candidates in addition to other special students. They are engaged in various forms of social work in many parts of the United States, in Alaska, and Hawaii.

Sales of cake and pastry, commercial catering, and, as a climax, the making of an entire trousseau for a June bride are examples of practical vocational work which has financially helped students in Technical high school Buffalo, N. Y. The several departments have cooperated in opening a tea room where afternoon tea is served and special luncheons are arranged. The class in trade dressmaking during the year turned out 200 gowns, blouses, and skirts for customers.

POETRY

AUTUMN'S MIRTH.

'Tis all a myth that Autumn grieves,
For, watch the rain among the leaves:
With silver fingers dimly seen
It makes each leaf a tambourine,
And swings and leaps with elfin mirth
To kiss the brow of mother earth;
Or, laughing 'mid the trembling grass
It nods a greeting as you pass.
Oh! hear the rain amid the leaves.
'Tis all a myth that Autumn grieves!

'Tis all a myth that Autumn grieves,
For, list the wind among the sheaves;
Far sweeter than the breath of May,
Or storied scents of old Cathay,
It blends the perfumes rare and good
Of spicy pine and hickory wood,
And with a voice in gayest chime,
It prates of rifled mint and thyme.
Oh! scent the wind among the sheaves.
'Tis all a myth that Autumn grieves

'Tis all a myth that Autumn grieves.
Behold the wondrous web she weaves
By viewless hands her thread is spun
Of evening vapors shyly won.
Across the grass from side to side
A myriad unseen shuttles glide
Throughout the night, till on the light
Aurora leads the laggard Night.
Behold the wondrous web she weaves.
'Tis all a myth that Autumn grieves
—Samuel Minturn Peck.

FLIGHT.

The song-birds? are they flown away?
The song-birds of the summer-time,
That sang their souls into the day,
And set the laughing days to rhyme?
No catbird scatters through the bush
The sparkling crystals of its song;
Within the woods no hermit-thrush
Trails an enchanted flute along,
A sweet assertion of the hush.

All day the crows fly cawing past;
The acorns drop; the forests scowl;
At night I hear the bitter blast
Hoot with the hooting of the owl.
The wild creeks freeze; the ways are strewn
With leaves that rot; beneath the trees
The bird, that set its toil to tune,
And made a home for melody,
Lies dead beneath the death-white moon.
—Madison Cawein.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Teacher—What animal is closest to man?

Small Boy—The flea, ma'am.

"Well," as the heiress said when she slipped out the back door and eloped with the hired man "I have something to chauffeur my money, anyway."—Notre Dame Juggler.

Housewife—I should think you would be ashamed to beg in this neighborhood.

Tramp — Don't apologize for it ma'am. It's a poor neighborhood, but I've seen worse.—Good Hardware.

First Visitor—My dear, these cakes are as hard as stones.

Second Visitor—I know. Didn't you hear her say "Take your pick," when she handed them around?—Denver Clarion.

Flipp—What a surprise to see you in a full-dress suit! Did you rent it?

Flapp—No; but every time I stooped over I thought I would.—University of Oklahoma Whirlwind.

Lady—How much will I have to pay for a pair of silk hose?

Clerk—About $2.00.

Lady—They come rather high, don't they?

Clerk—Yes, ma'am but remember you are a tall lady.—The Progressive Grocer.

Lady Customer—I would like a pound of sulphur, please. How much is it?

Clerk—Fifteen cents.

Lady Customer—I can get it across the street for ten cents.

Clerk (politely)—Yes and I can tell you of another place where you can get it for nothing.—Dartmouth Jack-o'-Lantern.

The governess was dining with her 4-year-old charge. Each had a nice dish of pudding for dessert. "Hazel," she said, "if there was a poor starving woman at the door, what would you do to help her?"

"Why," replied Hazel, her face all aglow with benevolence, "I'd give her your dish of pudding."—Chicago News.

With the air of his companions he dived again and brought up the pail which was found to be filled with nuggets and gold dust. On the side of the pail was the illegible name of a miner and the date "1943." The top of the pail was caked with dirt, holding the treasure intact.

GUTHRIE MANSION, NEW LONDON MAY BE TURNED INTO APARTMENTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—If Mrs. C. H. Guthrie, widow of the Standard oil magnate carries out her plans, she will provide apartments in the far southern section of the city that will take the place of the old-time Pequot house. It is understood to be the purpose of Mrs. Guthrie to form a syndicate that will spend some $50,000 on the Guthrie house to alter it into apartments, to open a street 100 feet wide and to set apart lots that may be the sites for residences. The beach on the water-front is to be preserved as such and title to it will go to the land as sold and not to the individual who buys it so that it cannot be transferred to others than those residing in or owning the land. The property is adjacent to Hillside road, a section of the city just developed where a class of houses have been built that are a credit to the city and their owners. How soon the official announcement of what is to be done by Mrs. Guthrie will be made cannot be stated, but the work is likely to begin in the early spring.

Nettie A. Reed Geer has sold to Alfred A., and Mary P. Blanchard a house and lot on Center street.

William Willett, of Westerly, Mrs. William Burdick, Gallows Lane, Waterford, and Harold Joyce, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Because of the representatives of several organizations have made a tour of the state recently in violation of the law by soliciting funds without having obtained a certificate authorizing the solicitors to conduct their work Charles P. Kellogg, secretary of the state department of public welfare, today requested the New London police to maintain a lookout for such canvassers. Secretary Kellogg pointed out that a penalty of a fine of $100 or 30 days in jail, or both, can be imposed for conviction of violators of the state law.

Catherupe Bruno had the surprise of his life ewhen he was arrested yesterday as a vagrant. He pleaded not guilty when he was presented in court this morning and then went on to show that he was a worker and that he worked last week. Bruno can talk any man who ever lived four ways to silence. He started in to do that today, but was stopped by the court with a decision that he was not guilty. The police have set about cleaning out the bunch of bummers that resort at the corner of Main and Douglass street, where they bask in the sun on the pretense that they are waiting for something to turn up. It was at this spot that Bruno was found and locked up.

Heyman J. Hirsch, 86, formerly of Norwich, who died at his home in Pacific street today, had the distinction of being the first of the present day Hebrews to establish a business in the city, for he engaged in the sale of clothing on Bank street some 60 years ago. He was a member of Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows and was a member of the grand lodge of that order and was the grand master of the state at one time. The Odd Fellows' home in Groton was under his especial care while he was grand master and he labored zealously for the success of that institution. He was twice married. The following children were born to him: Sigismund, Fred, Harry, Fannie, Carrie, Hildegarde and Madeleine

A local young man, employed in a well known and popular establishment, was relieved of his duties of responsibility last evening when it was revealed that the funds of the employer had not only been embezzled, but that the trusted employe is also guilty of having removed stock of the establishment for his personal use and the use of some of his intimate acquaintances. The crookedness of the employe had been suspected for a number of days and a trap was laid by which the detection of the suspected acts of the employe would be revealed

The task of detecting the operations of the employe was easy and with a check-up of his doings it was revealed that a shortage of funds to the approximate amount of $1,100 was found together with a reported loss of several hundreds of dollars worth of stock. When the employe was discharged he was not arrested, for the employer gave the former a specified time in which to make good the amount of the defalcation and the represented worth of the stock taken. If the employe reimburses his employer there is but slight likelihood of a prosecution following.

Theodore Whiton, 597 Montauk avenue, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was dismissed today.

Miss Margaret Bellinger, daughter of Lieut. Com., and Mrs. Lyle F. Bellinger, 50 Center street, has returned to her home in Boston after having spent several days with her parents.

Miss E. Lillian White, of the force of clerks at the Savings Bank of New London, is in attendance at the annual meeting of the National Association of Bank Women in connection with the 50th annual convention of the American Bankers' association, at Atlantic City.

Charles R. Weeks and family have moved from 57 Connecticut avenue to Vauxhall street.

Abraham S. Fisher and Miss Florence W. Cole, both of this city were married yesterday afternoon in New Haven, it was announced here today. They were married at Mishkan Temple by Rabbi Sidney S. Tedesche. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher immediately returned to New London and are residing at the Crocker House.

Owen F. Coffey, 30 Pleasant street, and Miss Frances Hess, 45 Channing street, were married at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church this morning at 9 o'clock. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlager. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Tinker, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom respectively, were the attendants.

Patrolman Howard Sloan, of the New London police department, arrested last Saturday night charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, was in the Waterford town court late this afternoon, but the case of the state was not completed so Judge Frederick Dimmock ordered the hearing of the officer continued until Friday afternoon next at 4 o'clock. Sloan's father, Harry B. Sloan became surety on the officer's bond of $1,000 for the hearing at the later date.

The real reason for the postponement of the trial, is it is understood, to await the arraignment of the officer at 2:30 o'clock the same afternoon as the continuance calls for, when Sloan will appear before City Manager William A. Holt and answer charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and preferred by Richard Storey, Jordan Village, acting as guardian for his daughter, Ruth. After the alleged assault on the girl, it is claimed that Sloan operated the car in a wild and reckless manner which resulted in its colliding with a boulder and being almost totally wrecked.

John A. MacInnis, 64, a well known resident of this city, died this evening at his home, 57 Jay street after a brief illness from heart trouble. Mr. MacInnis was born in Nova Scotia and had resided in New London fifteen years. Prior to taking up his residence in New London, Mr. MacInnis lived in Boston for a quarter of a century. He was a member of Clan Cameron, Order of Scottish Clans, 154, this city. He is survived by his mother who resides in Nova Scotia; four sisters, Mrs. Sarah Cameron, Nova Scotia; Mrs. Minnie Cunellisen, Brighton, Mass.; Miss Mary MacInnis and Miss Margaret MacInnis, Cambridge, Mass.; his widow, two daughters, the Misses Margaret A., and Mary E. McInnis, of this city, and three sons, D. Joseph, John A., and Allan F. MacInnis, also of New London. Two grandchildren, Donald and Marjorie MacInnis, also survive.

The police tonight had a battle with a couple of coast guard sailors, when the blue jackets attempted to gain admission to one of the amusement places while under the influence of liquor. The two trouble-makers were locked up and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. The sailors started the trouble when they attempted to enter the skating rink on Golden street. When they arrived at the hall entrance they were noticeably intoxicated and were refused admission. A fight then started that was continued to the street, where a large crowd collected. Patrolman Braxton Hill, who was on duty on State street was notified of the trouble and found the two sailors in a fighting mood and placed them under arrest. One of them attacked the officer, with the result that Hill used his black-jack on his assailant's head, subduing the sailor. He held his two prisoners at bay until assistance arrived in the police speed car and both battlers were taken to the police station and placed in cells.

Catherupe Bruno, familiarly known as "Charlie O'Brien," and arrested many times for intoxication, was taken into custody for that offense this afternoon by Patrolman Patrick Sheehan, when the officer found Bruno making a nuisance of himself on North Bank street. Bruno will be in the police court tomorrow morning.

E. Figourey, proprietor of a Main street restaurant and owner of a German police dog, is liable to be presented in the police court unless he keeps the animal under restraint, for within a week complaints have been made to the police by persons attacked by the dog. Last Friday, Edward Gibson, a sailor, stationed aboard the United States destroyer Jouett, complained that while walking along Main street he was attacked by the dog, the animal's teeth tearing the bluejacket's clothing. Tonight Robert Kearney, 32, of 18 Hill street, complained to the authorities that while walking on Main street, near the corner of Church street, the dog attacked him. An examination of the boy's left leg showed where the dog had seized the boy, but the flesh was not broken. Dog Warden John Sweeny was notified of the ugliness of the dog and stated that he would place the case before Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky tomorrow. In the meantime Figourey has been advised to keep the animal leashed.

Mrs. James P. Sullivan, of Hillside avenue, lodged complaint with the police because of her annoyance and that of others because of dogs owned and harbored by James Dignowity, 939 Pequot avenue. The dogs, according to the complaint, create annoyance by their incessant barking. Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray, who was assigned to the complaint, visited the Dignowity residence, but none of the occupants of the house was at home. The officer, however, found the dogs, which kept up a continuous yelping. The police received another complaint last night because of the barking of the animals.

NORWICH DRIVER COLLIDES WITH CAR OF MRS. MINCHER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—An automobile owned by Jack Manuel, 17 John street and driven by Tony Rodriques, 43 Spring street, Norwich, and a car owned and driven by Mrs. Dorothy A. Mincher, 175 Huntington street were in collision late this afternoon, corner of Huntington and Church streets. Both machines were damaged. Both drivers made a report of the accident at the police station.

M. F. GAGER, SCOTLAND, FINED IN WATERFORD TOWN COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—Maurice F. Gager, of Scotland, Conn., was in the Waterford town court on charges of reckless driving, evasion of responsibility, operating a machine equipped with improper lens and operating a machine with improper registration. The three last named charges were nolled and Gager was fined $50 and costs, which he paid.

Gager was operating a Marmon roadster, bearing New York registration and in which were Clarence Roach and Joe Maggio, both of New York. When the car was on the New Haven turnpike and was passing the former East Lyme Street Railway car barns, it crashed against a car owned and driven by Edward B. Young, of Fog Plain road Waterford. Gager did not stop to ascertain the extent of the damage he had caused, but continued toward New London. A telephone message to the New London police by Young resulted in Traffic Officer William Corcoran taking Gager into custody when the automobile was about to pass from Bank to State street. Roach claimed that his brother is the owner of the car. Both machines were damaged.

NORWICH MAN'S HEARING GOES OVER TO THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30.—Peter Sablowski, of Norwich, will be in the police court here tomorrow to explain his experience in New London Tuesday when he was concerned in an automobile wreck. Officer Thomas Cavanaugh declares that Peter was under the influence of liquor, when in operating an automobile along Main street, near Richard street, he attempted to pass a car operated by Raoola Hoehm of Winthrop street, this city. Peter misjudged the distance and his auto went into the Hoehm machine and then caromed to a telephone pole and stopped. Two women in the car with Peter were injured and several teeth of one were knocked out. Mr. Sablowski happened to have the cash with him and deposited a bond of $100 for appearance today. After that he engaged Lawyer John T. Barry of Jewett City, to look after his interests in court. That attorney could not get here at 9:30 today, so the accused will have his day in court tomorrow.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bradley Theater Putnam

At one point in the New York Longacre theater musical comedy success Mercenary Mary, the chorus, which consists of a group of specially dancers who at times show their talents in solo work, break loose on what may be called a dancing spree. The musical setting is Charleston Mad and the young women are left to their own devices. This number is said to draw a dozen encores.

Mercenary Mary, which has duplicated its New York success in Chicago and London, will be brought by Nicolai-Welch DeMitt its sponsers, to the Bradley theater, Putnam, Conn, Friday evening, Oct. 2.

Among the prettiest musical numbers in the piece are Honey I'm in Love, Charleston Mad, Just You and I and the Baby, Mercenary Mary, Beautiful Baby, Cherche La Femme and Tomorrow. All of which have charming orchestral accompaniments by Ray Kavanaugh's syncopated orchestra.

Breed Theater

Constance Talmadge is booked for the Breed theater next Sunday in Her Sister From Paris, the new and charming domestic comedy-drama just produced for First National by Joseph M. Schenck.

The story puts "the movies' most engaged star" in a new role. It shows her as the loving wife of an undemonstrative husband who is also afflicted with fits of temperament. She undertakes to tame him, and to educate him into manifesting his unquestioned love for her. To do so she impersonates her gay and somewhat wayward twin sister from Paris, and the results are both disastrous and amusing.

Ronald Colman, one of the screen's most popular leading men has the principal male role and supporting players include such prominent names as George K. Arthur and Margaret Mann.

Sidney A. Franklin directed.

Plans for the establishment of a new terminal at Sunnyside yard, New York, as a measure of relief for Connecticut, Long Island and Westchester suburban traffic, were outlined by Transit Commissioner Leroy T. Harkness before the New York state suburban passenger transit commission.

From the standpoint of mass preferences the typical American is a mess of aggressiveness, large gobs of pride and a fair share of senility, says Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, who the season will lead his band on its Third-of-a-Century tour. Moreover, there ain't no such animal. Being an American, the average American is too much of an individualist to be typical, says Sousa. So Sousa, as he tours the country—this season he visits 47 states and four Canadian provinces—is always on the look-out for divergent preferences in the way of music.

"When I first began my travels, the United States was divided into two sections—the one in which it was safe to play 'Marching Through Georgia,' and the one in which it wasn't," says Sousa. "A program in those days was fairly certain to please both in Portland, Maine and Portland, Oregon. Now it is possible to perceive a difference in the musical preferences of St. Paul and Minneapolis. Two influences have been most largely responsible for variations in American musical tastes. One is the talking machine and the other is the motion picture. I have found that musical appreciation in a city which has a good quality of movie theaters and picture houses is miles in advance of that in the town where the music of the movies is only so-so. The talking machine record performed the invaluable service of familiarizing thousands who never saw an opera or heard a symphony concert with the best music.

"From my standpoint, at least, the finest audiences nowadays are in the college towns. They are made up of students, of faculty people and townsmen, which always means a greater proportion than usual of college and university graduates. They get the points quicker than other audiences, and my programs nowadays contain humoresques, suites, arrangements and small ensemble novelties which bristle with points.

"I have found that a city in which the newspapers are above the average also is a superior concert town. I believe the newspapers reflect the ways of thinking of any city more accurately than any other agency. When I go into a city which I have not visited for several years I always send for the newspapers. If the newspaper which seems to me to be the best in the quality of its news, its editorials and its mechanical get-up is the city's largest paper in point of circulation, I know all I need to know about that city."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

"The Golden Princess" which opens at the Palace next Sunday, is of especial interest as the picture-going public will be introduced to a [illegible] and it deals with a [illegible] picturesque period of [illegible]—the California [illegible] of 1849.

Betty Bronson created such an impression as Peter Pan in her delightful picturization of "Peter Pan," her merry antics and [illegible] were watched with [illegible] and admiration, and it will be [illegible] to begrudge her [illegible] promotion which elevates her to stardom.

In one of the Golden Princess' [illegible] she has a part that suits her to a nicety—the proverbial "I" Picture [illegible] with [illegible] girl, made on another [illegible] the violent death of her father and the desertion of a [illegible] mother, reared by a Spanish mission padre in an Indian settlement and [illegible] brought into contact with the rough and ready atmosphere of the gold mining camps.

Can't you imagine her dressing up in a typical miner's outfit, discovering gold, winning love, fighting bandits and settling up at end of exciting [illegible]. Well, that's just exactly what she does.

A fine, thrilling, melodrama [illegible] The [illegible] is to [illegible] credit to [illegible] from which Frances Marion selected it. Clarence Badger has [illegible] took particular pains to [illegible] with faithful accuracy the [illegible] settings and hectic life of the [illegible] Neil Hamilton [illegible] Phyllis Haver and Jessie [illegible] are the principal supporting players.

Norwich Music Association

The [illegible] of the Norwich Music association on Monday evening [illegible] will be given by a quartet of singers [illegible] Harvard Glee club with Mr. Joseph Lautner as first tenor and director. All members of the association will remember the delightful song recital that Mr. Lautner presented last year, as a soloist and will look forward keenly to a repetition of that evening's success, ably assisted by the Harvard Glee Club quartet.

This program will be a valuable introduction to the season's entertainments of unusual promise. Adult membership is $3 for the season. Student membership $1.00 for the season. These membership tickets can be obtained from William H. Collins, 63 McKinley avenue.

Howard Goulden, Champion Drummer with Sousa's Band, at the Palace Next Monday Night.

Old Mustard Shop Now Real Estate Office

Archa W. Colt has removed his office from the Disco building to 363 Washington street, Norwich Town, remodeling this building for office use. Mr. Colt has retained the interesting old features of colonial days, huge oak beams, pegged together, the original fireplace, etc., at the same time making it modern enough to suit present office requirements.

Originally, in the eighteenth century, an old mustard shop, it later became the worship of an English tailor. The late Ozias Dodge, realizing its rare charm, converted it into a studio. Once again it comes into evidence.

CHAPLIN

About 20 from here attended the fair at Brooklyn last week Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mamie Nukella, J. Wilbur Lanphear and Charlotte Lanphear attended the Eastern States exposition at Springfield last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gallup attended the Eastern States exposition at Springfield last Friday and visited a few days with friends in Florence Mass.

The attractive Witter place in the village has been improved by renovation and painting.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Clark moved the past week into the house formerly the store building owned by B. H. Welch.

Hogs: steady.

MARKET WAS DEPRESSED

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—The stock market today succumbed to the depressing effects of high money rates and prices reacted sharply. Liquidation of standard industrial shares increased in volume throughout the day and although some buying support appeared in the final hour efforts to bring about a general rally were unsuccessful.

The tendency of large banking institutions to draw in their loans for the heavy October first interest and dividend requirements and in expectation of an early bank call resulted in the marking up of the renewal rate on call funds to 5 1-2 per cent. the highest since early in the year, and in a subsequent advance to 6 per cent. while this situation was not considered unusual in view of seasonable developments, its restrictive influence was readily apparent when an initial upturn in prices was checked.

Cautious commission house advices offered little incentive for the extension of buying activities. With some of them recommending a liquidation of speculative lines. A flood of selling struck many of the recent favorites, among which the high priced motors and specialties were the hardest hit. Pool operators strove to check the reaction by bringing forth new leaders but each temporary recovery seemed to invite a fresh flow of offerings.

Early constructive efforts centered in the baking, rubber, oil, equipment and shipping shares, about twenty of which reached new high levels for the year before the downward drift set in. Meanwhile vigorous selling broke out in other industrials and rails, with prices crumbling away rapidly when money rates were boosted in the early afternoon.

In contrast to its recent movements, U. S. Steel showed greater stability than other market leaders, responding with a moderate gain to the cheerful predictions of the weekly trade reviews. American Can, however, slumped about four points below last night's close and net losses of 3 to 6 points were recorded by General Electric, Chrysler, Dupont, Baldwin, Mack Trucks, American Tobacco, Sears-Roebuck, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Union Bag & Paper.

Extreme fluctuations were considerably wider, reaching such proportions at one time that many stop loss orders were uncovered. Baking shares maintained their gains fairly well, General Baking and Ward B being bolstered up by indications that merger plans involving these companies will soon be announced.

Rubber company stocks consistently followed an upward course under the leadership of U. S. Rubber, Goodrich and the Fisk issues. Buying of Fisk first preferred was stimulated by reports that arrangements would be made soon to pay off some 44 per cent. in back dividends on this issue.

Several sharp gains were scored in the final upturn by specialties which have not hitherto figured prominently in speculative operations. National Distillers Products preferred was rushed up eight points and New York Canners seven points, both to new top prices for the year. American International moved up 3 5-8.

Foreign exchanges were ready in quiet trading. Demand sterling continued to hover around the theoretical gold export point, at one time selling below 34.86 but later recovering. Belgian francs moved up six points to 4.42 cents on reports that a new loan for the stabilization of Belgium's monetary situation would be arranged before the end of the year. The Scandinavian currencies made further gains.

In line with the tighter call money situation, time loans held firm at 4 1-2 to 4 5-8 per cent. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.
